Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

1/2/2018

The involuntary petition is DISMISSED for the reasons set forth below.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Involuntary Petition Against a Non-Individual [Doc. No. 1]
- 2) Summons and Notice of Status Conference in an Involuntary Bankruptcy Case [Doc. No. 3]

The Petitioning Creditor has failed to file a proof of service establishing that the Summons, Notice of Status Conference, and Involuntary Petition were served upon the Alleged Debtor. The Summons issued to the Petitioning Creditor clearly informs the Petitioning Creditor of the obligation to serve the Summons, Notice of Status Conference, and Involuntary Petition upon the Alleged Debtor. The Summons further advises the Petitioning Creditor that failure to properly effectuate service may result in dismissal of the involuntary petition.

Local Bankruptcy Rule 1010-1 provides in relevant part: "The court may dismiss an involuntary petition without further notice and hearing if the petitioner fails to ... (c) serve the summons and petition within the time allowed by FRBP 7004; (d) file a proof of service of the summons and petition with the court; or (e) appear at the status conference set by the court."

The involuntary petition is DISMISSED based on the Petitioning Creditors' failure to file a proof of service of the summons and petition with the court. The Court will enter an appropriate order.

I. Introduction

This matter is before the Court on the Debtor's "Motion for Order to Disallow Late Filed Claim of Michael Kohrman [Claim #8]" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 166], filed on December 1, 2017. The Court has read and considered the moving, opposition, and reply documents submitted in connection with the Motion. The matter is scheduled to come for hearing on January 3, 2018 at 10:00 a.m. For the reasons set forth below, the Court GRANTS the Motion in its entirety. Claim #8 is disallowed in its entirety.

II. Procedural Background

On February 21, 2017, Radiology Support Devices, Inc. (the "Debtor" or "RSD"), filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On February 23, 2017, the Debtor filed the "Motion to Set Last Day to File Proofs of Claim" [Doc. No. 15], and on February 24, 2017 the Court entered the "Order Setting Bar Date for Filing Proofs of Claim" (the "Bar Date Order") [Doc. No. 17]. The deadline for creditors to file proofs of claim was May 15, 2017 (the "Claims Bar Date"). Doc. No. 17. The Debtor filed the "Notice of Bar Date for Filing Proofs of Claim in A Chapter 11 Case" ("Bar Date Notice") [Doc. No. 36] on March 9, 2017. On August 7, 2017, Dr. Michael Kohrman ("Kohrman") filed Claim #8 in the amount of $1,510,000.00 (the "Kohrman Claim"). The stated basis for the Kohrman Claim is "use of invention without paying royalty." Kohrman Claim.

The Debtor filed the Motion on December 1, 2017. The following declarations were filed in support of the Motion: (i) "Declaration of Matthew Alderson" (the "Alderson Decl."); (ii) "Declaration of Judy McNitt-Mell" (the "McNitt-Mell Decl."); and (iii) "Declaration of Elaine V. Nguyen" (the "Nguyen Decl."). On December 20, 2017 Kohrman filed the "Opposition to the Motion" (the "Opposition") [Doc. No.

The "Declaration of Michael Kohrman" (the "Kohrman Decl.") was filed in support of the Opposition. On December 27, 2017 the Debtor filed the Reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [Doc. No. 174]. The following declarations were filed in support of the Reply: (i) "Supplemental Declaration of Matthew Alderson" (the "Supplemental Alderson Decl."); (ii) "Supplemental Declaration of Judy McNitt-Mell" (the "McNitt-Mell Decl."); (iii) "Supplemental Declaration of Elaine V. Nguyen" (the "Supplemental Nguyen Decl."); and (iv) "Supplemental Declaration of Daniel J. Weintraub" (the "Supplemental Weintraub Decl."). The Debtor concurrently filed the Debtor's "Responses to the Kohrman Evidentiary Objections ("Responses to the Kohrman Evidentiary Objections") [Doc. No. 175], and the Debtor's "Evidentiary Objections to the Declaration of Michael Kohrman" ("RSD Evidentiary Objections") [Doc. 176].

III. Evidentiary Objections

A. Kohrman Evidentiary Objections to the Alderson Declaration

- (1) Alderson Decl. at ¶ 6: "Prior to RSD, my grandfather was a well-known inventor best known for his development of the "crash-test dummy," the first dummies designed specifically for the auto industry. It is estimated that at least 3,330,000 lives have been saved by automotive safety devices developed with crash-test dummies, a device that during the last half of the twentieth century was widely used by automobile manufacturers to test the reliability of automobile seat belts and other safety protocols. Samuel Alderson was inducted into the Inventors Hall of Fame in May 2013."

Kohrman's Objection: Irrelevant, Fed. R. Evid. 401.

Ruling: OVERRULED. Samuel Alderson's background and work experience, specifically the notoriety he gained as a result of his development of the crash-test dummy, is relevant to the to the Debtor's narrative of the agreement between Samuel Alderson and Kohrman.

- (2) Alderson Decl. at ¶ 7: "In 1952, my grandfather began his own company, Alderson Research Laboratories, and quickly won a contract to create an anthropometric dummy for testing aircraft ejection seats. At about the same time, automobile manufacturers were being challenged to produce safer vehicles, and to do so without relying on live volunteers or human cadavers."

Kohrman's Objection: Irrelevant, Fed. R. Evid. 401

Ruling: SUSTAINED. Samuel Alderson's background and work experience, in this regard, is not relevant to the agreement with Kohrman or to the subsequent development of the KIP.¹ [Note 1]. However, the Court notes that Samuel Alderson's motivation for starting his company is minimally relevant for the reasons stated with regards to Objection (1) to the Alderson Declaration.

- 3) Alderson Decl. at ¶ 8: "In 1996, the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act was passed, which together with Ralph Nader's book, 'Unsafe at Any Speed,' put the search for an anatomically faithful test dummy into high gear. With this as a goal, Alderson produced the V.I.P., a dummy designed to mimic an average male's acceleration and weight properties, and to reproduce the effects of impact like a real person. His work went on to see the creation of the Hybrid family of test dummies, which as of the beginning of the 21st century are the de facto standards for testing."

Kohrman's Objection: Irrelevant, Fed. R. Evid. 401

Ruling: OVERRULED. Samuel Alderson's background and work experience, specifically the notoriety he gained as a result of his development of the crash-test dummy, is relevant to the to the Debtor's narrative of the agreement between Samuel Alderson and Kohrman.

- (4) Alderson Decl. at ¶ 9: "My grandfather also worked for the United States military. During World War II, he helped develop an optical coating to improve the vision of submarine periscopes, and worked on depth charge and missile guidance technology. He was also a former student of J. Robert Oppenheimer, and worked on the Manhattan Project."

Kohrman's Objection: Irrelevant, Fed. R. Evid. 401.

Ruling: SUSTAINED. Samuel Alderson's background and work experience, in this regard, is not relevant to the agreement with Kohrman or to the subsequent development of the KIP.

- (5) Alderson Decl. at ¶ 17: "However, Kohrman is not entitled to a royalty of any amount because the agreement Kohrman made with RSD was as follows:
- a. Kohrman would work with Samuel Alderson, the founder of RSD, on the development of KIP phantom;
 - b. In exchange for Kohrman's consulting services, Kohrman requested and received:
 - i. a free KIP unit; and
 - ii. the positive publicity in the industry of having the product named after him and his personage associated with the KIP product through RSD's marketing materials."

Kohrman's Objection: Lacks foundation, Fed. R. Evid. 602.

Ruling: OVERRULED. The Alderson Declaration sufficiently establishes that, based on his role at Radiology's, Matthew Alderson has personal knowledge of Radiology's agreements with third parties. See Alderson Decl. at ¶¶ 1–2; see, e.g., Stuart v. UNUM Life Ins. Co. of Am., 217 F.3d 1145, 1155 (9th Cir. 2000); Barthelemy v. Air Lines Pilots Ass'n, 897 F.2d 999, 1018 (9th Cir. 1990) (CEO's personal knowledge of various corporate activities inferred from position). Furthermore, the "Supplemental Declaration of Matthew Alderson" (the "Supplemental Alderson Decl.") [Doc. No. 174] provides additional foundation. See Fed. R. Evid. 602 ("Evidence to prove personal knowledge may consist of the witness's own testimony."). The Supplemental Alderson Declaration explains the following:

2. I have worked at RSD since 1994, and I took over the company on February 11, 2005 when my grandfather, owner and founder of RSD Samuel Alderson passed away.
3. I was working at RSD as the Purchasing Manager in 2004 when Kohrman and my grandfather, Samuel Alderson decided to develop the [KIP].

4. I learned of the agreement with Kohrman from Samuel Alderson, who at the time was grooming me to eventually take over the company. In my capacity as the Purchasing manager and as caretaker and close confidant to my grandfather, I was made aware of all aspects of RSD's business, including all of its agreements with third parties. When I became President of RSD after my grandfather's death, it was my job to know about all agreements with third parties and to administer them.

Supplemental Alderson Decl. at ¶¶ 2–4.

- (6) Alderson Decl. at ¶ 18: "Kohrman sought to improve his profile in the field of radiology training by associating himself with Samuel Alderson and RSD in an effort to help him obtain paid teaching positions in the use of KIP."

Kohrman's Objection: Lacks foundation, Fed. R. Evid. 602.

Ruling: SUSTAINED. Alderson's statement does not demonstrate sufficient personal knowledge of the subjective motivations of Kohrman.

- (7) Alderson Decl. at ¶ 19: "Numerous written communications between Kohrman (or his representatives) and RSD dating back to 2004 demonstrate that Kohrman knew about and assisted RSD with its KIP marketing."

Kohrman's Objection: Fed. R. Evid. 802

Ruling: OVERRULED. The statement is not being offered for its truth; rather it is offered to show Alderson's perception of such communications, and the conclusions or inferences he drew therefrom.

- (8) Alderson Decl. at ¶ 22: "Supertech has . . . even reached out to Kohrman to develop its website's FAQ section."

Ruling: SUSTAINED. Alderson's statement does not demonstrate sufficient personal knowledge of Kohrman's interactions with Supertech.

B. Kohrman Evidentiary Objections to the McNitt-Mell Declaration

- (1) McNitt-Mell Decl. at ¶ 3: "My recollection of the agreement between Michael Kohrman and RSD is as follows: Kohrman wanted to collaborate with RSD in making KIP because Kohrman felt it would be a good platform for himself. In exchange for consultation on the project Kohrman would get a free phantom, a one-time financial stipend, the honor of having the product named after himself, and his picture used with marketing materials. I learned about this arrangement over lunch with my father and Sam Alderson."

Kohrman's Objection: Lacks foundation, Fed. R. Evid. 602, and Hearsay, Fed. R. Evid. 802.

Ruling: SUSTAINED for lack of foundation under Fed. R. Evid. 602. In this instance, Ms. McNitt-Mell's statement does not sufficiently show that she has personal knowledge of the agreement between Samuel Alderson and Kohrman, except for what she was told at the lunch with her father and Samuel Alderson.

- (2) McNitt-Mell Decl. at ¶ 6: "I understood from the call that Kohrman went to Sam Alderson and RSD because he knew they had experience with making phantoms that simulate the human body for radiology purposes and that all they had to do was modify a design they already had and test it in order to bring KIP to market. I further understood that Kohrman wanted a KIP for himself so that he could teach and practice techniques for procedures and keep his own skills sharp. He also saw opportunity to teach weekend seminars to help other doctors sharpen their skills. By being included in the KIP marketing materials, he felt he would be seen as an esteemed 'expert' in techniques for interventional radiology and pain management."

Kohrman's Objection: Irrelevant, Fed. R. Evid. 401, and Lacks foundation, Fed. R. Evid. 602.

Ruling: OVERRULED on both grounds. With regards to relevance, Ms. McNitt-Mell's understanding of the agreement is relevant to confirming Radiology's description of the agreement with Kohrman. Regarding foundation, Ms. McNitt-Mell was a party to the phone conversation with Kohrman and, thus, she has sufficient personal knowledge of the conversation to state her understanding thereof. See United States v. Whittmore, 776 F.3d 1074, 1082 (9th Cir. 2015) ("personal knowledge includes opinions and inferences grounded in observations and experience"); see also United States v. Parkhurst, 865 F.3d 509, 515 (7th Cir. 2017) (witness's testimony about his perception of a conversation was admissible where the witness was testifying about his understanding of the conversation at the time he was participating in it).

C. RSD Evidentiary Objections to the Kohrman Declaration

- (1) Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 5: "It is fun to make things. I grew up in a family that had a professional pottery and advertisement agency, worked in both and I had experience doing body work on cars. I have a lot of anatomical models, know how to sculpt, make cases, molds and cast objects."

Debtor's Objection: Irrelevant, Fed. R. Evid. 401.

Ruling: SUSTAINED. Kohrman's family background, and his experience unrelated to the KIP are not relevant to any fact of consequence because Kohrman's role in developing the KIP is not disputed.

- (2) Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 6: "I made medical acupuncture charts for myself as a study guide when I went through the UCLA Acupuncture course. I thought to make my own injection dummy in my garage, teach my sons of their heritage and then I could practice nontraditional methods—prolotherapy—and traditional methods in my own office while studying for the Pain Medicine Boards."

- (3) Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 12: "A physician attendee told me that he had called RSD in an attempt to reach me, only to be told that I was dead."

Debtor's Objection: Lacks foundation, Fed. R. Evid. 602, and Hearsay, Fed. R. Evid. 802, 805.

IV. Findings of Fact [Note 2]

A. The Parties

RSD was founded and incorporated in 1988 by Samuel Alderson. Alderson Decl. at ¶ 2. Matthew Alderson, Samuel Alderson's grandson, has worked at RSD since 1994, and assumed his current position as President of RSD on February 11, 2005 after Samuel Alderson's death. Id. at ¶¶ 1–2. RSD is in the business of designing, manufacturing, and selling specialized anthropomorphic mannequins (known as "phantoms"), which are designed and used for medical testing, teaching, training, and similar activities. Id. at ¶ 3. Both Samuel Alderson and RSD have been recognized for their innovation in the field of "medical phantoms," and RSD sells and distributes its phantom products to universities, hospitals, medical schools, and similar organizations around the world. See id. at ¶¶ 3–5. Before he founded RSD, Samuel Alderson was well-known for his development of the "crash test dummy"—the mannequins used in auto industry crash safety tests. Id. at ¶ 6. Samuel Alderson's crash-test dummies have been widely used by automobile manufacturers in their safety tests since they were invented by Samuel Alderson. Id. Samuel Alderson's experience creating anthropomorphic dummies, such as the crash-test dummy or the medical phantom, can be traced to 1952 when he first created a dummy for use in testing aircraft ejection seats. Id. at ¶ 7.

currently practices medicine in Daphne, Alabama and is affiliated with Thomas Hospital in Fairhope, Alabama. Id. Kohrman has been in practice for almost 30 years. Id. Kohrman is the inventor of the "Kohrman Injection Phantom" ("KIP"), a teaching device which allows medical professionals to practice injection techniques on a "dummy." Id. at ¶ 3; see also id. Exhibits A & B. Kohrman invented the KIP because there was a demand for such a device, given the relative difficulties associated with the use of cadavers for medical training. See id. at ¶ 4. Kohrman knew how he wanted to design the KIP, but he lacked the facilities to produce the KIP on a commercial scale. Id. at ¶ 7. Thus, Kohrman contacted Samuel Alderson to discuss commercial production of the KIP.

B. Samuel Alderson and Kohrman Orally Agree to Collaborate on the Design, Marketing, and Sale of the Kip Kohrman and Samuel Alderson engaged in a series of discussions regarding Kohrman's desire to produce the KIP for commercial sale. Id. Kohrman envisioned the initial production of the KIP as beginning with the production of one model of the KIP and, if the initial production was successful, production would expand to include section models and other injection and teaching models. Id. Samuel Alderson had the production capabilities and eventually proposed that he and Kohrman work together to produce, market, and sell the KIP. Id. at ¶ 8. Samuel Alderson and Kohrman understood that Kohrman had the background and technical knowledge of what was required of the KIP design for marketing and sale to the medical community, and that Samuel Alderson had the means of production to commercially produce the KIP. Id. Thus, sometime in 2004, Samuel Alderson and Kohrman reached an agreement regarding their respective roles and contributions to the design, marketing, and sale of the KIP. See Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 10; Alderson Decl. at ¶ 17. The essential terms the agreement, however, were never reduced to writing. See Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 10; Alderson Decl. at ¶ 17. Samuel Alderson and Kohrman agreed that Kohrman would design and provide technical information for the KIP models, and that RSD would have the exclusive right to produce, market, and sell the KIP models. Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 10. Additionally, Kohrman consented to RSD's commercial use of his name and likeness in the KIP marketing materials. See id. at ¶ 13 ("I was aware of, and consented to RSD's commercial use of my name and likeness to market KIP."); Alderson Decl. at ¶ 17(b)(ii).

In exchange for his consulting services related to the KIP, it is undisputed that Kohrman agreed to accept a free KIP unit. Alderson Decl. at ¶ 17(b)(i); McNitt-Mell Decl. at ¶ 4; see Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 14. It is also undisputed that Kohrman additionally sought and valued, at least to some extent, the positive publicity he would receive as a result of his name and likeness being used in the KIP marketing materials. See Alderson Decl. at ¶ 17(b)(ii); McNitt-Mell Decl. at ¶ 4. But cf. Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 14 [Note 3]. Specifically, that he would be seen as an expert in techniques for interventional radiology and pain management. McNitt-Mell Decl. at ¶ 4. Matthew Alderson states the agreement between Samuel Alderson and Kohrman with regards to what Kohrman would receive in exchange for his consulting services was limited to (i) a free KIP unit, and (ii) the positive publicity he would receive from the KIP product being named after him and the use of his name and likeness in the KIP marketing materials. Alderson Decl. at ¶ 17(b). To the same effect, Ms. McNitt-Nell states that based on her phone conversation with Kohrman—and what Kohrman discussed therein—Samuel Alderson's and Kohrman's agreement was limited to the aforementioned terms. See McNitt-Mell Decl. at ¶ 4. Kohrman, however, states that his agreement with Samuel Alderson was that the parties would split the profits from the sale of the KIP "50/50." Kohrman Decl. at ¶¶ 10, 14.

The Court finds that Kohrman's declaration testimony on this point is contradicted by the prior statements and representations of Kohrman and Kohrman's counsel, and therefore the credibility of Kohrman's declaration testimony in this regards is significantly diminished. The first instance which contradicts Kohrman's declaration testimony regarding a profit sharing or partnership term in the agreement is in the July 17, 2017 demand letter sent by Kohrman's counsel to RSD, which was submitted with Kohrman's proof of claim (the "Demand Letter"). See Claim #8 at 4. The Demand Letter stated that RSD's use of Kohrman's name and likeness in the absence of an agreement between RSD and Kohrman was unlawful, and that neither Kohrman nor his counsel were aware of any such agreement. Id. Additionally, the "Explanation of Claim" submitted with Claim #8 makes no mention of any agreement with Samuel Alderson to split profits; rather, it explains that the claim is based upon "a reasonable royalty" rate of 10% for RSD's use of Kohrman's name and likeness in the KIP marketing materials. Id. at 3. Kohrman's declaration testimony is further contradicted by the statements and representations of his counsel in a series of communications with the Debtor's counsel regarding the Demand Letter. Elaine Nguyen, an attorney with Weintraub & Selth, APC, RSD's bankruptcy counsel, states in her Supplemental Declaration that, prior to filing his opposition, Kohrman never claimed any oral agreement between him and Samuel Alderson, and that Kohrman's counsel stated that there was no agreement on multiple occasions. Supplemental Nguyen Decl. [Doc. No. 174] at ¶ 7. In addition to the above-described statements in the Demand Letter, in a letter to RSD's counsel dated August 18, 2017, Kohrman's counsel again stated that Kohrman never consented to RSD's sale of KIP, or to the use of his name and likeness in the KIP marketing materials. Id. Exhibit 2. Kohrman's counsel further explained that Kohrman and Samuel Alderson "discussed a potential partnership regarding KIP." Id. (emphasis added). In light of these contradictions, Kohrman's testimony in his declaration regarding a profit sharing or partnership term in the agreement between Samuel Alderson and Kohrman are not supported by evidence sufficient to create a genuine dispute. Therefore, the Court finds that, to the extent any agreement existed between Samuel Alderson and Kohrman regarding what Kohrman would receive in exchange for his consulting on the KIP, such agreement was limited to (i) a free KIP unit, and (ii) the positive publicity he would receive from the KIP product being named after him and the use of his name and likeness in the KIP marketing materials.

C. The Designing, Marketing, and Sale of the KIP

Kohrman initially provided RSD with an overview of the KIP and the technical information needed for its production. Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 11. Samuel Alderson and Kohrman agreed that it would take three to six months to produce the first prototype of the KIP. Id. By this time, however, Samuel Alderson's health was in decline, and there were some issues with the production of the first prototype. Id. After some revisions, a second prototype was produced and Samuel Alderson and Kohrman agreed to move forward with production. Id. During the period from the commencement of the KIP production in 2004 through 2005, Kohrman participated in the development, production, and marketing of the KIP. See id. at ¶ 13. During the period from April 7, 2004 through August 28, 2004, Kohrman and his representatives communicated with RSD regarding the design and presentation of the KIP marketing materials. See Alderson Decl. Exhibits 3–6. These communications included the following: (1) on April 7, 2004, Steve Boyko (an employee of Kohrman) sent an email to RSD to which he attached 50 photographs of the KIP, see Alderson Decl. Exhibit 3; (2) in a letter to Samuel Alderson (the founder of the Debtor) dated April 21, 2004, Sue Kohrman, Kohrman's wife, enclosed pictures of the KIP to (apparently) be used by the people who were "creating the brochure" for the KIP, see Alderson Decl. Exhibit 4; (3) on April 28, 2004, Kohrman sent a fax on his letterhead to "Sam," fax number 310-518-0806, regarding "typo errors," "suggestions that may apply," and

"copies of which pictures I'd [Kohrman] put into the brochure," see Alderson Decl. Exhibit 5; and (4) on August 4, 2004, Kohrman sent a fax on his letterhead to "Helen/Sam Alderson" at "RSD," fax number 310-518-0806, regarding details of the KIP, see Alderson Decl. at Exhibit 6.

RSD has marketed the KIP publicly on its website since 2004 or 2005. Alderson Decl. at ¶ 20. Approximately four times per year from 2004 through 2012, RSD displayed prototypes of the KIP at various tradeshows and distributed brochures with information about the KIP to tradeshow attendees. Id. The KIP was also marketed on the public website of Supertech, Inc. ("Supertech"), the exclusive distributor of the KIP. Alderson Decl. at ¶ 20; Supplemental McNitt-Mell Decl. at ¶ 5. At some point in 2004 or 2005, Ms. McNitt-Mell, who was at that time working on Supertech's FAQ section for the KIP product on Supertech's website, called and spoke to Kohrman for approximately 45 minutes regarding the FAQ section for the KIP. McNitt-Mell Decl. at ¶ 4. It was clear to Ms. McNitt-Mell from her conversation with Kohrman that he knew the KIP was going to market. Id.

RSD first began selling the KIP in 2004 before Samuel Alderson's death, and has been selling the KIP continuously since. Supplemental Alderson Decl. at ¶ 7. From the inception of the KIP through the date of the filing of the Kohrman Claim, RSD sold thirty (30) KIP units to Supertech for a total gross sale of $237,604.93. Alderson Decl. at ¶ 22; McNitt-Mell Decl. at ¶ 8 & Exhibit 7. During the period from August 9, 2015 through August 9, 2017, Supertech sold four (4) KIP units for gross sales of $33,876.00. During the period following Kohrman's last communication with RSD regarding the KIP marketing materials in August 2004, Kohrman has not contacted Matthew Alderson, or management at RSD regarding the KIP, the sales of the KIP, or any other matter. Supplemental Alderson Decl. at ¶ 10.

V. Positions of the Parties

A. The Debtor

The Debtor seeks disallowance of the Kohrman Claim, in whole or in part, for the following reasons: (1) the Kohrman Claim was filed after the Claim Bar Date; (2) the Kohrman Claim has no valid basis in intellectual property law because Kohrman consented to the use of his name and likeness; (3) assuming arguendo that Kohrman has a claim for use of his name and likeness, the Kohrman Claim is barred by the applicable two year statute of limitations and the doctrine of laches; (4) assuming arguendo that Kohrman has a claim for use of his name and likeness and could overcome statute of limitations barriers, Kohrman's recovery would be limited to two years and gross sales upon which royalty would be due are substantially lower than what Kohrman alleges; (5) assuming arguendo that Kohrman is entitled to a royalty, the royalty rate is substantially less than ten percent (10%) of gross sales; (6) Kohrman's claims for breach of oral contract and breach of fiduciary duty are barred by the applicable statute of limitations; and (7) Kohrman's claim for breach of oral contract is barred by the statute of frauds.

B. Kohrman

Kohrman contends that the Debtor's arguments for disallowance of the Kohrman Claim fail for the following reasons [Note 4]: (1) the Kohrman Claim is timely because Kohrman did not receive notice of the Claims Bar Date; (2) Kohrman's consent to the use of his name and likeness in connection with the marketing and sale of the KIP was tied to his agreement with Samuel Alderson to split profits, and his consent was rescinded when he was told that production of the KIP would not be proceeding; (3) Kohrman's claims for violation of his right to publicity, breach of oral contract, and breach of fiduciary duty are not barred by the applicable statutes of limitation because the doctrine of delayed discovery; (4) the equitable defense of laches does not apply to actions at law; and (5) whether the amount of the Kohrman claim is overstated does not provide grounds for disallowance of the claim altogether.

VI. Legal Standard

A. Standing

A claim is deemed allowed unless a party in interest objects. 11 U.S.C. § 502(a). The term "party in interest" is not defined in the Code or the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, but courts have held that standing in a bankruptcy context requires an "aggrieved person" who is directly and adversely affected pecuniarily by an order of the bankruptcy court. In re Lona, 393 B.R. 1, 3 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2008) (citing Fondiller v. Robertson (In re Fondiller), 707 F.2d 441, 442-43 (9th Cir. 1983)). A Chapter 11 debtor-in-possession has standing to object to a proof of claim because a trustee is considered a party-in-interest with standing to object. See 11 U.S.C. § 1107(a) (rights, powers, and duties of a debtor in possession); In re G.I.

Indus., Inc., 204 F.3d 1276, 1280 (9th Cir. 2000) (trustee has standing to object to a proof of claim under § 502(a) because a trustee is a "party in interest"); In re Dominelli, 820 F.3d 313, 317 (9th Cir. 1987).

B. The Claim Objection

A proof of claim executed and filed in accordance with the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(f). "The filing of an objection to a proof of claim 'creates a dispute which is a contested matter' within the meaning of Bankruptcy Rule 9014 and must be resolved after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief." Lundell v. Anchor Const. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000) (citing Adv. Comm. Notes to Fed. R. Bankr.P. 9014). Upon objection, the proof of claim provides "some evidence as to its validity and amount" and carries over a "mere formal objection." Id. The objector must produce sufficient evidence "tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations in the proofs of claim themselves." Id. (quoting Wright v. Holm (In re Holm), 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir.1991)). The claimant must "prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times upon the claimant." Id.

Bankruptcy Code § 502(b) sets forth nine bases for a claim to be disallowed. To the extent that a claim falls within any of these paragraphs, upon proper objection, the Court will disallow the claim. Section 502(b)(1) mandates disallowance of a claim where "such claim is unenforceable against the debtor . . . under any agreement or applicable law for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatured." The "'basic federal rule' in bankruptcy is that state law governs the substance of claims." Raleigh v. Illinois Dep't of Revenue, 530 U.S. 15, 20 (2000) (quoting Butner v. United States, 440 U.S. 48, 57 (1979)). Section 502(b)(1) is "most naturally understood to provide that, with limited exceptions, any defense to a claim that is available outside of the bankruptcy context is also available in bankruptcy." Travelers Cas. & Sur. Co. of Am. v. PG&E, 549 U.S. 443, 450 (2007). The second relevant ground for disallowance is section 502(b)(9) which provides for the disallowance of claims that are not timely filed.

Chapter 11

A. The Debtor has standing to object to the Kohrman Claim.

The Debtor is a debtor-in-possession and, therefore, has standing to object to the Kohrman claim because a trustee is considered a party-in-interest with standing to object. See 11 U.S.C. § 1107(a) (rights, powers, and duties of a debtor in possession); In re G.I. Indus., Inc., 204 F.3d 1276, 1280 (9th Cir. 2000) (trustee has standing to object to a proof of claim under § 502(a) because a trustee is a "party in interest"); In re Dominelli, 820 F.3d 313, 317 (9th Cir. 1987).

B. The Kohrman Claim was timely filed.

Under Fed. R. Bankr. Proc. 3003(c), the deadline for filing proofs of claim in a Chapter 11 case is the deadline fixed by the court by which proofs of claim may be filed. Bankruptcy Rule 9006(b)(1) governs late filings of proofs of claim in Chapter 11 cases. Pioneer Inv. Services Co. v. Brunswick Associates Ltd. Partnership, 507 U.S. 380, 389 (1993). Bankruptcy Rule 9006(b)(1) provides:

Except as provided in paragraphs (2) and (3) of this subdivision, when an act is required or allowed to be done at or within a specified period by these rules or by a notice thereunder or by order of court, the court for cause shown may at any time in its discretion (1) with or without motion or notice order the period enlarged if the request therefor is made before the expiration of the period originally prescribed or as extended by a previous order or (2) on motion made after the expiration of the specified period permit the act to be done where the failure to act was the result of excusable neglect.

Fed. R. Bankr. Proc. 9006(b)(1). "Excusable neglect" can include "negligence or situations where a late filing was caused 'by inadvertence, mistake, or carelessness, as well as by intervening circumstances beyond the party's control.'" Key Bar Invs., Inc. v. Cahn (In re Cahn), 188 B.R. 627, 631 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1995) (quoting Pioneer Inv. Services Co., 507 U.S. at 388). In determining whether the neglect was "excusable" the court considers "all the relevant circumstances surrounding the party's omission." Pioneer Inv. Services Co., 507 U.S. at 394. These circumstances include: "(1) the danger of prejudice to the debtor [or to the nonmoving party]; (2) the length of the delay and its potential impact on judicial proceedings; (3) the reason for the delay, including whether it was within the reasonable control of the movant; and (4) whether the movant acted in good faith." Id. Disallowance of a late-filed proof of claim forecloses trial on merits of claim; therefore, "excusable neglect" should be liberally construed in determining whether to grant extension of time for filing proofs of claim. In re Dix, 95 B.R. 134, 138 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1988). The party requesting relief has the "burden of showing circumstances which would constitute excusable neglect." In re Cahn, 188 B.R. at 631.

First, the Court notes that, while the Notice of Motion [Doc. No. 166] does state that the Motion seeks disallowance of the Kohrman Claim on the ground, among others, that "the Claim was filed after the claim bar date set in this case[.]" the Debtor does not devote any substantive discussion to § 502(b)(9) as a ground for disallowance in the Motion. Notwithstanding the absence of a substantive argument for disallowance on this ground in the Motion, Kohrman does attempt to address this argument for disallowance in the Opposition, stating that the Kohrman Claim is timely because Kohrman did not receive notice of the Claims Bar Date. Opposition at 4. Kohrman's argument to this effect, however, mistakes the applicable law for late-filed claims in Chapter 11 cases. The Opposition's argument that the Kohrman Claim should be treated as timely relies upon the exception in § 502(b)(9) for claims that are tardily filed pursuant to § 726(a)(2)(C); however, that exception only applies in Chapter 7 liquidation cases. See § 103(b) (providing that "[s]ubchapters I and II of chapter 7 of this title apply only in a case under such chapter"); see also Pioneer Inv. Services Co., 507 U.S. at 389 & n.4 (the time requirement governing the filing of proofs of claim in Chapter 7 cases is excepted from the operation of the "excusable neglect" standard of Bankruptcy Rule 9006(b)(1)). The Opposition's misplaced reliance on the exception to § 502(b)(9) which is inapplicable in a Chapter 11 case such as this exposes another issue regarding whether the Kohrman Claim was timely filed, and which neither party has attempted to address.

Bankruptcy Rule 9006(b)(1) provides in relevant part that the court may extend time "(2) on motion made after the expiration of the specified period permit the act to be done where the failure to act was the result of excusable neglect." Thus, in circumstances where the specified period to act has expired, the plain text of the rule requires the request for an extension to be made by a noticed motion showing the facts constituting excusable neglect. Here, pursuant to the Court's Bar Date Order entered on February 24, 2017 [Doc. No. 17], the Claims Bar Date in this case was May 15, 2017. The Debtor filed the Bar Date Notice [Doc. No. 36] on March 9, 2017. The Kohrman Claim was filed on August 7, 2017. However, Kohrman never filed a motion to request an extension of time to file his proof of claim based on his ignorance of his claim until expiration of the Claims Bar Date, and he did not have notice of the Debtor's bankruptcy until August 1, 2017 when he received a letter from the Debtor's counsel informing Kehrman that the Debtor was in bankruptcy. Kehrman Decl. at ¶ 17; Claim #8 at 3. Thus, Kehrman's failure to file the requisite motion means that the evidence before the Court tending to prove excusable neglect is substantially less than that which would typically be submitted with a motion under Bankruptcy Rule 9006(b)(1). Furthermore, given his misplaced reliance on the exception for claims filed pursuant to § 726(a)(2)(C), Kehrman has not even attempted to set forth the facts constituting excusable neglect. In other circumstances the Kehrman Claim would therefore be disallowable as a late-filed claim under § 502(b)(9). However, taking into consideration all the circumstances surrounding Kehrman's failure to timely file his proof of claim as set forth below, disallowance of the Kehrman Claim under § 502(b)(9) would likely violate Kehrman's right to due process under the Fourteenth Amendment. Specifically, because Kehrman had neither actual nor constructive notice, and no other method of providing notice was used in this case, cf. Jones v. Chemetron Corp., 212 F.3d 199, 205 (3d Cir. 2000) (affirming the bankruptcy court's denial of a motion to extend time to file proofs of claim based on excusable neglect where the debtor provided notice of the bar date by publication, and the court's finding that "ignorance of one's own claim does not constitute excusable neglect"), disallowance of the Kehrman Claim under § 502(b)(9) would implicate Kehrman's due process rights. Therefore, pursuant to § 105(a) the Court has the authority to, sua sponte, determine the timeliness of the Kehrman Claim.

Section 105(a) provides in pertinent part that "[n]o provision of this title providing for the raising of an issue by a party in interest shall be construed to preclude the court from, sua sponte, taking any action or making any determination necessary or appropriate to enforce or implement court orders or rules, or to prevent an abuse of process." Here, the Court finds that had Kehrman filed a motion to extend the deadline to file proofs of claim pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9006(b)(1), sufficient evidence exists that Kehrman's failure to timely file his proof of claim was due to excusable neglect. It is undisputed that Kehrman was not served with the Bar Date Notice. See Motion at 3 (Kehrman was not served with the Bar Date Notice because Kehrman had never asserted a "claim" against the Debtor before sending the Demand Letter on July 17, 2017). Furthermore, the Court finds that Kehrman did not have constructive notice of the Debtor's bankruptcy case or of the Claims Bar Date because, according to Kehrman's Declaration which is consistent with the Demand

Letter and the Explanation of Claim, Kohrman was not aware of the Debtor's bankruptcy until August 1, 2017, when Kohrman's counsel received a letter from the Debtor's counsel on August 1, 2017 informing Kohrman that the Debtor was in bankruptcy. Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 17; Claim #8 at 3. These facts, together with the fact that Kohrman filed his proof of claim a mere six days after learning of the Debtor's bankruptcy, support the finding that Kohrman's failure to file his claim by the Claims Bar Date was due to excusable neglect.

Therefore, pursuant to § 105(a), for the purposes of ruling on the Motion the Court determines that the Kohrman Claim was timely filed. The Debtor's Objection to the Kohrman Claim under § 502(b)(9) is OVERRULED.

C. The terms of the oral agreement between Samuel Alderson and Kohrman Kohrman alleges that the parties agreed to jointly develop the KIP and share profits, giving rise to a partnership or joint venture agreement, "the abrogation of which was both a breach of contract and fiduciary duty." Thus, the allowability of the Kohrman Claim turns upon findings regarding the existence and terms of either or both an enforceable oral contract or joint venture agreement between Samuel Alderson and Kohrman regarding the development, production, and marketing of the KIP. Furthermore, the determination of the terms of such agreement directly affects the allowability of the Kohrman Claim to the extent Kohrman alleges that his Claim is based upon his claims for violation of his right to publicity, breach of oral contract, and breach of fiduciary duty.

"Under California law, a contract will be enforced if it is sufficiently definite (and this is a question of law) for the court to ascertain the parties' obligations and to determine whether those obligations have been performed or breached." Ersa Grae Corp. v. Fluor Corp., 1 Cal.App.4th 613, 623 (1991). "[W]hether a certain or undisputed state of facts establishes a contract is one of law for the court" Vita Planning & Landscape Architecture, Inc. v. HKS Architects, Inc., 240 Cal. App. 4th 763, 771 (2015). Mutual consent is a central requirement of contract formation. "If there is no evidence establishing a manifestation of assent to the 'same thing' by both parties, then there is no mutual consent to contract and no contract formation." Bustamante v. Lettuce Growers v. Union Sugar Co., 45 Cal.2d 474, 481 (1955)).

In Bustamante, the California appellate court addressed whether an oral agreement between the parties to form and launch a company in Mexico to handle localized marketing and sales of Intuit's products. 141 Cal.App.4th at 207. The trial court granted summary judgment in favor of Intuit, holding that there was no meeting of the minds on the material terms of the alleged agreement and, therefore, no enforceable contract existed. Id. at 207–08. The California appellate court affirmed the trial court's ruling. In so holding, the court rejected Bustamante's argument that the alleged agreement "was simple and had certain terms" providing that the parties agreed "to form and launch Intuit Mexico" by working "exclusively with each other and to continue working until the company was launched." Id. at 210. Importantly, however, it was undisputed that the parties never resolved specific terms such as "the amount of Bustamante's salary or Intuit's royalty, the nature of the liquidity path, and the identity of the majority owner and source of control," which Bustamante argued were not essential to the agreement. Id. The court explained that the absence of such terms was fatal to the agreement. Among the terms that the court held were unsettled were terms such as: "the form and amount of Bustamante's compensation; the extent, duration, and nature of his management role, if any; the amount of Intuit's royalty; the equity percentage held by him, 'the management team,' Intuit, and outside investors; and the liquidity path for both Bustamante and investors." Id. at 211.

Here, the Court finds that the terms of any agreement between Samuel Alderson and Kohrman were not sufficiently certain to create an enforceable contract. While the parties may have reached a preliminary agreement pertaining to the initial production of the KIP, and Kohrman's contribution to the KIP marketing materials, there is insufficient evidence that the parties agreed to any terms pertaining to profit sharing, the monetary compensation or royalty due to Kohrman, or the extent, duration, or nature of Kohrman's involvement in the production and sale of KIP. Rather, similar to Bustamante, the undisputed evidence merely shows that Samuel Alderson and Kohrman understood that each could mutually benefit from collaborating on the marketing and production of the KIP. The testimony of the parties is consistent with respect to the existence of an understanding that Kohrman would design and provide technical information for the KIP models, that RSD would have the exclusive right to produce, market, and sell the KIP models, and that Kohrman consented to the use of his name and likeness to market the KIP. See Kohrman Decl. at ¶¶ 2–10; Alderson Decl. at ¶ 17. The testimony does not establish, however, any details of the agreement beyond these general terms; thus, the terms of the agreement are not "definite enough that a court can determine the scope of the duty[.]" or "the limits of performance . . . to provide a rational basis for the assessment of damages." Bustamante v. Intuit, Inc., 141 Cal.App.4th at 209. Furthermore, as stated in the Court's findings of fact, there are a number of statements and representations by Kohrman and his counsel which not only contradict Kohrman's claim that the parties agreed to share in the KIP profits, but also undermine the existence of any final agreement. Specifically, on multiple occasions, Kohrman and his counsel denied the existence of any agreement between Samuel Alderson and Kohrman. In fact, in a letter to RSD's counsel dated August 18, 2017, Kohrman's counsel explained that Kohrman and Samuel Alderson "discussed a potential partnership regarding KIP." Supplemental Nguyen Decl. [Doc. No. 174] at Exhibit 2 (emphasis added). Additionally, Kohrman's counsel further stated that Kohrman never consented to RSD's sale of KIP, or to the use of his name and likeness in the KIP marketing materials, id., which directly contradicts Kohrman's declaration testimony that "[he] was aware of, and consented to RSD's commercial use of [his] name and likeness to market KIP." Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 13. Taken together, these statements clearly undermine any notion of finality or a meeting of the minds. Rather, these statements support the finding that the parties never reached a final agreement on terms that would be sufficient to constitute an enforceable contract under California law.

Kohrman's claim that the parties entered into a partnership or joint venture fails for the same reasons. The standard for the formation of a partnership or joint venture is less demanding than the standard for contract formation, but the evidence is not sufficient to meet even this lower bar. Under the California Uniform Partnership Act, a partnership is "the association of two or more persons to carry own as coowners a business for profit." West's Ann.Cal.Corp.Code § 16202(a) (2017). Similarly, "a joint venture . . . is an undertaking by two or more persons jointly to carry out a single business enterprise for profit." April Enterprises, Inc. v. KTTV, 147 Cal.App.3d 805, 819 (1983). In determining whether a partnership is formed, the following rules apply:

(1) Joint tenancy, tenancy in common, tenancy by the entireties, joint property, common property, or part ownership does not by itself establish a partnership, even if the coowners share profits made by the use of the property.

(2) The sharing of gross returns does not by itself establish a partnership, even if the persons sharing them have a joint or common right or interest in property from which the returns are derived.

(3) A person who receives a share of the profits of a business is presumed to be a partner in the business, unless the profits were received for any of the following reasons:

(A) In payment of a debt by installments or otherwise.

(B) In payment for services as an independent contractor or of wages or other compensation to an employee.

(C) In payment of rent.

(D) In payment of an annuity or other retirement benefit to a beneficiary, representative, or designee of a deceased or retired partner.

(E) In payment of interest or other charge on a loan, even if the amount of payment varies with the profits of the business, including a direct or indirect present or future ownership of the collateral, or rights to income, proceeds, or increase in value derived from the collateral.

(F) In payment for the sale of the goodwill of a business or other property by installments or otherwise.

West's Ann.Cal.Corp.Code § 16202(c) (2017).

None of the elements of a valid partnership or joint venture are present in this case. Aside from Kohrman's statement that the parties agreed to share profits, which the Court has determined lacks credibility based on the previously-discussed contradictions, there is no other single piece of evidence that would support a finding that the parties formed a partnership. Kohrman's argument on this point is further undermined by his counsel's statement that Kohrman and Samuel Alderson "discussed a potential partnership regarding KIP."

Based on the foregoing, the Court finds that there is insufficient evidence to support a finding that either an enforceable contract or a partnership was entered into between Samuel Alderson and Kohrman.

D. Kohrman's claims for violation of his right of publicity, for breach of oral contract, and for breach of fiduciary duty are barred by the applicable statutes of limitation.

Kohrman asserts three claims: violation of his right to publicity, breach of oral contract, and breach of fiduciary duty. The Debtor argues that Kohrman's claims are barred by the applicable statutes of limitation. Kohrman argues that his claims are not time-barred because the doctrine of "delayed discovery" tolled the respective limitations period applicable to the respective claims. The general rule is that a cause of action accrues at "the time when the cause of action is complete with all of its elements." Fox v. Ethicon Endo-Surgery, Inc., 35 Cal.4th 797, 806 (2005). The "discovery rule" is an exception to the general rule, and "postpones accrual of a cause of action until the plaintiff discovers, or has reason to discover, the cause of action." Id. at 807. "A plaintiff has reason to discover a cause of action when he or she 'has reason to at least suspect a factual basis for its elements.'" Id. (quoting Norgart v. Upjohn Co., 21 Cal.4th 383, 397 (1999)). Importantly, the court in Norgart explained that the "elements" referred to in the rule are generically referred to by terms such as "'wrongdoing' or 'wrongful conduct,' 'cause' or 'causation,' and 'harm' or 'injury.'" Norgart v. Upjohn Co., 21 Cal.4th 383, 397 (1999). Under the discovery rule, "plaintiffs are charged with presumptive knowledge of an injury if they have 'information of circumstances to put [them] on inquiry ' or if they have 'the

For the discovery rule to apply, "[a] plaintiff whose complaint shows on its face that his claim would be barred without the benefit of the discovery rule must specifically plead facts to show (1) the time and manner of discovery and (2) the inability to have made earlier discovery despite reasonable diligence." Id. "[I]n assessing the sufficiency of the allegations of delayed discovery, the court places the burden on the plaintiff to show 'diligence[.]'" Nguyen v. Western Digital Corporation, 229 Cal.App.4th 1522, 1553 (2014).

The Right of Publicity Claim

Kohrman claims that the Debtor's use of his name and likeness in the KIP marketing materials violated his right of publicity. The right of publicity in California is both a statutory and common law right. Comedy III Productions, Inc. v. Gary Saderpup, Inc., 25 Cal.4th 387, 391 (2001). The statutory right is codified as Cal. Civ. Code § 3344. Section 3344 authorizes "recovery of damages by any living person whose name, photograph, or likeness has been used for commercial purposes without his or her consent." Comedy III Productions, 25 Cal.4th at 391. A right of publicity claim is subject to the two-year statute of limitations under Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 339. Christoff v. Nestle USA, Inc., 47 Cal.4th 468, 474 (2009). "Under the single publication rule, with respect to the statute of limitations, publication generally is said to occur on the 'first general distribution of the publication to the public.' . . . Under this rule, the cause of action accrues and the period of limitations commences, regardless of when the plaintiff secured a copy or became aware of the publication." Long v. Walt Disney Co., 116 Cal.App.4th 868, 872 (2004) (quoting Shively v. Bozanich, 31 Cal.4th 1230, 1245–46 (2003)). "In the internet context, the statute of limitations begins to run when the allegedly infringing material is first posted on the internet." Alberghetti v. Corbis Corp., 713 F. Supp. 2d 971, 977 (C.D. Cal. 2010), aff'd in part, rev'd in part and remanded, 476 F. App'x 154 (9th Cir. 2012).

Here, the delayed discovery rule would not apply to toll the two-year statute of limitations. As previously stated, to receive the benefit of the delayed discovery rule, Kohrman had the burden to show "(1) the time and manner of discovery and (2) the inability to have made earlier discovery despite reasonable diligence." Fox, 35 Cal.4th at 808. Kohrman fails to present any facts that would so much as give rise to an inference that he exercised reasonable diligence to discover his alleged claims. The only fact that would touch on the issue of reasonable diligence is Kohrman's phone call to RSD in 2005. However, there is no admissible evidence on the content of the conversation. Other than the phone call to RSD, Kohrman proffers other, less direct reasons for why he did not discover the alleged misappropriation, but these facts are similarly insufficient to support a finding of reasonable diligence. Among these reasons, Kohrman states that he does not use a smart phone, that he is not academically active, has been out of practice, and that he stopped doing interventional procedures in 2011. Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 15. These facts are insufficient to show "the inability to have made earlier discovery despite reasonable diligence." Fox, 35 Cal.4th at 808. The RSD and Supertech websites are both public websites and, therefore, could have been easily accessed by Kohrman or one of his associates. Additionally, over the period of approximately 13 years during which Kohrman alleges RSD was misappropriating his name and likeness, Kohrman has never contacted Matthew Alderson or management at RSD regarding the KIP or any other matter. Alderson Decl. at ¶ 10. Kohrman had the means to discover his claim, yet it seems from the evidence that he simply chose not to utilize those means or reasonably exercise diligence to discover his claims. Furthermore, "courts uniformly have rejected the application of the discovery rule to libels published in books, magazines, and newspapers, pointing out that application of the discovery rule would undermine the protection provided by the single-publication rule." Christoff v. Nestle USA, Inc., 47 Cal.4th 468, 482–83 (2009).

The evidence is also not sufficient to support a finding that there was a "republication" of the KIP marketing materials so as to toll the limitations period. Kohrman relies on the case of Christoff v. Nestle USA, Inc., 47 Cal.4th 468 (2009) to support his argument that RSD republished the KIP marketing materials. Kohrman contends that a sufficient possibility exists that RSD published the KIP marketing materials at different times and, therefore, the Court should, similar to the California court in Christoff, "decline to resolve this important issue without the benefit of a sufficient factual record . . ." Id. at 481–82. Such republication if found, would in effect restart the running of the limitations period, generally from the date of each republication. Christoff is distinguishable from this case in two important respects. First, the court in Christoff declined to resolve the issue of republication because the parties had not had an opportunity to present any evidence on the issue of "the manner in which the labels were produced and distributed." Id. Indeed, the trial court in that case had erroneously ruled that "the single-publication rule did not apply to claims for misappropriation of likeness." Id. Here, in contrast, the parties did have an opportunity to submit evidence on this issue. And the evidence before the Court is not sufficient to establish that, assuming RSD did in fact distribute the brochures at different times that these did not constitute a "single integrated publication." Id. This segways into the second distinction between this case and Christoff. The Christoff court's decision to refrain from deciding the publication issue was also influenced by the fact that evidence showed that the plaintiff's image was used in different forms of advertising. Id. at 482. Such forms of advertising included "transit ads, coupons in newspapers, magazine advertisements, and Internet advertisements." Id. Thus, it was possible that Nestle could show that these publications were a single integrated publication, but there was not a sufficient evidentiary record at that time. Here, the KIP marketing materials were not anywhere near as diverse as those at issue in Christoff. Rather, the KIP marketing materials were limited to informational brochures, which primarily appeared on the internet, but which were also distributed on a limited basis a few times a year at tradeshows. Thus, the evidence in this case tends to suggest that the KIP marketing materials, whether they were distributed at different times, constituted a single integrated publication.

The Breach of Contract and Breach of Fiduciary Claims

Even if the Court were to find that either or both a valid contract or a partnership existed between Samuel Alderson and Kohrman, Kohrman's claims for breach of contract and breach of fiduciary duty would be barred by the applicable statute of limitations. Both claims are subject to a two-year statute of limitations. Civ. Proc. Code § 339(1) ("An action upon a contract, obligation or liability not founded upon an instrument of writing" must be commenced within two-years of accrual"). A cause of action for a breach of an oral contract accrues at the time of the breach, i.e., when the party charged with the duty to perform under the contract fails to perform. Cochran v. Cochran, 56 Cal.App.4th 1115, 1124 (1997); Parker v. Walker, 5 Cal.App.4th 1173, 1190 (1992) (statute of limitations begins to run when oral contract is repudiated).

Here, the delayed discovery rule would not apply to toll the two-year statute of limitations. As previously stated, to receive the benefit of the delayed discovery rule,

Kohrman had the burden to show “(1) the time and manner of discovery and (2) the inability to have made earlier discovery despite reasonable diligence.” Fox, 35 Cal.4th at 808. First, Kohrman fails to present any facts that would so much as give rise to an inference that he exercised reasonable diligence to discover his alleged claims. The only fact that would touch on the issue of reasonable diligence is Kohrman’s phone call to RSD in 2005. However, there is no admissible evidence on the content of the conversation. Secondly, even assuming arguendo that Kohrman entered into a valid oral contract and/or partnership with Samuel Alderson to produce the KIP and to share in the profits of the KIP sales, the breach of such agreement would have occurred at the time when Samuel Alderson (or RSD) failed to perform his obligations under such agreement, i.e., pay Kohrman his share of the profits from the KIP sales. Thus, because sales of the KIP first began in 2004 prior to Samuel Alderson’s death in February 2005, and because Kohrman offers no evidence to show that he received any payments for his share of the profits at any point, it logically follows that any claim for breach of contract or breach of fiduciary duty would have accrued at the time Samuel Alderson failed to pay Kohrman his share of the profits as early as 2004.

Therefore, the Court finds that even if Kohrman had claims for breach of contract or breach of fiduciary duty, those claims would be barred by the applicable statute of limitations

E. Kohrman’s right of publicity claim also fails because Kohrman consented to the use of his name and likeness.

Lack of consent is an essential element of a right of publicity claim. See White v. Samsung Electronics Am., Inc., 971 F.2d 1395, 1397 (9th Cir. 1992) (quoting Eastwood v. Superior Court, 149 Cal.App.3d 409, 417, 198 Cal.Rptr. 342 (1983)). “[C]onsent is terminated when the user knows or has reason to know that the other is no longer willing to permit the particular use.” Restatement (Third) of Unfair Competition § 46, cmt. f.

Here, it is undisputed that Kohrman consented to the use of his name and likeness in the KIP marketing materials. See Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 13 (“I was aware of, and consented to RSD’s commercial use of my name and likeness to market KIP.”). Kohrman argues, however, that such consent was tied to the parties’ agreement to split the profits from KIP. Opposition at 5. He additionally argues that the absence of monetary consideration “is perhaps the best evidence that RSD did not have Kohrman's consent to use his name and likeness." Id. at 6. These arguments fail for multiple reasons. First, the Court has determined that there was no such agreement to split profits; thus, Kohrman's argument in that regard is moot. Second, Kohrman does not cite any authority, and the Court's research has discovered none, to support his argument that the absence of monetary consideration somehow evidences Kohrman's lack of consent. Lastly, the Court finds that there is no evidence that would tend to suggest that Kohrman's consent was terminated because RSD knew or had reason to know that Kohrman was no longer willing to permit the use of his name and likeness.

In the absence of such evidence, the Court finds that Kohrman's right of publicity claim fails because Kohrman consented to the use of his name and likeness.

Kohrman Would Not Be Entitled to Royalty or Damages

The Court finds that, even if Kohrman had a claim for violation of his right of publicity—which, for the reasons stated above as well as those discussed in section VII.D., supra, Kohrman does not have such a claim—Kohrman would not be entitled to royalty or damages under California law. Kohrman seeks compensation for RSD's use of his likeness in the KIP advertising materials. Cal. Civ. Code § 3344 provides that any person that violates another's right to publicity "shall be liable for any damages sustained by the person . . . in an amount greater than $750 or the actual damages suffered by him . . . and any profits from the unauthorized use that are attributable to such use . . ." (emphasis added); see also Christoff v. Nestle USA, Inc., 152 Cal. App. 4th 1439, 62 Cal. Rptr. 3d 122, 143, as modified on denial of reh'g (July 24, 2007), review granted and opinion superseded, 169 P.3d 888 (Cal. 2007), and aff'd in part, rev'd in part, 47 Cal. 4th 468, 213 P.3d 132 (2009) (requiring the plaintiff, in order to recover profits under § 3344, to show that the profits were attributable to the use of his likeness). The critical question to determining the profits "attributable" to the plaintiff is the plaintiff's "ability . . . to attract the attention and evoke a desired response in a particular consumer audience. That response is a kind of good will or recognition value generated by that person." Lugosi v. Universal Pictures, 35 Cal.3d 813, 835 (1979).

Here, Kohrman has not offered any evidence of profits from the KIP sales "attributable" to Kohrman's "ability . . . to attract the attention and evoke a desired response in a particular consumer audience." Therefore, the Court finds that even if Kohrman had a right of publicity claim, Kohrman would not be entitled to royalty or

VIII. Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Court GRANTS the Debtor's Motion to disallow the Kohrman Claim. The Kohrman Claim is disallowed in its entirety.

The Debtor shall lodge a conforming order within seven (7) days of the hearing.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. If you wish to make a telephonic appearance, contact Court Call at 888-882-6878, no later than one hour before the hearing.

Note 1: As set forth in more detail in section IV, infra, "KIP" stands for the "Kohrman Injection Phantom."

Note 2: The Court determines that this matter is appropriate for determination on the pleadings. Bankruptcy Rule 9014 governs contested matters. "Where . . . core facts are not disputed, the bankruptcy court is authorized to determine contested matters . . . on the pleadings and arguments of the parties, drawing necessary inferences from the record." Tyner v. Nicholson (In re Nicholson), 435 B.R. 622, 636 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2010). Rule 9014 provides that, unless the court otherwise directs, Bankruptcy Rule 7056 applies in contested matters. Bankruptcy Rule 7056 provides that Rule 56 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure applies. Rule 56 provides for the entry of summary judgment when the documents filed in the cause show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to summary judgment as a matter of law. The taking of testimony is not required. Having considered the Motion, the Opposition, the Reply, and the evidence submitted therewith, the Court finds that Kohrman has failed to raise a genuine dispute as to any material fact so as to require an evidentiary hearing. See Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986) (a factual dispute is genuine only "if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party").

To the extent any findings of fact are more properly designated conclusions of law, they shall be deemed as such. To the extent any conclusions of law are more properly designated as findings of fact, they shall be deemed as such.

Note 3: Kohrman states that his primary motivation for consenting to RSD's commercial use of his name and likeness was his understanding that he would share in half of the profits generated from the sale of KIP. Kohrman Decl. at ¶ 14. However, Kohrman does not address whether he was motivated, at least to some degree, by the publicity he would receive as a result of the KIP marketing materials. See id.

Note 4: To the extent these arguments rely on evidence that has since been excluded, or upon facts which the Court has declined to find, the Court addresses such issues in the Court's Conclusions of Law, Section VII, infra.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Red Booth, Inc. (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on October 23, 2017 (the Petition) [Doc. No. 1]. On November 29, 2017, Red Booth, Inc. (the "Debtor") filed the "Application to Employ Sanford L. Frey as Chapter 11 Counsel and Leech Tishman Fuscaldo & Lamp, Inc." (the "Employment Application") [Doc. No. 32]. On December 4, 2017, the United States Trustee ("UST") filed the Opposition to the Employment Application (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 34].

Debtor's bankruptcy that will require the services of experienced counsel. Thus, the Employment Application requests authorization for the Debtor to employ Leech Tishman Fuscaldo & Lamp, Inc. ("LTFL") as its Chapter 11 counsel at the expense of the Estate. The Debtor seeks to have LTFL's employment deemed effective as of the Petition Date. The Debtor believes that LTFL, including Sanford L. Frey ("Mr. Frey"), are well-qualified to represent the Debtor. The Debtor expects LTFL to perform the following professional services:

- (1) Advise the Debtor on all requirements of Bankruptcy, including the requirements of the United States Trustee, as they pertain to the Debtor;
- (2) Advise the Debtor with regard to its rights and remedies in bankruptcy;
- (3) Assist the Debtor with transactions disposing of Property of the Estate;
- (4) Represent the Debtor in any bankruptcy proceedings;
- (5) Perform professional services and represent the Debtor in connection with any adversary proceeding except to the extent that such adversary proceeding is beyond LTFL's expertise;
- (6) Prepare and assist the Debtor in the preparation of reports, applications, and pleadings;
- (7) Prepare and assist the Debtor in the negotiation, formulation, preparation, and confirmation of a plan of reorganization (the "Plan"), and the preparation and approval of a disclosure statement in connection with the Plan;
- (8) Advise the Debtor with respect to its powers and duties as a debtor-in-possession; and
- (9) Perform any other services which may be necessary and appropriate in the representation of the Debtor.

LTFL received a pre-petition payment from the Debtor in the amount of $1,717.00, which LTFL deposited into its client trust account, and which LTFL used to reimburse the filing fee on the Petition Date. Employment Application at 5–6. LTFL has agreed to accept as compensation for its services hourly compensation at its customary hourly rates as may be allowed by the Court in accordance with § 330.

The Frey Declaration states that neither Mr. Frey nor LTFL hold or represent any interest adverse to the Debtor or the Estate, and LTFL is a disinterested person as that term is defined in § 101(4), except that:

- (1) LTFL also represents Rideshare Port Management, LLC ("Rideshare") in the Chapter 11 case also pending before the Court, Case No. 2:17-bk-22974-ER; and
- (2) Prior to the Petition Date, LTFL made appearances on behalf of Rideshare in (i) the state court litigation entitled Mahmoudi et al. v. Prime Time Shuttle, Inc. [et al.], Case No. BC640240 (the "Mahmoudi Action"), and (ii) in status conferences in the state court arbitration entitled Khalatian v. Prime Time [et al.], JAMS # 1220054946 (BC485917). Prime Time Shuttle, Inc. ("Prime Time") is a 5% interest holder in Rideshare.

Frey Declaration at ¶ 10.

The Opposition

The UST objects to the Employment Application on the grounds that LTFL is not disinterested, and there is an actual conflict of interest based upon its dual representation of the Debtor, Rideshare, and Prime Time. Opposition at 1. The Opposition argues that LTFL was not disinterested when it agreed to represent the Debtor, because of LTFL's existing and ongoing relationship with Rideshare and its Chapter 11 case. Id. at 1–2. Furthermore, LTFL created additional conflicts of interest when it agreed to represent Prime Time in the state court litigation. Based on this, an actual conflict arose because each of Rideshare and Prime Time may be found individually or jointly liable in the state court action. Id. at 2. Thus, the Opposition argues, under § 327 LTFL is not disinterested, and each entity must be represented by This prohibition is absolute, and not subject to waiver or consent.")).

The Reply

On December 26, 2017 the Debtor filed the Supplemental Declaration of Sandford L. Frey Filed in Reply to Opposition (the "Reply") [Doc. No. 50]. Mr. Frey reaffirms his belief that LTFL is "disinterested" within the meaning of § 327(a). Reply at 2, ¶ 4. Additionally, the Reply states that neither LTFL nor Mr. Frey was ever engaged by Prime Time, or represented Prime Time in any capacity. Id. Mr. Frey states that he expressly informed Prime Time that LTFL could not represent it, and suggested that Prime Time should retain separate counsel. Id. at ¶ 5. Furthermore, with respect to the Mahmoudi Action, Mr. Frey states that his appearance on behalf of Rideshare was on an emergency basis to avoid default by Rideshare, and that he had no knowledge of the nature of the matter and received absolutely no confidential information about Prime Time. Id. at 3, ¶¶ 6–7. LTFL never formally substituted into the Mahmoudi Action, and no pleadings or documents were ever filed by LTFL. Id. When he appeared, Mr. Frey discovered that the complaint in the Mahmoudi Action named Prime Time as a dba of the Rideshare defendant; however, prior to his appearance Mr. Frey was not aware that there were named parties in addition to Rideshare. Id. at 3, ¶ 7. Upon learning that Prime Time was named as a separate defendant and that Prime Time held an equity interest in Rideshare, Mr. Frey informed the state court that he could not represent Prime Time, and Prime Time subsequently retained separate counsel. Id. With respect to the Khalatian Arbitration, the only action taken by LTFL was to file a notice of appearance for the Debtor and Rideshare. Id. at 3, ¶ 8.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Section 327(a) sets for the qualification standards for professionals who are employed in a bankruptcy case. Section 327(a) provides:

persons, that do not hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate, and that are disinterested persons, to represent or assist the trustee in carrying out the trustee's duties under this title.

In enacting § 327(a), Congress intended "to hold professionals performing duties for the estate to strict fiduciary standards," In re Wheatfield Business Park LLC, 286 B.R. 412, 417 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2002) (quoting In re Envirodyne Indus., Inc., 150 B.R. 1008, 1016 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1993)), in order to ensure that "a professional employed in the case will devote undivided loyalty to the client," id. at 417–18. Because the Chapter 11 debtor-in-possession has "the rights . . . and powers, and shall perform all the functions and duties . . . of a trustee . . .," 11 U.S.C. § 1107(a), § 327 applies to professionals employed by a Chapter 11 debtor-in-possession. See In re Wheatfield Business Park LLC, 286 B.R. at 418. Under § 327(a), a debtor-in-possession may employ the services of an attorney "so long as the chosen attorney (1) neither holds nor represents an interest adverse to the bankruptcy estate, and (2) qualifies as a disinterested person." In re Howell, 148 B.R. 269, 270 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 1992). "These two criteria significantly overlap because 'disinterested person,' as defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(14)(E), includes a person who does not have an interest materially adverse to the estate." Id. In the event the attorney, at any time during his or her employment under § 327(a), ceases to be a "disinterested person," pursuant to § 328 (c) the bankruptcy court has the discretion to impose a penalty against the attorney by denying his or her application for compensation, in whole or in part. See In re Howell, 148 B.R. at 270.

In addition to § 327(a), Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 2014, which sets forth the application procedure for the employment of professionals, requires an application to disclose, "to the best of the applicant's knowledge, all of the person's connections with the debtor, creditor, any other party in interest, their respective attorneys and accountants, the United States trustee, or any person employed in the office of the United States trustee." Fed. R. Bankr. P. 2014. Rule 2014 further requires the application to be supplemented by a verified statement of the professional that makes these disclosures. Id. An actual conflict of interest creates a violation of § 327(a), whereas a potential conflict of interest may require disqualification of a professional if, "in the judgment of the court, the conflict is sufficiently important and there is a sufficient likelihood that it will ripen into an actual conflict." In re Wheatfield Business Park LLC, 286 B.R. at 421.

Generally, conflicts of interest law distinguishes between actual conflicts and potential conflicts; however, there is no clear formulation of this distinction. Under the ABA Model Rules of Professional Conduct ("ABA Model Rules"), for example, an actual conflict is one that is "directly adverse" to another client or that materially limits the representation of another client. See ABA Model Rules R. 1.7. Potential conflicts vary and, depending on the circumstances, may or may not ripen into actual conflicts. While there is general agreement that an actual conflict requires denial of a professional application, see In re Howell, 148 B.R. at 270, there is less agreement with regards to potential conflicts, id. On the issue of dual representation, the Fifth Circuit, for example, has held that the question is whether the dual representation creates "a legally disabling" conflict of interest. See In re Consolidated Bancshares, 785 F.2d 1249, 1256 (5th Cir. 1986). Similarly, the Third Circuit has emphasized the flexibility and discretion that rests in the bankruptcy court, and adopted a "totality of the circumstances" approach to §§ 327 and 328, rather than a broad rule disqualifying attorneys from undertaking dual representation of related bankruptcy estates. See In re BH & P, Inc., 949 F.2d 1300, 1315–17 (3d Cir. 1991). Such a case-by-case approach has proven particularly important where dual representation of Chapter 11 debtors is the only reasonable approach due to the "economic realities of the situation," and the "unity of interest" between the debtors. See In re Howell, 148 B.R. at 272 (citing In re Roberts, 75 B.R. 402, 406–409 (D. Utah 1987)); see also In re Huddleston, 120 B.R. 399, 403 (Bankr. E.D. Tex. 1990) (holding that an attorney could undertake the dual representation where there was a close relationship between the two debtors and no actual conflict existed).

Here, the Court finds that there is no actual conflict that would disqualify LTFL from being employed by the Debtor, and that any potential conflicts—which it is questionable if there are any given the unity of interests of the parties—at this point in the case, are not sufficient so as to disqualify LTFL from representing the Debtor. The application contains the requisite disclosures regarding LTFL's connections with the Debtor. Based on these disclosures, and as pointed out in the Opposition of the UST, any actual or potential conflicts arise, or would arise from LTFL's (1) concurrent representation of both the Debtor and Rideshare in the respective bankruptcy cases, and (2) LTFL's pre-petition representation of the Debtor, Rideshare, and Prime Time in the various state court proceedings. These representations are not, in themselves, disqualifying. Furthermore, as set forth in the Reply, any appearances made by LTFL or Mr. Frey in the state court proceedings were on behalf of Rideshare, and were very limited in scope. See Reply at 3, ¶¶ 6–8. This is not a case where there is a creditor relationship between the parties. Cf. In re Woodcraft Studios, Inc., 464 B.R. 1, 15 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2011) (employed professional was not "disinterested" where the professional was a pre-petition creditor); In re Wheatfield Business Park LLC, 286 B.R. at 422 (the "main potential conflict" arose from a single secured creditor's first position for each debtor, with each loan cross-collateralized by a second mortgage on property belonging to each of the other debtors). Rather, this case presents a situation more analogous to In re Howell, 148 B.R. at 272, or In re Huddleston, 120 B.R. at 403, where the interests of the Debtor, Rideshare, and Prime Time are sufficiently aligned such that there is a "unity of interest" between the parties. Additionally, as in In re Howell, given the "economic realities of the situation," absent an actual conflict, it would be unreasonable to require the Debtor and Rideshare to employ independent counsel. Such a requirement, at this point in the case, could jeopardize both the Debtor's and Rideshare's ability to reorganize. It is equally important to note, however, that in the event LTFL ceases to be disinterested, pursuant to § 328(c) the Court has the discretion to impose a penalty against LTFL by denying LTFL's application for compensation, in whole or in part. See In re Howell, 148 B.R. at 270.

Based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Motion. The UST's Opposition is overruled. The Court finds that LTFL meets the standards for professional employment under § 327, and the Debtor is authorized to employ LTFL as the Debtor's general bankruptcy counsel. LTFL's compensation and reimbursement of costs shall be pursuant to § 330.

The Debtor shall lodge a confirming order within seven (7) days of the hearing.

Docket 26

Tentative Ruling:

1/2/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Court GRANTS the Employment Application in its entirety.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Application to Employ Sanford L. Frey as Chapter 11 Counsel and Leech Tishman Fuscaldo & Lamp, Inc. (the "Employment Application") [Doc. No. 26]
 - a) Declaration of Sanford L. Frey
- 2) Opposition of the United States Trustee to the Employment Application (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 28]

 - a) Supplemental Declaration of Sanford L. Frey Filed in Reply to Opposition (the "Supplemental Frey Declaration") [Doc. No. 34]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Rideshare Port Management, Inc. (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on October 23, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On November 28, 2017, the Debtor filed the "Application to Employ Sanford L. Frey as Chapter 11 Counsel and Leech Tishman Fuscaldo & Lamp, Inc." (the "Employment Application") [Doc. No. 26]. On December 4, 2017, the United States Trustee ("UST") filed the Opposition to the Employment Application (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 28].

The Debtor expects various legal issues to arise in the administration of the Debtor's bankruptcy that will require the services of experienced counsel. Thus, the Employment Application requests authorization for the Debtor to employ Leech, Tishman, Fuscaldo & Lamp, Inc. ("LTFL") as its Chapter 11 counsel at the expense of the Estate. The Debtor seeks to have LTFL's employment deemed effective as of the Petition Date. The Debtor believes that LTFL, including Sanford L. Frey ("Mr. Frey"), are well-qualified to represent the Debtor. The Debtor expects LTFL to perform the following professional services:

- (1) Advise the Debtor on all requirements of Bankruptcy, including the requirements of the United States Trustee, as they pertain to the Debtor;
- (2) Advise the Debtor with regard to its rights and remedies in bankruptcy;
- (3) Assist the Debtor with transactions disposing of Property of the Estate;

LTFL provided pre-petition legal services to the Debtor in the amount of $44,965.35. LTFL drew down the amount of $36,566.00 from the pre-petition retainer, and additionally used the amount of $1,717.00 for the filing fees in this case. The Opposition

The UST objects to the Employment Application on the grounds that LTFL is not disinterested, and there is an actual conflict of interest based upon its dual representation of the Debtor, Red Booth, and Prime Time. Chapter 11

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Section 327(a) sets for the qualification standards for professionals who are employed in a bankruptcy case. Section 327(a) provides:

[T]he trustee, with the court's approval, may employ one or more attorneys, accountants, appraisers, auctioneers, or other professional persons, that do not hold or represent an interest adverse to the estate, and that are disinterested persons, to represent or assist the trustee in carrying out the trustee's duties under this title.

In enacting § 327(a), Congress intended "to hold professionals performing duties for the estate to strict fiduciary standards," In re Wheatfield Business Park LLC, 286 B.R. 412, 417 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2002) (quoting In re Envirodyne Indus., Inc., 150 B.R. 1008, 1016 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1993)), in order to ensure that "a professional employed in the case will devote undivided loyalty to the client," id. at 417–18. Because the Chapter 11 debtor-in-possession has "the rights . . . and powers, and shall perform all the functions and duties . . . of a trustee . . .," 11 U.S.C. § 1107(a), § 327 applies to professionals employed by a Chapter 11 debtor-in-possession. See In re Wheatfield Business Park LLC, 286 B.R. at 418. Under § 327(a), a debtor-in-possession may employ the services of an attorney "so long as the chosen attorney (1) neither holds nor represents an interest adverse to the bankruptcy estate, and (2) qualifies as a disinterested person." In re Howell, 148 B.R. 269, 270 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 1992). "These two criteria significantly overlap because 'disinterested person,' as defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(14)(E), includes a person who does not have an interest materially adverse to the estate." Id. In the event the attorney, at any time during his or her employment under § 327(a), ceases to be a "disinterested person," pursuant to § 328 (c) the bankruptcy court has the discretion to impose a penalty against the attorney by denying his or her application for compensation, in whole or in part. See In re Howell, 148 B.R. at 270.

In addition to § 327(a), Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 2014, which sets forth the application procedure for the employment of professionals, requires an application to disclose, "to the best of the applicant's knowledge, all of the person's connections with the debtor, creditor, any other party in interest, their respective attorneys and accountants, the United States trustee, or any person employed in the office of the United States trustee." Fed. R. Bankr. P. 2014. Rule 2014 further requires the application to be supplemented by a verified statement of the professional that makes these disclosures. Id. An actual conflict of interest creates a violation of § 327(a), whereas a potential conflict of interest may require disqualification of a professional if, "in the judgment of the court, the conflict is sufficiently important and there is a sufficient likelihood that it will ripen into an actual conflict." In re Wheatfield Business Park LLC, 286 B.R. at 421.

Generally, conflicts of interest law distinguishes between actual conflicts and potential conflicts; however, there is no clear formulation of this distinction. Under the ABA Model Rules of Professional Conduct ("ABA Model Rules"), for example, an actual conflict is one that is "directly adverse" to another client or that materially limits the representation of another client. See ABA Model Rules R. 1.7. Potential conflicts vary and, depending on the circumstances, may or may not ripen into actual conflicts. While there is general agreement that an actual conflict requires denial of a professional application, see In re Howell, 148 B.R. at 270, there is less agreement with regards to potential conflicts, id. On the issue of dual representation, the Fifth Circuit, for example, has held that the question is whether the dual representation creates "a legally disabling" conflict of interest. See In re Consolidated Bancshares, 785 F.2d 1249, 1256 (5th Cir. 1986). Similarly, the Third Circuit has emphasized the flexibility and discretion that rests in the bankruptcy court, and adopted a "totality of the circumstances" approach to §§ 327 and 328, rather than a broad rule disqualifying attorneys from undertaking dual representation of related bankruptcy estates. See In re BH & P, Inc., 949 F.2d 1300, 1315–17 (3d Cir. 1991). Such a case-by-case approach has proven particularly important where dual representation of Chapter 11 debtors is the only reasonable approach due to the "economic realities of the situation," and the "unity of interest" between the debtors. See In re Howell, 148 B.R. at 272 (citing In re Roberts, 75 B.R. 402, 406–409 (D. Utah 1987)); see also In re Huddleston, 120 B.R. 399, 403 (Bankr. E.D. Tex. 1990) (holding that an attorney could undertake the dual representation where there was a close relationship between the two debtors and no actual conflict existed).

Here, the Court finds that there is no actual conflict that would disqualify LTFL from being employed by the Debtor, and that any potential conflicts—which it is questionable if there are any given the unity of interests of the parties—at this point in the case, are not sufficient so as to disqualify LTFL from representing the Debtor. The application contains the requisite disclosures regarding LTFL's connections with the Debtor. Based on these disclosures, and as pointed out in the Opposition of the UST, any actual or potential conflicts arise, or would arise from LTFL's (1) concurrent representation of both the Debtor and Red Booth in the respective bankruptcy cases, and (2) LTFL's pre-petition representation of the Debtor, Red Booth, and Prime Time in the various state court proceedings. These representations are not, in themselves, disqualifying. Furthermore, as set forth in the Reply, any appearances made by LTFL or Mr. Frey in the state court proceedings were on behalf of Rideshare, and were very limited in scope. See Supplemental Frey Declaration at 3, ¶¶ 6–8. This is not a case where there is a creditor relationship between the parties. Cf. In re Woodcraft Studios, Inc., 464 B.R. 1, 15 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2011) (employed professional was not "disinterested" where the professional was a pre-petition creditor); In re Wheatfield Business Park LLC, 286 B.R. at 422 (the "main potential conflict" arose from a single secured creditor's first position for each debtor, with each loan cross-collateralized by a second mortgage on property belonging to each of the other debtors). Rather, this case presents a situation more analogous to In re Howell, 148 B.R. at 272, or In re Huddleston, 120 B.R. at 403, where the interests of the Debtor, Red Booth, and Prime Time are sufficiently aligned such that there is a "unity of interest" between the parties. Additionally, as in In re Howell, given the "economic realities of the situation," absent an actual conflict, it would be unreasonable to require the Debtor and Red Booth to employ independent counsel. Such a requirement, at this point in the case, could jeopardize both the Debtor's and Red Booth's ability to reorganize. It is equally important to note, however, that in the event LTFL ceases to be disinterested, pursuant to § 328(c) the Court has the discretion to impose a penalty against LTFL by denying LTFL's application for compensation, in whole or in part. See In re Howell, 148 B.R. at 270.

Based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Motion. The UST's Opposition is overruled. The Court finds that LTFL meets the standards for professional employment under § 327, and the Debtor is authorized to employ LTFL as the Debtor's general bankruptcy counsel. LTFL's compensation and reimbursement of costs shall be pursuant to § 330.

The Debtor shall lodge a confirming order within seven (7) days of the hearing.

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to repossess or otherwise obtain possession and dispose of its collateral pursuant to applicable law, and to use the proceeds from its disposition to satisfy its claim. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501. The Court finds that there is no equity in the subject vehicle and that the vehicle is not necessary for an effective reorganization since this is a chapter 7 case.

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. All other relief is denied.

Docket 4

Tentative Ruling:

1/4/2018

Tentative Ruling:

For the reasons set forth below, this hearing is CONTINUED to February 12, 2018 at 10:00 a.m. No appearances are required. 8590 Sunset A-FS, LLC dba Cafe Primo (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on November 22, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On December 1, 2017 KR SUNSET WEHO, LLC (the "Movant") filed the "Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay or for Order Confirming that the Automatic Stay Does Not Apply under 11 U.S.C. § 362(l) (UNLAWFUL DETAINER)" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 11]. The Motion states that an unlawful detainer proceeding was commenced on November 8, 2017, and that the Debtor's right to possession should be terminated because lease payments have not been made after the filing of the Petition. The Debtor filed the Opposition to the Motion on December 18, 2017 (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 23]. The Opposition states that the Debtor intends to convert the case to Chapter 7. Therefore, the Debtor requests that the Court continue the hearing on the Motion thirty (30) days to allow for the Court to appoint a Chapter 7 trustee and allow for the trustee to review the Motion and take a position thereon.

On December 19, 2017 the United States Trustee filed the "Stipulation by United States Trustee and Debtor to Convert Case to Chapter 7" (the "Stipulation") [Doc. No. 24]. On December 20, 2017 the Court entered the Order Approving the Stipulation [Doc. No. 26], and on December 28, 2017 Rosendo Gonzalez (the "Trustee") filed the "Notice of Appointment and Acceptance of Trustee" [Doc. No. 28]. The Trustee needs an opportunity to 32 Cold LLC (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on November 9, 2016 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On December 12, 2017, Red Chamber Co. (the "Movant") filed the "Amended Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay Under 11 U.S.C. § 362 (Action in Nonbankruptcy Forum)" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 138].

The Motion

The Motion seeks stay-relief pursuant to § 362(d)(1), so that the Movant may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to proceed to final judgment in the nonbankruptcy forum in an action against the Debtor in the Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles, captioned Red Chamber Co. v. 32 Cold LLC, Case No. BC614485 (the "State Court Action"). The State Court Action asserts claims for: conversion; trespass to chattels; warehouseman liability; breach of implied bailment contract; intentional interference with prospective economic relations; and negligent interference with prospective economic relations.

The Movant contends that cause exists to grant stay-relief under §362(d)(1) for the following reasons:

- (1) Mandatory abstention applies under 28 U.S.C. § 1334(c)(2), and Movant agrees that the stay will remain in effect as to enforcement of any resulting judgment against the Debtor or bankruptcy estate, except that Movant will retain the right to file a proof of claim under 11 U.S.C. § 501 and/or adversary complaint under 11 U.S.C. § 523 or § 727 in this bankruptcy case.
- (2) The claims in the State Court Action arise under nonbankruptcy law and can be most expeditiously resolved in the nonbankruptcy forum.

The Opposition

The Debtor filed the Opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 144] on December 25, 2017. The Opposition argues that the Movant is not entitled to relief from stay to proceed with the nonbankruptcy action because the Movant does not possess a colorable claim to property of the estate. Opposition at 10. The Opposition also argues that the "best interest factors" weigh heavily against granting the relief sought. Id. at 12. Lastly, the Opposition argues that the Movant misrepresents that it is a creditor of the Estate. Id. at 16.

Chapter 11

The Movant filed the Reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [Doc. No. 145] on December 29, 2017. The Reply contends that the Opposition attempts to disprove the core factual allegations of the Movant's claims in the nonbankruptcy action against the Debtor, which is improper in the context of relief from stay proceedings. Reply at 2. The Reply argues that the Movant has a colorable claim against the Debtor, and that the Opposition is the first instance where the Debtor has argued that the Movant does not have a claim. Id. at 3–4.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

As a preliminary matter, a motion for relief from the automatic stay is a summary proceeding that does not involve an adjudication of the merits of the underlying claims. As recognized by the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel in In re Luz Int'l, Ltd.:

Given the limited grounds for obtaining a motion for relief from stay, read in conjunction with the expedited schedule for a hearing on the motion, most courts hold that motion for relief from stay hearings should not involve an adjudication of the merits of claims, defenses, or counterclaims, but simply determine whether the creditor has a colorable claim to the property of the estate. See In re Johnson, 756 F.2d 738, 740 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 474 U.S. 828, 106 S.Ct. 88, 88 L.Ed.2d 72 (1985) ("Hearings on relief from the automatic stay are thus handled in a summary fashion. The validity of the claim or contract underlying the claim is not litigated during the hearing.").

The automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. § 362(a) stays all action involving the following, in pertinent part:

- (1) the commencement or continuation, including the issuance or employment of process of a judicial, administrative, or other action or proceeding against the debtor that was or could have been commenced before the commencement of the case under this title, or to recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title;

- (6) any act to collect, assess, or recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title.

11 U.S.C. §§ 362(a)(1), (a)(6).

Section 362(d)(1) permits a bankruptcy court to grant relief from the automatic stay upon a showing of "cause." Cause is a flexible concept and courts often conduct a fact intensive, case-by-case balancing test, examining the totality of the circumstances to determine whether sufficient cause exists to lift the stay. In re SCO Grp., Inc., 395 B.R. 852, 856 (Bankr. D. Del. 2007) (citing Baldino v. Wilson (In re Wilson), 116 F.3d 87, 90 (3d Cir. 1997); In re Laguna Assocs. Ltd., 30 F.3d 734, 737 (7th Cir. 1994)); In re MacDonald, 755 F.2d 715, 717 (9th Cir. 1985). "Among factors appropriate to consider in determining whether relief from the automatic stay should be granted to allow state court proceedings to continue are considerations of judicial economy and the expertise of the state court." In re Kronemyer, 405 B.R. 915, 921 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2009) (citing In re MacDonald, 755 F.2d 715, 717 (9th Cir. 1985)).

Here, the causes of actions in the state court complaint attached to the Motion involve state law violations and are within the expertise of the state court. Allowing Movant to continue the intended state court complaint will best promote the judicial economy by adjudicating a final judgment as to the underlying claims that may either support or negate the filing of a proof of claim and/or an adversary complaint.

The Opposition is overruled. The Opposition attempts to litigate the facts at issue in the nonbankruptcy action, i.e. whether the Debtor or some other party is liable to the Movant for the Movant's claims related to the alleged loss of inventory. However, "relief from stay hearings should not involve an adjudication of the merits of claims, defenses, or counterclaims, but simply determine whether the creditor has a colorable claim to the property of the estate." In re Luz Int'l, Ltd., 219 B.R. at 842. The Court finds that the Movant has sustained its burden to show that it has a "colorable claim" to property of the Estate. The Opposition further attempts to argue that the Movant is not a creditor of the Debtor. However, that issue depends on the resolution in of the issues being litigated in the nonbankruptcy action. The nonbankruptcy forum is the appropriate forum to resolve these issues.

Chapter 11

Based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Motion pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) to permit the Movant to proceed under applicable non-bankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to proceed to final judgment in the non-bankruptcy forum, provided that the stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against the Debtor or estate property. The Debtor's Opposition is overruled. The Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim or any other claim against the Debtor or property of the estate, except that the Movant will retain the right to file a proof of claim and/or an adversary complaint under §§523 or 727. This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. All other relief is denied.

Evidentiary Objections

The Movant filed the "Objections by Movant Red Chamber Co. to Declaration and Exhibits Submitted in Support of the Opposition" (the "Movant's Objections") [Doc. No. 146] on December 29, 2017. The Movant objects to evidence submitted in support of the opposition on a number of grounds, including privileged settlement communications. However, "[b]ecause the Court does not rely on the statements in this declaration, it is not necessary for the Court to rule on these objections." *Operating Engineers' Pension Trust Fund v. Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to repossess or otherwise obtain possession and dispose of its collateral pursuant to applicable law, and to use the proceeds from its disposition to satisfy its claim. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501. The Court finds that there is no equity in the subject vehicle and that the vehicle is not necessary for an effective reorganization since this is a chapter 7 case.

Docket 7

Tentative Ruling:

1/4/2018

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set on a shortened notice in accordance with Judge Robles' procedures. Oppositions, if any, will be considered at the hearing.

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1). The stay is terminated as to the Debtor and the Debtor's bankruptcy estate with respect to the Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns. Movant may enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property in accordance with applicable law, but may not pursue a deficiency claim against the debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501.

The Movant cause a notice to quit to be served upon the Debtor on October 10, 2017. The Movant filed an unlawful detainer action on October 18, 2017.

This Motion has been filed to allow the Movant to proceed with the unlawful detainer proceeding in state court. The unlawful detainer proceeding may go forward because the Debtor's right to possess the premises must be determined. This does not change simply because a bankruptcy petition was filed. See In re Butler, 271 B.R. 867, 876 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2002).

Chapter 11

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Jane Winters seeks stay-relief as to Gardens Regional Hospital and Medical Center, Inc. (the "Debtor") pursuant to §362(d)(1), for the purpose of prosecuting a qui tam action pending against the Debtor in the United States District Court for the Central District of California (the "Qui Tam Action").

The Qui Tam Action

Ms. Winters commenced the Qui Tam Action on November 14, 2014, naming as defendants the Debtor, RollinsNelson LTC Corp. ("RollinsNelson LTC"), Vicki Rollins and Bill Nelson (officers of RollinsNelson LTC), S&W Health Management Services, Inc. ("S&W"), and Beryl Weiner (a partial owner of S&W). [Note 1] Ms. Winters worked as the Director of Care Management at the Debtor's Emergency Room from August 11, 2014 until she was terminated on November 6, 2014. Ms. Winters alleges that the Debtor, during the time it was managed by Sycamore Healthcare Services LLC ("Sycamore"), sought Medicare reimbursement for rendering medically unnecessary services, thereby defrauding the United States in violation of the False Claims Act. She further alleges that the Debtor terminated her employment in retaliation for her attempts to stop the Debtor's alleged violations of the False Claims Act.

On March 16, 2017, the United States elected not to intervene in the Qui Tam Action, and all papers pertaining to the action were unsealed. On December 29, 2017, the District Court dismissed with prejudice all of Ms. Winter's claims against S&W, Beryl Weiner, RollinsNelson LTC, Vicki Rollins, and Bill Nelson. The District Court did not dismiss Ms. Winter's retaliation claim against the Debtor. Ms. Winters intends to appeal the District Court's ruling.

Papers Filed in Connection with Ms. Winter's Stay-Relief Motion

The Debtor opposes Ms. Winter's motion for stay-relief for the following reasons:

- 1) Ms. Winters has not agreed to limit her recovery to the Debtor's applicable insurance and is not waiving any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate. The Debtor believes that there will be funds available to make a small distribution to general unsecured creditors. However, the costs of defending against Ms. Winter's allegations in the District Court could jeopardize any recovery that unsecured creditors might otherwise receive. The Debtor is currently investigating whether - insurance coverage exists to defend against Ms. Winter's claims. Short of insurance coverage, the Debtor has no ability to defend against the claims.

Chapter 11

- 2) If stay-relief were granted, Ms. Winters would likely seek discovery from the Debtor relating to claims against other parties. The Debtor has little staff left and a limited ability to respond to such discovery; the costs of responding would only add additional administrative expenses with no benefit to the estate.
 - 3) The Debtor has no objection to stay-relief, provided that Ms. Winters agrees to seek recovery only from applicable insurance and agrees to waive any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate.

The Debtor filed a Sur-Reply on January 4, 2018. The Debtor states that the filing of the Sur-Reply was necessary given the significant effect of the District Court's December 29, 2017 dismissal of all claims in the Qui Tam Action other than the retaliation claim against the Debtor. According to the Debtor, the Qui Tam Action can be resolved more expeditiously by way of a claim objection now that only the retaliation claim remains. The Debtor states that it is prepared to file a claim objection within one week of the January 8th hearing on the lift-stay motion. The Debtor states that if the retaliation claim is litigated in the District Court, it will be required to retain litigation counsel.

Prior to the District Court's dismissal of the claims against them, Vicki Nelson, Bill Nelson, RollinsNelson LTC, and RollinsNelson Grp, LLC ("RNG") [Note 2] (collectively, the "RNG Parties") filed an opposition to the lift-stay motion. The RNG Parties make many of the same arguments as the Debtor. The RNG Parties further assert that stay-relief should be denied because in the event stay-relief is granted, they will likely be burdened with substantial discovery requests in the Qui Tam Action.

The Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the "Committee") requests that the hearing on the stay-relief motion be continued until shortly after the Court's determination of the Committee's "Motion for (I) Leave, Standing and Authority to Commence and Prosecute Certain Claims and Causes of Action on Behalf of Debtor's Estate and (II) Settlement Authority" (the "Standing Motion") [Doc. No. 1039]. On December 29, 2017, the Court set a briefing schedule on the Standing Motion and a related motion for approval of a compromise (the "Compromise Motion"). Pursuant to the Court's order, the Standing Motion and Compromise Motion will stand submitted as of February 28, 2018.

According to the Committee, a continuance of the stay-relief motion is appropriate for the following reasons:

Chapter 11

- 1) The estate has a right of indemnification against Sycamore and its principals, agents, and affiliates (which include S&W and Mr. Weiner) with respect to Ms. Winter's retaliation claim. The Debtor has not taken any actions to enforce the estate's indemnification rights. If the Standing Motion is granted, the Committee is the appropriate party to assert the estate's indemnification rights and to address Ms. Winter's claims against the estate.
- 2) Trial in Ms. Winter's action is scheduled for November 27, 2018. The discovery cutoff is September 4, 2018. Therefore, a short continuance of the lift-stay motion will not prejudice any party in the Qui Tam Action.

In her reply papers in support of the lift-stay motion, Ms. Winters asserts that she should not be required to limit any recovery against the Debtor to applicable insurance. Ms. Winters states that she has no objection to the Committee's request that her lift-stay motion be decided in conjunction with the Committee's Standing Motion.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Although the Local Bankruptcy Rules do not provide for the filing of sur-replies in contested matters, the Court finds it appropriate to consider the Debtor's Sur-Reply in view of the substantial effect that the District Court's recent ruling in the Qui Tam Action has on the lift-stay motion.

The Court declines the Committee's request to defer ruling upon the lift-stay motion until the Standing Motion has been adjudicated. Unless and until the Court determines that the Committee should be granted derivative standing to pursue certain claims of the estate, the Debtor is the proper party to take any and all action with respect to such claims.

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to §362(d)(1), to permit Ms. Winters to continue to adjudicate her retaliation claim against the Debtor in the District Court. First, the interests of judicial efficiency are best served by adjudication of Ms. Winter's claims in the District Court. The District Court is already intimately familiar with the Qui Tam Action, having recently issued an eleven-page Memorandum of Decision dismissing with prejudice many of Ms. Winter's claims. In addition, the Qui Tam Action has been proceeding before the District Court since November 14, 2014.

Second, the Court is not persuaded by the Debtor's argument that adjudication of Ms. Winter's retaliation claim before the Bankruptcy Court, by way of a claim objection, would save the estate significant expense. The Debtor states that it will be required to retain litigation counsel if Ms. Winter's retaliation claim is adjudicated before the District Court. But it is not clear to the Court why litigation before the District Court will cost more than litigation before the Bankruptcy Court. In either case the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure will apply, and of course the same law will apply. In the event that adjudication of disputed issues of material fact becomes necessary, an evidentiary hearing would be required regardless of the forum.

The automatic stay remains in effect with respect to the enforcement of any judgment against the Debtor or estate property. Ms. Winters is permitted to enforce any final judgment only by collecting upon available insurance in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law. Ms. Winters may not pursue any deficiency claim or any other claim against the Debtor or property of the estate, except that Ms. Winters may seek recovery in connection with her proof of claim and may seek a determination that her claim is non-dischargeable pursuant to §1141(d)(6)(A). Because this Motion was opposed, Ms. Winter's request for waiver of the 14-day stay prescribed by Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 4001(a)(3) is DENIED. Ms. Winter's request that stay-relief be binding in any future bankruptcy case, regardless of who the debtor may be, is DENIED.

Ms. Winters shall submit a conforming order, incorporating this tentative ruling by reference, within seven days of the hearing.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. Note 1

The operative Second Amended Complaint names additional defendants; however, those defendants are not relevant to the instant stay-relief motion.

Note 2

RollinsNelson LTC is one of the defendants in the Qui Tam Action but has not previously appeared in the Debtor's bankruptcy. RNG, another entity affiliated with Vicki Rollins and Bill Nelson, has been actively involved in the bankruptcy.

#1.00 HearingRE: [14] Motion to Dismiss Adversary Proceeding with proof of service

Docket 14

Tentative Ruling:

1/10/2018:

For the reasons set forth below, the Motion to Dismiss is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part. The Court finds that the Complaint fails to state a claim with respect to the allegation that the Defendants are alter egos of one another. However, the Trustee is given leave to amend. In all other respects, the Motion is DENIED.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Trustee's Complaint: (1) For Declaratory Relief; (2) In the Alternative, for Sale of Real Property Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §363(h); (3) For Turnover; (4) For Avoidance of Postpetition Transfer; (5) For Declaratory Relief and (6) For Dissolution of Limited Liability Company (the "Complaint") [Doc. No. 1]
- 2) Notice of Motion and Motion to Dismiss Adversary Complaint for Failure to State a Claim Or in the Alternative for a More Definite Statement (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 14]
- 3) Trustee's Notice of Opposition and Opposition to Defendants' Motion to Dismiss (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 16]
- 4) No Reply is on file

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Anne Lan Peterson (the "Debtor") commenced a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on December 14, 2011. On April 30, 2012, the Debtor received a discharge and the case was closed. On March 13, 2013, upon the motion of the United States Trustee (the "UST"), the Court reopened the case to permit the UST to investigate whether a complaint to revoke the Debtor's discharge was warranted, based upon the Debtor's alleged failure to report all income and assets on her schedules. Bankr. Doc. No. 27. The UST did not commence an action to revoke the Debtor's discharge, and on June 14, 2013, the case was re-closed. Bankr. Doc. No. 30.

CONT... Anne Lan Peterson

Chapter 7

In June of 2016, the Chapter 7 Trustee (the “Trustee”) was contacted by counsel for the Debtor’s former spouse, Ronald Peterson. Counsel advised the Trustee that Ronald [Note 1] intended to make an offer to purchase from the Debtor alleged community property assets of the estate that the Debtor had failed to schedule. The proposed offer exceeded $100,000. On July 7, 2016, upon the motion of the UST, the Court reopened the case to permit the administration of the undisclosed assets. Bankr. Doc. No. 34.

On October 19, 2017, the Trustee filed a Complaint against Ronald; Maitreya, LLC, a Nevada LLC; and Maitreya, LLC, an Arizona LLC (collectively, the “Defendants”). The Complaint’s allegations are as follows:

- 1) Ronald was married to the Debtor from 1997 to 2010. On September 28, 2001, the Debtor and Ronald acquired real property located at 359 W. Langston Street, Upland, California 91786 (the “Real Property”) as “husband and wife as joint tenants.”
- 2) Maitreya, LLC (“Maitreya Nevada”) is a limited liability company, organized in Nevada, that is wholly owned by Ronald and the Debtor. Maitreya, LLC (“Maitreya Arizona”) is a limited liability company, organized in Arizona, that is wholly owned by Ronald and the Debtor. Ronald, Maitreya Nevada, and Maitreya Arizona are all alter egos of each other, and the recognition of their separate existence would be inequitable and would perpetrate a fraud upon creditors.
- 3) On February 23, 2004, the Debtor and Ronald executed and recorded a Grant Deed transferring title to the Real Property to Maitreya LLC. [Note 2] On March 31, 2010, in connection with a marital dissolution proceeding commenced in the San Bernardino Superior Court (the “Dissolution Proceeding”), the Debtor served upon Ronald a Schedule of Assets and Debts (the “Schedule”); in the Schedule, the Debtor claimed an interest in the Real Property as well as various items of personal property, including vehicles, collectible records, and the recording business Rotten Records LLC (the “Personal Property” and, together, with the Real Property, the “Property”).

Pursuant to the foregoing allegations, the Trustee seeks the following relief:

- 1) A declaration that the Property is community property of the Debtor and Ronald, and therefore property of the estate pursuant to §541(a)(2).
- 2) Sale of the Real Property pursuant to §363(h), in the event that the Real Property is not community property of the Debtor and Ronald.

- 3) Turnover of the Property.
- 4) Avoidance of the post-petition transfer of any of the Property to Maitreya Arizona.
- 5) A declaration that to the extent the Property was transferred to Maitreya Arizona post-petition, such transfer is void ab initio as a violation of the automatic stay.
- 6) Dissolution of Maitreya Nevada pursuant to Nevada Revised Statute §86.495, on the grounds that the Trustee, as the sole owner, is entitled to liquidate Maitreya Nevada.

In his Opposition to the Defendants' Motion to Dismiss, the Trustee attaches a proposed First Amended Complaint. The factual allegations of the First Amended Complaint are the same as those of the Complaint, except that the First Amended Complaint (1) withdraws the fourth claim for avoidance and recovery of postpetition transfers to Maitreya Arizona, and (2) amends the allegations regarding violation of the automatic stay.

Defendants' Motion to Dismiss

Defendants move to dismiss the Complaint for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, pursuant to Civil Rule 12(b)(6). In the alternative, Defendants seek a more definite statement pursuant to Civil Rule 12(e). Defendants make the following arguments in support of the Motion:

- 1) The Complaint fails to identify the Personal Property with sufficient specificity. The Complaint identifies the Personal Property as "the Debtor's community property interest in a number of vehicles, collectible records, and the recording business Rotten Records, LLC." Complaint at ¶13. The Complaint does not identify the make, model number, or year of the vehicles, and does not define what constitutes "collectible records." Absent clarification, Defendants will be subjected to burdensome discovery to determine what property is and is not at issue. As a result of this lack of specificity, all allegations pertaining to the Personal Property fail to state a claim. In the event the Court does not dismiss such allegations, the Trustee should be ordered to provide a more definite statement of what Personal Property is at issue.
- 2) The Complaint alleges that the Debtor and Ronald transferred the Real Property to Maitreya LLC on February 23, 2004. This allegation amounts to a judicial admission that as of February 23, 2004, the Real Property was transmuted into the property of Maitreya LLC, and was no longer community property. Thus, as of the date of the petition, the Real Property was not community property. Accordingly, the claims for turnover and a declaration that the Real Property is community property fail to state a claim.

- 3) The Complaint seeks to dissolve Maitreya Nevada, pursuant to Nevada Revised Statute §86.495, which provides: "Upon application by or for a member, the district court may decree dissolution of a limited liability company whenever it is not reasonably practicable to carry on the business of the company in conformity with the articles of organization or operating agreement." Because the Trustee has failed to allege facts showing that it is not reasonably practicable for the business of Maitreya Nevada to continue, the claim for dissolution fails.
- 4) The Complaint alleges that Ronald, Maitreya Nevada, and Maitreya Arizona are alter egos of each other, but fails to allege specific facts substantiating this allegation. The alter ego allegations are threadbare recitals of the elements of the cause of action which fail to state a claim. More significantly, under California law, the alter ego doctrine may be invoked to enable a plaintiff to impose corporate liability upon the corporation's principals, but may not be invoked to make the corporation's assets liable for the debts of the individual shareholders, as the Trustee attempts to do here. See Postal Instant Press, Inc. v. Kaswa Corp., 162 Cal. App. 4th 1510, 1512 (Cal. Ct. App. 2008) ("a third party creditor may not pierce the corporate veil to reach corporate assets to satisfy a shareholder's personal liability").

The Trustee's Opposition to the Motion to Dismiss

The Trustee makes the following arguments in Opposition to the Motion to Dismiss:

- 1) The Complaint sufficiently defines the Personal Property at issue. "Personal Property" is defined as various items of personal property listed on the Schedule that the Debtor filed in the Dissolution Proceeding. This puts Ronald on notice as to what property is at issue. Further, having previously been married to the Debtor, Ronald has knowledge of the property that he and his former spouse owned. Thus, there is no merit to Ronald's contention that the Complaint, as pleaded, will subject Ronald to burdensome discovery to ascertain what property is at issue.
- 2) There is no merit to the argument that the Trustee has admitted that the Real Property is no longer community property. Defendants' argument is based on the premise that transfer of the Real Property to a limited liability company effected a transmutation from community property to separate property. That premise is incorrect, as more than mere transfer of title is required to transmute property from community property to separate property.

- 3) The Trustee's claim for dissolution of Maitreya Nevada is properly pleaded. Defendants contend that the Trustee has not established adequate grounds for dissolution under Nevada law. However, it is not clear that any of the Defendants even have standing to assert that claim. The entire interest in Maitreya Nevada is community property and therefore property of the estate. Accordingly, the Trustee is the only party with the right to liquidate Maitreya Nevada. Defendants argue that the Complaint does not plead facts sufficient to support a finding that it is not reasonably practicable for the business of Maitreya Nevada to continue. The facts alleged show that it is not reasonably practicable to carry on Maitreya Nevada's business, because the LLC was created by a married couple to hold title to their community property, and the marriage is in the process of dissolution. It follows that the LLC no longer has its business purpose.
- 4) The alter ego allegations should not be dismissed. The Complaint alleges that Ronald and the Debtor created Maitreya Nevada and purportedly transferred title to the Real Property to that entity. These allegations show that the LLCs are mere extensions of Ronald, and that abiding by their formal existence would serve only to defraud creditors of the Debtor's estate and the Debtor herself.

II. Findings and Conclusions

"To survive a motion to dismiss, a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.' A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (internal citations omitted). To state a plausible claim for relief, a complaint must satisfy two working principles:

First, the tenet that a court must accept as true all of the allegations contained in a complaint is inapplicable to legal conclusions. Threadbare recitations of the elements of a cause of action, supported by mere conclusory statements, do not suffice.... Second, only a complaint that states a plausible claim for relief survives a motion to dismiss. Determining whether a complaint states a plausible claim for relief will ... be a context-specific task that requires the reviewing court to draw on its judicial experience and common sense. But where the well-pleaded facts do not permit the court to infer more than the mere possibility of misconduct, the complaint has alleged—but it has not "show[n]"—"that the pleader is entitled to relief."

Id. (citing Civil Rule 8(a)(2)).

Although the pleading standard Civil Rule 8 announces "does not require 'detailed factual allegations,' ... it demands more than an unadorned, the-defendant-unlawfully-harmed-me accusation.... A pleading that offers 'labels and conclusions' or a 'formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do.' Nor does a complaint suffice if it tenders 'naked assertion[s]' devoid of 'further factual enhancement.'" Id. (citing Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007)).

As set forth below, the Court finds that the majority of the Complaint's allegations state a claim upon which relief can be granted. However, the Complaint's alter ego claims do not contain sufficient allegations of fact to state a claim. The Court grants the Trustee leave to amend. Because the Motion to Dismiss was directed to the original Complaint, rather than the proposed First Amended Complaint attached to the Trustee's Opposition, this ruling is directed toward the original Complaint, not the proposed First Amended Complaint.

The Complaint Identifies the Property That is at Issue with Sufficient Specificity

There is no merit to Defendants' contention that the Complaint fails to state a claim because it does not sufficiently define the property that is at issue. The Complaint defines "Personal Property" as the various items of personal property listed on the Schedule that the Debtor filed in the Dissolution Proceeding. That definition is sufficient to put the Defendants on notice as to the property that is at issue. Because the Complaint references the Schedule which identifies the Personal Property, the Trustee is not required to specify the make and model of the vehicles. Defendants' request for dismissal based on lack of specificity, as well as Defendants' request for a more definite statement pursuant to Civil Rule 12(e), are both denied.

The Trustee Has Not Admitted that the Real Property is Not Community Property

Contrary to Defendants' contention, the Complaint does not contain any judicial admission that the Real Property is not community property. Defendants' theory is that the allegation that the Real Property was transferred to Maitreya LLC on February 23, 2004 is equivalent to an admission that as of February 23, 2004, the Real Property was no longer community property. Defendants are mistaken.

Defendants' argument is based upon the false premise that the transfer of community property to a limited liability company transmutes the property from community property to separate property. Under California law, property acquired during marriage is presumed to be community property, and a claim that such property is not community property must be proven by a preponderance of the evidence. Valli v. Valli (In re Marriage of Valli), 58 Cal. 4th 1396, 1400, 324 P.3d 274, 276 (2014). The Complaint alleges that the Real Property was acquired while the Debtor and Ronald were married. This allegation is sufficient to invoke the community property presumption. The allegation that Defendants purported to transfer the Real Property to Maitreya LLC does not contradict the allegation that the Real Property remains community property, as the mere transfer of title does not necessarily transmute community property to separate property.

The Claim for Dissolution of Maitreya Nevada is Properly Pleaded

The Court rejects Defendants' contention that the Trustee has failed to allege sufficient facts to show that he is entitled to dissolved Maitreya Nevada pursuant to Nevada Revised Statute ("NRS") §86.495. NRS §86.495 provides in relevant part:

Upon application by or for a member, the district court may decree dissolution of a limited-liability company whenever it is not reasonably practicable to carry on the business of the company in conformity with the articles of organization or operating agreement.

The parties have not cited, and the Court has been unable to locate, any decisions—whether reported or unreported—applying NRS §86.495. Applying the plain language of the statute, the Court finds that the Trustee has alleged facts sufficient to show that he is entitled to dissolution. The Trustee alleges that Maitreya Nevada is wholly owned by the Debtor and Ronald, and that the Debtor and Ronald's membership interests in Maitreya Nevada are community property and therefore property of the estate. The Trustee alleges that as the sole owner of Maitreya Nevada, he desires to liquidate the entity.

Pursuant to §704(a)(1), the Trustee has a statutory obligation to "collect and reduce the money and property of the estate for which such trustee serves, and close such estate as expeditiously as possible with the best interests of parties in interest." Having alleged that he is the sole owner of Maitreya Nevada, it follows that the Trustee has alleged facts sufficient to establish that continuation of Maitreya Nevada's business is no longer reasonable practicable. This is particularly so given that continuation of the business conflicts with the Trustee's statutory obligation to liquidate the estate's assets as expeditiously as possible.

Defendants' Arguments With Respect to Equitable Tolling Are Not Relevant

Defendants assert that there is no basis upon which the Trustee can assert that the statute of limitations has been equitably tolled. The only instance in which the Complaint allegedly violates the statute of limitations is with respect to the claim for avoidance of a post-petition transfer. Since the Trustee has agreed to withdraw this claim, Defendants' arguments with respect to equitable tolling are not relevant.

The Alter Ego Allegations Fail to State a Claim, But the Trustee is Given Leave to Amend

The Court finds that the Trustee has failed to allege sufficient facts showing that he is entitled to relief on the grounds that the Defendants are alter egos of each other. The Trustee alleges the elements of the alter ego cause of action, but does not allege facts showing how the elements necessary to sustain an alter ego claim have been satisfied. For example, the Trustee alleges no facts demonstrating that Defendants disregarded corporate formalities or that Defendants commingled assets. Accordingly, the Complaint fails to state a claim that the Defendants are alter egos of one another. However, the Trustee is given leave to amend. A First Amended Complaint must be filed by no later than January 25, 2018. (The Court notes that the Trustee has attached a proposed First Amended Complaint to the Opposition. Since the proposed First Amended Complaint has not been filed, the Court will designate the amended Complaint that the Trustee has been given leave to file as the First Amended Complaint.) A response to that complaint will be due on or before February 16, 2018.

There is no merit to Defendants' contention that the Complaint is doomed to fail on the grounds that the Trustee cannot rely upon an alter ego theory to hold the assets of Maitreya Nevada and Maitreya Arizona liable for Ronald's debts. Defendants are correct that under California law, the corporate veil may not be pierced in this manner to reach the assets of a corporation. See Postal Instant Press, Inc. v. Kaswa Corp., 162 Cal. App. 4th 1510, 1512 (Cal. Ct. App. 2008) ("a third party creditor may not pierce the corporate veil to reach corporate assets to satisfy a shareholder's personal liability"). However, California courts have permitted this type of veil piercing to occur with respect to limited liability companies. As one court explained:

Postal Instant Press does not preclude application of outside reverse veil piercing in this case for several reasons. To begin with, Curci seeks to disregard the separate status of an LLC, not a corporation. The court's decision Postal Instant Press was expressly limited to corporations. In addition, the different facts before us, as well as the nature of LLC's, do not present the concerns identified in Postal Instant Press.

Baldwin, the judgment debtor, holds a 99 percent interest in JPBI. His wife holds the remaining one percent interest, but she is also liable for the debt owed to Curci.... There simply is no “innocent” member of JPBI that could be affected by reverse piercing here. (Compare Postal Instant Press, supra, 162 Cal.App.4th at p. 1520, 77 Cal.Rptr.3d 96 [“ ‘[T]o the extent that the corporation has other non-culpable shareholders, they obviously will be prejudiced if the corporation's assets can be attached directly.’ ”].)

Curci Investments, LLC v. Baldwin, 14 Cal. App. 5th 214, 222–23, 221 Cal. Rptr. 3d 847, 852 (Ct. App. 2017).

As was the case in Curci, the present case does not implicate the danger that innocent parties will be affected by the veil piercing the Trustee seeks to accomplish, given that the Defendant LLCs in this action are wholly owned by Ronald and the Debtor.

In view of this ruling, the Status Conference set for January 16, 2018, is vacated. Upon the filing of the First Amended Complaint, the Court will issue a Scheduling Order that will set forth new dates that will govern this action.

III. Conclusion

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion to Dismiss is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part. The Court finds that the Complaint fails to state a claim with respect to the allegation that the Defendants are alter egos of one another. However, the Trustee is given leave to amend as set forth above. In all other respects, the Motion is DENIED.

The Trustee shall submit a conforming order, incorporating this tentative ruling by reference, within seven days of the hearing.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Background

Claire Levine ("Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on April 4, 2012. On July 30, 2012, the case was converted to Chapter 7. See Doc. No. 78. Prior to the petition date, the Debtor initiated a palimony action against Gerald Goldstein, a high net worth music and entertainment executive (the "2008 Action"). The Debtor alleged that she had rescued Goldstein from financial disaster, saving his home from foreclosure and his business from bankruptcy, and had devoted her time, labor, and capital to Goldstein's music and entertainment businesses, which the parties agreed would be their joint businesses. The Debtor further alleged that Goldstein had siphoned joint assets, concealed asset transfers, and engaged in a course of conduct designed to deny the Debtor her rightful share of the assets of the joint businesses. The Debtor and Goldstein executed a settlement agreement under which the 2008 Action was dismissed without prejudice.

The Debtor and Goldstein are co-trustees of the Amadeus Trust dated January 24, 2000 (the "Amadeus Trust"). As of the commencement of the case, the Amadeus Trust held title to, among others, properties located at 1027 Napoli Drive, Pacific Palisades, CA 90272 (the "Napoli Property"), 11847 Gorham Avenue, #303, Los Angeles, CA (the "Brentwood Condo"), and 3800 Wailea Avenue, E201, Wailea, Maui (the "E201 Property"). On December 3, 2012, Goldstein filed a proof of claim (the "Goldstein Claim") in the amount of $5,571,022.62. The Goldstein Claim alleges that Debtor, as a co-trustee of the Amadeus Trust and a co-owner of properties held by the trust, is responsible for 50% of the expenses of maintaining the trust properties. The Goldstein Claim alleges that Goldstein paid all the expenses of maintaining the properties, and that the Debtor failed to pay any of the expenses for which she was responsible. Other than the Goldstein Claim, total unsecured claims amount to approximately $120,000.

After the 2008 Action was dismissed, the Debtor alleged that instead of complying with his fiduciary obligations to and his agreements with the Debtor, Goldstein undertook a course of conduct that exposed the parties' assets to substantial devaluation. The Debtor commenced a second action against Goldstein, which the Chapter 7 Trustee ("Trustee") is now prosecuting as the real party in interest; the action is entitled Howard M. Ehrenberg, Chapter 7 Trustee and Real Party in Interest for Claire Levine v. Gerald Goldstein et al. (the "Civil Complaint"). The Civil Complaint alleges that Goldstein wrongfully withdrew up to $30 million in equity from Levine and Goldstein's jointly-held properties, and seeks damages in that amount. Civil Complaint at ¶83. The Civil Complaint seeks an adjudication that Debtor holds an undivided one-half interest in all of the properties, as well as an undivided one-half interest in Goldstein's music and entertainment businesses and assets. Id. at ¶156.

On September 24, 2015, the Court approved a global settlement between the Debtor, the Trustee, Goldstein, the Amadeus Trust, and various businesses controlled by Goldstein (the "Original Settlement Agreement"). The Original Settlement Agreement was conditioned on the short sale of property owned jointly by the Debtor and Goldstein, located at 3800 Wailea Avenue, B101, Wailea, Maui (the "Wailea Property"), to HAR-Bronson ("Bronson"). Bronson was then required to resell the Wailea Property (the "Resale"). Upon the Resale, the following would occur:

- 1) Debtor would receive $1.4 million from the net proceeds of the Resale. If net sale proceeds were less than $1.4 million, Goldstein would make up the difference, such that the Debtor would receive the total sum of $1.4 million from the Resale.
- 2) Goldstein and the Debtor would cause the Amadeus Trust to quitclaim the Napoli Property and Brentwood Condo to the Debtor.
- 3) Goldstein and the Debtor would cause the Amadeus Trust to quitclaim the E201 Property to Goldstein.
- 4) Goldstein would withdraw the Goldstein Claim.
- 5) The Civil Complaint would be dismissed with prejudice.
- 6) As payment for administrative fees, the Trustee would accept funds remaining from the previous Court-approved sale of property located at 15 E. 69th St., Apt. 4D, New York, New York (the "New York Property"), in addition to $50,000 from the proceeds of the Resale.

Consummation of the Original Settlement Agreement would have resolved all outstanding disputes between the Debtor and Goldstein, and would have facilitated the dismissal of the case.

On January 19, 2017, the Court approved an amended settlement agreement (the "Amended Settlement Agreement"). The Amended Settlement Agreement largely tracks the terms of the original Settlement Agreement, but modifies provisions pertaining (1) to the short sale of the Wailea Property and (2) to the distribution of the sale proceeds upon Resale. The key changes are as follows:

- 1) Effectiveness of the Amended Settlement Agreement is contingent upon occurrence of the short sale to Bronson, rather than upon occurrence of the subsequent Resale. The parties have 180 days from the date of execution of the Amended Settlement Agreement to conclude the short sale. The deadline will be automatically extended for 90 days unless any party gives written notice of intent to cancel the Amended Settlement Agreement. Only three such automatic extensions (for a total of 270 days) may occur. Bronson shall offer the current lender no less than $4.3 million to effectuate the short sale.
- 2) Upon completion of the short sale, Bronson shall list the Wailea Property for Resale with an initial price of $8.95 million (the original Settlement Agreement did not specify a minimum listing price).
- 3) After payment of closing costs and property taxes, proceeds of the Resale shall be distributed as follows:
 - a) $5.3 million to Bronson;
 - b) $300,000 to the estate;
 - c) $1.1 million to the Debtor;
 - d) $50,000 to the Trustee on account of Trustee fees;
 - e) $150,000 to law firm Nemecek & Cole ("N&C") in partial satisfaction of attorneys' fees and costs owed by Goldstein and entities affiliated with Goldstein;
 - f) $150,000 to Bronson; and
 - g) Any remaining proceeds to be divided equally between Bronson and N&C; after N&C is paid in full, any remaining proceeds to Bronson.

Trinity Financial Services, LLC ("Trinity") asserts a secured interest against the Wailea Property. In e-mail correspondence exchanged during 2015 between Trinity and Steven Guttman (a transaction attorney working to consummate the Amended Settlement Agreement), the parties discussed the release of Trinity's recorded encumbrance against the Wailea Property in exchange for a payment of $50,000. The Debtor's position is that Trinity and the Debtor reached an agreement pursuant to which Trinity's encumbrance would be released for a payment of $50,000, and that Trinity subsequently refused to perform under the agreement. The Debtor has filed a motion seeking to enforce the alleged agreement; that motion is set for hearing on January 24, 2018. Trinity takes the position that it discussed the release of its encumbrance but that an agreement was never formalized.

During the summer of 2017, Peter Rudinskas, an unsecured creditor whose claim will be paid in full if the Amended Settlement Agreement is consummated, requested that Trinity provide information regarding its interest in the Wailea Property. Mr. Rudinskas' objective was to obtain the information informally in lieu of moving for a Rule 2004 examination. In August 2017, the discussions between Trinity and Mr. Rudinskas broke down. Specifically, on August 22, 2017, Trinity sent Mr. Rudinskas an e-mail stating: "As an unsecured creditor you don't have standing to request any of these materials. If you disagree, feel free to take the steps to request a Rule 2004 exam." In a responsive e-mail, Mr. Rudinskas asserted that he had standing because the materials were necessary to consummate the Amended Settlement Agreement, and consummation of the Amended Settlement Agreement would produce proceeds sufficient to pay Mr. Rudinskas' unsecured claim in full. Trinity replied: "Feel free to do whatever you think you need to do. My client is assessing its options."

On December 5, 2017, Mr. Rudinskas moved for an order requiring Trinity and two of its officers, Don A. Madden III and David Vo, to appear for a Rule 2004 examination (the "Rule 2004 Motion"). Having concluded from the August e-mail exchange that a conference with Trinity to arrange a mutually-agreeable examination time would be futile, Mr. Rudinskas did not make any additional attempts to meet and confer with Trinity prior to filing the motion. On December 7, 2017, the Court entered an order requiring Trinity, Mr. Madden, and Mr. Vo (collectively, the "Examinees") to submit to a Rule 2004 Examination, with such examination to take place by no later than December 31, 2017, but not prior to December 26, 2017. Doc. No. 505 (the "Rule 2004 Order"). On December 25, 2017, Examinees filed a motion seeking to vacate the Rule 2004 Order.

Trinity's Motion to Vacate the Rule 2004 Order

Trinity makes the following arguments in support of its Motion to Vacate the Rule 2004 Order:

- 1) Mr. Rudinskas does not have standing to conduct a Rule 2004 examination of Trinity, because he is an unsecured creditor with no direct interest in the Amended Settlement Agreement.
- 2) Mr. Rudinskas failed to properly meet and confer with Trinity before filing the Rule 2004 Motion. The e-mail exchange from August 2017 does not qualify as an attempt to meet and confer because it had become stale and because it did not discuss the date, time, place, and scope of the examination.

- 3) Because Mr. Rudinkas did not properly serve the Rule 2004 Motion upon Trinity, Trinity lacked the opportunity to oppose the Motion before the Court entered the Rule 2004 Order. The Proof of Service states that the Rule 2004 Motion was mailed on December 5, 2017, but the USPS tracking information indicates that the Rule 2004 Motion was not mailed until December 7, 2017.

Mr. Rudinkas' Opposition to the Motion to Vacate the Rule 2004 Order

Mr. Rudinkas makes the following arguments in Opposition to Trinity's Motion to Vacate the Rule 2004 Order:

- 1) Prior to filing the Rule 2004 Motion, multiple attempts to obtain a stipulated date for the examination were made, but Trinity refused to agree to a date based upon its contention that Mr. Rudinkas lacked standing to proceed. After negotiations broke down in August 2017, Mr. Rudinkas advised Trinity: "Given your client's reluctance to provide information by other means to allow me to evaluate your interest in property of the estate, I will be proceeding forthwith, after having diligently attempted to conduct a motion conference in the manner contemplated by local rule."
- 2) Trinity's contention that the USPS tracking information shows that the Rule 2004 Motion was not mailed on the date set forth on the Proof of Service is incorrect. The tracking information shows that the Rule 2004 Motion arrived at a regional sorting facility on December 7, 2017. Trinity confuses an "acceptance" scan (which is issued at a retail counter when an item is mailed) with an "in-transit" notation (which is issued when an item is already enroute).
- 3) The Local Bankruptcy Rules provide that an order compelling an entity to submit to a Rule 2004 Examination may be issued upon the filing and service of a motion; there is no requirement that entities be given the opportunity to oppose issuance of a Rule 2004 Order. Examinees who oppose being subjected to a Rule 2004 examination instead have the ability to seek a protective order.

The Trustee filed a joinder to Mr. Rudinkas' Opposition to the Motion to Vacate the Rule 2004 Order.

the Rule 2004 Order. Trinity's new counsel filed a statement indicating that it has not had sufficient time to prepare a substantive reply to Mr. Rudinkas' Opposition.

II. Findings and Conclusions

The Motion to Vacate fails on multiple fronts. [Note 1] First, Trinity failed to follow the proper procedure to voice its objections to the Rule 2004 examination. Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 2004-1(d) provides that "a motion for examination will be ruled on without a hearing pursuant to LBR 9013-1(p)." LBR 9013-1(p) provides, in relevant part, that motions decided thereunder "may be determined without a hearing." The LBRs do not contemplate that entities subjected to a Rule 2004 order will have an opportunity to oppose the issuance of the Rule 2004 Order. Instead, entities ordered to appear for examination may move for a protective order pursuant to LBR 2004-1(f). A motion for a protective order "must be filed and served not less than 14 days before the date of the examination, and set for hearing not less than 2 days before the scheduled examination" Here, Trinity did not move for a protective order. Instead, it waited until the day before the Rule 2004 examination had been noticed to file the Motion to Vacate.

Second, Trinity asserts that the Court erred in ordering the Rule 2004 Examination because Mr. Rudinkas failed to meet and confer with Trinity regarding the scope of the examination prior to filing the Rule 2004 Motion. Contrary to Trinity's contention, the Court finds that Mr. Rudinkas sufficiently complied with the meet and confer requirement. The e-mails submitted by Mr. Rudinkas in support of the Rule 2004 Motion show that he attempted to meet and confer with Trinity during the summer of 2017. These negotiations went nowhere, as Trinity took the position that Mr. Rudinkas had no standing to compel it to submit to an examination.

Trinity's position is that Mr. Rudinkas was required to re-initiate the meet-and-confer process prior to filing the Rule 2004 Motion in December 2017. Based upon the record before it, the Court finds that Mr. Rudinkas had reasonably concluded that any further meet-and-confer attempts with Trinity would be futile. Mr. Rudinkas' previous attempts to establish a mutually-agreeable examination date went nowhere because Trinity took the position that Mr. Rudinkas lacked standing to compel Trinity to submit to examination. Further, Mr. Rudinkas apprised Trinity of his intent to seek a Rule 2004 Order without engaging in any additional meet-and-confer activities: "Given your client's reluctance to provide information by other means to allow me to evaluate your interest in property of the estate, I will be proceeding forthwith, after having diligently attempted to conduct a motion conference in the manner contemplated by local rule."

Third, the Court finds that Mr. Rudinkas has standing to compel Trinity to submit to a Rule 2004 examination. Bankruptcy Rule 2004 provides: "On motion of any party in interest, the court may order the examination of any entity." Further, persons "who are directly and adversely affected pecuniarily" have standing to seek relief before the Bankruptcy Court. Matter of Fondiller, 707 F.2d 441, 442 (9th Cir. 1983).

Mr. Rudinkas seeks to examine Trinity in order to obtain information that will be useful in effectuating consummation of the Amended Settlement Agreement. If the Amended Settlement Agreement is successfully consummated, unsecured creditors such as Mr. Rudinkas will receive a 100% distribution upon their claims. If the Amended Settlement Agreement is not consummated, unsecured creditors will likely receive only a minimal distribution. The Amended Settlement Agreement provides for the withdrawal of the claim of Gerald Goldstein, which exceeds $5 million. The claims of all other unsecured creditors total approximately $120,000. Thus, if the Amended Settlement Agreement cannot be consummated and Mr. Goldstein's claim is allowed, the recovery to unsecured creditors—including Mr. Rudinkas—will be substantially diluted.

Trinity asserts, in a conclusory fashion, that the document production demanded in the Rule 2004 Order is overbroad and unduly cumbersome. Trinity does not specify which specific document requests are overly broad; Trinity does not even attempt to indicate which categories of production are overly broad. Trinity has waived its ability to object to the scope of document production.

On September 5, 2017, the Court entered an order advising the parties to the Amended Settlement Agreement that they would have one final opportunity to complete the short sale contemplated by the settlement. The Court has stated that if the short sale is not completed by January 24, 2018, it will proceed with the adjudication of the Debtor's objection to Gerald Goldstein's proof of claim. In view of this impending deadline, Trinity must submit to a Rule 2004 examination by no later than January 18, 2018. Mr. Rudinkas and Trinity shall meet and confer and select the exact date and time of the examination.

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion to Vacate is DENIED. The Court will enter an appropriate order.

Note 1

Mr. Rudinkas submitted evidentiary objections to the declarations submitted by Trinity in support of the Motion to Vacate. I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

This is a legal malpractice action brought by Alan Riche and Wendy Riche, two Chapter 7 Debtors, against their former bankruptcy counsel. Plaintiffs commenced a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on May 31, 2016. On January 19, 2017, the Court approved the Chapter 7 Trustee's motion to sell Plaintiffs' home. Bankr. Doc. No. 78. Applying §522(c), the Court found that the Internal Revenue Service was entitled to receive approximately $60,000 which otherwise would have been paid to Plaintiffs on account of their homestead exemption. See Ruling Granting Sale Motion [Bankr. Doc. No. 75].

Plaintiffs filed the malpractice action (the "Complaint") in the Los Angeles Superior Court on July 27, 2017, approximately one year subsequent to the filing of their Chapter 7 petition. Defendants removed the Complaint to the Bankruptcy Court on November 7, 2017. On November 27, 2017, Plaintiffs filed a statement demanding a jury trial; asserting that the Complaint was not a core proceeding and that the Bankruptcy Court lacked subject matter jurisdiction; and refusing to consent to the entry of final judgment by the Bankruptcy Court. Adv. Doc. No. 7.

In the Complaint, Plaintiffs allege that at the time they filed the petition, Defendants assured them that their home was not at risk of liquidation because there was no non-exempt equity for the Trustee to administer. Plaintiffs allege that the Defendants acted negligently in performing the equity calculation by failing to conduct a search of real property records, which would have revealed that one of the deeds of trust against their home had not been recorded, thereby leaving substantial equity in the home subject to administration. Plaintiffs further allege that Defendants negligently failed to advise them that the IRS was entitled to receive $60,000 of their homestead exemption. Plaintiffs seek damages according to proof, but in no less than $100,000, based on the loss of approximately $60,000 of their anticipated homestead exemption and the loss of their home.

Plaintiffs' malpractice claims against Defendants were not listed in their initial bankruptcy schedules. On August 16, 2017—six days subsequent to the filing of the Trustee's Final Report—Plaintiffs filed amended schedules listing their malpractice claims. Bankr. Doc. No. 99. On November 15, 2017, the Trustee filed a Final Account, certifying that the estate has been fully administered and requesting to be discharged. Bankr. Doc. No. 107.

Defendants' Motion to Dismiss

Defendants move to dismiss the Complaint, pursuant to Civil Rule 12(b)(1), on the grounds that Plaintiffs lack standing to pursue the Complaint because the malpractice claims arose prepetition, are an asset of the estate, and can only be pursued by the Trustee. Defendants make the following arguments in support of the Motion:

- 1) Plaintiffs allege that Defendants committed malpractice by advising them to commence a Chapter 7 petition. The malpractice claims arise prepetition, and are thus assets of the estate, because Plaintiffs allege that Defendants committed malpractice by advising them to seek bankruptcy protection rather than advising them to attempt to work out compromises with their unsecured creditors. In Johnson, Blakely, Pope, Bokor, Ruppel & Burns, P.A. v. Alvarez (In re Alvarez), 224 F.3d 1273, 1278 (11th Cir. 2000), the court held that claims against a law firm for filing a Chapter 7 petition instead of a Chapter 11 petition were property of the estate.

- 2) Since the malpractice claims are property of the estate, those claims may be pursued only by the Trustee, who is the real party in interest. Plaintiffs lack standing, and the case must be dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction.

Plaintiffs' Opposition to the Motion to Dismiss

Plaintiffs make the following arguments in opposition to the Motion to Dismiss:

- 1) Even if Plaintiffs' malpractice claims were property of the estate, those claims have been abandoned to Plaintiffs under §554(c). Plaintiffs filed amended schedules which listed the malpractice claims. On November 15, 2017, the Trustee filed a Final Account. No timely objections to the Final Account have been filed. All scheduled assets have been administered and any interest the estate may have had in the malpractice claims have been abandoned to the Plaintiffs by operation of law, pursuant to §554(c).
- 2) If the Court finds that the estate has an interest in Plaintiffs' malpractice claims that has not been abandoned, the Court should defer ruling on the Motion to Dismiss until the Trustee has determined whether to administer the malpractice claims.
- 3) The Court should not find that the malpractice claims are property of the estate, because the estate itself is the beneficiary of the alleged malpractice—but for Defendants' negligence, Plaintiffs would not have commenced a Chapter 7 petition and the estate would not have benefitted from the substantial equity in Plaintiffs' former home.

Defendants' Reply in Support of the Motion to Dismiss

Defendants make the following arguments in their Reply to Plaintiffs' Opposition:

- 1) At the time Plaintiffs filed the Complaint, the malpractice claims did not belong to them because those claims had not been scheduled and therefore could not have been abandoned to the Plaintiffs. Jurisdiction "depends upon the state of things at the time of the action brought." Morongo Band of Mission Indians v. Cal. State Bd. of Equalization, 858 F.2d 1376, 1381 (9th Cir. 1988). Plaintiffs "cannot rely on events that unfolded after the filing of the complaint to establish ... standing." Wilbur v. Locke, 423 F.3d 1101, 1107 (9th Cir. 2005), abrogated on other grounds by Levin v. Commerce Energy, Inc., 560 U.S. 413 (2010).

- 2) Plaintiffs' contention that the malpractice claims have been abandoned to them is incorrect. Assets are abandoned under §554(c) only upon the closing of the case. Although the Trustee has filed a Final Account, the case has not been closed.

II. Findings and Conclusions

The Court Makes No Findings With Respect to What Transpired During the Prepetition Legal Consultation Between Plaintiffs and Defendants

Plaintiffs devote substantial space in their Motion to Dismiss to disputing the factual allegations of the Complaint. Where a motion to dismiss is predicated upon jurisdictional grounds, the Court in some circumstances may hear evidence regarding factual disputes:

Ordinarily, where a jurisdictional issue is separable from the merits of a case, the court may determine jurisdiction by the standards of a Rule 12(b)(1) motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction. In such a situation, the district court is:

free to hear evidence regarding jurisdiction and to rule on that issue prior to trial, resolving factual disputes where necessary. In such circumstances, "[n]o presumptive truthfulness attaches to plaintiff's allegations, and the existence of disputed material facts will not preclude the trial court from evaluating for itself the merits of jurisdictional claims."

Roberts v. Corrothers, 812 F.2d 1173, 1177 (9th Cir. 1987).

As further explained below, the Court does not find it necessary to determine disputed factual issues to adjudicate the jurisdictional questions raised by the Motion to Dismiss. Therefore, the Court makes no findings with respect to what transpired during the pre-petition legal consultation between Plaintiffs and Defendants.

The Malpractice Claims Are Not Property of the Estate

The primary dispute is whether Plaintiffs' malpractice claims are property of Plaintiffs' bankruptcy estate. Defendants assert that the claims have not been abandoned by the Trustee, and remain property of the estate, because Plaintiffs' bankruptcy case has not been closed. Plaintiffs assert that the claims have been abandoned because no party has timely objected to the Trustee's Final Account, which certifies that the estate has been fully administered.

The focus on whether the malpractice claims have been abandoned skips the threshold issue of whether those claims were ever property of the estate in the first place. The Court finds that the malpractice claims did not accrue prepetition and therefore are not property of the estate. As the Ninth Circuit has explained:

"To determine when a cause of action accrues, and therefore whether it accrued pre-bankruptcy and is an estate asset, the Court looks to state law." Boland v. Crum (In re Brown), 363 B.R. 591, 605 (Bankr.D.Mont.2007) (citing Cusano). "It is important, however, to distinguish principles of accrual from principles of discovery and tolling, which may cause the statute of limitations to begin to run after accrual has occurred for purposes of ownership in a bankruptcy proceeding." Cusano, 264 F.3d at 947.

In California, "generally, a cause of action accrues and the statute of limitation begins to run when a suit may be maintained. Ordinarily this is when the wrongful act is done and the obligation or the liability arises, but it does not accrue until the party owning it is entitled to begin and prosecute an action thereon. In other words, a cause of action accrues upon the occurrence of the last element essential to the cause of action." Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Assn. v. City of La Habra, 25 Cal.4th 809, 815, 107 Cal.Rptr.2d 369, 23 P.3d 601 (2001) (citations and internal quotation marks omitted). Therefore, if a claim "could have been brought," it has accrued. Cusano, 264 F.3d at 947.

Goldstein v. Stahl (In re Goldstein), 526 B.R. 13, 21 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015).

In California, attorneys are liable for malpractice in accordance with general principles of tort liability. Budd v. Nixen, 6 Cal. 3d 195, 200, 491 P.2d 433, 436 (1971) (superseded by statute on other grounds). The elements of a cause of action for professional negligence are:

(1) the duty of the professional to use such skill, prudence, and diligence as other members of his profession commonly possess and exercise; (2) a breach of that duty; (3) a proximate causal connection between the negligent conduct and the resulting injury; and (4) actual loss or damage resulting from the professional's negligence.

If the allegedly negligent conduct does not cause damage, it generates no cause of action in tort. The mere breach of a professional duty, causing only nominal damages, speculative harm, or the threat of future harm—not yet realized—does not suffice to create a cause of action for negligence. Hence, until the client suffers appreciable harm as a consequence of his attorney's negligence, the client cannot establish a cause of action for malpractice.

Chapter 7

The gravamen of the Complaint is that Defendants committed professional malpractice by negligently advising Plaintiffs to file a voluntary Chapter 7 petition, when Defendants should have instead recognized that bankruptcy was inadvisable because it would ultimately result in Plaintiffs losing their home and forfeiting a portion of their homestead exemption to the IRS. Although the allegedly negligent advice was rendered prepetition, the harm emanating from that advice did not arise until postpetition—at the time the Trustee obtained the order authorizing the sale of the Plaintiffs' home and directing that approximately $60,000 of Plaintiffs' homestead exemption be paid to the IRS. Nothing about the filing of the petition made the future sale of Plaintiffs' home inevitable. It is possible that the Trustee could have elected not to administer the home; that Plaintiffs' former bankruptcy counsel could have negotiated a stipulation with the Trustee to provide for dismissal of the case; or that counsel could have devised some other strategy to prevent the sale of the home. Thus, as of the date of the petition, the only injury to Plaintiffs was contingent and speculative. Therefore, no claim for breach of professional duty existed upon the petition date, given that "the threat of future harm—not yet realized—does not suffice to create a cause of action for negligence." Budd, 6 Cal. 3d at 200.

Defendants cite Johnson, Blakely, Pope, Bokor, Ruppel & Burns, P.A. v. Alvarez (In re Alvarez), 224 F.3d 1273, 1278 (11th Cir. 2000) for the proposition that a malpractice claim based upon an attorney's misguided commencement of a bankruptcy petition is property of the estate. Defendants' reliance upon Alvarez is misplaced. In Alvarez, the attorney ignored his client's instructions to file a Chapter 11 petition and filed a Chapter 7 petition instead. In determining that Alvarez's malpractice claims arose prepetition, the court reasoned that Alvarez suffered harm at the moment the Chapter 7 petition was filed. The court explained that at the moment of filing, Alvarez's property interests vested in the estate, rather than remaining under his control as would have been the case had the attorney filed a Chapter 11 petition as Alvarez had intended. See Alvarez, 224 F.3d at 1277 ("Alvarez's loss of ownership and control of his assets upon the bankruptcy filing constitutes a significant and tangible change which obviously caused harm to him. No one would suggest that the victim of a conversion is not harmed when deprived of ownership and control of an asset."). Here, by contrast, the alleged harm to Plaintiffs did not occur until the Trustee sold the Plaintiffs' home, which did not happen until well after the petition was filed. Again, as discussed, the filing of the petition did not make sale of Plaintiffs' home inevitable.

Having found that Plaintiffs' malpractice claims are not property of the estate, it follows that there is no merit to Defendants' argument that Plaintiffs have no standing to prosecute those claims. [Note 1]

The Court Sua Sponte Remands the Action to the State Court

Based upon its finding that the malpractice claims are not property of the estate, the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction over the Complaint, and therefore must remand the action to the State Court. See 28 U.S.C. §1447(c) ("If at any time before final judgment it appears that the ... court lacks subject matter jurisdiction, the case shall be remanded.").

The Bankruptcy Court has jurisdiction over "all cases under title 11." 28 U.S.C. § 1334(a). "Generally, in the bankruptcy context, the word 'case' is a term of art which refers to 'that which is commenced by the filing of a petition; it is the "whole ball of wax," the chapter 7, 9, 11, 12 or 13 case.'" Blevins Elec., Inc. v. First Am. Nat'l Bank (In re Blevins Elec., Inc.), 185 B.R. 250, 253 (Bankr. E.D. Tenn. 1995).

The Bankruptcy Court also has jurisdiction over "all civil proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in or related to cases under title 11." 28 U.S.C. §1334(b). The three types of jurisdiction conferred under 28 U.S.C. §1334(b) are known as "arising under," "arising in," and "related to" jurisdiction. "Arising under" jurisdiction exists if "the cause of action is created by title 11." Menk v. Lapaglia (In re Menk), 241 B.R. 896, 909 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1999). "Arising in" jurisdiction applies to "those administrative proceedings that, while not based on any right created by title 11, nevertheless have no existence outside bankruptcy." Id. "Related to" jurisdiction exists if "the outcome of the proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy.... An action is related to bankruptcy if the action could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action (either positively or negatively) and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankruptcy estate." Fietz v. Great Western Savings (In re Fietz), 852 F.2d 455, 457 (9th Cir. 1988) (internal citations omitted).

The Court lacks "arising under" jurisdiction because the Complaint's causes of action arise under state law, not under title 11. The Court lacks "arising in" jurisdiction because the Complaint is not an administrative proceeding of the type that has no existence outside of bankruptcy. The Court lacks "related to" jurisdiction because there is no conceivable manner in which the outcome of the proceeding could affect the bankruptcy estate. The estate has been fully administered and, as set forth above, the estate has no interest in the claims raised in the Complaint.

III. Conclusion

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion is DENIED and the Complaint is REMANDED to the State Court. The Court will enter an appropriate order.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. If you wish to make a telephonic appearance, contact Court Call at 888-882-6878, no later than one hour before the hearing.

Note 1

The Court finds that the Trustee has had an adequate opportunity to oppose the determination that the malpractice claims are not an asset of the estate, and has not done so. Although the Trustee did not receive notice of the Motion to Dismiss, the Trustee received notice of the Complaint, the Opposition to the Motion to Dismiss, and the Reply in Support of the Motion to Dismiss. The opposition and reply papers discuss the parties' contentions with respect to whether the malpractice claims constitute estate property. More significantly, a review of the Complaint would have apprised the Trustee of the issue of whether the claims asserted therein constitute estate property.

Having reviewed the parties' Joint Status Report, the Court HEREBY ORDERS that the dates previously ordered shall continue to apply, as follows:

- 1) The last day to amend pleadings and/or join other parties is 2/16/2018.
- 2) The last day to disclose expert witnesses and expert witness reports is 5/01/2018.
- 3) The last day to disclose rebuttal expert witnesses and rebuttal expert witness reports is 5/31/2018.
- 4) The last date to complete discovery relating to expert witnesses (e.g., depositions of expert witnesses), including hearings on motions related to expert discovery, is 6/19/2018. (For contemplated hearings on motions related to expert discovery, it is counsel's responsibility to check the Judge's self-calendaring dates, posted on the Court's website. If the expert discovery cutoff date falls on a date when the court is closed or that is not available for self-calendaring, the deadline for hearings on expert discovery motions is the next closest date which is available for self-calendaring.)

#10.00 Status Hearing

RE: [1] Adversary case 2:17-ap-01510. Notice of Removal of State Court Action BC 677553 (Sup Ct.CA, LA) by Berger Bros., Inc.. Steven)

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

1/12/2018

The Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee") commenced this action against Oltmans Construction Co., Inc. ("Oltmans") and Westside Family YMCA ("Westside YMCA") in the Los Angeles Superior Court. The Trustee asserts claims for (1) breach of contract, (2) account stated, (3) reasonable value, and (4) foreclosure of a mechanic's lien. Oltmans removed the action to the Bankruptcy Court and filed a statement of non-consent to the Bankruptcy Court's entry of final judgment, as well as a demand for a jury trial. However, in the Joint Status Report, Oltmans modifies its position, stating that it does consent to the Bankruptcy Court's entry of final judgment (although it reserves the right to seek withdrawal of the reference). According to the Joint Status Report, the Trustee and Oltmans are drafting a stipulation to remand the case upon certain unspecified conditions.

The Trustee and Oltmans must file the contemplated stipulation for remand by no later than February 2, 2018. If the parties cannot agree upon the terms of the stipulation by that date, the Court will issue an order requiring Oltmans to show cause why this action should not be remanded.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. Docket 17

Tentative Ruling:

1/12/2018

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to repossess or otherwise obtain possession and dispose of its collateral pursuant to applicable law, and to use the proceeds from its disposition to satisfy its claim. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501. The Court finds that there is no equity in the subject vehicle and that the vehicle is not necessary for an effective reorganization since this is a chapter 7 case.

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. All other relief is denied.

Movant shall upload an appropriate order via the Court's Lodged Order Upload system within 7 days of the hearing.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Crestalliance, LLC (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on November 22, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. The Petition was deficient of a number of required documents and disclosures. The Debtor's Schedules state that the Debtor owns or has an interest in three separate properties (collectively, the "Properties"). Chapter 11 case on August 24, 2017, Case No. 2:17-bk-20450-ER. That case was dismissed without a re-filing bar on October 18, 2017 [Doc. No. 39] pursuant to the Court's Order Granting the United States Trustee's Motion to Dismiss or Convert [Doc. No. 39].

The Motion

The United States Trustee ("UST") filed the "Motion Under 11 U.S.C. § 1112 (b)(1) to Convert, Dismiss or Appoint a Chapter 11 Trustee with an Order Directing Payment of Quarterly Fees and For Judgment Thereon" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 20] on December 14, 2017. The Motion seeks to Convert, Dismiss or Appoint a Chapter 11 Trustee due to the Debtor's failure to file required documents and information. To date, no Disclosure Statement or Plan of Reorganization has been filed or submitted by the Debtor. The Debtor has also failed to comply with the requirements of the United States Trustee Chapter 11 Notices and Guides, the Bankruptcy Code and/or Local Rules by failing to provide documents, financial reports or attend requested meetings as follows:

1. Notice of Setting/Increasing Insider Compensation;
2. Application to Employ Attorney;
3. Declaration of Debtor Regarding Compliance with U.S. Trustee Chapter 11 Guidelines and Requirements for Chapter 11 Debtors in Possession ("Chapter 11 Compliance Declaration");
4. Real Property Questionnaire
5. Sufficient evidence of closing all pre-petition bank accounts
6. Sufficient evidence of the opening and maintenance of three debtor-in-possession bank accounts;
7. Sufficient evidence of current insurance coverage
8. Proof of required certificates and/or applicable licenses in the Chapter 11 Compliance Declaration;

Based on a review of the Debtor's Schedules, the UST believes that dismissal is in the best interest of creditors because it appears that there are no assets that a trustee can readily administer in a Chapter 7 case. The principal place of business listed on the Petition appears to be a UPS store. "Declaration of Maria A. Ramos" ("Ramos Declaration") [Doc. No. 13].

Chapter 11

The UST filed the "Supplement to Motion Under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(1) to Convert, Dismiss or Appoint a Chapter 11 Trustee with an Order Directing Payment of Quarterly Fees and For Judgment Thereon" ("Supplement to the Motion") [Doc. No. 19] on January 9, 2018. The Supplement to the Motion states that no timely opposition to the Motion has been filed. New information has come to light after the Debtor's principal testified at the meeting of creditors held on January 8, 2018. First, notwithstanding the dismissal of the Debtor's first case and the Debtor's request that the Court not impose a re-filing bar, the Debtor has failed to submit any compliance or documents to the UST. "Declaration of Hatty Yip" ("Yip Declaration") [Doc. No. 13] at ¶ 4. Second, the UST notes that it appears the Debtor has hired a real estate agent and received an offer; however, the Debtor has not filed an application to employ counsel, an application to employ any real estate agent, or any sale motion. Id. at ¶ 5. It also appears that the Debtor may have spent cash collateral/post-petition rental proceeds without Court authorization. Id. at ¶ 6. Lastly, the Debtor's principal testified at the meeting of creditors that there may be $700,000 equity in the Properties. Id. at ¶ 7. It also appears that the Debtor loaned over $580,000 to another entity in 2017, but this transaction was not listed on the Debtor's Schedules. Id. at ¶ 8.

Based on this, the UST believes that cause exists to convert the case to Chapter 7 and that conversion to Chapter 7 is in the best interest of the Estate. The UST does not believe that the Debtor's principal can act as a fiduciary or fulfill the debtor-in-possession requirements. Additionally, the UST believes that based on the equity in the Properties and the outstanding recent loans to another entity, a Chapter 7 trustee can fully evaluate and administer the Estate. Lastly, there does not appear to be any business to operate other than liquidating the properties.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Under § 1112(b), the Court shall dismiss or convert a case to one under chapter 7 upon a showing of "cause." Section 1112(b)(4) provides a nonexclusive list of factors that constitute "cause," including: "(C) failure to maintain appropriate insurance that poses a risk to the estate or to the public;" "(F) unexcused failure to satisfy timely any filing or reporting requirement established by this title or by any rule applicable to a case under this chapter;" "(H) failure timely to provide information or attend meetings reasonably requested by the United States trustee (or the bankruptcy administrator, if any);" "(I) failure timely to pay taxes owed after the date of the order for relief or to file tax returns due after the date of the order for relief;" "(J) failure to file a disclosure statement, or to file or confirm a plan, within the time fixed by this title or by order of the court;" and "(K) failure to pay any fees or charges required under chapter 123 of title 28." 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(4). Here, the Court finds sufficient "cause" for dismissal or conversion of the Debtor's case pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b). The Debtor has, among other things, failed to provide multiple required documents and disclosures and has failed to pay quarterly fees to the UST as described above. Additionally, it appears based on the equity in the Properties and the recent loans to another entity, that a Chapter 7 trustee can fully evaluate the assets and administer the Estate.

Having determined that cause exists, the Court must next determine whether dismissal or conversion serves the best interests of creditors or the estate. See In re Products Int'l Co., 395 B.R. 101, 107 (Bankr. D. Ariz. 2008) (citing In re Nelson, 343 B.R. 671 (9th Cir. 2006)). "[W]hen deciding between dismissal and conversion under 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b), the court must consider the interests of all of the creditors." Shulkin Hutton, Inc. v. Treiger (In re Owens), 552 F.3d 958, 961 (9th Cir. 2009) (emphasis in original) (quoting Rollex Corp. v. Associated Materials, Inc. (In re Superior Siding & Window, Inc.), 14 F.3d 240, 243 (4th Cir. 1994)). Here, conversion of the case serves the best interest of creditors and the Estate. The UST has not received any compliance and there does not appear to be any business to operate. However, because there appears to be assets for a trustee to administer, conversion to Chapter 7 is in the best interest of creditors.

III. Conclusion

In conclusion, the Court GRANTS the United States Trustee's Motion requesting conversion of the case to Chapter 7. Conversion of the case serves the best interest of creditors and the Estate.

The United States Trustee shall submit an appropriate order within seven days of the hearing.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

1/11/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the UST's Motion is GRANTED in its entirety. The UST shall have through and including March 23, 2018 to file a Motion to Dismiss under § 707(b)(3) and a Complaint Objecting to the Debtor's Discharge under § 727.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Motion of the United States Trustee for Extension of Deadline Date for Filing A Motion to Dismiss under § 707(b)(3) and a Complaint Objecting to the Debtor's Discharge under § 727 by the United States Trustee Only (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 12]
- 2) No opposition has been filed as of the date of this tentative ruling.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Kristine Aleksanyan (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on September 15, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. The first date set for the Debtor's § 341(a) meeting of creditors was October 23, 2017.

On December 21, 2017, the United States Trustee (the "UST") filed the "Motion of the United States Trustee for Extension of Deadline Date for Filing A Motion to Dismiss under § 707(b)(3) and a Complaint Objecting to the Debtor's Discharge under § 727 by the United States Trustee Only" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 12]. The Motion requests that the Court extend the deadline for filing a motion to dismiss under § 707(b)(3) and a complaint objecting to the debtor's discharge under § 727 for approximately ninety (90) days up to and including March 23, 2018 to allow the UST to complete his investigation into whether the Debtor's case warrants dismissal under § 707(b)(3). The UST states that a review of the Debtor's Petition, schedules, and testimony at the § 341(a) meeting held on December 1, 2017, raises questions regarding the Debtor's financial affairs. The UST requires additional time to conduct an investigation and obtain documents to determine the Debtor's financial affairs. Such investigation will include conducting the Debtor's examination under FRBP 2004.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Bankruptcy Rules 4004(a) and 1017(e)(1) control the time frames for a complaint under § 727 or a motion to dismiss under § 707(b)(3). Bankruptcy Rules 4004(a) and 1017(e)(1) provide that such a complaint or motion shall be filed no later than 60 days following the first date set for the § 341(a) meeting of creditors. Pursuant to Rules 4004(a) and 1017(e)(1), the Court may extend the deadline for filing a complaint objecting to the Debtor's discharge and motion to dismiss for abuse if the motion to extend time is filed before the expiration of the 60-day time period.

Here, the Court finds that cause exists for the extension of the deadline, and that the Motion was filed prior to the expiration of the 60-day time period under Bankruptcy Rules 4004(a) and 1017(e)(1). The first date for the Debtor's § 341(a) meeting of creditors was October 23, 2017; thus, the deadline for the motion to extend time was December 22, 2017, and the Motion was filed by the UST on December 21, 2017. Therefore, the UST's Motion was filed timely. Additionally, the Court finds that the UST needs additional time to complete his investigation of the Debtor's financial affairs, which is part of the UST's statutory duties under 28 U.S.C. § 586.

III. Conclusion

Based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the UST's Motion in its entirety. The UST shall have through and including March 23, 2018 to file a Motion to Dismiss under § 707(b)(3) and a Complaint Objecting to the Debtor's Discharge under § 727.

The UST shall lodge a conforming order within seven (7) days of the hearing.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Green Jane, Inc. (the "Debtor") commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on March 6, 2017 (the "Petition Date"). On May 26, 2017, the Court converted the case to Chapter 7. See Memorandum of Decision (1) Converting Case to Chapter 7, (2) Denying Motion to Dismiss for Improper Venue or in the Alternative to Transfer Venue, and (3) Denying as Moot Debtor's Application to Employ Stillman & Associates as General Bankruptcy Counsel (the "Conversion Memorandum") [Bankr. Doc. No. 58] and Order Converting Case to Chapter 7 [Bankr. Doc. No. 61]. In the Conversion Memorandum, the Court found that the Debtor had been "woefully deficient" and had "displayed a cavalier attitude" regarding its obligations to comply with reporting requirements imposed by the United States Trustee (the "UST"). Conversion Memorandum at 6–7.

Rosendo Gonzalez has been appointed as the Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee"). On August 29, 2017, the Court granted the Trustee's application to employ Greenberg Glusker Fields Claman & Machtinger LLP ("Greenberg Glusker") as special litigation counsel. Bankr. Doc. No. 105. On October 30, 2017, the Trustee filed a complaint against BevTech, Inc. ("BevTech") and Green CO2 IP, LLC ("GCO2 IP") (the "Complaint").

The Transfer of 80% of BevTech's Shares to the Debtor

The Debtor and the Debtor's wholly-owned subsidiary, GI SPE-Green CO2, LLC ("GI-SPE") and BevTech are parties to an Agreement in Corporate Reorganization dated as of January 1, 2015 (the "Reorganization Agreement"). Complaint at ¶11. Under the Reorganization Agreement, BevTech and GI-SPE would merge. Id. The Debtor, as the parent company of the merged entity GI-SPE, would receive 80% of all of BevTech's issued and outstanding voting and non-voting shares (the "BevTech Shares"). Id. at ¶12. The intent of the Reorganization Agreement was to effectuate a "reverse triangular A reorganization," pursuant to Internal Revenue Code §368(a)(2) (E), for the purpose of avoiding tax liability. Id. The Reorganization Agreement closed prior to the Petition Date and the BevTech Shares transferred to the Debtor in their entirety. Id. at ¶13. Pursuant to the Reorganization Agreement and Debtor's ownership of the BevTech Shares, the Debtor was entitled to certain shareholder distributions (the "BevTech Distributions"). The BevTech Distributions have not been paid and are being withheld by BevTech. Id. at ¶15.

The License Agreement

Prior to execution of the Reorganization Agreement, BevTech transferred certain valuable intellectual property rights (the "BevTech IP") to a newly formed entity, GCO2 IP, for no consideration. Id. at ¶18. The shareholders of BevTech and GCO2 IP were substantially identical. Id. The purpose of the transfer of the BevTech IP was to entice shareholders of BevTech, who would lose most of their shares in BevTech through the Reorganization Agreement, to authorize BevTech's merger with the Debtor through the Reorganization Agreement. Id. at ¶¶18–19. Following the transfer of the BevTech IP to GCO2 IP, the Debtor, BevTech, and GCO2IP entered into a License Agreement dated as of January 1, 2015 (the "License Agreement"). Under the License Agreement, GCO2 IP licensed the BevTech IP back to BevTech, which, in turn, would be controlled by the Debtor pursuant to the Reorganization Agreement.

The Colorado Action

Prior to the Petition Date, on November 23, 2015, BevTech and GCO2 IP (collectively, the "BevTech Parties") filed a complaint against, among others, the Debtor and the Debtor's former principal, Michael Citron, in the Larimer County District Court in the State of Colorado (the "Colorado Court"), Case No. 15-cv-31002 (the "Colorado Action"). In the Colorado Action, BevTech alleges that the Debtor failed to meet milestones under the License Agreement that the Debtor was required to meet in order to earn the BevTech Shares. Pursuant to the operative Third Amended Complaint, the BevTech Parties have elected rescission of the License Agreement and the Reorganization Agreement as their sole remedy. On March 10, 2017, the Colorado Court entered an order that the BevTech Parties' claims against Mr. Citron for breach of fiduciary duty were not affected by the automatic stay. The Colorado Court conducted a two-day trial as to the claims against Mr. Citron on March 16–17, 2017, and thereafter entered judgment against Mr. Citron in the amount of $491,821.66. Id. at ¶32.

BevTech's Proof of Claim

On October 2, 2017, BevTech filed Proof of Claim No. 17 (the "BevTech Claim"), asserting an unsecured claim in the amount of $880,998.37. Id. at ¶34. The basis for the claim is "[e]xpenses and debt incurred at the behest of the Debtor." Id.

The Complaint's Claims for Relief

Based upon the foregoing allegations, the Complaint seeks the following relief:

- 1) A declaratory judgment stating that the BevTech Shares are property of the estate pursuant to §541(a). Id. at ¶38.
- 2) Avoidance of the BevTech Parties' claims for rescission in the Colorado Action, pursuant to §544(a), accompanied by a judgment confirming that the BevTech Shares and Debtor's interest in the License Agreement are assets of the Bankruptcy Estate. Id. at ¶¶40–42.
- 3) To the extent that the Court finds that the BevTech Parties' claims for rescission are avoidable, recovery of such claims for the benefit of the estate, pursuant to §550(a). Id. at ¶44.
- 4) Turnover of the BevTech Distributions, pursuant to §542(a). Id. at ¶47.
- 5) Subordination of the BevTech Claim pursuant to §510(b), based on the fact that the BevTech Claim arises in connection with the purchase of securities of the Debtor or an affiliate of the Debtor. Id. at ¶51.
- 6) Disallowance of the BevTech Claim pursuant to §502(b), because the rescission remedy elected by BevTech in the Colorado Action precludes BevTech from obtaining any monetary damages against the Debtor in connection with the Reorganization Agreement and/or License Agreement. Id. at ¶56.

BevTech and GCO2 IP's Motion to Dismiss

BevTech and GCO2 IP (collectively, the "Defendants") move to dismiss the Complaint for lack of personal jurisdiction, pursuant to Civil Rule 12(b)(2), and for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, pursuant to Civil Rule 12(b)(6). Defendants make the following arguments in support of the Motion to Dismiss:

On November 6, 2017, Randall M. Willard, BevTech's counsel in the Colorado Action, discovered that the Debtor before the Court is not the same corporate entity as the corporation that BevTech contracted with. BevTech entered into the Reorganization and License Agreement with Green Jane, Inc., a Delaware corporation ("Green Jane-Delaware"). The entity that commenced bankruptcy proceedings is Green Jane, Inc., a Colorado corporation ("Green Jane-Colorado"). The federal tax identification number listed by the Debtor on its voluntary petition is 47-3308995, which is the tax identification number that belongs to Green Jane-Colorado. Further, on May 22, 2017, the Debtor filed a "Statement and Designation of Foreign Corporation" with the California Secretary of State, which indicates that the filing corporation's jurisdiction is Colorado. The address shown in the "Statement and Designation of Foreign Corporation" is the same address used by the Debtor on the voluntary petition.

Because the entity with whom BevTech contracted with, Green Jane-Delaware, is not before the Court, the Trustee's Complaint must be dismissed for lack of personal jurisdiction and for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. All of the claims raised in the Complaint presuppose that the Debtor is Green Jane-Delaware, when in fact the Debtor is Green Jane-Colorado. The Trustee may raise only claims against BevTech or GCO2 IP that arise from transactions or agreements involving Green Jane-Colorado. The Complaint raises no such claims, as all its allegations are directed at transactions entered into between BevTech, GCO2 IP, and Green Jane-Delaware.

Even if Green Jane-Delaware (the entity with which BevTech and GCO2 IP contracted with) is the Debtor before the Court, the Complaint must still be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction, because Green Jane-Delaware lacked the legal capacity to seek bankruptcy protection. At the time of the filing of the petition, Green Jane-Delaware's corporate existence had been voided by the Delaware Secretary of State because of a $407,690.03 tax delinquency. As a result, Green Jane-Delaware lacked legal capacity to file for bankruptcy, and likewise lacked legal capacity even to convene a meeting of the board of directors to consider and approve a bankruptcy filing. It is likely that the Debtor intentionally filed the case as Green Jane-Colorado because it did not want to pay the substantial tax bill necessary to revive Green Jane-Delaware.

The Trustee's Opposition to the Motion to Dismiss

The Trustee makes the following arguments in Opposition to the Motion to Dismiss:

Although the voluntary petition erroneously listed the tax identification number of Green Jane-Colorado rather than the correct tax identification number for the Debtor, Green Jane-Delaware, the contents of the Schedules and Statement of Financial Affairs clearly refer to the liabilities, creditors, and equity holders of the Green Jane-Delaware. In the Conversion Memorandum, the Court recognized that the Debtor is a Delaware corporation. The use of the tax identification number for Green Jane-Colorado on the Petition was nothing more than an inadvertent clerical error. In addition, contrary to the assumption underlying the Motion to Dismiss, the tax identification number listed on the Petition is not dispositive as to the Debtor's identity. Further, the fact that the Debtor's address in the Petition is also the address of Green Jane-Colorado shows only that Green Jane-Delaware and Green Jane-Colorado share the same address, which is not surprising as both entities are related and were both incorporated by Michael Citron.

There is no merit to BevTech's contention that the Debtor's delinquent status with the state of Delaware invalidates the bankruptcy filing. "Even corporations which have forfeited their state charters may retain sufficient corporate identity and power necessary to file a voluntary petition under chapter 7 if chapter 7 would afford a process for orderly liquidation of the estate which is consistent with state law." 2 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶301.08[1], p. 310-13 (R. Levin & H. Sommers eds., 16th ed.) (footnote omitted). Delaware law provides that a corporation's failure to pay taxes shall cause the charter of the corporation to become void "and all powers conferred by law upon the corporation are declared inoperative." Del. Code Ann. Tit. 8 §510. This provision "must be read in light of [Delaware Corporations Code] §312(e), which provides for retroactive validation of contracts made during this voided period and exclusive corporate liability under such contracts if the certificate is reinstated." Midland Interiors, Inc. v. Burleigh, 2006 WL 3783476, at *4 (Del. Ch. Dec. 19, 2006). Pursuant to Delaware Corporations Code §312, upon the payment of delinquent taxes the corporation is revived with the same force and effect as if its certificate of incorporation had not been voided.

Similar to the procedure in Delaware, California also provides for the revival of a corporation whose charter has been suspended for failure to pay taxes. The similarities between a "suspended" corporation in California and a "void" corporation in Delaware are especially relevant in light of the decision in In re Feature Homes, 116 B.R. 731, 733 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 1990). In Feature Homes, the Franchise Tax Board argued that the suspended status of the Debtor for failure to file a tax return stripped the Debtor of standing to seek relief under the Bankruptcy Code. The court rejected this argument and allowed the bankruptcy case to proceed, reasoning:

It is clear that such an interpretation would impermissibly turn the priority scheme underlying the Bankruptcy Code on its head by allowing states to expressly condition an entity's right to file a petition in bankruptcy upon the satisfaction of their prepetition claims. Such a result was obviously not contemplated or intended by Congress.

Feature Homes, 116 B.R. at 733.

Although the Debtor is a Delaware entity and Delaware law applies, the holding of Feature Homes is fully applicable. Regardless of whether a Chapter 11 reorganization could have ultimately occurred, now that the case has been converted to Chapter 7, the Debtor remains eligible for liquidation. This rule makes sense from the vantage point of creditors, who are especially in need of the protections afforded by a collective proceeding where corporate formalities have not been followed.

Even corporations that have been dissolved—as opposed to the Debtor's mere "void" status for tax delinquency—have been held to have standing to seek bankruptcy protection. See Santa Fe Minerals v. BEPCO (In re 15375 Memorial Corp.), 382 B.R. 652, 681 (Bankr. D. Del. 2008) ("Bankruptcy courts have consistently held that where state law authorizes a dissolved corporation to remain in existence after dissolution to wind up its affairs, the dissolved corporation is eligible to file for bankruptcy protection under Section 109 of the Bankruptcy Code."), rev'd on other grounds, 400 B.R. 420 (D. Del. 2009), aff'd, 589 F.3d 605 (3d Cir. 2009). The result in BEPCO is applicable here because Delaware law provides that any dissolved corporation "shall nevertheless be continued, for the term of 3 years from such expiration or dissolution . . ., to settle and close their business, to dispose of and convey their property, to discharge their liabilities and to distribute to their stockholders any remaining assets." Delaware Corporations Code §278 (Del. Code Ann. Tit. 8, §510).

In addition, the Motion to Dismiss should be stricken because it was not filed timely. The Trustee agreed to extend the Defendants' time to respond to the Complaint to December 8, 2017, but Defendants did not file the Motion to Dismiss until December 11, 2017. Further, it is inappropriate for Defendants to raise the argument that the wrong Debtor is before the Court in the context of a Motion to Dismiss. Such an argument should be asserted in the main bankruptcy case and after notice to creditors.

BevTech and GCO2 IP's Reply in Support of the Motion to Dismiss

BevTech and GCO2 IP make the following arguments in reply to the Trustee's Opposition:

Contrary to the Trustee's contention, Defendants were entitled to assert their arguments with respect to the Debtor's identity in the context of a Motion to Dismiss, and were not required to raise these arguments in the main bankruptcy case. Defendants' jurisdictional arguments are a defense that may be properly raised in an adversary proceeding pursuant to Civil Rule 12(b).

The Court should not strike the Motion to Dismiss because it was filed on Monday, December 11 rather than on Friday, December 8. The minor delay was due to excusable neglect and does not prejudice the Trustee.

The Trustee's reliance upon Feature Homes, for the proposition that Green Jane-Delaware's void status does not prevent it from filing for bankruptcy protection, is misplaced. Feature Homes involves a California corporation and the application of California law. Under Delaware law, a void corporation cannot take any action. Thus, Green Jane-Delaware could not have filed for bankruptcy and could not have even issued a corporate resolution finding that a bankruptcy petition was necessary.

The Trustee's Application for Issuance of an Order to Show Cause Re Contempt and BevTech and GCO2 IP's Opposition

The Trustee applies for issuance of an order requiring BevTech, GCO2 IP, Michael K. Schutte, Daniel Schneider, Brett Schutte, Randall Willard, and Willard & Associates, PC (collectively, the "Alleged Contemnors") to show cause why they should not be held in contempt for violating the automatic stay. According to the Trustee, on December 4, 2017, the Alleged Contemnors served upon the Trustee a "Notice of Material Default" (the "Notice of Default"), purporting to terminate the license to the BevTech IP granted to Green Jane-Delaware pursuant to the License Agreement. The Trustee notes that the Alleged Contemnors served the Notice of Default only one week after the Court, in connection with the denial of BevTech's motion for stay-relief, had found that the License Agreement was one of the principal assets of the estate.

The Alleged Contemnors do not dispute issuing the Notice of Default, but contend that their actions do not violate the stay because it is Green Jane-Colorado, not Green Jane-Delaware, that is the Debtor before the Court.

II. Findings and Conclusions

"To survive a motion to dismiss, a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.' A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (internal citations omitted). To state a plausible claim for relief, a complaint must satisfy two working principles:

First, the tenet that a court must accept as true all of the allegations contained in a complaint is inapplicable to legal conclusions. Threadbare recitations of the elements of a cause of action, supported by mere conclusory statements, do not suffice.... Second, only a complaint that states a plausible claim for relief survives a motion to dismiss. Determining whether a complaint states a plausible claim for relief will ... be a context-specific task that requires the reviewing court to draw on its judicial experience and common sense. But where the well-pleaded facts do not permit the court to infer more than the mere possibility of misconduct, the complaint has alleged—but it has not "show[n]"—"that the pleader is entitled to relief."

Id. (citing Civil Rule 8(a)(2)).

Although the pleading standard Civil Rule 8 announces "does not require 'detailed factual allegations,' ... it demands more than an unadorned, the-defendant-unlawfully-harmed-me accusation.... A pleading that offers 'labels and conclusions' or a 'formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do.' Nor does a complaint suffice if it tenders 'naked assertion[s]' devoid of 'further factual enhancement.'" Id. (citing Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007)).

The Court Declines to Strike the Motion to Dismiss

As a threshold matter, the Court declines the Trustee's request that the Motion to Dismiss be stricken as untimely. The Motion to Dismiss was filed on Monday, December 11, 2017—three days after the Friday, December 8 deadline. The Trustee has not been prejudiced by this minor delay.

some circumstances may hear evidence regarding factual disputes:

Ordinarily, where a jurisdictional issue is separable from the merits of a case, the court may determine jurisdiction by the standards of a ... motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction. In such a situation, the district court is:

free to hear evidence regarding jurisdiction and to rule on that issue prior to trial, resolving factual disputes where necessary. In such circumstances, "[n]o presumptive truthfulness attaches to plaintiff's allegations, and the existence of disputed material facts will not preclude the trial court from evaluating for itself the merits of jurisdictional claims."

Roberts v. Corrothers, 812 F.2d 1173, 1177 (9th Cir. 1987).

Having considered the evidence presented by Defendants, the Court finds that the Debtor before it is Green Jane-Delaware, not Green Jane-Colorado. Accordingly, the Court rejects Defendants' contention that the Complaint must be dismissed either on jurisdictional grounds or for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

In support of their contention that the petition was filed by Green Jane-Colorado, Defendants primarily rely upon the Debtor's use of Green Jane-Colorado's tax identification number on the voluntary petition. The Court finds that the tax identification number is not controlling for purposes of determining the Debtor's identity. Of the vast amount of information contained in the voluntary petition and accompanying schedules, the tax identification number is only one small component. Here, all the information aside from the tax identification number indicates that the Debtor is Green Jane-Delaware, not Green Jane-Colorado. The assets, liabilities, and creditors listed on the schedules are those of Green Jane-Delaware. The License Agreement entered into between Green Jane-Delaware and the Defendants that is at issue in this litigation is scheduled. Bankr. Doc. No. 11, ¶62. The "Corporate Resolution Authorizing Filing [of] Chapter 11 Petition" states that the Debtor is a Delaware corporation.

Defendants also point to the "Statement and Designation of Foreign Corporation" (the "Foreign Corporation Designation") to support their claim that Green Jane-Colorado is the Debtor before the Court. On May 22, 2017, Michael Citron filed the Foreign Corporation Designation. The document lists Colorado as the jurisdiction in which "Green Jane, Inc." was formed, and lists Green Jane, Inc.'s business address as "13763 Fiji Way, Suite EU-4, Marina Del Rey, CA 90292." Defendants' theory is that the Foreign Corporation Designation provides further evidence that it was Green Jane-Colorado that filed the petition, because the address listed on the petition is the same as the address on the Foreign Corporation Designation.

The Court rejects Defendants' contention that the Foreign Corporation Designation indicates that Green Jane-Colorado is the entity that commenced bankruptcy proceedings. Green Jane-Colorado and Green Jane-Delaware are related entities that were both incorporated by Michael Citron. Thus, it is not surprising that Mr. Citron would use the same address for both entities.

Along similar lines, Defendants assert that Mr. Citron's failure to file a Foreign Corporation Designation on behalf of Green Jane-Delaware shows that the Debtor before the Court must be Green Jane-Colorado. The assumption underlying the argument is that if Mr. Citron had intended to cause Green Jane-Delaware to seek bankruptcy protection, he would have filed a Foreign Corporation Designation on behalf of that entity. The Court finds Defendants' argument to be unpersuasive. In the Conversion Memorandum, the Court found that the Debtor's compliance with its obligations under the Bankruptcy Code had been "woefully deficient." Conversion Memorandum at 6. The Court noted that Mr. Citron was responsible for certain of the deficiencies, noting, for example, that Mr. Citron had failed to sign the Debtor's March Monthly Operating Report as required by the Local Bankruptcy Rules. Id. at p. 7, ¶4. The only inference to be drawn from Mr. Citron's failure to file a Foreign Corporation Designation on behalf of Green Jane-Delaware is that Mr. Citron did not act diligently to insure that Green Jane-Delaware's interests were protected prior to the conversion of the case to Chapter 7.

The Voiding of Green Jane-Delaware's Corporate Status for Failure to Pay Taxes Did Not Prevent Green Jane-Delaware from Commencing the Petition

In the alternative, Defendants assert that Green Jane-Delaware lacked the ability to commence a bankruptcy petition because its status as a corporation had been voided for failure to pay taxes. The Court finds this argument to be without merit.

Delaware law provides that a corporation's failure to pay taxes shall cause the charter of the corporation to become void "and all powers conferred by law upon the corporation are declared inoperative." Del. Code Ann. Tit. 8 §510. If a corporation subsequently cures the tax delinquencies, its charter can be revived. Revival of the charter retroactively validates all actions taken during the period when the charter was void. Del. Code Ann. Tit. 8, §510.

California law contains similar provisions. In California, a corporation may be "suspended" if it fails to meet its tax obligations. Cal. Rev. Code §§23301 & 23305. A corporation that has been suspended for failure to comply with tax obligations may have its corporate powers reinstated if it files all delinquent tax returns and pays delinquent taxes and penalties. Id. at §23305. Reinstatement is sometimes referred to as “revival.” “The revival of corporate powers validates any procedural step taken on behalf of the corporation while it was under suspension.” Benton v. Cty. of Napa, 226 Cal. App. 3d 1485, 1490, 277 Cal. Rptr. 541, 545 (Cal. Ct. App. 1991).

In view of the similarities between California and Delaware law with respect to the status of corporations with tax delinquencies, the Court finds the holding in In re Feature Homes, Inc., 116 B.R. 731, 733 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 1990) to be controlling. The Feature Homes court rejected the contention that a corporation’s suspended status prevented it from seeking bankruptcy protection:

It is clear that such an interpretation would impermissibly turn the priority scheme underlying the Bankruptcy Code on its head by allowing states to expressly condition an entity's right to file a petition in bankruptcy upon the satisfaction of their prepetition claims. Such a result was obviously not contemplated or intended by Congress.

Feature Homes, 116 B.R. at 733.

In addition, the Court finds that under Delaware law, even if the Debtor had been dissolved—rather than merely voided—it still would have been eligible to seek bankruptcy protection. “Bankruptcy courts have consistently held that where state law authorizes a dissolved corporation to remain in existence after dissolution to wind up its affairs, the dissolved corporation is eligible to file for bankruptcy protection under Section 109 of the Bankruptcy Code.” Santa Fe Minerals v. BEPCO (In re 15375 Memorial Corp.), 382 B.R. 652, 681 (Bankr. D. Del. 2008), rev’d on other grounds, 400 B.R. 420 (D. Del. 2009), aff’d, 589 F.3d 605 (3d Cir. 2009). BEPCO’s holding applies because Delaware law authorizes a dissolved corporation to remain in existence for the purpose of winding up its affairs. See Delaware Corporations Code § 278 (Del. Code Ann. Tit. 8, §510) (providing that any dissolved corporation “shall nevertheless be continued, for the term of 3 years from such expiration or dissolution . . . , to settle and close their business, to dispose of and convey their property, to discharge their liabilities and to distribute to their stockholders any remaining assets”).

The Court Will Require the Alleged Contemnors to Appear and Show Cause Why They Should Not be Held in Contempt for Violating the Automatic Stay

In opposition to the Trustee’s application for issuance of an Order to Show Cause Re: Contempt, the Alleged Contemnors proffer the same arguments as Defendants advance in the Motion to Dismiss. Having rejected Defendants’ arguments, and having found that the Debtor before the Court is Green Jane-Delaware, not Green Jane-Colorado, the Court finds it appropriate to require the Alleged Contemnors to show cause why they should not be held in contempt for serving upon the Trustee a document purporting to rescind the License Agreement. The Court will set the date and time of the hearing on the Order to Show Cause by separate order.

III. Conclusion

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion to Dismiss is DENIED. Defendants must answer the Complaint by no later than January 31, 2018. By separate order, the Court will require the Alleged Contemnors to show cause why they should not be held in contempt for violating the automatic stay.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Green Jane, Inc. (the "Debtor") commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on March 6, 2017. On May 26, 2017, the Court converted the case to Chapter 7. The Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee") seeks approval of a compromise between the Trustee, on the one hand, and HRBenefix Co., LLC, Jesus Menendez, and Gloria Dual-Menendez, on the other hand.

HRBenefix Co., LLC ("HRB") is a human resources provider. On September 29, 2015, the Debtor, Jesus Menendez, and Gloria Dual-Menendez entered into a Membership Interest Purchase Agreement (the "MIPA"), which provided that the Debtor would acquire 80% of the membership interests of HRB from Jesus Menendez and Gloria Dual-Menendez, HRB's owners. As consideration for this transfer of the membership interests in HRB, the Debtor was to transfer 100,000 of its shares of stock and fulfill certain other conditions.

HRB, Jesus Menendez, and Gloria Dual-Menendez assert that none, or virtually none, of the conditions of the MIPA were met. HRB, Jesus Menendez and Gloria Dual-Menendez deny that any membership interests were ever transferred, and HRB, Jesus Menendez and Gloria Dual-Menendez deny that they ever received any stock in the Debtor.

On December 16, 2015, HRB received $20,000.00 from TCG International Holdings, a company which the Trustee understands is owned and/or controlled (or was owned and/or controlled at that time) by Michael Citron, the Chief Executive Office of the Debtor.

To resolve outstanding issues regarding the MIPA, the parties have agreed that the MIPA shall be rescinded in its entirety. In exchange, the bankruptcy estate will receive $20,000 (the "Rescission Payment"), and HRB, Jesus Menendez, and Gloria Dual-Menendez will waive all claims they may have against the estate.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Bankruptcy Rule 9019 provides that the Court may approve a compromise or settlement. "In determining the fairness, reasonableness and adequacy of a proposed settlement agreement, the court must consider: (a) The probability of success in the litigation; (b) the difficulties, if any, to be encountered in the matter of collection; (c) the complexity of the litigation involved, and the expense, inconvenience and delay necessarily attending it; (d) the paramount interest of the creditors and a proper deference to their reasonable views in the premises." Martin v. Kane (In re A&C Properties), 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986). "[C]ompromises are favored in bankruptcy, and the decision of the bankruptcy judge to approve or disapprove the compromise of the parties rests in the sound discretion of the bankruptcy judge." In re Sassalos, 160 B.R. 646, 653 (D. Ore. 1993). In approving a settlement agreement, the Court must "canvass the issues and see whether the settlement 'falls below the lowest point in the range of reasonableness.'" Cosoff v. Rodman (In re W.T. Grant Co.), 699 F.2d 599, 608 (2d Cir. 1983). Applying the A&C Properties factors, the Court finds that all three of the settlement agreements are adequate, fair, and reasonable, and are in the best interests of the estate and creditors.

Paramount Interests of Creditors

This factor weighs strongly in favor of approving the compromise. No creditors have objected to the compromise, which will yield proceeds of $20,000 for the estate.

Chapter 7

Difficulties to Be Encountered in the Matter of Collection

This factor weighs strongly in favor of approving the compromise. HRB is a closely held corporation. Thus, even if the Trustee were to prevail upon his claim that he holds an 80% interest in HRB, it is likely that HRB's principals would refuse to work for the benefit of the estate, rendering any victory hollow.

Complexity of the Litigation

This factor weighs in favor of approving the compromise, given that the litigation involves numerous disputed issues of fact as to whether the MIPA is enforceable.

Probability of Success on the Merits

This factor weighs in favor of approving the compromise. As noted, even if the Trustee prevailed, the victory would yield no benefit to the estate given that HRB's principals would likely refuse to work for the estate.

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion is GRANTED.

No appearances required. In compliance with a previous Court order, concerning the status of a Probate Code § 850 Petition ("Probate Petition") filed by Monge Investment, Inc. ("Debtor") in California Superior Court [Doc. No. 539], the Debtor submitted the Status Report on January 8, 2018. Doc. No. 602. On November 30, 2017, the state court approved the settlement of the Probate Petition. Prior to that, on October 23, 2017, the United States Trustee filed a Motion for an Order Lifting the Previous Stay and Setting a Deadline for Filing of the Plan [Doc. No. 585]. On November 15, 2017 the Court, after the hearing on the UST's Motion, entered the Order Granting the Motion to Lift the Stay and set March 15, 2018 as the deadline for the Debtor to file a Plan and Disclosure Statement [Doc. No. 591].

Because the Probate Petition has been settled, and the stay relating to that action has been lifted, no further status conference is necessary regarding the Probate Petition. The deadline for the Debtor to file a Plan and Disclosure statement is March 15, 2018.

- c) Reply of Defendants in Support of Motion of Defendants to Set Aside Entry of Default [Doc. No. 53]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

The Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors for Liberty Asset Management Corporation (the "Committee") seeks entry of default judgment against Blue Sky Communications, Inc., Lantern Brands, Inc., and TT Investment Los Angeles Fund I, LLC (collectively, the "Defendants"). The Clerk of the Court entered default against the Defendants on October 23, 2017. Defendants move to set aside the entry of default.

Defendants assert a lien against property located at 1020 Baldwin Avenue, Arcadia, CA (the "Baldwin Property"). The Complaint alleges, among other things, that the lien should be recharacterized as an equity investment in a failed business venture, and that any claims asserted by Defendants in connection with the lien should be disallowed.

The Baldwin Property was marketed for sale and ultimately sold in Liberty Asset Management Corporation's bankruptcy case. One of the defendants, TT Investment Los Angeles Fund I, LLC ("TT"), was the original buyer, pursuant to a sale order entered on November 9, 2016. Bankr. Doc. No. 276 (the "Sale Order"). The sale to TT did not close, and the Baldwin Property was ultimately sold to a different buyer.

One of the disputed issues in connection with the proposed sale to TT was whether TT held a valid lien against the Baldwin Property. The Sale Order contained provisions regarding the allowability of TT's asserted lien. TT takes the position that even though the sale did not close, it holds an allowed claim pursuant to the provisions of the Sale Order. The Committee argues that the Sale Order's provisions regarding the allowability of TT's asserted secured claim were contingent upon the closing of the sale. According to the Committee, because the sale did not close, it may now attempt, by way of the Complaint, to invalidate the lien asserted by TT and the other defendants. Defendants take the position that the Committee is judicially estopped from contesting the validity of their liens, given that the Committee was actively involved in the negotiations resulting in the Sale Order.

Defendants move to set aside the entry of default, on the grounds that their agent for service of process did not timely forward the Complaint to them. Defendants state that they acted diligently to set aside the default as soon as they learned of the Complaint. The Committee opposes the motion to set aside default, and argues that default judgment should be entered. According to the Committee, Defendants' failure to respond to the Complaint was culpable because Defendants' former counsel, Theodore Maloney, was aware of the Complaint. Gail Greenwood, one of the Committee's attorneys, testifies that she spoke with Mr. Maloney by telephone regarding the Complaint on October 6, 2017. Greenwood Decl. at ¶4 [Doc. No. 23]. Mr. Maloney acknowledges speaking with Ms. Greenwood and reviewing a copy of the Complaint, but maintains that he thought the Complaint he reviewed was a draft, intended by the Committee as a negotiating tactic for the purpose of convincing TT to reduce the allowed amount of its claim. Maloney Decl. at ¶¶5–7.

II. Findings and Conclusions

At the outset, the Court notes that the parties devote substantial space to asserting their positions with respect to whether Defendants' claims have been allowed in connection with the Sale Order. The issues before the Court are whether the default should be set aside or whether instead default judgment should be entered. The Court does not address the preclusive effect, if any, of the Sale Order. [Note 1]

Civil Rule 55(c)—made applicable to these proceedings by Bankruptcy Rule 7055—provides: "The court may set aside an entry of default for good cause." "The 'good cause' standard that governs vacating an entry of default under Rule 55(c) is the same standard that governs vacating a default judgment under Rule 60(b)." Franchise Holding II, LLC v. Huntington Restaurants Grp., Inc., 375 F.3d 922, 925 (9th Cir. 2004). The Court may deny a motion to vacate a default for any of the following reasons: "(1) the plaintiff would be prejudiced if the judgment is set aside, (2) defendant has no meritorious defense, or (3) the defendant's culpable conduct led to the default." Am. Ass'n of Naturopathic Physicians v. Hayhurst, 227 F.3d 1104, 1108 (9th Cir. 2000), as amended on denial of reh'g (Nov. 1, 2000). Because "[t]his tripartite test is disjunctive," Plaintiff is required to demonstrate only that one of the factors applies in order for the Court to deny the motion to vacate default. Id.

The Court finds it appropriate to set aside the default, and deny the Committee's motion for entry of default judgment. First, the Committee is not prejudiced by the setting aside of the default. "To be prejudicial, the setting aside of a [default] must result in greater harm than simply delaying resolution of the case. Rather, 'the standard is whether [plaintiff's] ability to pursue his claim will be hindered.'" TCI Grp. Life Ins. Plan v. Knoebber, 244 F.3d 691, 701 (9th Cir. 2001), as amended on denial of reh'g and reh'g en banc (May 9, 2001). The non-defaulting party's ability to pursue its claim may be hindered if the delay has caused tangible harm such as "loss of evidence, increased difficulties of discovery, or greater opportunity for fraud or collusion." Id.

Here, default was entered on October 23, 2017, and Defendants moved to set aside the default on November 29, 2017. There is no indication that this relatively short delay has resulted in any tangible harm to the Committee.

Second, although the Court makes no determination as to the preclusive effect of the Sale Order, Defendants have presented sufficient evidence to show that they may have a meritorious defense. At the very least, the Court cannot categorically determine that no meritorious defense exists.

Third, entry of default is not the result of Defendants' culpable conduct. The Committee's position is that Defendants' former counsel was aware of the Complaint and that therefore the Defendants' failure to timely respond was culpable. The Court finds Mr. Maloney's explanation that he believed the Complaint he reviewed had not been filed and was a negotiating tactic to be plausible. The Committee and Mr. Maloney had already engaged in extensive negotiations regarding the allowability of TT's claim in connection with the Sale Order. It would not have been unreasonable for Mr. Maloney to conclude that the Complaint he received was a draft intended to commence further negotiations regarding the allowability of the claim.

Finally, the Court notes that the Committee filed unduly lengthy papers in connection with what should have been a routine issue—whether a default that was entered only several months ago should be set aside. The resources the Committee devoted to this issue exceeded its importance.

III. Conclusion

Based upon the foregoing, the Committee's motion for entry of default judgment is DENIED, and the Defendants' motion to set aside the default is GRANTED. Defendants must answer the Complaint by no later than February 1, 2018. The Court will conduct a Status Conference on March 13, 2018, at 10:00 a.m., at which time the Court will set dates that will govern the course of this action. The parties must submit a Joint Status Report by no later than fourteen days prior to the hearing.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Liberty Asset Management Corporation ("Liberty") commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on March 21, 2016. From March 21, 2016 to January 29, 2017, the Hon. Thomas B. Donovan provided over this case. On January 30, 2017, the case was reassigned to the undersigned judge.

Liberty's petition was signed by Benjamin Kirk as CEO. On the List of Equity Security Holders, Mr. Kirk represented that he held 100% of Liberty's common shares. On June 9, 2016, the Court granted Liberty's application to employ Lawrence

R. Perkins as Chief Restructuring Officer, and (II) Employment of Sierra Constellation Partners, LLC [Doc. No. 94]. The application to employ the CRO and SCP, which Mr. Kirk signed in his capacity as Liberty's CEO, provided in relevant part: "The CRO will report to the Board of the Debtor and will not have his duties or authority modified by the Board unless there is a hearing before the bankruptcy court, on shortened time notice to creditors respecting such changes in duties or authority." See Application for an Order Pursuant to Sections 105(a) and 363(b) of the Bankruptcy Code Authorizing and Approving (I) Employment and Retention of Lawrence R. Perkins as Chief Restructuring Officer, and (II) Employment of Sierra Constellation Partners, LLC (the "Employment Application") [Doc. No. 23] at ¶17.

On November 17, 2016, Judge Donovan conducted a hearing on a motion brought on Liberty's behalf by Mr. Kirk, which sought to divest Mr. Perkins from his role as Liberty's CRO, and to replace him with Samuel R. Biggs. The motion also sought to replace SCP with the firm SLBiggs. The Court denied the motion and set forth the reasons for the denial on the record:

Existing professionals were appointed because, among other things, the Committee had no confidence in the Kirk management. Kirk himself conceded that he didn't have the wherewithal personally to manage the predicaments into which the Debtors have come.... [I]t seems to me from comments made in hearings and comments made in pleadings, that there is reason to go forward with the Committee's efforts to identify assets and to take appropriate action to resolve ownership and opportunities for recovery of substantial funds with respect to assets that otherwise have been difficult to nail down and which in many cases lack significant value but for which the Committee has identified some $35,000,000 or so in assets that might have significant value for creditors.

Under these circumstances, it seems to me that Kirk should not be allowed to change management in this case midstream, having failed to produce an explicit valid persuasive reason to change professionals or in changing professionals to risk the recovery of assets for the benefit of creditors solely at Kirk's whim.

Among other things, the change in assets here, if nothing else, would cause delay. It would cause added cost to the estate. The cost added seemingly would risk waste, and yet the applications and the pleadings before me don't provide any substantial reason or adequate cause, while at the same time they threaten if the application were to be granted, serious detriment to the Debtor's estate.

It seems to me that the best interest of creditors lies in staying the course with duly appointed, carefully appointed current professionals that were appointed with the explicit support of Mr. Kirk ... where Mr. Kirk has articulated no new strategy

Kirk complains that the Debtor sold [the Baldwin property] short by 15 or so million dollars, 10 or 15 million dollars. That matter was litigated and concluded against Mr. Kirk in favor of the practicality and necessity of completing a sale after ample marketing, after ample opportunity for anybody with a better price to come in with something better than the stalking horse offer, with no better offer in sight after months of marketing and discussion. And at the same time, there's nothing in any present order or authority existing in this case to in any way limit Mr. Kirk or Mr. Kirk's counsel to offer or present a better buyer any time with respect to any property in the estate. Kirk always has the opportunity to do that. Kirk never has done that since this case was filed Overriding in my mind all of the shortcomings in Kirk's applications today is the fact that Kirk's conduct to date has produced significant disputes concerning perpetuation ownership and management accompanied by a highly unusual loss of meaningful important real estate investment records relating to management, financing, sales, and alarmingly, unexplained disposition of sales proceeds, all leaving many significant creditors holding the bag, most of those creditors being unsecured, some with secured claims.

So it seems to me that any change in professionals today would accomplish no improvement in the possibilities of a successful reorganization or program for the payment of creditors [than] what we have now in prospect. Rather, it would seem to me that a change in professionals, based on today's pleadings, would produce disruption of what appears to me to be an orderly, methodical effort of competent Kirk-nominated and court-approved professionals working effectively toward establishing the evidence to best identify, preserve, and recover the assets of the estates for the benefit of creditors, as well as for Debtor's principals and responsible employees and managers as these—as circumstances may permit.

Perkins' CRO declaration establishes that when he was appointed it was because of the Committee's lack of confidence in Kirk's management, and he was appointed with—as I say, with Kirk's specific consent. In effect, the Debtor agreed at the outset that ... Perkins was qualified to represent the Debtor's interest in Chapter 11 management of the entity. At the time, Kirk agreed that he would not have a decision making role in the reorganization but would be kept apprised of developments.

No. 297] at 3 (finding that "Kirk ceded authority in written agreements (1) for Perkins [the CRO] to manage the business [of Liberty] and its real estate assets, exclusive of any direct Kirk participation, and (2) for Perkins to hire and fire employees, including insiders").

On October 17, 2017, the Court denied Mr. Kirk's motion for reconsideration of an order approving a settlement agreement resolving the action 10th Street Santa Monica Project LLC and Liberty Asset Management Corporation v. Maxwell Real Estate Investment LLC et al. (the "Maxwell Action"). See Memorandum of Decision Denying Benjamin Kirk's Motion for Reconsideration of Order Approving Settlement Agreement [Doc. In denying the motion for reconsideration, the Court rejected Mr. Kirk's assertion that the CRO had breached his fiduciary duties by failing to achieve optimal value for Liberty's assets:

Mr. Kirk's argument that the CRO cannot be trusted to act in Liberty's best interests, based on assertions that the CRO has failed to fulfill his fiduciary duties, is similarly unpersuasive. Mr. Kirk's primary contention is that the CRO caused Liberty to sell various real properties for prices far below market value. Most of the sales of which Mr. Kirk complains were subject to Bankruptcy Court oversight, overbidding, and extensive marketing. In the end, the properties proved to be less valuable than Mr. Kirk hoped. However unpleasant this reality may be to Mr. Kirk, it does not demonstrate a lack of diligence by the CRO.

The Court found that Liberty had sustained damages in excess of $74 million in connection with Mr. Kirk and Ms. Gao's breach of their fiduciary duty to account for Liberty's assets.

The Motion to Convert to Chapter 7

Mr. Kirk asserts that he is Liberty's sole equity holder and seeks conversion of the case to Chapter 7 for cause pursuant to §1112(b). Liberty's Board of Directors (the "Board"), acting through Mr. Kirk, Liberty's sole Board member, moves for conversion to Chapter 7 pursuant to §1112(a). Movants make the following arguments and representations in support of the Motion:

Liberty Has Terminated the Employment of the CRO and SCP

In prior efforts to exercise his 100% ownership interest in Liberty, Mr. Kirk chose to seek and obtain an order from the Court before taking action to remove the CRO and Liberty's professionals. That approach, however, was not required under any law or court order. California Corporations Code §300(a) provides in relevant part:

the business and affairs of the corporation shall be managed and all corporate powers shall be exercised by or under the direction of the board. The board may delegate the management of the day-to-day operation of the business of the corporation to a management company or other person provided that the business and affairs of the corporation shall be managed and all corporate powers shall be exercised under the ultimate direction of the board.

Under the plain language of the statute, Liberty's Board retains ultimate authority over the employment and retention of a chief restructuring officer. Short of the appointment of a Chapter 11 Trustee, nothing in the Bankruptcy Code pre-empts California state law on this issue of corporate governance. "[T]he presumption against displacing state law by federal bankruptcy law is just as strong in bankruptcy as in other areas of federal legislative power. . . . [I]f Congress wished to grant an exemption from otherwise applicable nonbankruptcy state law, 'the intention would be clearly expressed.'" PG&E Co. v. Cal. ex rel. Cal. Dept of Toxic Substances Control, 350 F.3d 932, 943 (9th Cir. 2003).

Chapter 11

On December 13, 2017, the Board held a special meeting and executed a resolution (the "Resolution") authorizing and directing the termination of CRO Lawrence Perkins. The Resolution provides in relevant part:

Be it RESOLVED, that the Company, by and through the Board, be and hereby is, authorized and directed to seek conversion of the Company's bankruptcy case (Case No. 2:16-bk-13575) to a chapter 7;

Be it further RESOLVED, Lawrence Perkins [the CRO] and SierraConstellation Partners, LLC shall be terminated upon entry of an order converting the Company's bankruptcy case to a chapter 7;

Be it further RESOLVED, that effective immediately, any authority that Lawrence Perkins or SierraConstellation Partners, LLC may have to act for or on behalf of the Company or to bind or commit the Company in any fashion, is revoked;

Be it further RESOLVED, that until Lawrence Perkins and SierraConstellation Partners, LLC are terminated, they may continue their employment by the Company solely to assist the Company's counsel in providing reports or other information required for administration of the bankruptcy case.

Be it further RESOLVED, that should any court find that the Board cannot modify and terminate the employment of Lawrence Perkins and SierraConstellation Partners, LLC as set forth herein, the Company, by and through the Board, shall be authorized to rescind the employment agreements of Lawrence Perkins and SierraConstellation Partners, LLC on the grounds that it is unlawful and prejudicial to the public interest.

Be it further RESOLVED, that should the [sic] Lawrence Perkins and SierraConstellation Partners, LLC[s] employment agreement be rescinded, [Liberty] is authorized to reengage Mr. Perkins and SierraConstellation for the limited purpose of assisting the Company's counsel in providing reports or other information required for administration of the bankruptcy case until terminated upon entry of an order converting the Company's bankruptcy case to a chapter 7.

CRO and SCP as set forth in the Resolution, Liberty in the alternative elects rescission of the agreement providing for the employment of the CRO and SCP (the "Employment Agreement"). Under California law, any agreement that abrogates the Board's authority to terminate Liberty's employees is unlawful. In prior filings, the CRO has argued that Mr. Kirk agreed that the CRO would be terminated only by order of the Bankruptcy Court. Mr. Kirk denies that he agreed to any such provision. But even if Mr. Kirk did so agree, such a provision would be unlawful in view of Cal. Corp. Code §300(a)'s requirement that "all corporate powers shall be exercised under the ultimate direction of the board." Pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1689(b)(5), an unlawful agreement can be rescinded. By providing that the CRO could not be terminated absent an order of the Court, the Employment Agreement is unlawful and is therefore subject to rescission.

The Employment Agreement is additionally subject to rescission pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §1689(b)(6), which provides that a party may rescind any contract that prejudices the public interest. By eliminating the Board's ultimate management authority over Liberty in derogation of the requirements of Cal. Corp. Code §300(a), the Employment Agreement violates the public interest.

Liberty Exercises Its Absolute Right to Conversion to Chapter 7 Pursuant to §1112(a)
Section 1112(a) provides:

The debtor may convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 of this title unless—

- (1) the debtor is not a debtor in possession;
- (2) the case originally was commenced as an involuntary case under this chapter; or
- (3) the case was converted to a case under this chapter other than on the debtor's request.

Here, Liberty's has an absolute right to convert to Chapter 7. Liberty remains a debtor in possession as no Chapter 11 Trustee has been appointed, the case was not commenced as an involuntary case, and the case has not been previously converted. To the extent that the CRO asserts that the case should not be converted, he lacks authority to speak for Liberty. As of December 13, 2017, Mr. Kirk, as the sole member of Liberty's Board, is the only person with authority to speak on Liberty's behalf.

In the Alternative, Mr. Kirk Seeks Conversion of the Case to Chapter 7 Pursuant to §

Section 1112(b) provides that the Court, upon request of a party in interest, "shall convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 or dismiss a case under this chapter, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate, for cause unless the court determines that the appointment under section 1104(a) of a trustee or an examiner is in the best interests of creditors and the estate."

As an equity holder in Liberty, Mr. Kirk has standing to seek conversion under § 1112(b). Conversion is in the best interests of creditors because Liberty's material assets have been liquidated and there is no need for the continued employment of the Committee's premium-rate counsel. A Chapter 7 Trustee could liquidate the remaining assets more cheaply than the Committee. In addition, the CRO has mismanaged the estate by failing to timely pay Liberty's taxes, failing to timely pay quarterly US Trustee fees, and failing to require Liberty's annual corporate forms.

The Committee's Opposition to the Motion to Convert

The Committee makes the following arguments in opposition to the Motion to Convert:

Mr. Kirk's real motive for seeking conversion is to dissolve the Committee, which recently obtained a judgment against Mr. Kirk in excess of $74 million. There is no cause for conversion at this stage of the case. Liberty's assets have been sold, the major claims have been settled, and a plan will be filed this month.

Mr. Kirk lacks the authority to unilaterally terminate the CRO. The application to employ the CRO provides that the CRO "will not have his duties or authority modified by the Board unless there is a hearing before the bankruptcy court, on shortened notice to creditors respecting such changes in duties or authority." The Court has previously rejected Mr. Kirk's attempt to replace the CRO, and its prior conclusions are equally applicable today.

Mr. Kirk does not have an absolute right to convert to Chapter 7. First, Mr. Kirk is not a debtor in possession and therefore cannot seek conversion under §1112(a)(1). Mr. Kirk has no authority to act on Liberty's behalf absent an order of the Court. Unless such an order is issued, the CRO has authority to speak for the Debtor. The Court has already ruled that Mr. Kirk voluntarily ceded control of Liberty to the CRO, including the ability to hire and fire insiders.

Second, in Marrama v. Citizens Bank of Mass., 549 U.S. 365 (2007), the Supreme Court held that conversion of a case is subject to exceptions for bad faith conduct. Mr. Kirk's bad faith conduct makes him ineligible to seek conversion.

Chapter 11

Mr. Kirk has not demonstrated cause for conversion under §1112(b). Mr. Kirk asserts that conversion is justified because the Committee is "draining millions of dollars from the estate, [such that] assets are depleting." Motion at 10. The Committee's fees cannot be deemed a substantial or continuing loss to the estate because the Committee's adversary proceedings have recovered substantial assets for the estate. Mr. Kirk's contention that the Committee's fees are excessive should be raised in connection with the Committee's application for compensation.

In addition, pursuant to §1112(b)(2), the case may not be converted to Chapter 7. Section 1112(b) provides:

The court may not convert a case under this chapter to a case under chapter 7 or dismiss a case under this chapter if the court finds and specifically identifies unusual circumstances establishing that converting or dismissing the case is not in the best interests of creditors and the estate, and the debtor or any other party in interest establishes that—

(A) there is a reasonable likelihood that a plan will be confirmed within the timeframes established in sections 1121(e) and 1129(e) of this title, or if such sections do not apply, within a reasonable period of time; and

(B) the grounds for converting or dismissing the case include an act or omission of the debtor other than under paragraph (4)(A)—

(i) for which there exists a reasonable justification for the act or omission; and

(ii) that will be cured within a reasonable period of time fixed by the court.

Converting the case would not be in the interests of creditors because most of Liberty's assets have been sold, the largest claims have been settled, and the Committee intends to file a Plan within the next thirty days. To the extent that Mr. Kirk has identified alleged omissions by the CRO, those omissions have been cured and have caused no harm to the estate or its creditors.

Comments of Levene, Neale, Bender, Yoo & Brill LLP in Response to the Motion to Convert

Levene, Neale, Bender, Yoo & Brill LLP ("LNBYB") makes the following comments in connection with the Motion to Convert:

Counsel for Mr. Kirk has advised LNBYB that LNBYB does not have authority to file pleadings in this case in response to the Motion to Convert. Although LNBYB disagrees with Mr. Kirk's position based on the fact that it has been employed as an estate professional, to avoid needless dispute LNBYB files this pleading in its capacity as a Chapter 11 administrative creditor of Liberty and a party in interest.

Shortly after the appointment of the Committee, in May 2016 a meeting was held at LNBYB's offices. Mr. Kirk, the Committee's counsel, LNBYB, and the CRO attended. The Committee expressed its lack of confidence and continuing concern that Mr. Kirk would be involved in Liberty's decision-making process. Mr. Kirk advised counsel for the Committee that he agreed that the CRO would be the exclusive decision-maker on Liberty's behalf and that Mr. Kirk would be apprised of developments but would not have a decision-making role. Subsequent to the meeting, the parties have behaved consistently with such an agreement. In connection with Liberty's motion to compel the turnover of books and records (the "Turnover Motion"), the CRO and Mr. Kirk both executed declarations. The CRO's declaration stated: "I currently serve as the Debtor's official representative with exclusive authority to act and make decisions on behalf of the Debtor." Neither Mr. Kirk nor his personal counsel, both of whom received a copy of the Turnover Motion, objected to the CRO's declaration.

The extent of Mr. Kirk's interest in Liberty is uncertain based upon his own admissions and testimony. At the hearing on the Turnover Motion, Mr. Kirk testified that Ms. Gao held a 50% interest in Liberty. This statement contradicts Mr. Kirk's current position that he holds a 100% interest in Liberty.

Contrary to Mr. Kirk's contention, the Employment Agreement's provision barring the removal of the CRO absent Court approval does not contravene California law. California Corporations Code §1400 provides in relevant part:

Any domestic corporation with respect to which a proceeding has been initiated under any applicable statute of the United States, as now existing or hereafter enacted, relating to reorganizations of corporations, has full power and authority to put into effect and carry out any plan of reorganization and the orders of the court or judge entered in such proceeding and may take any proceeding and do any act provided in the plan or directed by such orders, without further action by its board or shareholders. Such power and authority may be exercised and such proceedings and acts may be taken, as may be directed by such orders, by the trustee or trustees of such corporation appointed in the reorganization proceeding (or a majority thereof), or if none is appointed and acting, by officers of the corporation designated or a master or other representative appointed by the court or judge, with like effect as if exercised and taken by unanimous action of the board and shareholders of the

Conversion to Chapter 7 is not in the best interests of creditors. The vast majority of estate assets have been liquidated and most of the litigation has been resolved. No cost savings would be realized by conversion to Chapter 7; instead, costs would increase given that a Chapter 7 Trustee would be required to become familiar with this complex case.

Movants' Reply in Support of the Motion to Convert

Movants make the following arguments in Reply to the Committee's Opposition and the comments submitted by LNBYB:

California Law Does Not Authorize the Abrogation of the Powers of Liberty's Board

Because no Chapter 11 Trustee has been appointed, Liberty is a debtor in possession. Liberty is a corporate entity and it is this entity that is "in possession," not Mr. Kirk or the CRO. The only relevant question is who has authority over Liberty. At one point, the CRO had certain authority over Liberty, but because the Board maintained ultimate authority over Liberty, it exercised that authority to relieve the CRO of his position.

LNBYB contends that the Court's order appointing the CRO grants him exclusive authority over Liberty. California state law does not authorize a Bankruptcy Court to displace a corporate debtor's board of directors. Although Cal. Corp. Code §300(a) permits a Board to delegate day-to-day management authority, "the business and affairs of the corporation shall be managed and all corporate powers shall be exercised under the ultimate direction of the board" (emphasis added).

LNBYB cites Cal. Corp. Code §1400 for the proposition that a Bankruptcy Court can oust a Debtor's Board. Cal. Corp. Code §1400 merely provides that actions that would require board approval outside bankruptcy can be done by a corporation without board approval in bankruptcy. The statute gives the corporate Chapter 11 Debtor authority to act where it is often impractical to rely upon its board to authorize such action. However, nothing in Cal. Corp. Code §1400(a) suggests that a Bankruptcy Court may remove or otherwise supplant a Debtor's Board.

The only provision in the Bankruptcy Code that pre-empts Cal. Corp. Code §300 (a), and divests a Debtor's Board of its authority to act, is the appointment of a Chapter 11 Trustee.

Both the Committee and LNBYB cite language in the application to approve the employment of the CRO which provides that the CRO's authority will not be modified absent a hearing before the Bankruptcy Court. However, this restriction is not found in the CRO's engagement letter with Liberty. Had such a term been set forth in the engagement letter, it would be void and unenforceable. Similarly, any such terms in an order of the Bankruptcy Court are also unenforceable as there are no grounds for the Bankruptcy Court to pre-empt state corporate law.

There is No Proper Basis to Oppose Conversion to Chapter 7

Even if the right to convert to Chapter 7 is not absolute, there is no basis for opposition to the conversion of this case. The Committee relies upon Marrama v. Citizens Bank of Mass., 549 U.S. 365 (2007) and related cases for the proposition that conversion may be denied based upon a debtor's bad-faith conduct. Those cases reasoned that conversion could be denied because the debtors were not entitled to the benefits of Chapter 7. The reasoning does not apply here, as no party takes the position that Liberty does not belong in bankruptcy to complete its liquidation.

Where courts have considered a corporate debtor's request to convert from Chapter 11 to Chapter 7, they have held that bad faith does not bar conversion. Instead, conversion is appropriate unless "extreme circumstances" exist that would cause conversion not to be in the best interests of creditors. See In re Modern Metal Prods. Co., 442 B.R. 118 (Bankr. N.D.Ill. 2009) and In re Kimrow, Inc., 534 B.R. 219 (Bankr. M.D. Ga. 2015).

Here, conversion is in the best interests of creditors because costs to the estate will be much greater in a continued Chapter 11 proceeding than under Chapter 7. Much of the work in this case has been done by the Committee's counsel, which has billed at a blended rate of $802.50 per hour. A Chapter 7 Trustee would be able to retain counsel with lower rates.

II. Findings and Conclusions

To the extent that it seeks to divest the CRO of his operational authority, the Motion to Convert is tantamount to a motion to reconsider the ruling denying Mr. Kirk's previous motion to remove Mr. Perkins as CRO and replace him with Samuel L. Biggs. In connection with that motion, Mr. Kirk advanced many of the same arguments that he asserts now. See Doc. No. 245 at 14–16 (asserting that Liberty's Board retains ultimate authority over Liberty's operations pursuant to Cal. Corp. Code §300(a)). In denying Mr. Kirk's motion to replace Mr. Perkins with Mr. Biggs, the Court implicitly rejected Mr. Kirk's contention that, pursuant to Cal. Corp. Code §300 (a), Liberty's Board possessed ultimately authority to determine who would serve as its CRO.

To the extent that it relies upon arguments previously raised in connection with the motion to replace Mr. Perkins with Mr. Biggs, the Court will construe the Motion to Convert as a motion for reconsideration under Civil Rule 59(e) and as a motion for relief from a judgment or order under Civil Rule 60(b).

Reconsideration under Civil Rule 59(e) is “an ‘extraordinary remedy, to be used sparingly in the interests of finality and conservation of judicial resources.’” Carroll v. Nakatani, 342 F.3d 934, 945 (9th Cir. 2003) (internal citation omitted). “[A] motion for reconsideration should not be granted, absent highly unusual circumstances, unless the district court is presented with newly discovered evidence, committed clear error, or if there is an intervening change in the controlling law.’ A Rule 59(e) motion may not be used to raise arguments or present evidence for the first time when they could reasonably have been raised earlier in the litigation.” Kona Enterprises, Inc. v. Estate of Bishop, 229 F.3d 877, 890 (9th Cir. 2000) (internal citation omitted). A motion for reconsideration may not be used “to rehash the same arguments made the first time or simply express an opinion that the court was wrong.” In re Greco, 113 B.R. 658, 664 (D. Haw. 1990), aff’d and remanded sub nom. Greco v. Troy Corp., 952 F.2d 406 (9th Cir. 1991); see also In re Mannie, 299 B.R. 603, 608 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2003) (internal citation omitted) (“A motion to reconsider should not be used ‘to ask the court “to rethink what the court had already thought through—rightly or wrongly”—or to reiterate arguments previously raised.’”).

Relief from a judgment or order under Civil Rule 60(b) may be granted for various reasons, including (1) mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect and (2) newly discovered evidence that could not have been previously discovered with reasonable diligence. In all cases, a Rule 60(b) motion must be made “within a reasonable time.” Civil Rule 60(c)(1). A Rule 60(b) motion predicated upon (1) mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect or (2) newly discovered evidence must be made within one year. To determine whether a Rule 60(b) motion has been brought within a reasonable time, the Court “takes into consideration the interest in finality, the reason for delay, the practical ability of the litigant to learn earlier of the grounds relied upon, and prejudice to other parties.” Sallie Mae Servicing v. Brian T. Williams (In re Williams), 287 B.R. 787, 793 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2002) (internal citations omitted).

Whether considered under Rule 59(e) or Rule 60(b), the Motion to Convert’s arguments regarding the Board’s ultimate authority to hire and fire Liberty’s CRO are not properly before the Court and must be rejected. Considered under Rule 59(e), those arguments are not appropriate because they are nothing more than a reiteration of arguments previously advanced. See Greco, 113 B.R. at 664; Mannie, 299 B.R. at 608. Considered under Rule 60(b), the arguments must be rejected upon multiple grounds. First, none of the criteria for relief under Rule 60(b)—such as mistake, inadvertence, surprise, excusable neglect, or newly discovered evidence—have been satisfied. Second, and more critically, the arguments have not been raised within a reasonable time. Movants have presented no valid reason for their delay of more than one year in raising the arguments a second time. The delay is particularly egregious given that Mr. Perkins, his advisory firm SCP, and the Committee have expended substantial efforts liquidating Liberty’s assets in reliance upon the orders approving the employment of the CRO and his firm. Removal of the CRO at this juncture would be highly disruptive and prejudicial to the administration of the estate.

Furthermore, Movants have not demonstrated that the Court’s prior determination regarding the Board’s inability to remove the CRO absent Court approval was in error. Mr. Kirk relies primarily upon Cal. Corp. Code §300(a) in support of his position that he has the ability to unilaterally revoke the CRO’s authority to act on Liberty’s behalf. In relevant part, Cal. Corp. Code §300(a) provides:

the business and affairs of the corporation shall be managed and all corporate powers shall be exercised by or under the direction of the board. The board may delegate the management of the day-to-day operation of the business of the corporation to a management company or other person provided that the business and affairs of the corporation shall be managed and all corporate powers shall be exercised under the ultimate direction of the board.

According to Mr. Kirk, the Employment Application’s provision barring the removal of the CRO absent Bankruptcy Court approval contravenes Cal. Corp. Code §300(a) by divesting Liberty’s Board of ultimate control over the business and affairs of the corporation.

The Court does not agree that the Employment Application contravenes applicable California law. California law contains provisions authorizing a corporation to delegate its authority in the context of a reorganization proceeding. Specifically, Cal. Corp. Code §1400(a) provides:

Any domestic corporation with respect to which a proceeding has been initiated under any applicable statute of the United States, as now existing or hereafter enacted, relating to reorganizations of corporations, has full power and authority to put into effect and carry out any plan of reorganization and the orders of the court or judge entered in such proceeding and may take any proceeding and do any act provided in the plan or directed by such orders, without further action by its board or shareholders. Such power and authority may be exercised and such proceedings and acts may be taken, as may be directed by such orders, by the trustee or trustees of such corporation appointed in the reorganization proceeding (or a majority thereof), or if none is appointed and acting, by officers of the corporation designated or a master or other representative appointed by the court or judge, with like effect as if exercised and taken by unanimous action of the board and shareholders of the corporation.

The procedures contemplated by Cal. Corp. Code §1400(a) have been followed in this case. At the outset of the case, Mr. Kirk represented to the Court that he lacked the experience and ability to guide Liberty through Chapter 11. As a result, upon a motion signed by Mr. Kirk, the Court appointed Mr. Perkins as Liberty's CRO. As the CRO, Mr. Perkins acts as a "trustee" of Liberty within the meaning of Cal. Corp. Code § 1400(a). Further, Cal. Corp. Code §1400(a) contemplates that after a CRO such as Mr. Perkins has been appointed, no further action by the debtor's board is necessary or required. In view of this provision, there is no merit to Mr. Kirk's contention that the Employment Agreement contravenes Cal. Corp. Code §300(a) by divesting Liberty of its ability to supervise the corporation's affairs.

In addition, the Court finds that Mr. Kirk is judicially estopped, at this late stage in the proceedings, from asserting that he may unilaterally remove Mr. Perkins absent an order of the Court. "Judicial estoppel, sometimes also known as the doctrine of preclusion of inconsistent positions, precludes a party from gaining an advantage by taking one position, and then seeking a second advantage by taking an incompatible position." 'Judicial estoppel is an equitable doctrine that is intended to protect the integrity of the judicial process by preventing a litigant from playing fast and loose with the courts.'" Whaley v. Belleque, 520 F.3d 997, 1002 (9th Cir. 2008).

Mr. Kirk, in his capacity as Liberty's CEO, signed the Employment Application which resulted in the appointment of Mr. Perkins as the CRO. The Employment Application unambiguously provided that Mr. Perkins could only be removed upon a Court order. Having obtained the employment of the CRO based upon a representation that the CRO's employment would continue unless otherwise ordered by the Court, Mr. Kirk is estopped from now taking the position that he can unilaterally revoke the CRO's authority to act on Liberty's behalf.

The Court further finds that Mr. Kirk has not shown cause for conversion pursuant to §1112(b). First, the Court rejects Mr. Kirk's contention that conversion to Chapter 7 would result in substantial savings. To the contrary, the Court finds that conversion would be more expensive. This case is complex and the new professionals appointed in connection with conversion to Chapter 7 would incur significant costs familiarizing themselves with the facts. Second, the Court finds there to be no merit to Mr. Kirk's allegations that the CRO has not competently discharged his obligations in administering the estate. Mr. Kirk alleges that the CRO failed to timely pay Liberty's taxes, failed to file required corporate forms, and failed to timely pay quarterly UST fees. Having reviewed the CRO's declaration, the Court finds that it is Mr. Kirk, not the CRO, who is to blame for these failures. The CRO's declaration establishes that Mr. Kirk refused to turn over control of Liberty's bank accounts to the CEO for several months, notwithstanding the CRO's multiple requests. This caused delays in the CRO's ability to file certain reports and pay UST fees. The Court notes that all delinquencies have subsequently been remedied.

Plan Confirmation Deadlines

Based upon the Committee's representation that it intends to file a liquidating plan within the next thirty days, the Court sets February 21, 2018 as the deadline for the filing of a Plan. The deadline for the Committee to obtain approval of a Disclosure Statement is April 25, 2018.

To ensure the maximum distribution to creditors, it is imperative that a Plan be confirmed quickly. If a Plan has not been confirmed by July 25, 2018, the Court will consider the appointment of a Chapter 11 Trustee or revisit conversion to chapter 7.

Conclusion

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion to Convert is DENIED. The Court will enter an appropriate order.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. “Settlement Agreement”) which resolves the adversary proceeding captioned Crystal Waterfalls LLC v. HCL 2011, LLC, Adv. No. 2:15-ap-01671 (the “HCL Adversary”). Substantially identical Motions seeking approval of the Settlement Agreement have been filed in the Liberty and Crystal cases.

Liberty commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on March 21, 2016. Crystal commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on November 19, 2015. Crystal’s primary asset was a hotel property located at 1211 E. Garvey Street, Covina, CA (the “Hotel”). On December 2, 2016, the Court approved the sale of the Hotel for $22.6 million. See Doc. No. 284, Case No. 2:15-bk-27769-ER. After payment of undisputed liens, taxes, and costs of sale, approximately $9.3 million of the sales proceeds remain (the “Hotel Sales Proceeds”) and are being held by Crystal’s counsel in its attorney-client trust account. See Doc. No. 337, Case No. 2:15-bk-27769-ER. The Committee contends that Liberty is the beneficial owner of all of the membership interests in Crystal.

The HCL Adversary Proceeding

On March 24, 2017, Crystal filed a “Second Amended Complaint for (1) Cancellation of Written Instrument, (2) Quiet Title, (3) Avoidance of Fraudulent Transfer (11 U.S.C. §544), and (4) Declaratory Relief” (the “Complaint”) [Adv. No. 2:15-ap-01671-ER, Doc. No. 142] against HCL 2011 LLC (“HCL”). In the Complaint, Crystal alleges that HCL, acting through Benjamin Kirk (“Mr. Kirk”), recorded an unauthorized grant deed (the “Grant Deed”) transferring the Hotel to Washe, LLC (“Washe”). Crystal alleges that Washe, acting through Shelby Ho (“Ms. Ho”), then recorded an unauthorized deed of trust (the “Deed of Trust”) against the Hotel and in favor of HCL, which purported to secure a $28.5 million loan from HCL to Washe. Crystal alleges that neither it or Washe ever entered into a loan agreement with HCL, ever received any funds from HCL, or ever received any benefit from recordation of the Deed of Trust. Crystal seeks to set aside the Deed of Trust and seeks a declaration that HCL has no interest in the Hotel.

On May 26, 2017, HCL filed a Second Amended Counterclaim (the “Counterclaim”) against Crystal and other parties. HCL seeks a declaration that its Deed of Trust against the Hotel is valid, as well as a declaration that Crystal holds the Hotel Sales Proceeds in constructive trust for the benefit of HCL and a group of investors consisting of Sophia Huang and her family members (the “Lee Group”).

Proofs of Claim Filed by the Lee Group bankruptcy case in the aggregate amount of $35,354,904.12. On November 4, 2016, HCL (on behalf of the Lee Group) filed a proof of claim in the Crystal bankruptcy case in the amount of $37,310,00.43. HCL asserts that $28.5 million of its claim in the Crystal case is secured by a deed of trust against the Hotel Sales Proceeds (the "HCL DOT").

Liberty, Crystal, and the Committee dispute the validity of the HCL DOT and the proofs of claim filed by the Lee Investors. Liberty, Crystal, and the Committee assert that the HCL DOT is void and/or may be avoided as a fraudulent transfer pledged in furtherance of a Ponzi scheme, and that even if the HCL DOT is valid, it should be reduced to the net principal amount invested with Liberty. The Lee Group asserts that the HCL DOT and the proofs of claim filed in the Liberty case are valid.

Proof of Claim Filed by JD Brothers

On October 14, 2016, JD Brothers filed a proof of claim in the Liberty bankruptcy case in the amount of $24,433,689. JD Brothers' claim arises from an investment contract pursuant to which JD Brothers invested $13 million in exchanged for certain distressed assets as well as a 44.4% interest in HK Grace Building LLC, which owned real property located at 166 Geary Street, San Francisco, CA (the "Geary Property").

The Settlement Agreement

The material terms of the Settlement Agreement are as follows:

- 1) Lee Group Allowed Secured Claim. The Lee Investors shall have an allowed secured claim in the amount of $3.5 million against Crystal (the "Lee Group Allowed Secured Claim").
- 2) Lee Group Allowed Unsecured Claim. The Lee Investors shall have an allowed general unsecured claim against Liberty in the amount of $32.5 million (the "Lee Group Allowed General Unsecured Claim").
- 3) JD Brothers Allowed Unsecured Claim. JD Brothers shall not amend its claim against Liberty, and the claim shall be deemed allowed.
- 4) Payment of Lee Group Claims. The Lee Group Allowed Secured Claim shall be paid in full (without interest) by Crystal within five days after entry of the orders approving the Settlement Agreement. The Lee Group Allowed General Unsecured Claim will be satisfied pursuant to a plan of liquidation in the Liberty bankruptcy case. The Lee Group Allowed General Unsecured Claim will be in the same class and treated consistently with JD Brothers' general unsecured claim.

- 5) Payment of HCL Claim. Upon entry of orders approving the Settlement Agreement, HCL's claim against Crystal shall be reduced to an allowed secured claim in the amount of $3.5 million, and HCL's claim against Liberty shall be increased to an allowed general unsecured claim in the amount of $32.5 million. All remaining proofs of claim filed by the Lee Group shall be waived from the claims registers in the Liberty and Crystal cases.
- 6) Dismissal of the HCL Adversary. Within five business days after entry of the orders approving the Settlement Agreement, Crystal and HCL will request dismissal of the HCL Adversary with prejudice.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Bankruptcy Rule 9019 provides that the Court may approve a compromise or settlement. "In determining the fairness, reasonableness and adequacy of a proposed settlement agreement, the court must consider: (a) The probability of success in the litigation; (b) the difficulties, if any, to be encountered in the matter of collection; (c) the complexity of the litigation involved, and the expense, inconvenience and delay necessarily attending it; (d) the paramount interest of the creditors and a proper deference to their reasonable views in the premises." Martin v. Kane (In re A&C Properties), 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986). "[C]ompromises are favored in bankruptcy, and the decision of the bankruptcy judge to approve or disapprove the compromise of the parties rests in the sound discretion of the bankruptcy judge." In re Sassalos, 160 B.R. 646, 653 (D. Ore. 1993). In approving a settlement agreement, the Court must "canvass the issues and see whether the settlement 'falls below the lowest point in the range of reasonableness.'" Cosoff v. Rodman (In re W.T. Grant Co.), 699 F.2d 599, 608 (2d Cir. 1983). Applying the A&C Properties factors, the Court finds that the Settlement Agreement is adequate, fair, and reasonable, and is in the best interests of the estate and creditors.

Paramount Interests of Creditors

This factor weighs strongly in favor of approving the Settlement Agreement. No creditors have objected to approval of the Settlement Agreement, and the Settlement Agreement is supported by the Committee. The Settlement Agreement is supported by the Lee Group and JD Brothers, which are among the largest creditors in the Crystal and Liberty cases. The Settlement Agreement avoids litigation which would be time consuming and would increase administrative costs.

Chapter 11

Difficulties to Be Encountered in the Matter of Collection

This factor does not apply since the issue is the avoidance of the HCL DOT as opposed to an affirmative recovery.

Complexity of the Litigation

This factor weighs strongly in favor of approving the Settlement Agreement. The litigation involves a complex and fact-intensive web of transactions among numerous parties. Many of the records pertaining to the transactions that would feature prominently in the litigation are no longer available, which only increase complexity.

Probability of Success on the Merits

This factor weighs in favor of approving the Settlement Agreement. While it is possible that litigation could result in the invalidation of the HCL DOT, such an outcome would be time consuming and costly. Thus, from the perspective of the estate and creditors, any improved recovery obtained through additional litigation would be pyrrhic, because the additional recovery would almost certainly be offset by much larger administrative costs.

III. Conclusion

Based upon the foregoing, the Motions are GRANTED and the Settlement Agreement is APPROVED. Crystal and Liberty shall submit conforming orders, incorporating this tentative ruling by reference, within seven days of the hearing.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. Chapter 7

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

On August 7, 2017, Financial Services Vehicle Trust, by and through its servicer, BMW Financial Services NA, LLC (the "Plaintiff") timely filed a "Complaint to Determine Dischargeability of Debt"(the "Complaint") against Sarmen Ghazaryan (the "Defendant"). After Defendant failed to respond to the summons, the Clerk of the Court entered default against the Defendant on September 14, 2017.

Plaintiff seeks a judgment that indebtedness incurred by Defendant in connection with a vehicle lease is non-dischargeable pursuant to §523(a)(2)(B). Plaintiff alleges that in submitting a credit application in connection with the vehicle lease, Defendant falsely represented that his annual income was $118,000, when in fact his annual income was less than $6,000. Defendant has not responded to the Motion for Default Judgment.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Once default has been entered, the well-pleaded factual allegations of the complaint are taken as true. Cripps v. Life Ins. Co. of North America, 980 F.2d 1261, 1267 (9th Cir.1992). The Complaint's allegations, as well as the supporting declarations submitted in connection with the Motion for Default Judgment, establish that Plaintiff is entitled to judgment against Defendant for damages of $27,958.36, accrued interest of $2,408.62, attorneys' fees of $17,086.00, and court costs of $1,356.17.

Section 523(a)(2)(B) excepts from discharge "money, property, services, or an extension, renewal, or refinancing of credit, to the extent obtained by use of a statement in writing that is materially false; respecting the debtor's ... financial condition; on which the creditor to whom the debtor is liable for such money, property, services, or credit reasonably relied; and that the debtor caused to be made or published with intent to deceive."

The declarations submitted by Plaintiff establish that it reasonably relied upon Defendants' materially false statements regarding his annual income. Specifically, Plaintiff ran a credit check using its customary procedures, and the credit check did not indicate any red flags. The well-pleaded allegations of the Complaint show that Defendant made the false representations regarding his income for the purpose of deceiving Plaintiff into extending the credit used to finance the vehicle lease.

Plaintiff has established its damages by submitting evidence of the deficiency it incurred on account of unpaid lease payments after it repossessed and sold the vehicle. Finally, Plaintiff has showed that it is entitled to recover costs and attorneys' fees. As explained by the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel in In re Hung Tan Pham, 250 B.R. 93, 99 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2000), “the determinative question in cases under § 523(a)(2) is whether the successful plaintiff could recover attorney’s fees in a non-bankruptcy court.” Here, Plaintiff could recover attorneys’ fees in state court as a result of the fee provision in the lease agreement that Plaintiff signed. Having reviewed the billing statements submitted in connection with the Motion for Default Judgment, the Court finds that the requested fees of $17,086.00 are reasonable in view of the work performed.

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion for Default Judgment is GRANTED in its entirety. In view of the granting of the Motion, the Status Conference is taken off calendar. Plaintiff shall submit a conforming judgment within seven days of the hearing.

Tentative Ruling:

1/18/2018

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) for cause to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to repossess or otherwise obtain possession and dispose of its collateral pursuant to applicable law, and to use the proceeds from its disposition to satisfy its claim. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501. The Court takes judicial notice of the Chapter 7 Individual Debtor's Statement of Intention in which the Debtor stated an intention to surrender the vehicle to Movant.

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. All other relief is denied.

#3.00 HearingRE: [13] Notice of motion and motion for relief from the automatic stay with supporting declarations REAL PROPERTY RE: 20301 Adriana Pl, Santa Clarita, CA 91351 . (Jafarnia, Merdaud)

Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

1/18/2018

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the property in accordance with applicable law. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501. Since a chapter 7 case does not contemplate reorganization, the sole issue before the Court when stay relief is sought under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) is whether the Debtor has equity in the property. See, e.g., Martens v. Countrywide Home Loans (In re Martens), 331 B.R. 395, 398 (8th Cir. BAP 2005); Ramco Indus. v. Preuss (In re Preuss), 15 B.R. 896, 897 (9th Cir. BAP 1981).

The subject property has a value of $633,000 and is encumbered by a perfected deed of trust or mortgage in favor of the Movant. The liens against the property and the expected costs of sale total $692,689.33. The Court finds there is no equity and there is no evidence that the trustee can administer the subject real property for the benefit of creditors.

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. Docket 13

Tentative Ruling:

1/18/2018

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the property in accordance with applicable law. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501. Movant has established a prima facie case that cause exists, and Debtor has not responded with evidence establishing that the property is not declining in value or that Movant is adequately protected.

The subject property has a value of $300,000 and is encumbered by a perfected deed of trust or mortgage in favor of the Movant. Considering Movant's lien, all senior liens against the property, and the estimated costs of sale, there is an equity cushion of $23,738.77. There is some, but very little equity and there is no evidence that the property is necessary to a reorganization or that the trustee can administer the property for the benefit of creditors. Movant is protected by a 7.9% equity cushion in the property. The Ninth Circuit has established that an equity cushion of 20% constitutes adequate protection for a secured creditor. Pistole v. Mellor (In re Mellor), 734 F.2d 1396, 1401 (9th Cir. 1984); see Downey Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Helionetics, Inc. (In re Helionetics, Inc.), 70 B.R. 433, 440 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1987) (holding that a 20.4% equity cushion was sufficient to protect the creditor's interest in its collateral).

Because the equity cushion in this case is less than 20%, the Court concludes that Movant's interest in the collateral is not adequately protected. This is cause to terminate the stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1).

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. All other relief is denied.

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1). The stay is terminated as to the Debtor and the Debtor's bankruptcy estate with respect to the Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns. Movant may enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property in accordance with applicable law, but may not pursue a deficiency claim against the debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501.

The Movant filed an unlawful detainer action on October 16, 2017.

This Motion has been filed to allow the Movant to proceed with the unlawful detainer proceeding in state court. Movant also requests annulment of the stay. The notice to quit was served upon the Debtor on November 30, 2017; the Petition was filed on November 22, 2017. As evidenced by the "Certificate of Notice of Meeting of Creditors" [Doc. No. 7], Notice of the Petition was mailed to the Movant, among other creditors listed on the Master List of Creditors [Doc. No. 1], via first class mail on November 24, 2017. Thus, it would appear that the Movant was served with notice of the Petition prior to serving the notice to quit upon the Debtor. Furthermore, the Movant has not attached a supplemental declaration to the Motion stating the grounds for the requested annulment of the stay. Therefore, the Court does not find that annulment is appropriate and Movant's request for annulment is DENIED.

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of this bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. All other relief is denied.

#8.00 HearingRE: [17] Notice of motion and motion for relief from automatic stay with supporting declarations ACTION IN NON-BANKRUPTCY FORUM RE: State Court Action KC 065554 . (Miller, Edward)

Docket 17

Tentative Ruling:

1/18/2018

The Court GRANTS the Motion pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) to permit Movant to proceed under applicable non-bankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to proceed to final judgment in the non-bankruptcy forum, provided that the stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against Debtor or estate property. The stay is annulled retroactive to the Petition Date. All other relief is denied.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay Under 11 U.S.C. § 362 (Action in Nonbankruptcy Forum) (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 17]
- 2) Supplemental Declaration of Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. in Support of the Motion [Doc. No. 19]
- 3) No Opposition to the Motion has been filed as of the date of this tentative ruling

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Steve Sommer (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on November 6, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On December 28, 2017, Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. (the "Movant") filed the "Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay Under 11 U.S.C. § 362 (Action in Nonbankruptcy Forum)" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 17].

The Motion

The Motion seeks stay-relief pursuant to § 362(d)(1), so that the Movant may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to proceed to final judgment in the nonbankruptcy forum in an action against the Debtor in the Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles, captioned Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. v. Sommer et al., Case No. KC065554 (the "State Court Action"). The State Court Action was filed on February 1, 2013. The State Court Action asserts claims for: (1) Judicial Foreclosure Deed of Trust; (2) Appointment of Receiver, Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary Injunction; and (3) Recovery of Personal Property.

The Movant contends that cause exists to grant stay-relief under §362(d)(1) for the following reasons:

- (1) The claims in the State Court Action arise under nonbankruptcy law and can be most expeditiously resolved in the nonbankruptcy forum. The State Court Action involves non-debtor parties and a single trial in the nonbankruptcy forum is the most efficient use of judicial resources.

The Motion also requests annulment of the stay based on the Movant's postpetition actions against the Debtor. The Movant states that pursuant to the terms of a Stipulation for Entry of Judgment in Trust executed by the parties on May 27, 2014, the Movant was entitled to immediate relief from stay if the Debtor filed for bankruptcy protection.

The Movant filed the Supplemental Declaration of Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. in Support of the Motion (the "Supplemental Declaration") [Doc. No. 19] on January 5, 2018. The Supplemental Declaration clarifies that the Movant requests relief from stay specifically to return to the Superior Court and conclude the State Court Action against the Debtor. Supplemental Declaration at ¶ 5. The Movant will not proceed with collection of the judgment against the Debtor absent approval of the Court, and is not attempting to liquidate any personal or real property at this time. Id.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

As a preliminary matter, a motion for relief from the automatic stay is a summary proceeding that does not involve an adjudication of the merits of the underlying claims. As recognized by the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel in In re Luz Int'l, Ltd.:

Chapter 7

Given the limited grounds for obtaining a motion for relief from stay, read in conjunction with the expedited schedule for a hearing on the motion, most courts hold that motion for relief from stay hearings should not involve an adjudication of the merits of claims, defenses, or counterclaims, but simply determine whether the creditor has a colorable claim to the property of the estate. See In re Johnson, 756 F.2d 738, 740 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 474 U.S. 828, 106 S.Ct. 88, 88 L.Ed.2d 72 (1985) ("Hearings on relief from the automatic stay are thus handled in a summary fashion. The validity of the claim or contract underlying the claim is not litigated during the hearing.").

The automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. § 362(a) stays all action involving the following, in pertinent part:

- (1) the commencement or continuation, including the issuance or employment of process of a judicial, administrative, or other action or proceeding against the debtor that was or could have been commenced before the commencement of the case under this title, or to recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title;
- (6) any act to collect, assess, or recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title.

11 U.S.C. §§ 362(a)(1), (a)(6).

Section 362(d)(1) permits a bankruptcy court to grant relief from the automatic stay upon a showing of "cause." Cause is a flexible concept and courts often conduct a fact intensive, case-by-case balancing test, examining the totality of the circumstances to determine whether sufficient cause exists to lift the stay. In re SCO Grp., Inc., 395 B.R. 852, 856 (Bankr. D. Del. 2007) (citing Baldino v. Wilson (In re Wilson), 116 F.3d 87, 90 (3d Cir. 1997); In re Laguna Assocs. Ltd., 30 F.3d 734, 737 (7th Cir. 1994)); In re MacDonald, 755 F.2d 715, 717 (9th Cir. 1985). "Among factors appropriate to consider in determining whether relief from the automatic stay should be granted to allow state court proceedings to continue are considerations of judicial economy and the expertise of the state court." In re Kronemyer, 405 B.R. 915, 921 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2009) (citing In re MacDonald, 755 F.2d 715, 717 (9th Cir. 1985)).

Here, the causes of actions in the state court complaint attached to the Motion involve state law violations and are within the expertise of the state court. Allowing Movant to continue the intended state court complaint will best promote the judicial economy by adjudicating a final judgment as to the underlying claims that may either support or negate the filing of a proof of claim and/or an adversary complaint.

Based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Motion pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) to permit the Movant to proceed under applicable non-bankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to proceed to final judgment in the non-bankruptcy forum, provided that the stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against the Debtor or estate property. The Debtor's Opposition is overruled. The Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim or any other claim against the Debtor or property of the estate, except that the Movant will retain the right to file a proof of claim and/or an adversary complaint under §§523 or 727. This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code.

The stay is annulled retroactive to the petition date, so that enforcement actions taken by Movant, if any, before receipt of notice of the automatic stay will not be deemed to have been voided by the automatic stay.

All other relief is denied.

Movant shall upload an appropriate order via the Court's Lodged Order Upload system within 7 days of the hearing.

#1.00 Status HearingRE: [1] Chapter 7 Involuntary Petition Against an Individual. Sarah) Additional attachment(s) added on 12/15/2017 (Cowan, Sarah).

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

1/22/2018

The involuntary petition is DISMISSED for the reasons set forth below.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Involuntary Petition Against a Non-Individual [Doc. No. 1]
- 2) Summons and Notice of Status Conference in an Involuntary Bankruptcy Case [Doc. No. 3]

The Petitioning Creditor has failed to file a proof of service establishing that the Summons, Notice of Status Conference, and Involuntary Petition were served upon the Alleged Debtor. The Summons issued to the Petitioning Creditor clearly informs the Petitioning Creditor of the obligation to serve the Summons, Notice of Status Conference, and Involuntary Petition upon the Alleged Debtor. The Summons further advises the Petitioning Creditor that failure to properly effectuate service may result in dismissal of the involuntary petition.

Local Bankruptcy Rule 1010-1 provides in relevant part: "The court may dismiss an involuntary petition without further notice and hearing if the petitioner fails to ... (c) serve the summons and petition within the time allowed by FRBP 7004; (d) file a proof of service of the summons and petition with the court; or (e) appear at the status conference set by the court."

The Court will dismiss the involuntary petition based on the Petitioning Creditors' failure to file a proof of service of the summons and petition with the court. However, as a motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on shortened notice on January 29, 2018, the Court will not enter the dismissal order until after the stay-relief motion has been heard. The Court will enter an appropriate order.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Unity Courier Service, Inc. (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on March 31, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. Prior to filing the Petition, the Debtor was a named defendant in multiple class action lawsuits in the California Superior Court asserting claims for violations of various provisions of California's labor laws. [Note 1]. On May 9, 2017 the Court entered an Order Setting June 29, 2017 as the Last Day to File Proofs of Claim (the "Bar Date Order") [Doc. No. 66]. On June 22, 2017, Class Representative Pedro Polio on behalf of himself and the Unity Class [Note 2] filed Claim No. 26 in the amount of $80,867,985.71 (the "Polio Claim"). On June 29, 2017, Angelea Brooks, Patrick Harris, and Gerald Nolan, individually and on behalf of the TBS Class [Note 3] filed Claim No. 28 in the amount of $5,313,926.99 (the "TBS Claim"). Also on June 29, 2017, Tim Callejo filed Claim No. 31 in the amount of $6,080,042.00; the Amended Claim No. 31 the amount of $11,110,400.00 was filed on December 27, 2017 (together, the "Callejo Claim").

The "Debtor's First Amended Plan of Reorganization Dated December 13, 2017" (the "Plan") [Doc. No. 187] places claims filed on account of the Debtor's alleged wage and hour violations into Class 3(a) (the "Class 3(a) Claims"). The Class 3(a) Claims include the Polio Claim, the TBS Claim, and the Callejo Claim. The TBS Claimant has objected to the claims asserted by two other Class 3(a) Claimants. The Polio Claimant has filed a motion for entry of an order certifying his claim as a class claim (the "Class Certification Motion") [Doc. No. 212]. On January 5, 2018, the Court entered the "Order Consolidating Hearings on Allowability of Class 3(A) Claims" [Doc. No. 213]. The Consolidated Hearing Date is January 23, 2018 at 10:00 a.m.

The Class Certification Motion

On January 3, 2018, creditor and class-claimant Polio individually and on behalf of the Unity Class filed the "Motion for Application of FRCP Rule 23 Class Certification" (the "Class Certification Motion") [Doc. No. 212]. The Class Certification Motion requests entry of an order certifying the Polio Claim as a class claim pursuant to FRCP 23, made applicable to bankruptcy proceedings pursuant to FRBP 7023 and 9014.

The Unity Class, see Note 2, was certified by the Superior Court of the State of California for the County of Alameda (the "Alameda Superior Court") on July 23, 2015. The Alameda Superior Court certified the following claims: (1) Failure to Pay Minimum Wage; (2) Overtime Compensation; (3) Failure to Provide Rest Periods or Pay One Hour of Additional Wages in Lieu Thereof; (4) Failure to Provide Meal Periods or Pay One Hour of Additional Wages in Lieu Thereof; (5) Failure to Timely Pay Wages Due at Termination; (6) Knowing and Intentional Failure to Comply with Itemized Employee Wage Statement Provisions; (7) Unfair and Unlawful Acts in Violation of Unfair Competition Law; and (8) Failure to Reimburse Expenses and/or Prohibited Cash Bond. "Declaration of Jasleen Ahuja" ("Ahuja Declaration") [Doc. No. 212] at ¶ 4, Exhibit B. The Class Certification Motion contends that sufficient cause exists for the Court to exercise its discretion to invoke FRBP 7023 and FRCP 23. The Class Certification Motion cites In re Musicland Holding Corp, 362 B.R. 644 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2007) which set forth three factors to be considered in determining whether to invoke FRBP 7023: (1) whether the class was certified pre-petition; (2) whether the members of the putative class received notice of the claims bar date; and (3) whether class certification will adversely affect the administration of the estate. 362 B.R. at 654–55.

The Class Certification Motion contends that all three Musicland factors militate in favor of certifying the Unity Class. The first Musicland factor militates in favor of applying FRBP 7023 because the Unity Class was certified pre-petition by the Alameda Superior Court, and the Unity Class adequately satisfied the requirements under FRCP 23 of: (a) numerosity; (b) commonality; (c) typicality; and (d) adequate representation. The second Musicland factor also weighs in favor of certification of the Unity Class because the Debtor provided putative class members with notice of the Claims Bar Date. Lastly, the third Musicland factor favors certification because certification of the Unity Class will not adversely impact the administration of the Estate.

The Limited Opposition of TBS Class

On January 9, 2018, the TBS Class filed the "Limited Opposition to Class Certification Motion" [Doc. No. 217]. The TBS Class opposes the Class Certification Motion to the extent it seeks damages for a period beyond what was granted in the Alameda Superior Court's Certification Order, i.e. from the "time period beginning on March 1, 2008 and ending on the date of notice to the class." Doc. No. 217 at 2; see also Note 2.

The Polio Objection

On December 1, 2017, the TBS Class filed the "Supplemental Objection to Claim #26 by Claimant Pedro Polio Class" (the "Polio Objection") [Doc. No. 183]. The TBS Class objects to the Polio Claim on the basis that the Polio Claim fails to provide supporting evidence to substantiate the claim. Therefore, the TBS Class contends that the Polio Claim should be disallowed due to the Polio Class's failure to provide any supporting evidence. The Polio Objection contends that the Polio Class, between the Polio Claim itself and the meet and confer process, failed to substantiate its "conclusory claims with any itemization that would enable a neutral third party to examine the breakdown without complete reliance on the self-interested calculations [submitted by the Polio Class]." Doc. No. 183 at 4. The Polio Objection argues that "[s]upporting documentation should, at a minimum, itemize the names of employees, work dates, and the employee expenses that underlie the claim for penalties." Id. at 5. In contrast, the Polio Objection contends that the information provided in support of the Polio Claim is not sufficient to allow a neutral observer to ascertain "the dates involved, the people involved, the type of employees involved or the dollar amounts tied to any of these dates, people or types of employees." Id.

Polio Opposition

On January 3, 2018, the Polio Class filed the Opposition to the Polio Objection (the "Polio Opposition") [Doc. No. 211]. The Polio Opposition argues that sufficient information was submitted in support of the Polio Claim, that the Polio Objection fails to overcome the prima facie validity of the Polio Claim, and that FRBP does not require an explanation of calculations. The Polio Opposition points to the "Declaration of Teresa Allen" (the "Allen Declaration") [Doc. No. 86] filed concurrently with, and in support of the Polio Claim. The Allen Declaration was filed concurrently with (although not as an attachment to the claim) the Polio Claim on June 22, 2017. The Allen Declaration included the following attachments: a copy of the First Amended Consolidated Class Action Complaint; a copy of the Order Granting Class Certification; the Declaration of Kelsey Skey Regarding Administrator's Notification Procedure; a copy of the Financial Exposure Analysis grid; and a copy of the Notice of Stay of Proceedings. Doc. No. 211 at 3; see also Doc. No. 86, Exhibits D–E. The computations, as reflected in the Financial Exposure Analysis, included average workweek, average hourly rate, average hours per shift, average IRS mileage reimbursement rate, total number of class members, and additional information. Id. This information was derived from a randomized sampling of the acquired employee data for the Class period of March 1, 2008 to August 28, 2015. Ahuja Declaration at ¶ 8, Exhibit F. On July 25, 2017, the Polio Class provided the TBS Class the Financial Exposure Analysis of the Polio Claim valuation.

The Reply

On January 10, 2018, the TBS Class filed the Reply to the Polio Opposition [Doc. No. 218]. The Reply to the Polio Opposition restates the arguments set forth in the Polio Objection that the Polio Class failed to provide sufficient information to substantiate the Polio Claim even after the TBS Class continued to ask for an explanation of the computation.

The Callejo Objection

On November 20, 2017, the TBS Class filed the "Objection to Claim #31 by Claimant Tim Callejo" (the "Callejo Objection") [Doc. No. 168]. The Callejo Objection contends that the Callejo Claim—filed by Callejo as a representative on behalf of the Debtor's employees under the Private Attorney General Act, Cal. Lab. Code. § 2698 et seq. ("PAGA")—should be disallowed on the following grounds: (1) the Callejo Claim is unsubstantiated and/or premised on faulty assumptions, and Callejo did not submit a single document in support of the Callejo Claim; and (2) the Callejo Claim should be reduced by 75% because under PAGA, 75% of the claim belongs to the State of California. Doc. No. 168 at 2.

Chapter 11

Regarding the first contention, similar to its Polio Objection, the TBS Class argues that the Callejo Claim is not supported by any information to substantiate the claim; thus, the burden is on the Callejo Claimant to demonstrate the validity of its claim. Id. at 3–4. As to the second argument for disallowance, the TBS Class contends that the Callejo Claim should be reduced by 75% because pursuant to Cal. Lab. Code §§ 2668 (i) and (j), the State of California is entitled to 75% of any recover of civil penalties in an action by an aggrieved employee under PAGA. Id. at 5–7. The Callejo Objection argues that this reduction is critical under the circumstances in order to avoid giving Callejo, as a PAGA representative, disproportionate control over the Plan. Id. at 6.

The Callejo Response/Opposition

On December 27, 2017, Callejo filed the Response to the Callejo Objection (the "Callejo Opposition") [Doc. No. 207]. On the same date, Callejo filed the Amended Claim No. 31 in the amount of $11,110,400.00, with supporting documents attached. The Callejo Opposition argues that the Callejo Objection fails because (1) a lack of documents is not a basis to disallow a claim, and (2) for the purposes of PAGA, a plaintiff stands in the shoes of the state and may continue to pursue PAGA penalties on behalf of the state even in bankruptcy. Doc. No. 207 at 1. The Callejo Opposition explains that the Callejo PAGA action is predicated upon the Debtor's failure to reimburse employees for necessary expenses incurred in using their vehicles pursuant to Cal. Lab. Code § 2802. Callejo contends that the Debtor's failure to reimburse its employees at the standard IRS Mileage Reimbursement rate constitutes a per se violation of Cal. Lab. Code § 2802. The Callejo Opposition contends that the documents filed in support of the Callejo Claim as amended on December 27, 2017 are sufficient to substantiate the Callejo Claim. Those documents purport to show that the Debtor failed to reimburse its employees for necessary expenses during the relevant period and they provide a basis for the calculation of the amount sought by Callejo Claim. Regarding the Callejo Objection's argument that the Callejo Claim should be reduced by 75%, the Callejo Opposition states that a PAGA representative may file a proof of claim on the state's behalf; however, the Callejo Opposition acknowledges that the Court may reduce the amount of a PAGA representative claim for Chapter 11 voting purposes. Doc. No. 207 at 8.

The Reply

On January 3, 2018, the TBS Class filed the Reply to the Callejo Opposition [Doc.

No. 210]. The Reply to the Callejo Opposition contends that: (1) Callejo uses the wrong legal standard and provides no evidence of the Debtor's failure to reimburse; (2) the Callejo Claim fails to show a sufficient nexus between the Debtor's alleged failure to reimburse under Cal. Lab. Code § 2802 and the "civil penalties" requirement of PAGA; and (3) the Callejo Claim suffers from procedural defects including being untimely filed, claiming for a post-petition period, and failing to establish that PAGA's pre-filing requirements were satisfied.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Polio Class Certification

Class proofs of claim are generally permitted in bankruptcy pursuant to § 501. See In re Birthing Fisheries, Inc., 92 F.3d 939, 939–40 (9th Cir. 1996). Rule 7023 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure expressly provides that "Rule 23 [Fed. R. Civ. Proc.] applies in adversary proceedings." Bankruptcy Rule 9014, "which applies to contested matters, permits the bankruptcy court 'at any stage in a particular matter [to apply] one or more of the other rules of Part VII,' which would include Rule 7023, as it relates to class actions." Reid v. White Motor Corp., 886 F.2d 1462, 1469 (6th Cir. 1989) (quoting In re American Reserve, 840 F.2d 487, 488 (7th Cir. 1988)). The proponent of a class claim in bankruptcy must "(1) make a motion to extend the application of Rule 23 to some contested matter; (2) satisfy the requirements of Rule 23; and (3) show that the benefits derived from the use of the class claim device are consistent with the goals of bankruptcy." In re Motors Liquidation Co., 447 B.R. 150, 157 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2011). Thus where, such as here, a motion for class certification has been duly made, "the claim can be asserted as a class claim if, but only if, "(1) the class claim proponent has shown compliance with the requirements of Civil Rule 23, and (2) after consideration of consistency with bankruptcy needs and concerns, the bankruptcy court directs that Rule 23 should apply." Id.

Fed. R. Civ. P. 23

Rule 23(a) requires a showing of: (i) numerosity; (ii) commonality; (iii) typicality; and (iv) adequacy of representation. In seeking class certification, a putative class representative must establish that the proposed class meets each of the prerequisites of Rule 23(a). Hanon v. Dataproducts Corp., 976 F.2d 497, 508 (9th Cir. 1992).

Chapter 11

Here, the Court finds that the Polio Class has made the requisite showing under Rule 23. Importantly, while the standards for certification under the California Code of Civil Procedure differ from the standard set forth in Rule 23, the California rule for class certification does mirror the federal rule in certain respects. The California rule requires the plaintiff to show ascertainability, numerosity, and community of interest. The numerosity and community of interest requirements are similar to the federal requirements of numerosity and commonality; thus, this Court is guided by the findings of the Alameda Superior Court that the Unity Class was sufficiently numerous and shared a community of interest. See Doc. No. 212, Exhibit B. In addition to the findings of the Alameda Superior Court, the arguments in the Class Certification Motion also support the finding that the Unity Class satisfies the requirements of Rule 23.

First, the class is sufficiently numerous that joinder would be impracticable. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(1). The Unity Class is estimated to have 341 Class Members, a number which surpasses the threshold of this requirement. See Consol. Rail Corp. v. Town of Hyde Park, 47 F.3d 473, 483 (2d. Cir. 1995) ("Numerosity is presumed at a level of 40 members."). Second, the Court finds that the requirement of commonality is met, see Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(2) (the case must involve "questions of law or fact common to the class"), because all Class Members were subject to the same policies, i.e. common timekeeping policies and common tasks that are or are not recorded based on those policies; thus, a single issue of law or fact is common to the class. Third, the Court finds that the Class Representative, Pedro Polio, satisfies the typicality requirement—that "the claims or defenses of the representative parties are typical of the claims or defenses of the class." Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(3). Here, Polio asserts claims that the Debtor violated multiple provisions of the Cal. Lab. Code, such as failure to pay overtime, mandatory break violations, and failure to reimburse necessary expenses. The Court finds that these claims are "reasonably co-extensive with those of absent class members," Rodriguez v. Hayes, 591 F.3d 1105, 1124 (9th Cir. 2010), to satisfy the typicality requirement. Fourth, the Court finds that Polio meets the final requirement that "the representative parties will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class." Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(4). Adequacy of representation is generally presumed, "[a]bsent contrary evidence from the party opposing class certification . . ." Madison Assocs. v. Baldante (In re Madison Assocs.), 183 B.R. 206, 217 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1995) (citing Hohmann v. Packard Instrument Co., 399 F.2d 711, 714 (7th Cir. 1968)). Here, the TBS Class has not disputed that Polio is an adequate representative of the class. Furthermore, the Alameda Superior Court determined that "the interests of the Unity Class would best be served by appointing . . . Pedro Polio" as class representative. See Doc. No. 212, Exhibit B.

Bankruptcy Considerations

The Bankruptcy Code and Rules give no express guidance for the court's exercise of discretion to apply Rule 23; however, "a pervasive theme [among the cases considering this issue] is avoiding undue delay in the administration of the case." In re Motors Liquidation, 447 B.R. at 157. Thus the proponent of a class claim must "show that the benefits from the use of the class claim device are consistent with the goals of bankruptcy." Id.

Here, the Court finds that certification of the Unity Class under Rule 23 is consistent with the needs and concerns of bankruptcy. The Debtor intends a quick resolution of the case and has already proposed a Plan; thus, failure to certify the Unity Class would very likely result in undue delay to the administration of the case. Furthermore, certification of the Unity Class is not opposed by any of the other Class 3(A) Claimants.

Class Period

The TBS Class only opposes the Class Certification Motion to the extent it seeks damages for a period beyond what was granted in the Alameda Superior Court's Certification Order. The Alameda Superior Court certified the Unity Class for the "time period beginning on March 1, 2008 and ending on the date of notice to the class." Doc. No. 212, Exhibit B. The Class Certification Motion does not state when the class period ended (or should end), i.e. the date of notice to the class. However, the Polio Opposition to the TBS Class's Polio Objection defines the class period as "March 1, 2008 to August 28, 2015." Doc. No. 211 at 3; Ahuja Declaration at ¶ 8, Exhibit F. Given the absence of any evidence to the contrary, the Court finds that the Class Period is March 1, 2008 to August 28, 2015. Such period is consistent with the calculation amount claimed by the Polio Claimants, which is discussed in more detail below.

Chapter 11

A proof of claim executed and filed in accordance with the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(f). "The filing of an objection to a proof of claim 'creates a dispute which is a contested matter' within the meaning of Bankruptcy Rule 9014 and must be resolved after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief." Lundell v. Anchor Const. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000) (citing Adv. Comm. Notes to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 9014). Upon objection, the proof of claim provides "some evidence as to its validity and amount" and carries over a "mere formal objection." Id. The objector must produce sufficient evidence "tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations in the proofs of claim themselves." Id. (quoting Wright v. Holm (In re Holm), 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir.1991)). The claimant must "prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times upon the claimant." Id. Bankruptcy Code § 502(b) sets forth nine bases for a claim to be disallowed. To the extent that a claim falls within any of these paragraphs, upon proper objection, the Court will disallow the claim. The "'basic federal rule' in bankruptcy is that state law governs the substance of claims." Raleigh v. Illinois Dep't of Revenue, 530 U.S. 15, 20 (2000) (quoting Butner v. United States, 440 U.S. 48, 57 (1979)).

The Polio Objection

The initial burden is on the TBS Class to produce sufficient evidence "tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations in the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039. The Court finds that the TBS Class has not carried its burden to overcome the prima facie validity of the Polio Claim.

The TBS Class's objection to the Polio Claim is premised on the argument that Polio failed to provide sufficient documents or other evidence to substantiate the claimed amount. The initial Polio Objection stated that Polio "attached no documents to the Proof of Claim to substantiate the claim or to explain the unavailability of such documents." Doc. No. 183 at 4. This argument is unpersuasive because in Chapter 11 cases, the plain text of Bankruptcy Rule 3001 only requires supporting information to be filed for "claims based on a writing." Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(c). For other claims, the Rule only requires "a written statement setting forth the creditor's claim" and that the proof of claim "conform substantially to the appropriate Official Form." Fed. R.

Bankr. P. 3001(a). As one bankruptcy treatise notes, "where the basis of the claim is statutory, such as in the case of a claim for taxes . . . there is no requirement of documentation." Bankr. Proc. Manual § 3001:4 (2017 ed.). Additionally, the TBS Class's argument in this regard fails to account for the Allen Declaration [Doc. No. 86] which was filed concurrently with the Polio Claim.

The case cited by the TBS Class, In re Kirkland, 572 F.3d 838 (10th Cir. 2009), supports the Court's interpretation of Rule 3001. In Kirkland, the claim at issue was based on a credit card debt. 572 F.3d at 839. The Debtor objected to the claim on the grounds that the creditor failed to submit any documents in support of the claim. Id. at 840. The bankruptcy court sustained the objection, and the Tenth Circuit affirmed the ruling of the bankruptcy court. In so holding, the Tenth Circuit discussed the requirements of Rule 3001(a) and then proceeded to discuss the requirements of Official Form 10 which requires a claimant to "[a]ttach redacted copies of any documents that support the claim, such as promissory notes, purchase orders, invoices, [etc.]." Id. Thus, the claim in Kirkland clearly was within the category of claims based on a writing which require additional information to be submitted in support of the claim. Such is not the case here, and the TBS Class's reliance on Kirkland is misplaced.

The TBS Class further argues that to the extent the Polio Class did provide documents in support of the Polio Claim—the documents attached to the Allen Declaration and/or the documents filed in support of the Polio Opposition to the TBS Class's Polio Objection—such documents are insufficient for a neutral third-party to ascertain the validity of the claimed amount. As previously discussed, this argument fails because there is no requirement in either the Bankruptcy Rules or the Code that information submitted in support of a proof of claim should be detailed enough for a third-party to ascertain the validity of the claimed amount.

The TBS Class's Polio Objection is OVERRULED. The Polio Claim is allowed in the amount of $80,867,985.71.

The Callejo Objection

The initial burden is on the TBS Class to produce sufficient evidence "tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations in the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039. For the reasons set forth below, the

Chapter 11

Court finds that the TBS Class carried its burden to overcome the prima facie validity of the Callejo Claim, and that Callejo failed to "prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence." Id. Specifically, Callejo fails to submit evidence of the Debtor's failure to reimburse expenses under Cal. Lab. Code § 2802.

In the initial Callejo Objection, the TBS Class set forth two arguments for disallowance or reduction of the Callejo Claim: (1) the Callejo Claim is unsubstantiated and/or premised on faulty assumptions, and Callejo did not submit a single document in support of the Callejo Claim; and (2) the Callejo Claim should be reduced by 75% because under PAGA, 75% of the claim belongs to the State of California. The Callejo Opposition argues that the Callejo Objection fails because (1) a lack of documents is not a basis to disallow a claim, and (2) for the purposes of PAGA, a plaintiff stands in the shoes of the state and may continue to pursue PAGA penalties on behalf of the state even in bankruptcy. The Callejo Opposition also contained some evidence, in addition to that which was submitted with the Amended Callejo Claim, regarding the Debtor's alleged violations of Cal. Lab. Code § 2802 and the calculation of PAGA penalties based on those violations. In the Reply to the Callejo Opposition, the TBS Class argued, among other things, that: (1) Callejo uses the wrong legal standard and provides no evidence of the Debtor's failure to reimburse; and (2) the Callejo Claim fails to show a sufficient nexus between the Debtor's alleged failure to reimburse under Cal. Lab. Code § 2802 and the "civil penalties" requirement of PAGA.

The "'basic federal rule' in bankruptcy is that state law governs the substance of claims." Raleigh v. Illinois Dep't of Revenue, 530 U.S. 15, 20 (2000) (quoting Butner v. United States, 440 U.S. 48, 57 (1979)). Cal. Lab. Code § 2802 requires an employer to indemnify its employees for expenses they necessarily incur in performing employment tasks. This duty includes full reimbursement for automobile expenses that are actually and necessarily incurred in performing employment tasks. Gattuso v. Harte-Hanks Shoppers, Inc., 42 Cal. 4th 554, 567 (2007). One method that an employer may use for automobile expense reimbursement is the mileage reimbursement method. Id. at 569. When an employer uses this method, the employee keeps a record of the number of miles driven to perform employment tasks. Id. This information is submitted by the employee to the employer, "who then multiplies the work-required miles driven by a predetermined amount that approximates the per-mile cost of owning and operating an automobile." Id. If an employer uses the mileage reimbursement method, "the employee must be permitted to challenge the resulting reimbursement payment." Id. Section 2802 permits the "use of the IRS mileage rate to calculate automobile expense reimbursement under the mileage reimbursement method." Id. The mileage rate may also be set by agreement of the parties; however, "any agreement made by the employee is null and void insofar as it waives the employee's right to full expense reimbursement under section 2802." Id. at 569–70. "If the employee can show that the reimbursement amount that the employer has paid is less than the actual expenses that the employee has necessarily incurred for work-related automobile use . . . the employer must make up the difference." Id. at 569.

To have a claim under § 2802, which is the only basis asserted by Callejo for his PAGA claim, Callejo must show that the reimbursement amount that the Debtor paid in any given period was less than the actual expenses that Callejo or other Unity employees necessarily incurred for work-related vehicle use. Callejo has made no such showing. The core premise of Callejo's PAGA claim for violations of § 2802 is that because the Debtor's mileage reimbursement rate is less than the IRS reimbursement rate, the Debtor bears the burden of proving that the selected rate is reasonable, and that the failure to use the IRS rate under the circumstances renders the Debtor's reimbursement rate per se unreasonable. To support this assertion, Callejo relies upon various opinions of the Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE) that were cited by the California Supreme Court in Gattuso. Callejo, however, misreads the Gattuso opinion, and such misreading is fatal to Callejo's argument.

The Court notes that Callejo has provided little to no evidence to support Callejo's representations regarding the Debtor's reimbursement policy, and the admissibility of the evidence that is provided is questionable. That said, even assuming Callejo could establish that the Debtor's reimbursement policy did, in fact, incorporate the mileage rates set forth by Callejo, his claim fails for other independent reasons. First, Callejo's reliance on the opinions of the DLSE is misplaced. The Court in Gattuso stated, in pertinent part, that it reviewed "the relevant DLSE policy statements and DLSE advice and opinion letters as evidence of DLSE's interpretation of sections 2802 and 2804, recognizing that its interpretation is entitled to no deference but also that this court may adopt the DLSE's interpretation if we independently determine that it is correct." 42 Cal. 4th at 563. Callejo has not cited, and the Court's independent research has not found, any portion of either the Gattuso opinion or any other opinion where the California Supreme Court "independently determined" that the DLSE's interpretation of § 2802 was correct or such interpretation would be binding in future cases. Callejo relies upon various statements of the DLSE to support his claims that: if "an employer selects a rate that is less than the IRS rate, the employer bears the burden of proving that the rate selected is reasonable," Doc. No. 207 at 4; and that because the Debtor's alleged rate is below the IRS rate, "it is per se unreasonable." Such assertions, however, directly contradict the holding in Gattuso where the court instead determined that: (1) the mileage rate may be set by agreement of the parties, Gattuso, 42 Cal. 4th at 569; and (2) if the employee challenges the reimbursement amount, the employer is required to reimburse the employee only if the employee "can show that the reimbursement amount that the employer has paid is less than the actual expenses that the employee has necessarily incurred for work-related automobile use . . . ," id. Callejo's claim fails because Callejo has not submitted any evidence that the reimbursements paid by the Debtor during the subject periods were "less than the actual expenses that the employee has necessarily incurred for work-related automobile use" Id. Indeed, the evidence submitted by Callejo merely shows that the Debtor did in fact pay reimbursements to employees. There is no evidence, however, that these reimbursements did not meet the standards of § 2802 as that section was interpreted by the California Supreme Court in Gattuso. The substance of Callejo's claim is governed by state law, Raleigh, 530 U.S. at 20. As such, in determining whether Callejo has a claim under state law, this Court is bound by the California Supreme Court's interpretation of § 2802 in Gattuso.

The Court finds that Callejo has not provided the evidence required to prove that the Debtor violated § 2802; therefore, there is no basis for Callejo's PAGA claim. The TBS Class's objection to the Callejo Claim is SUSTAINED. The Callejo Claim shall be disallowed in its entirety.

The parties shall lodge conforming orders within seven (7) days of the hearing as follows:

- (1) the Polio Class shall lodge the order GRANTING the Class Certification Motion;
- (2) the Polio Class shall lodge the order OVERRULING the Objection to the Polio Claim;
- (3) the TBS Class shall lodge the order SUSTAINING the Objection to the Callejo Claim.

I. Background

On December 7, 2010, creditors commenced an involuntary petition against EPD Investment Co., LLC ("EPD"). The Court entered an Order for Relief on February 9, 2011. On February 1, 2012, Jerrold S. Pressman ("Pressman") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition. On June 4, 2012, the bankruptcy cases of EPD and Pressman (collectively, the "Debtors") were substantively consolidated.

Pursuant to the operative Fourth Amended Complaint (the "Complaint") [Doc. No. 234] against John C. Kirkland and Poshow Ann Kirkland as Trustee of the Bright Conscience Trust Dated September 9, 2009 (the "BC Trust"), the Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee") seeks to (1) disallow or equitably subordinate proofs of claim filed by the BC Trust and (2) avoid allegedly fraudulent transfers from the Debtors to Mr. Kirkland and the BC Trust.

Summary of the Complaint's Allegations

The allegations of the Complaint are as follows: Between the 1970s and June 27, 2003, EPD Investment Co. was an unincorporated sole proprietorship run by Pressman. Complaint at ¶12. On June 27, 2003, EPD was formed as a California limited liability company to provide corporate protection and to satisfy Mr. Pressman's goal of retirement. Id. Upon EPD's formation in 2003, the EPD sole proprietorship's assets and liabilities were transferred from Mr. Pressman to EPD. Id. At all times, the members and managers of EPD were Mr. Pressman and his son, Keith Pressman ("Keith"). Id.

EPD operated as a Ponzi scheme since its formation in 2003. Id. at ¶24. Between 2003 and mid-2009, EPD repaid existing creditors by using funds from new creditors.

Id. EPD was balance sheet insolvent from at least December 2003, according to its tax returns, and has never been profitable. Id. at ¶¶20–21. Many of EPD's creditors mistakenly believed that EPD owned substantial real property assets in Tennessee, Mississippi, and elsewhere, when in fact EPD owned no real property. Id. at ¶16. Instead, EPD owned promissory notes secured by Mr. Pressman's assets, and it was Mr. Pressman who held an ownership interest in entities owning property in Tennessee, Mississippi, and elsewhere. Id.

In mid-2009, EPD could not pay creditors because the companies Mr. Pressman partially owned lacked sufficient operating cash flow, and because EPD was no longer receiving cash infusions from new investors. Id. at ¶25.

Mr. Kirkland was outside counsel for the Mr. Pressman, EPD, and other business entities owned by the Mr. Pressman. Id. at ¶28. Mr. Kirkland invested and/or loaned in excess of $150,000 of his personal funds to EPD (Mr. Kirkland's "EPD Interests"). Id. at ¶29. In September 2009, after EPD had ceased making payments to most creditors, Mr. Kirkland assigned his EPD Interests to the BC Trust (his family trust), and/or to his wife Poshow Ann Kirkland as Trustee of the BC Trust, through a Notice of Assignment. The Notice of Assignment provides: "Notice is hereby given that all rights of John C. Kirkland under all such Loan Documents have been sold, transferred, and assigned to the Bright Conscience Trust Dated September 9, 2009." Id.

The BC Trust took the assignment subject to all claims and defenses of Mr. Kirkland, and did not take the assignment in good faith or for adequate consideration. Id. On September 11, 2009, the BC Trust filed and/or recorded a UCC-1 financing statement as to all assets of the Debtors. Id. On May 5, 2010, the BC Trust filed and/or recorded an amendment to the UCC-1 financing statement, which provided that "[t]his amendment is to clarify and confirm that the prior grant of security did not include the stock of North Hills Industrial Park, Inc., a California S-Corporation." Id.

Mr. Kirkland was aware that EPD operated as a Ponzi scheme. In 2005, Mr. Kirkland drafted letters to the California Franchise Tax Board which stated, among other things, that EPD's liabilities exceeded its assets, that EPD had negative cash flow, and that EPD required additional investment just to break even. Id. at ¶30(b)(i). Despite knowing that EPD operated as a Ponzi scheme, Mr. Kirkland took actions for the benefit of the BC Trust and to the detriment of EPD's other creditors, including:

- 1) Arranging for Mr. Pressman, through EPD, to make monthly mortgage payments on the house in which Mr. Kirkland and his spouse resided, even though Mr. Kirkland knew that EPD was insolvent and operated as a Ponzi scheme. Id. at ¶30d.

- 2) Defending suits brought against EPD by its creditors absent a good-faith basis, while at the same time benefitting from payments made by EPD to his mortgage lender. Id. at ¶30e.
- 3) Orchestrating transfers which he knew were fraudulent under the Bankruptcy Code, for the purpose of staving off litigation by EPD's unpaid creditors. Id. at ¶30f.
- 4) Representing Plush Lounge, an entity that received significant transfers from EPD, and owed those sums to EPD, in litigation that severely depleted the assets of Plush Lounge, while simultaneously representing adverse party EPD. Id. at ¶30m.
- 5) Filing false and misleading pleadings in EPD's involuntary bankruptcy proceeding, contesting that EPD owed funds to creditors.
- 6) Contesting the EPD involuntary bankruptcy proceeding without a good-faith basis to do so, seeking to convert the proceeding to Chapter 11 without a good-faith basis to do so, and advising EPD and Mr. Pressman not to cooperate with the Trustee.

First Claim for Relief: Disallowance of Proofs of Claim, or, in the Alternative, Equitable Subordination of Proofs of Claim Against the BC Trust and Mr. Kirkland

On December 12, 2011, the BC Trust filed three proofs of claim in the bankruptcy case, all in the amount of $2.672 million. Id. at ¶39. On February 15, 2013, the BC Trust filed a proof of claim in Mr. Pressman's bankruptcy case—which has now been substantively consolidated with the EPD case—in the amount of $3.529 million. Id. All Proofs of Claim are secured claims, and were executed by Poshow Ann Kirkland as Trustee of the BC Trust. Id.

The BC Trust is the assignee of Mr. Kirkland's EPD Interests and the BC Trust's Proofs of Claim are based on the assignment of Mr. Kirkland's EPD Interests. Id. at ¶ 40. The BC Trust did not separately invest or loan funds to the Debtors; its rights are based solely on the assignment of Mr. Kirkland's EPD Interests, which assignment was orchestrated by Mr. Kirkland while he was counsel for Mr. Pressman and EPD. Id.

Mr. Kirkland engaged in inequitable conduct in his representation of EPD, as set forth above. The BC Trust, as Mr. Kirkland's assignee, stands in his shoes and took the assignment of the EPD Interests subject to Mr. Kirkland's actions. Accordingly, the BC Trust's claims should be disallowed or equitably subordinated. Id. at ¶42–47.

Second through Sixth Claims for Relief: Avoidance and Recovery of Intentional and Constructive Fraudulent Transfers

Prior to the filing of the petition, the Debtors made transfers to the BC Trust evidenced by the liens in favor of the BC Trust. The transfer to the BC Trust is avoidable as actually fraudulent pursuant to §544 (applying California Civil Code §§ 3439.04(a) and 3439.07) and §548(a)(1)(A). The transfer is avoidable as constructively fraudulent pursuant to §544 (applying California Civil Code §§3439.04 (b), 3439.05, and 3439.07) because it was made without the Debtors receiving reasonably equivalent value at a time when the Debtors were (1) insolvent or (2) were engaged in a business or transaction for which any property remaining was an unreasonably small capital or (3) intended to incur debts beyond their ability to pay. For the same reasons, the transfer is avoidable as constructively fraudulent pursuant to §548(a)(1)(B).

Prior to the filing of the petition, the Debtors made transfers for the benefit of Mr. Kirkland and the BC Trust by issuing checks to a Union Bank account. Those transfers are avoidable as intentionally fraudulent pursuant to §544 (applying California Civil Code §§3439.04(a) and 3439.07) and §548(a)(1)(A). Those transfers are avoidable as constructively fraudulent pursuant to §544 (applying California Civil Code §§3439.04(b), 3439.05, and 3439.07) and §548(a)(1)(B).

All the avoidable transfers are recoverable pursuant to §550(a)(1).

Summary of the Trustee's Motion for Summary Adjudication and Motion to Strike, the Defendants' Oppositions Thereto, and the Trustee's Supporting Reply

The Trustee moves for summary adjudication on his claims to avoid the transfers as actually fraudulent pursuant to §§544 and 548(a)(1)(A), and to recover the value of the avoided transfers. [Note 1] The Trustee does not seek summary adjudication with respect to his claims to avoid the transfers as constructively fraudulent.

The Trustee asserts that the testimony of his expert witness, Thomas Jeremiassen, establishes that EPD operated as a Ponzi scheme between 2003 and 2010, and that the Debtors' actual fraudulent intent is established as a matter of law under the Ninth Circuit's Ponzi scheme presumption, which holds that transfers made by entities operating as Ponzi schemes are deemed to be actually fraudulent. In the alternative, the Trustee argues that the Debtors' actual fraudulent intent is shown by the presence of multiple badges of fraud, including that (1) Mr. Kirkland was on inquiry notice as to the Debtors' insolvency and Ponzi operations; and that (2) Mr. Kirkland facilitated the Debtors' fraudulent and improper conduct.

The Trustee moves to exclude the report of Defendants' expert, J. Michael Issa, on the grounds that Mr. Issa's report is not based upon sufficient facts and data, and does not correctly apply the Ninth Circuit's standard for determining whether an enterprise qualifies as a Ponzi scheme. Defendants maintain that Mr. Issa's report does not contain material errors of the type necessary to justify the harsh remedy of exclusion, and assert that the Trustee's attacks upon Mr. Issa's report go to the weight of the evidence, not its admissibility.

In Opposition to the Trustee's Motion for Summary Adjudication, Defendants assert that Mr. Issa's report—which concludes that EPD did not operate as a Ponzi scheme—creates a genuine issue of material fact for trial. In addition, Defendants assert that (1) the Trustee's claims under §544 are barred by the statute of limitations; (2) that the BC Trust acquired Mr. Kirkland's EPD Interests for value since the BC Trust provides for Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland's children, thereby satisfying the Kirklands' statutory obligation to care for their children; and (3) that judgment cannot be entered against Mr. Kirkland because he has not filed a proof of claim and does not consent to the Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction.

In Reply to the Defendants' Opposition, the Trustee argues that (1) the §544 claims are not barred by the statute of limitations per the holding of Bank of Am. et al. v. Rund (In re EPD Inv. Co.), LLC, 523 B.R. 680, 692 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015); (2) that there is no statutory authority for Defendants' theory that the BC Trust provided value sufficient to constitute a defense to an avoidance action by facilitating the Kirkland's obligation to care for their children; and (3) that the District Court has already ruled that Mr. Kirkland is subject to the Bankruptcy Court's jurisdiction.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Defendants have not consented to entry of final judgment by the Bankruptcy Court.

Absent consent of all the parties, the Bankruptcy Court lacks constitutional authority to enter final judgment in a fraudulent conveyance action. Executive Benefits Ins. Agency v. Arkison (In re Bellingham Ins. Agency, Inc.), 702 F.3d 553 (9th Cir. 2012). Accordingly, the Bankruptcy Court will transmit the findings set forth herein as a Report and Recommendation to the District Court.

Summary adjudication is appropriate "if the movant shows that there is no genuine dispute as to any material facts and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law." Civil Rule 56 (made applicable to these proceedings by Bankruptcy Rule 7056). The moving party has the burden of establishing the absence of a genuine issue of material fact and that it is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). "[S]ummary judgment will not lie if the dispute about a material fact is "genuine," that is, if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party." Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). "A fact is 'material' only if it might affect the outcome of the case[.]" Fresno Motors, LLC v. Mercedes Benz USA, LLC, 771 F.3d 1119, 1125 (9th Cir. 2014). If the moving party shows the absence of a genuine issue of material fact, the nonmoving party must "go beyond the pleadings and by her own affidavits, or by the 'depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file,' designate 'specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.'" Celotex, 477 U.S. at 324 (quoting Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(e)). The court is "required to view all facts and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the nonmoving party" when reviewing the Motion. Brosseau v. Haugen, 543 U.S. 194, 195 n.2 (2004).

The Court Excludes Mr. Issa's Expert Report

Federal Rule of Evidence ("FRE") 702 provides:

- A witness who is qualified as an expert by knowledge, skill, experience, training, or education may testify in the form of an opinion or otherwise if:
- a) the expert's scientific, technical, or other specialized knowledge will help the trier of fact to understand the evidence or to determine a fact in issue;
 - b) the testimony is based on sufficient facts or data;
 - c) the testimony is the product of reliable principles and methods; and
 - d) the expert has reliably applied the principles and methods to the facts of the case.

The Trustee does not dispute that Mr. Issa is qualified to offer expert testimony as to whether EPD was a Ponzi scheme, and the Court, having reviewed Mr. Issa's qualifications, is satisfied that he possesses the requisite knowledge and skill to offer such testimony. Mr. Issa is a CPA with over 30 years' experience in turnarounds, workouts, bankruptcy, and litigation support who has testified dozens of times in bankruptcy and civil litigation. He has served in various fiduciary capacities in restructuring proceedings, including as a Chapter 11 Trustee, a Liquidating Trustee, a Chief Restructuring Officer, and a Receiver.

At issue is (1) whether Mr. Issa's testimony is based on sufficient facts or data, (2) whether Mr. Issa's testimony is the product of reliable principles and methods, and (3) whether Mr. Issa has reliably applied those principles and methods to the facts of the case. The Court finds that none of these requirements have been satisfied.

Mr. Issa's Testimony is Not Based on Sufficient Facts or Data

Where an expert arbitrarily declines to review probative materials, exclusion of that expert's testimony is appropriate. See In re LLS America, LLC, No. 09-06194-PCW11, 2013 WL 2896887, at *4 (Bankr. E.D. Wash. June 12, 2013) (excluding the testimony of an expert who failed to review the financial information that other experts in the same case relied upon). An expert's testimony may not be based solely upon studies that the expert "cherry-picked" in order to support her conclusion, Bextra and Celebrex Mktg. Sales Practices and Prod. Liab. Litig., 524 F.Supp.2d 1166, 1176 (N.D.Cal.2007), or be based upon a statistical "convenience sample" that is "easy to take but may suffer from serious bias," In re Countrywide Fin. Corp. Mortg.-Backed Sec. Litig., 984 F. Supp. 2d 1021, 1040 (C.D. Cal. 2013). The principle underlying these cases is that a witness is qualified to opine as an expert only after having thoroughly reviewed all relevant information.

Mr. Issa's testimony is not based on sufficient facts or data. First, in assessing EPD's financial position, Mr. Issa relied only upon EPD's unaudited financial statements and chose to disregard EPD's tax returns, which differed materially from the unaudited financial statements. Mr. Issa had no plausible explanation for the decision to base his analysis exclusively upon the unaudited financial statements. To the contrary, Mr. Issa testified that the principal reason he did not rely upon EPD's tax returns was because he did not have the ability to obtain answers to his questions about the tax returns:

Question (by the Trustee's counsel): So why would you assume that unaudited financial statements were true and correct but documents submitted to the IRS not make any type of assumption as to?

Answer: The answer is, in part, we had the ability to get questions answered about EPD's financial statements and not about the tax returns.

Question: Why weren't you able to get questions answered about the tax returns?

Answer: Mr. Jonavic didn't seem interested in talking about the tax returns.

Question: And did you ask Mr. Pressman about the tax returns?

And Mr. Pressman is not a CPA, so...

Question: What did he tell you in regard to the tax returns?

Second, Mr. Issa opined that EPD entered into legitimate equipment leases subsequent to 2003, even though Mr. Pressman was not able to provide Mr. Issa copies of those leases. [Note 2] Mr. Issa's deposition testimony on this issue was as follows:

Question (by Trustee's counsel): Have you ever seen a lease that EPD was involved in at any point from 2003 or after?

Answer: No, I haven't.

Question: Did you request that?

Answer: I have.

Question: And was it provided?

Answer: It hasn't been provided yet.

Question: And was there an explanation as to why it wasn't provided?

Answer: The gist of it was, "We have to go find the stuff. It's been years. It's in storage somewhere; I can't put my hands on, but I'll get around to it," something like that.

Question: How long ago was that explanation given?

Answer: A month.

Question: And nothing has been forthcoming since that point?

immaterial because Mr. Issa relied upon deposition testimony regarding the leases offered by Theodore P. Jonavic, Mr. Pressman's CPA. This contention is unavailing, because Mr. Issa's deposition testimony establishes that he conducted only a cursory review of Mr. Jonavic's deposition testimony prior to preparing his expert report:

Question (by Trustee's counsel): Had you read the Jonavic deposition prior to signing your expert report?

Answer: I had seen it, yes.

Question: You had reviewed it?

Answer: Yes, I haven't scoured it, but I looked at it.

Question: And did you assume that the Jonavic deposition was true and correct in preparing your expert report and signing it?

Answer: I didn't think about it one way or the other until I saw the deposition transcript on Mr. Jeremiassen.

Question: So does the Jonavic deposition transcript change any of your assumptions or conclusions or analyses in your expert report?

Answer: It does not.

Issa Deposition Transcript [Doc. No. 328] at 38:13–39:18.

In a declaration submitted in opposition to the Trustee's Motion for Summary Adjudication, Mr. Issa states that, in his opinion, Mr. Jonavic's deposition testimony with respect to the leases "has considerable weight, particularly given that he had no discernable reason to give false testimony." Doc. No. 303 at ¶18. This later testimony contradicts Mr. Issa's statement during his deposition that he did not consider whether Mr. Jonavic's deposition was accurate until he saw Mr. Jeremiassen's deposition transcript ("I didn't think about it one way or the other until I saw the deposition transcript of Mr. Jeremiassen"). (Mr. Jeremiassen's deposition was not taken until December 15, 2017, well after Mr. Issa submitted his expert report on October 5, 2017.)

"The general rule in the Ninth Circuit is that a party cannot create an issue of fact by an affidavit contradicting his prior deposition testimony.' This sham affidavit rule prevents 'a party who has been examined at length on deposition from 'rais[ing] an issue of fact simply by submitting an affidavit contradicting his own prior testimony,' which 'would greatly diminish the utility of summary judgment as a procedure for screening out sham issues of fact.'" Yeager v. Bowlin, 693 F.3d 1076, 1080 (9th Cir. 2012) (internal citations omitted). Because Mr. Issa's declaration testimony in opposition to the Motion for Summary Adjudication contradicts his prior deposition testimony, the later declaration testimony falls within the sham affidavit rule and therefore cannot retroactively validate the conclusions in Mr. Issa's expert report with respect to the validity of EPD's post-2003 leases.

Third, Mr. Issa opines that Mr. Pressman's equity in various real estate projects would have been sufficient to make EPD's investors whole, if sufficient funds to complete those real estate projects had been available. However, in reaching this conclusion, Mr. Issa did not review the balance sheets or operating agreements for the companies engaged in those real estate projects. According to Mr. Issa's deposition testimony:

Question (by Trustee's counsel): Well, you haven't seen the balance sheets for any of those companies, have you?

Answer: We haven't seen the balance sheets....

Question: You haven't seen the operating agreements for those companies, have you?

Answer: No.

Issa Deposition Transcript [Doc. No. 316] at 149:13–150:16.

Fourth, Mr. Issa conducted only a partial forensic examination of EPD's books and records. As Mr. Issa stated at his deposition:

Question (by Trustee's counsel): So if some financial information was listed, did you actually check that financial information against the EPD bank statements, checks, wire transfers, anything else?

Answer: Yes.

Question: And you confirmed they were accurate?

Answer: We checked some items back to the books. We checked some items back to the bank statement. We didn't do a 100 percent forensic examination of every item between 2003 and 2010.

Question: Why not?

Answer: There is only so many hours in the day and only so much money in a case to work on something like that.

Issa Deposition Transcript [Doc. No. 316] at 25:2–15.

While checking only a sampling of transactions might be sufficient under certain circumstances, the Court finds that the partial forensic accounting was not adequate here, given that Mr. Issa chose to disregard EPD's tax returns (which contained information materially different from EPD's financial statements), and did not review other critical information, such as EPD's post-2003 leases. The decision to conduct only a partial forensic accounting is particularly troubling given Mr. Issa's acknowledgment that in certain cases it was not possible to reconcile the financial

Mr. Issa's Testimony is Not the Product of Reliable Principles and Methods, and Mr. Issa Has Not Reliably Applied the Principles and Methods to the Facts of the Case

Mr. Issa opines that EPD was not a Ponzi scheme because it loaned substantial funds to legitimate third-party real estate businesses and was repaid a portion of those funds. Mr. Issa relies upon a definition of a Ponzi scheme that is not consistent with controlling Ninth Circuit authority. Consequently, Mr. Issa's testimony must be excluded for failing to apply reliable principles and methods to the facts of the case.

"A Ponzi scheme is an arrangement whereby an enterprise makes payments to investors from the proceeds of a later investment rather than from profits of the underlying business venture, as the investors expected. The fraud consists of transferring proceeds received from the new investors to previous investors, thereby giving other investors the impression that a legitimate profit making business opportunity exists, where in fact no such opportunity exists." In re Agric. Research & Tech. Grp., Inc., 916 F.2d 528, 531 (9th Cir. 1990).

There is no support within Agricultural Research for Mr. Issa's contention that an enterprise cannot qualify as a Ponzi scheme if it engages in some legitimate business operations. In In re Bonham, 251 B.R. 113 (Bankr. D. Ala. 2000), the court faced precisely this issue. The Bonham debtors operated an airline travel business whose unprofitable operations were sustained only by continuous infusions of investor cash. Bonham, 251 B.R. at 116–17. The debtor's expert asserted that the business was not a Ponzi scheme based on the existence of the underlying income-producing airline ticket business. Id. at 130. The court rejected this assertion and excluded the testimony of the debtor's expert. The court stated that "most Ponzi schemes have at least a semblance, if not a somewhat substantial, operating 'front.'" Id. at 136.

Further, Mr. Issa acknowledged that EPD paid prior investors using funds raised from new investors:

coming in from investors to pay other investors?

Answer: It appears that some of that went on.

Question: During what period of time?

Answer: Well, the time of Mr. Jeremiassen's report is 2003 to 2010. So he speaks to that in his report and in some of his exhibits, particularly Exhibit 4.

Question: So it's your understanding that EPD did use money from investors to pay other investors, is that right?

Answer: It appears that may be so.

Issa Deposition Transcript [Doc. No. 316] at 58:1-59:3.

The Supreme Court has held that a court may exclude an expert report where "there is simply too great an analytical gap between the data and the opinion proffered." Gen. Elec. Co. v. Joiner, 522 U.S. 136, 146 (1997). Such an analytical gap is present here. Mr. Issa has acknowledged that EPD paid prior investors using funds from new investors. Such behavior is the hallmark of a Ponzi scheme. Further, Mr. Issa's view that an entity which engages in some legitimate business operations cannot constitute a Ponzi scheme is not consistent with controlling Ninth Circuit precedent.

The Motion for Summary Adjudication is Granted

There is No Genuine Dispute that EPD Operated as a Ponzi Scheme

As noted above, a "Ponzi scheme is an arrangement whereby an enterprise makes payments to investors from the proceeds of a later investment rather than from profits of the underlying business venture, as the investors expected." Agricultural Research, 916 F.2d 531. The report of the Trustee's expert, Thomas P. Jeremiassen (the "Jeremiassen Report") establishes that EPD operated as a Ponzi scheme. First, the Jeremiassen Report demonstrates that EPD did not have sufficient funds to pay investors absent fresh deposits from new investors:

[A] majority of the sources of EPD cash was from new loans from Investors. Similarly, a majority of the uses of EPD cash was payments to Investors or to third parties for the benefit of Investors relating to those new loans as well as loans that were outstanding [T]he only way for EPD to meet its interest obligations on the notes [owed to Investors], as well as its obligations to repay principal, was to obtain additional loans from Investors.

Jeremiassen Report [Doc. No. 267] at 4 and 11.

Second, the Jeremiassen Report establishes that EPD's business of loaning funds to entities engaging in real estate projects (the "Related Entities") was never profitable:

[M]ore cash was disbursed to the Related Entities, or to other entities for the benefit of the Related Entities, than was received. During the Seven Year Period [between 2003 and 2010], a total of approximately 2,700 cash transactions took place with the Related Entities. This equates to an average of more than one transaction per day during that period. It appears that EPD was used as a sort of "cash flow" tool for these entities. At all times during the Seven Year Period, the cumulative amounts disbursed to the entities was greater than the cumulative amounts received from the entities. According to EPD's QuickBooks, the collective amounts owed to EPD from these entities at the end of each year from 2003 to 2010 ranged from approximately $19.8 million to approximately $28.7 million.

Id. at 8.

The declarations submitted by Mr. Kirkland and Mr. Pressman do not create a genuine dispute as to the issue of whether EPD operated as a Ponzi scheme. Mr. Kirkland's declaration contains conclusory assertions that EPD was never a Ponzi scheme. "A conclusory, self-serving affidavit, lacking detailed facts and any supporting evidence, is insufficient to create a genuine issue of material fact." F.T.C. v. Publ'g Clearing House, Inc., 104 F.3d 1168, 1171 (9th Cir. 1997), as amended (Apr. 11, 1997). Mr. Kirkland's declaration contains no specific facts showing that EPD did not operate as a Ponzi scheme. Further, Mr. Kirkland is not an accountant and thus is not qualified to opine as to whether EPD operated as Ponzi scheme.

Mr. Pressman's declaration similarly contains conclusory assertions that EPD was not a Ponzi scheme. Mr. Pressman is not an accountant and is not qualified to opine as to whether EPD operated as a Ponzi scheme. His statements are so vague and lacking in specificity that they lack probative value. His testimony that EPD generated over $50 million in cash from operations between 2004 and 2009 contradicts EPD's tax returns, which show that EPD had net losses. Mr. Pressman verified the tax returns.

Mr. Pressman's declaration contains a chart which states that EPD generated substantial cash from operations between 2004 and 2009. Mr. Pressman does not identify how or when the chart was generated. Consequently, the chart lacks proper foundation and is inadmissible. The Court finds that the chart was created to support Mr. Pressman's conclusory assertion that EPD generated substantial cash flows. The chart is supported only by Mr. Pressman's statements, which in turn are supported only by the chart. Such circular assertions do not create a genuine dispute as to an issue of material fact.

The chart is further undercut by Mr. Pressman's deposition testimony that he could not be certain that EPD's records were accurate:

Question (by Trustee's counsel): Any reason to think that the QuickBooks records for EPD are not accurate?

Answer: They could be not accurate, but they should be accurate.

Pressman Deposition Transcript at 228–29 and 319–34.

Mr. Pressman testifies that "EPD was a legitimate, ongoing, sustainable, revenue-producing, business operation." That testimony is inadmissible under Yeager v. Bowlin, which holds that "a party cannot create an issue of fact by an affidavit contradicting ... prior ... testimony." 693 F.3d 1076, 1080 (9th Cir. 2012). Mr. Pressman signed EPD's bankruptcy schedules under penalty of perjury. Those schedules stated that EPD had $70 million in liabilities and almost no realizable assets in 2010. The $32 million in purported assets that EPD did schedule consisted of promissory notes from Mr. Pressman and related entities that he owned and controlled. Mr. Pressman's personal bankruptcy, in which Mr. Pressman scheduled $27,000 in assets and over $144 million in liabilities, demonstrates that the purported $32 million in assets scheduled in EPD's bankruptcy had no realizable value.

Mr. Pressman testifies that EPD was not a Ponzi scheme based on the fact that EPD's predecessor entity, EPD Investment Co., engaged in profitable operations prior to 2003. That testimony is not relevant. This action is directed at EPD, not its predecessor entity, and pertains only to EPD's activities subsequent to 2003. The fact that Mr. Pressman engaged in successful business enterprises prior to 2003 is not relevant to whether EPD operated as a Ponzi scheme from 2003 onward.

As additional evidence that EPD operated as a Ponzi scheme, the Trustee asserts that the leases EPD entered into subsequent to 2003 were fraudulent. Defendants dispute this contention and maintain that the post-2003 leases were legitimate. The Court finds that, regardless of whether the post-2003 leases were legitimate, there is ample evidence that EPD was a Ponzi scheme. Therefore, the Court makes no findings with respect to EPD conducted a legitimate leasing business.

The Transfers Were Actually Fraudulent Pursuant to the Ponzi Presumption

Section 548(a)(1)(A) provides: "The trustee may avoid any transfer ... of an interest of the debtor in property ... that was made or incurred on or within 2 years before the date of the filing of the petition, if the debtor voluntarily or involuntarily made such transfer ... with actual intent to hinder, delay, or defraud any entity to which the debtor was or became, on or after the date that such transfer was made ... indebted."

Section 544 permits the Trustee to avoid transfers that are voidable under applicable state law. Cal. Civ. Code §3439.04(a) is substantially identical to §548(a)(1)(A).

In the Ninth Circuit, a debtor's actual intent to engage in a fraudulent transfer is established where the Trustee demonstrates that the debtor operated as a Ponzi scheme:

We allow 'a finding of fraudulent intent under section 548(a)(1) ... on the basis of circumstantial evidence.' Furthermore, 'the mere existence of a Ponzi scheme' is sufficient to establish actual intent under § 548(a)(1) or a state's equivalent to that section.

Barclay v. Mackenzie (In re AFI Holding, Inc.), 525 F.3d 700, 704 (9th Cir. 2008) (internal citations omitted).

Having established that the Debtors operated as a Ponzi scheme, the Trustee is entitled to judgment that the transfers at issue were actually fraudulent pursuant to § 548(a)(1) and §544, applying Cal. Civ. Code §3439.04(a).

The Transfers Were Actually Fraudulent Because Badges of Fraud are Present

Because "it is often impracticable, on direct evidence, to demonstrate an actual intent to hinder, delay or defraud creditors," courts "frequently infer fraudulent intent from the circumstances surrounding the transfer, taking particular note of certain recognized indicia or badges of fraud." Acequia, Inc. v. Clinton (In re Acequia, Inc.), 34 F.3d 800, 805 (9th Cir. 1994). Those badges of fraud include "(1) actual or threatened litigation against the debtor; (2) a purported transfer of all or substantially all of the debtor's property; (3) insolvency or other unmanageable indebtedness on the part of the debtor; (4) a special relationship between the debtor and the transferee; and, after the transfer, (5) retention by the debtor of the property involved in the putative transfer." Id.

Here, there is no genuine dispute as to facts establishing the presence of multiple badges of fraud. First, Mr. Kirkland qualifies as an insider of EPD. Mr. Kirkland was EPD's agent for service of process and served as outside counsel for companies partially owned or controlled by Mr. Pressman, including Plush Lounge Las Vegas LLC, SC Club LP, and Broadway Entertainment Marketing Inc. Even in situations where Mr. Kirkland did not formally represent EPD, he controlled EPD's legal advice and actions. For example, on March 21, 2006, Christopher Austin, an associate at Greenberg Traurig, the law firm at which Mr. Kirkland was then a partner, sent an e-mail to Mr. Kirkland stating:

I note that EPD Investment Company, LLC is the secured party on the UCC-1 filing for the inventory at Plush Lounge. I assume EPD is another company owned/controlled by Jerry and that we are counsel for EPD. Can you confirm the relationship? I'm in the process of preparing the letter demanding the delivery/return of the remaining items identified on the UCC-1 that we were unable to recover because Marriott kicked us out, and it seems to me that the demand should come from the secured party EPD as well as (or perhaps exclusive of) Plush Lounge Las Vegas, LLC (the identified Debtor). Your thoughts?

Doc. No. 262 at Ex. 16 (records produced by Greenberg Traurig LLP).

Mr. Kirkland responded: "Please make the demand on behalf of Plush. I'll have a different lawyer make the demand on behalf of EPD." Id.

Second, litigation against the Debtors had been threatened at the time of the recordation of the UCC-1 financing statement in favor of the BC Trust. Third, the financing statement was recorded during a time when EPD was experiencing serious cash flow issues. Fourth, the transfers consisted of substantially all of EPD's remaining assets.

The Trustee is Entitled to Recover the Avoided Fraudulent Transfers Pursuant to § 550(a) and Cal. Civ. Code §3439.08(b)

Section 550(a) provides that that the Trustee is entitled to recover an avoided transfer, or the value thereof, from "the initial transferee of such transfer or the entity for whose benefit such transfer was made" or from "any immediate or mediate transferee of such initial transferee." With respect to the Trustee's avoidance action under §544, Cal. Civ. Code §3439.08(b) contains a comparable provision.

The BC Trust qualifies as the initial transferee of the UCC-1 financing statement that created the security interest in favor of the BC Trust. Mr. Kirkland qualifies as the initial transferee of the mortgage payments made by EPD for his benefit. Accordingly, the Trustee is entitled to recover the transfers from the BC Trust and from Mr. Kirkland.

Motion for Summary Adjudication have merit. First, Defendants contend that the Trustee's §544 claim is time-barred. The Order for Relief in the Debtors' bankruptcy case was entered on February 9, 2011 nunc pro tunc to December 7, 2010. Bankr. Doc. No. 29. The Trustee filed the Complaint on October 31, 2012. The Trustee's Complaint was filed timely pursuant to §546(a). See Bank of Am. et al. v. Rund (In re EPD Inv. Co.), LLC, 523 B.R. 680, 692 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015) ("Accordingly, we hold that so long as a state-law fraudulent transfer claim exists on the petition date (or the date the order for relief is entered), i.e., the state's applicable repose period governing the action has not yet expired on the petition date (or the order for relief date), the trustee may bring the avoidance action under § 544(b), provided it is filed within the limitations period in § 546(a). The 'reach back' period is established on the petition date (or the order for relief date) and encompasses all transfers within the relevant period provided by state law.").

Second, Mr. Kirkland argues that the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction over him, because he has not filed a proof of claim, can no longer file a proof of claim as the claims bar date has passed, and does not consent to the Court's jurisdiction. Mr. Kirkland has already presented these arguments to the District Court, which has rejected them:

According to Defendant [Mr. Kirkland], the Court should immediately withdraw the reference because the bankruptcy court lacks jurisdiction to enter a final judgment in fraudulent conveyance claims against non-creditor defendants. (MTW 11.) The Ninth Circuit has held that "bankruptcy courts have statutory authority to hear and enter proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law in a fraudulent conveyance proceeding asserted by a bankruptcy trustee against a noncreditor, subject to de novo review by a federal district court." In re Bellingham, 702 F.3d at 566. "Such cases remain in the core, and the [28 U.S.C.] § 157(b)(1) power to 'hear and determine' them authorizes the bankruptcy courts to issue proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law." Id. at 565–66; see also Field v. Wells Fargo Bank, No. 12–510 SOM/BMK, 2012 WL 6651886 (D.Haw. Dec.20, 2012) (finding no reason to withdraw the reference because the bankruptcy court retained power to hear the case).

Here, the Trustee seeks to avoid fraudulent conveyances between Debtors and Defendant. Even if Defendant has not filed a claim and has transferred all of his interests to BC Trust, he is considered a noncreditor under Bellingham. Thus, the case is properly before the bankruptcy court which can hear the case and enter proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law.

In re EPD Inv. Co. LLC, No. ADV 2:12-AP-02424-ER, 2013 WL 5352953, at *4–5 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 24, 2013).

Third, Defendants assert that the BC Trust has a defense to the Trustee's avoidance claims because the BC Trust qualifies as a holder in due course that took for value and in good faith under Cal. Comm. Code §3302(a). According to Defendants, the BC Trust took for value because the beneficiaries of the BC Trust are Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland's children, and Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland are required by to support their children pursuant to Cal. Fam. Code §4053(b) and (d).

Defendants do not contest that no money or property of any kind was provided by the BC Trust to Mr. Kirkland in exchange for Mr. Kirkland's assignment of his EPD Interests to the BC Trust. Defendants instead rely upon the novel proposition that the Kirkland's obligation to support their children constitutes "value" within the meaning of Cal. Comm. Code §3302(a). Defendants do not cite any authority for this proposition, and the Court finds that it lacks merit. The Kirkland's independent statutory obligation to provide for their children cannot serve as a mechanism to enable Defendants to circumvent the Bankruptcy Code's fraudulent transfer provisions. Such a result would make it far too easy for debtors to avoid obligations to their creditors.

III. Conclusion

Based upon the foregoing, the Court will transmit to the District Court a Report and Recommendation, recommending that the District Court enter final judgment in favor of the Trustee as to the second, third, and sixth claims for relief for avoidance and recovery of fraudulent transfers made with actual intent.

Note 1

The Trustee has filed a separate motion seeking summary adjudication with respect to the Complaint's claims under §502. Transmission of a Report and Recommendation with respect to the §502 motion is not necessary. The BC Trust has filed a proof of claim, so the Court has constitutional authority to enter final judgment with respect to the §502 claims.

Mr. Issa did review leases entered into by EPD Investment Co., the unincorporated sole proprietorship operated by Pressman from the 1970s to June 2003 that was the predecessor to EPD. The leases that Mr. Issa reviewed were entered into by EPD Investment Co. in 1995 and had all terminated by 2002 or earlier. Those leases are not relevant to this litigation, which pertains to EPD's activities from 2003 and onward.

I. Background

On December 7, 2010, creditors commenced an involuntary petition against EPD Investment Co., LLC ("EPD"). The Court entered an Order for Relief on February 9, 2011. On February 1, 2012, Jerrold S. Pressman ("Pressman") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition. On June 4, 2012, the bankruptcy cases of EPD and Pressman (collectively, the "Debtors") were substantively consolidated.

Pursuant to the operative Fourth Amended Complaint (the "Complaint") [Doc. No. 234] against John C. Kirkland and Poshow Ann Kirkland as Trustee of the Bright Conscience Trust Dated September 9, 2009 (the "BC Trust"), the Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee") seeks to (1) disallow or equitably subordinate proofs of claim filed by the BC Trust and (2) avoid allegedly fraudulent transfers from the Debtors to Mr. Kirkland and the BC Trust.

Summary of the Complaint's Allegations

The allegations of the Complaint are as follows: Between the 1970s and June 27, 2003, EPD Investment Co. was an unincorporated sole proprietorship run by Pressman. Complaint at ¶12. On June 27, 2003, EPD was formed as a California limited liability company to provide corporate protection and to satisfy Mr. Pressman's goal of retirement. Id. Upon EPD's formation in 2003, the EPD sole proprietorship's assets and liabilities were transferred from Mr. Pressman to EPD. Id. At all times, the members and managers of EPD were Mr. Pressman and his son, Keith Pressman ("Keith"). Id.

EPD operated as a Ponzi scheme since its formation in 2003. Id. at ¶24. Between 2003 and mid-2009, EPD repaid existing creditors by using funds from new creditors. Id. EPD was balance sheet insolvent from at least December 2003, according to its tax returns, and has never been profitable. Id. at ¶¶20–21. Many of EPD's creditors mistakenly believed that EPD owned substantial real property assets in Tennessee, Mississippi, and elsewhere, when in fact EPD owned no real property. Id. at ¶16.

Chapter 7

Instead, EPD owned promissory notes secured by Mr. Pressman's assets, and it was Mr. Pressman who held an ownership interest in entities owning property in Tennessee, Mississippi, and elsewhere. Id.

In mid-2009, EPD could not pay creditors because the companies Mr. Pressman partially owned lacked sufficient operating cash flow, and because EPD was no longer receiving cash infusions from new investors. Id. at ¶25.

Mr. Kirkland was outside counsel for the Mr. Pressman, EPD, and other business entities owned by the Mr. Pressman. Id. at ¶28. Mr. Kirkland invested and/or loaned in excess of $150,000 of his personal funds to EPD (Mr. Kirkland's "EPD Interests"). Id. at ¶29. In September 2009, after EPD had ceased making payments to most creditors, Mr. Kirkland assigned his EPD Interests to the BC Trust (his family trust), and/or to his wife Poshow Ann Kirkland as Trustee of the BC Trust, through a Notice of Assignment. The Notice of Assignment provides: "Notice is hereby given that all rights of John C. Kirkland under all such Loan Documents have been sold, transferred, and assigned to the Bright Conscience Trust Dated September 9, 2009." Id.

The BC Trust took the assignment subject to all claims and defenses of Mr. Kirkland, and did not take the assignment in good faith or for adequate consideration. Id. On September 11, 2009, the BC Trust filed and/or recorded a UCC-1 financing statement as to all assets of the Debtors. Id. On May 5, 2010, the BC Trust filed and/or recorded an amendment to the UCC-1 financing statement, which provided that "[t]his amendment is to clarify and confirm that the prior grant of security did not include the stock of North Hills Industrial Park, Inc., a California S-Corporation." Id.

Mr. Kirkland was aware that EPD operated as a Ponzi scheme. In 2005, Mr. Kirkland drafted letters to the California Franchise Tax Board which stated, among other things, that EPD's liabilities exceeded its assets, that EPD had negative cash flow, and that EPD required additional investment just to break even. Id. at ¶30(b)(i). Despite knowing that EPD operated as a Ponzi scheme, Mr. Kirkland took actions for the benefit of the BC Trust and to the detriment of EPD's other creditors, including:

- 1) Arranging for Mr. Pressman, through EPD, to make monthly mortgage payments on the house in which Mr. Kirkland and his spouse resided, even though Mr. Kirkland knew that EPD was insolvent and operated as a Ponzi scheme. Id. at ¶30d.
- 2) Defending suits brought against EPD by its creditors absent a good-faith basis, while at the same time benefitting from payments made by EPD to his mortgage lender. Id. at ¶30e.

- 3) Orchestrating transfers which he knew were fraudulent under the Bankruptcy Code, for the purpose of staving off litigation by EPD's unpaid creditors. Id. at ¶30f.
- 4) Representing Plush Lounge, an entity that received significant transfers from EPD, and owed those sums to EPD, in litigation that severely depleted the assets of Plush Lounge, while simultaneously representing adverse party EPD. Id. at ¶30m.
- 5) Filing false and misleading pleadings in EPD's involuntary bankruptcy proceeding, contesting that EPD owed funds to creditors.
- 6) Contesting the EPD involuntary bankruptcy proceeding without a good-faith basis to do so, seeking to convert the proceeding to Chapter 11 without a good-faith basis to do so, and advising EPD and Mr. Pressman not to cooperate with the Trustee.

First Claim for Relief: Disallowance of Proofs of Claim, or, in the Alternative, Equitable Subordination of Proofs of Claim Against the BC Trust and Mr. Kirkland

On December 12, 2011, the BC Trust filed three proofs of claim in the bankruptcy case, all in the amount of $2.672 million. Id. at ¶39. On February 15, 2013, the BC Trust filed a proof of claim in Mr. Pressman's bankruptcy case—which has now been substantively consolidated with the EPD case—in the amount of $3.529 million. Id. All Proofs of Claim are secured claims, and were executed by Poshow Ann Kirkland as Trustee of the BC Trust. Id.

The BC Trust is the assignee of Mr. Kirkland's EPD Interests and the BC Trust's Proofs of Claim are based on the assignment of Mr. Kirkland's EPD Interests. Id. at ¶40. The BC Trust did not separately invest or loan funds to the Debtors; its rights are based solely on the assignment of Mr. Kirkland's EPD Interests, which assignment was orchestrated by Mr. Kirkland while he was counsel for Mr. Pressman and EPD. Id.

Mr. Kirkland engaged in inequitable conduct in his representation of EPD, as set forth above. The BC Trust, as Mr. Kirkland's assignee, stands in his shoes and took the assignment of the EPD Interests subject to Mr. Kirkland's actions. Accordingly, the BC Trust's claims should be disallowed or equitably subordinated. Id. at ¶42–47.

Second through Sixth Claims for Relief: Avoidance and Recovery of Intentional and Constructive Fraudulent Transfers

evidenced by the liens in favor of the BC Trust. The transfer to the BC Trust is avoidable as actually fraudulent pursuant to §544 (applying California Civil Code §§ 3439.04(a) and 3439.07) and §548(a)(1)(A). The transfer is avoidable as constructively fraudulent pursuant to §544 (applying California Civil Code §§3439.04 (b), 3439.05, and 3439.07) because it was made without the Debtors receiving reasonably equivalent value at a time when the Debtors were (1) insolvent or (2) were engaged in a business or transaction for which any property remaining was an unreasonably small capital or (3) intended to incur debts beyond their ability to pay. For the same reasons, the transfer is avoidable as constructively fraudulent pursuant to §548(a)(1)(B).

Prior to the filing of the petition, the Debtors made transfers for the benefit of Mr. Kirkland and the BC Trust by issuing checks to a Union Bank account. Those transfers are avoidable as intentionally fraudulent pursuant to §544 (applying California Civil Code §§3439.04(a) and 3439.07) and §548(a)(1)(A). Those transfers are avoidable as constructively fraudulent pursuant to §544 (applying California Civil Code §§3439.04(b), 3439.05, and 3439.07) and §548(a)(1)(B).

All the avoidable transfers are recoverable pursuant to §550(a)(1).

Summary of the Trustee's Motion for Summary Adjudication, the Defendants' Oppositions Thereto, and the Trustee's Supporting Reply

The Trustee moves to disallow the proofs of claim filed by the Bright Conscience Trust (the "BC Trust") on the grounds that the BC Trust has not established the claim's prima facie validity. The Trustee next argues that even if the claim is valid, any security interest held by the BC Trust could extend to only a small portion of the proceeds collected by the Trustee. The Trustee asserts that the BC Trust's pre-petition security interest cannot extend, as a matter of law, to amounts recovered by the Trustee through the exercise of his avoidance powers. The Trustee further asserts that the interest rate claimed by the BC Trust is usurious in California and is therefore unenforceable.

In the alternative, the Trustee asserts that the BC Trust's claim should be equitably subordinated. The Trustee asserts that the BC Trust took the assignment of Mr. Kirkland's EPD Interests subject to all rights and liabilities of Mr. Kirkland. The Trustee maintains that Mr. Kirkland engaged in inequitable conduct in connection with his representation of EPD. On this basis, the Trustee maintains that equitable subordination of the BC Trust's claim is appropriate.

In Opposition, Defendants contend that (1) the BC Trust's claim cannot be equitably subordinated because the Trustee has already recovered damages on account of the conduct giving rise to the claim for equitable subordination; (2) that any claims for inequitable conduct against Mr. Kirkland have been released in connection with the Trustee's settlement of claims against law firms at which Mr. Kirkland worked; (3) that the Trustee cannot reach the assets of the BC Trust because it is an irrevocable trust; (4) that genuine issues exist as to the amount of interest to which the BC Trust is entitled to receive on account of its claim; and (5) that the Trustee is barred from asserting that the BC Trust's lien cannot extend to assets of the estate collected by the Trustee, because the Trustee failed to adequately plead these issues in the Complaint.

In Reply to Defendants' Opposition, the Trustee asserts that Defendants raise only legal arguments and have failed to show any genuine dispute as to an issue of material fact that precludes the entry of summary adjudication. The Trustee rejects the Defendants' contention that the claims for inequitable conduct against Mr. Kirkland have been released, contending that Mr. Kirkland selectively quotes the release provisions of the settlement agreements out of context. The Trustee maintains that the irrevocability of the BC Trust does not defeat his claim for equitable subordination, because the equitable subordination claim does not seek to reach the assets of the BC Trust but rather to subordinate the claim to the claims of other creditors.

II. Findings and Conclusions

At the outset, the Court notes that certain of the issues relevant to this matter are addressed in the Court's ruling issued in connection with the Trustee's Motion for Summary Adjudication as to the second, third, and sixth claims for relief. To the extent those issues are not restated herein, they are incorporated by reference.

Summary adjudication is appropriate "if the movant shows that there is no genuine dispute as to any material facts and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law." Civil Rule 56 (made applicable to these proceedings by Bankruptcy Rule 7056). The moving party has the burden of establishing the absence of a genuine issue of material fact and that it is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). "[S]ummary judgment will not lie if the dispute about a material fact is "genuine," that is, if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party." Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). "A fact is 'material' only if it might affect the outcome of the case[.]" Fresno Motors, LLC v. Mercedes Benz USA, LLC, 771 F.3d 1119, 1125 (9th Cir. 2014). If the moving party shows the absence of a genuine issue of material fact, the nonmoving party must "go beyond the pleadings and by her own affidavits, or by the 'depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file,' designate 'specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.'" Celotex, 477 U.S. at 324 (quoting Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(e)). The court is "required to view all facts and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the nonmoving party" when reviewing the Motion. Brosseau v. Haugen, 543 U.S. 194, 195 n.2 (2004).

Validity of the Proofs of Claim

Mr. Kirkland invested in EPD in late 2007. In September 2009, Mr. Kirkland assigned his claims against the Debtors to the BC Trust. The BC Trust did not separately invest in or loan money to the Debtors, and did not pay Mr. Kirkland anything in exchange for the assignment.

On December 12, 2011, Poshow Kirkland filed Proofs of Claim Nos. 171, 235, and 236 on behalf of the BC Trust. Claim 171, 235, and 236 each list an amount owed of $2,672,000, as purportedly secured claims. On February 15, 2013, Poshow Kirkland filed Proof of Claim No. 13 in the consolidated case of Mr. Pressman. Claim 13 lists an amount owed of $3,529,000, as a secured claim. Claim 13 is the same as Claims 171, 235, and 236, but includes additional interest.

Ms. Kirkland has not amended any of the claims to include documentation or an itemization of claimed interest.

There is no dispute that the four claims are duplicative. The Court will disallow the duplicative proofs of claim and focus its analysis on whether the BC Trust is entitled to a single claim on account of the assignment of Mr. Kirkland's EPD Interests.

Under Bankruptcy Rule 3001(f), a proof of claim executed and filed in accordance with the Bankruptcy Rules constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. To overcome the presumption of validity created by a timely-filed proof of claim, an objecting party must do one of the following: (1) object based on legal grounds and provide a memorandum of points and authorities setting forth the legal basis for the objection; or (2) object based on a factual ground and provide sufficient evidence (usually in the form of declarations under penalty of perjury) to create triable issues of fact. In re G.I. Indus., Inc., 204 F.3d 1276, 1280 (9th Cir. BAP 2000); In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. BAP 1996); In re Hemingway Transport, Inc., 993 F.2d 915, 925 (1st Cir. 1993). Upon objection, a proof of claim provides "some evidence as to its validity and amount" and is "strong enough to carry over a mere formal objection without more." See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Spec., Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000) (citing In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). An objecting party bears the burden and must "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Holm, 931 F.2d at 623. When the objector has shown enough evidence to negate one or more facts in the proof of claim, the burden shifts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of evidence. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (citation omitted).

The claim itself does not contain documentation substantiating the amounts claimed, and Ms. Kirkland's deposition testimony showed that she possessed only a rudimentary understanding of the basis for the claim:

Question (by Trustee's counsel): Have you seen this document before?

Answer (in English): Yes. I wrote this form and I signed it. I saw this one.

Question: That's your signature at the bottom?

Answer (in English): Yes.

Question: And is that your handwriting—

Answer (in English): Yes.

Question: —in Sections 1 through 7?

Answer (in English): Yes.

Question: How did you arrive at the amount $2,672,000?

Answer (in English): I find out from Jerry's office; someone told me.

Question: You called up and someone gave you the amount?

Answer (in English): I don't recall. I just—someone tell me to write this number, Jerry's office, somebody there.

Question: You don't recall who?

Answer: I don't recall who.

Question: And did you base that amount off of anything else?

Answer (in English): No. I know I have to file at that time. So I just find out the number and I wrote it there. Somebody from EPD's office tell me that's the amount they owed us, owed my kids' trust.

Poshow Kirkland Deposition Transcript [Doc. No. 262, Ex. 12] at 40:14–41:12.

As this litigation has progressed, Mr. Kirkland has supplied some additional evidence with respect to funds that he loaned to EPD (Mr. Kirkland subsequently assigned EPD's alleged obligation to him to the BC Trust). However, the evidence supplied is insufficient to substantiate the BC Trust's contention that it is owed $2,672,000 on account of amounts loaned by Mr. Kirkland.

In support of the BC Trust's claim, Defendants point to the declaration of Ruben J. Moreno, who worked as an account manager for EPD. Mr. Moreno contends that Mr. Kirkland loaned EPD $2,071,608.23 between September 2007 and October 2009. According to Mr. Moreno, the total balance owed the BC Trust, including interest, was $2,927,376.20 as of December 2010. Mr. Moreno asserts that, based on a default interest rate of 24%, the BC Trust is owed $14,381,715.78 as of December 2017. Mr. Kirkland also testifies as to the amounts that he loaned EPD between September 2007 and October 2009.

The Court finds that the testimony of Mr. Moreno and Mr. Kirkland is insufficient to create a genuine dispute as to the issue of how much Mr. Kirkland loaned EPD. Mr. Moreno's testimony cannot create a genuine issue because it contradicts his deposition testimony. "The general rule in the Ninth Circuit is that a party cannot create an issue of fact by an affidavit contradicting his prior deposition testimony.' This sham affidavit rule prevents 'a party who has been examined at length on deposition from 'rais[ing] an issue of fact simply by submitting an affidavit contradicting his own prior testimony,' which 'would greatly diminish the utility of summary judgment as a procedure for screening out sham issues of fact.'" Yeager v. Bowlin, 693 F.3d 1076, 1080 (9th Cir. 2012) (internal citations omitted).

At his deposition, Mr. Moreno stated that he had never heard of the BC Trust and that he did not know whether the BC Trust had ever invested funds with EPD. Mr. Moreno did recall that Mr. Kirkland had invested funds with EPD, but he did not know how much Mr. Kirkland had invested. Mr. Moreno further testified that he had sent Mr. Kirkland an accounting of the funds that Mr. Kirkland had invested with EPD. However, Mr. Moreno testified that he obtained this information from Mr. Pressman:

Question (by Trustee's counsel): Have you ever communicated with John Kirkland?

Answer: Yes.

Question: About what?

Answer: He called me about a month ago to ask me for some information.

Question: What kind of information?

Answer: He wanted a listing of what he had deposited into EPD, I believe.

Question: Anything else?

Answer: That was it pretty much. It was pretty quick.

Question: Did you speak with him by phone?

Answer: Yes, only by phone.

Question: And when you received that call, you didn't still work for EPD or Mr. Pressman, did you?

Answer: No, I did not.

Question: What did you tell him?

Answer: I told him he would have to talk to Jerrold Pressman.

Question: Did you provide anything to Mr. Kirkland?

Answer: And then Jerrold asked me to provide him with the information.

Question: Did you send information to Mr. Kirkland?

Answer: I believe I did.

Question: Other than that one call and e-mail or fax to Mr. Kirkland, have you communicated with Mr. Kirkland any other time since the bankruptcy case started?

Answer: No.

Moreno Deposition Transcript 37–39.

Mr. Moreno's declaration testimony paints is fundamentally inconsistent with his deposition testimony. In his declaration filed in support of Defendants' Opposition to the Trustee's Motion for Summary Adjudication, Mr. Moreno states:

at EPD at or near the time of each event.

Moreno Decl. [Doc. No. 307] at ¶2.

The declaration testimony implies that Mr. Moreno had the ability to independently obtain information regarding EPD's accounts. By contrast, the deposition testimony shows that Mr. Moreno was able to determine how much Mr. Kirkland had loaned EPD only after consulting with Mr. Pressman. In this respect, Mr. Moreno's deposition testimony is materially inconsistent with his declaration testimony. As noted previously, a party cannot create an issue of fact by submitting declaration testimony inconsistent with that party's deposition testimony. Mr. Moreno's deposition testimony shows that he lacked personal knowledge of the amount that Mr. Kirkland loaned EPD—Mr. Moreno had to obtain the information from Mr. Pressman. The Court finds that the inconsistent declaration testimony, in which Mr. Moreno asserts that he does have personal knowledge of the amounts loaned by Mr. Kirkland, is inadmissible as a result of its inconsistency with the deposition testimony. Consequently, Mr. Moreno's declaration testimony cannot create a genuine dispute regarding the issue of how much Mr. Kirkland loaned to EPD.

Mr. Kirkland also submits declaration testimony asserting that he loaned EPD $2,071,608.23 between September 2007 and October 2009. However, Mr. Kirkland does not provide any evidence substantiating the alleged loans. He does not provide any information regarding the methods of transfer or the originating or receiving bank account. He does not attach copies of checks or wire transfers. Mr. Kirkland's conclusory statements do not create a genuine issue of material fact. See F.T.C. v. Publ'g Clearing House, Inc., 104 F.3d 1168, 1171 (9th Cir. 1997), as amended (Apr. 11, 1997) ("A conclusory, self-serving affidavit, lacking detailed facts and any supporting evidence, is insufficient to create a genuine issue of material fact.").

Based on the report of the Trustee's expert witness Thomas Jeremiassen, the Court finds that there is no genuine dispute that Mr. Kirkland's net investment with EPD was no more than $1,116,755.41. See Doc. No. 267 at 26. This consists of a total of $1,205,466.23 that EPD received from Mr. Kirkland, less $104,852.82 in mortgage payments that EPD made on Mr. Kirkland's home.

The Trustee argues that $600,000 of the funds transmitted by Mr. Kirkland to EPD should not be deemed to be an investment, because those funds were booked to a revenue account entitled "Consulting & Professional Fees." However, Mr. Kirkland testifies that he had no knowledge of how EPD booked the funds that he transmitted. Accordingly, the Court cannot find, in the context of a summary judgment, that there is no genuine dispute as to the characterization of the $600,000 in funds.

As set forth in greater detail below, the Court finds that although the BC Trust holds an allowed claim in the amount of $1,116,755.41 on account of funds that Mr. Kirkland loaned to EPD, the BC Trust's security interest cannot attach to the vast majority of the proceeds that have been collected by the Trustee. Further, the Court finds that to the extent the BC Trust's claim does attach to proceeds held by the estate, the Trustee is entitled to prevail upon his claim for equitable subordination.

BC Trust's Claim Does Not Extend to Proceeds Held by the Estate in Connection with (1) Settlements Reached in Avoidance Actions Brought by the Trustee, (2) Settlements with John Kirkland's Former Law Firms, and (3) a Settlement with Mr. Geringer

The primary sources of the funds held by the estate are as follows (amounts listed below exceed the estate's cash on hand because fees have already been paid to professionals):

- 1) Settlements of the Trustee's avoidance claims, in the amount of $3,811,650.83.
- 2) Settlements with two of Mr. Kirkland's prior law firms, in the aggregate amount of $1,250,000.00.
- 3) A settlement with Robert Geringer, whereby Mr. Geringer paid the estate $3,615,817.85, representing the amount that Mr. Geringer paid Mr. Pressman for stock in North Hills Industrial Park, Inc.
- 4) Proceeds from the sale of stock in Ice Skating Enterprises, Inc., in the net amount of $54,588.83.
- 5) Proceeds in the amount of $50,000 in connection with Mr. Pressman's stock ownership in Sidecreek Development, Inc.

As a matter of law, even if BC Trust held a security interest, it could not extend to the proceeds collected by the Trustee through the settlements set forth in ¶¶1-3.

1. Funds Recovered in Connection with the Settlement of the Trustee's Avoidance Claims

As a matter of law, the funds collected by the Trustee in connection with the settlement of avoidance actions are not subject to any lien asserted by BCT. In McGoldrick v. Juice Farms, Inc. (In re Ludford Fruit Prod., Inc.), 99 B.R. 18, 24-25 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1989), the court rejected a creditor's contention that it held a security interest in the recoveries obtained by the Trustee through the exercise of his avoidance powers:

Juice Farms contends that since its security interest included both collateral that existed at the time the Security Agreement was executed and that Debtor acquired later, the preference actions and resulting recoveries obtained by Trustee for the benefit of Debtor's bankruptcy estate are collateral subject to Juice Farm's pre-petition security interest. Although simple and internally consistent, this analysis does not take into account 11 U.S.C. § 552 and therefore is incomplete.

Section 552(a) provides:

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, property acquired by the estate or by the debtor after the commencement of the case is not subject to any lien resulting from any security agreement entered into by the debtor before the commencement of the case.

Neither the preference actions nor the resulting recoveries in this case came into being until after Debtor filed its Chapter 11 petition. Therefore, Section 552(a) prevents Juice Farms' pre-petition security interest from attaching to the preference actions or the preference recoveries.

An exception to Section 552(a) is contained in Section 552(b) of the Bankruptcy Code. Section 552(b) provides:

(b) Except as provided in sections 363, 506(c), 522, 544, 545, 547, and 548 of this title, if the debtor and an entity entered into a security agreement before the commencement of the case and if the security interest created by such security agreement extends to property of the debtor acquired before the commencement of the case and to proceeds, products, offspring, rents, or profits of such property, then such security interest extends to such proceeds, products, offspring, rents, or profits acquired by the estate after the commencement of the case to the extent provided by such security agreement and by applicable nonbankruptcy law, except to any extent that the court, after notice and a hearing and based on the equities of the case, orders otherwise. (Emphasis added.)

Simply stated, Section 552(b) provides that if a pre-petition security interest encumbers proceeds of pre-petition collateral, the post-petition proceeds of pre-petition collateral will be subject to the creditor's pre-petition security interest.

Chapter 7

Juice Farms has failed to cite any persuasive authority that provides that the “general intangibles” at issue here—the bankruptcy estate's right to recover preferences under 11 U.S.C. § 547—are the proceeds of Juice Farms’ pre-petition collateral. Logically, it is difficult to understand how an avoidance power action that springs into being with the commencement of a bankruptcy case could be the proceed of any form of collateral.

California Commercial Code § 9306(1) defines “proceeds” to mean “whatever is received upon the sale, exchange, collection or other disposition of collateral or proceeds.” The bankruptcy estate’s right to sue under 11 U.S.C. § 547 is not received by the bankruptcy estate in exchange for the transfer of any property. Rather, it is a special power Congress grants to the fiduciary in charge of a bankruptcy estate, trustee or debtor in possession, to implement the equal distribution of assets among the various classes of claims in the estate.

To conclude that preference actions are the proceeds of collateral held pursuant to a pre-petition security interest would not only violate logic but also the policy behind the avoidance powers. See In re Integrated Testing Products Corp., 69 B.R. 901, 904–05 (D.N.J.1987). My conclusion is also buttressed by the language of California Commercial Code § 9306(4) which lists the types of proceeds in which a secured party has a perfected security interest in the event of an insolvency proceeding. Avoidance power choses in action are not listed there. Therefore, by its own terms, the exception set forth in subsection (b) of Section 552 does not allow Juice Farm’s pre-petition security interest to attach to this estate's § 547 actions.

Ludford Fruit, 99 B.R. at 24–25.

The BC Trust cites In re Figearo, 79 B.R. 914, 918 (Bankr. D. Nev. 1987) for the proposition that proceeds collected in connection with the Trustee’s avoiding powers may be subject to a creditor’s security interest. The Court declines to follow Figearo, which is contrary to Ludford Fruit. The leading treatise, Collier on Bankruptcy, is consistent with Ludford Fruit:

Some courts have ruled that, where the creditor has an independent right to recover the property in question, the creditor may claim an interest in that same property if and when it is recovered by the trustee pursuant to an avoiding power under the Bankruptcy Code. Under this reasoning, monies recovered as the result of a fraudulent transfer action sometimes are found to be "proceeds" of the creditor’s independent right to follow such monies when they are traceable into the hands of the transferee.

Other courts have distinguished these rulings when the avoidance action arises under the preference statute. According to these courts, preference recoveries are not "proceeds" of the creditor's collateral within the meaning of section 552(b)(1), because the right to recover a preference, unlike a chose in action for fraudulent transfer, occurs only in bankruptcy and is vested, with few exceptions, in a trustee.

Once a bankruptcy case commences, however, because all recoveries under the avoiding powers are property of the estate, administered almost exclusively by the trustee for the benefit of the estate as a whole rather than for any creditor individually, it is difficult to see how such recoveries can be other than "after-acquired property" within the meaning of section 552(a), rather than proceeds of prepetition collateral under section 552(b)(1). This is true for fraudulent transfers as well as preferences, and no persuasive distinction seems possible along these lines. Prebankruptcy state law preferences exist, and may be asserted postbankruptcy under section 544(b) of the Bankruptcy Code. And the assertion by a trustee of state fraudulent transfer law under section 544(b) allows for an expanded recovery under the rule of Moore v. Bay, as well as section 550, underscoring the fact that the recoveries that are property of the estate under section 541(a)(3) are peculiarly postpetition in nature. Indeed, a creditor may not sue to recover a state law fraudulent transfer once a case in bankruptcy is commenced, because this would be taking a chose in action from the estate, thereby violating the automatic stay. On the whole, therefore, the more persuasively reasoned opinions do not permit secured creditors to share in recoveries obtained by bankruptcy trustees or estate representatives pursuant to the avoiding powers, even where such creditors may have independent, traceable rights to those funds.

5-552 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 552.02 (16th ed. 2017).

The Court further notes that Figearo is contrary to the weight of authority and has not been followed by more recent cases. See, e.g., Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors v. UMB Bank, NA et al. (In re Residential Capital, LLC), 497 B.R. 403, 414 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2013) (declining to follow Figearo; holding that the Trustee's avoidance power claims "must be considered after-acquired property belonging to the estate"; and holding that "because the Debtor does not own the right to pursue a fraudulent transfer action in bankruptcy (since that action belongs to the trustee post-petition under section 554(b)), the Debtor could not have encumbered or assigned that right prepetition").

2. Funds Recovered through Settlements With Mr. Kirkland's Former Law Firms

Funds recovered by the Trustee in connection with the settlement of the Trustee's claims against two of Mr. Kirkland's former law firms cannot be subject to any security interest of the BC Trust. The Trustee asserted claims against Luce Forward Hamilton & Scripps LLP ("Luce Forward") for the avoidance and recovery of transfers pursuant to §§544, 547, 548, and 550, as well as claims for professional negligence, legal malpractice, and breach of fiduciary duty. The Trustee settled those claims for a payment of $750,000.

As discussed above, claims based upon the Trustee's avoiding powers are not subject to a prepetition creditor's lien, pursuant to §552(a). The Trustee's claims against Luce Forward for professional negligence and legal malpractice arose from Mr. Kirkland's misconduct while he was employed at Luce Forward. The BC Trust, as Mr. Kirkland's assignee, does not hold a security interest in the proceeds of a settlement that resulted from Mr. Kirkland's misconduct.

The Trustee asserted claims against Greenberg Traurig LLP and Greenberg Traurig PA ("Greenberg Traurig") for the avoidance and recovery of transfers pursuant to §§544, 547, 548, and 550, as well as claims for professional negligence, legal malpractice, and breach of fiduciary duty. The Trustee settled those claims for a payment of $500,000. Similar to the settlement with Luce Forward, the settlement with Greenberg Traurig arose in connection with Mr. Kirkland's misconduct while he was employed at Greenberg Traurig. The settlement with Greenberg Traurig, like the settlement with Luce Forward, is not subject to a prepetition creditor's lien.

3. Funds Recovered through the Settlement With Robert Geringer

The Trustee recovered $3,615,817.85 in connection with a settlement with Robert Geringer. The settlement was based on payments made by Mr. Geringer for the purchase of stock in NHIP.

The BC Trust points to a UCC financing statement recorded in September 2009 in support of its contention that it holds a security interest in NHIP's stock, and therefore a security interest in the proceeds of the settlement with Mr. Geringer. The BC Trust ignores the fact that an amended UCC-3 financing statement was subsequently recorded that provides: "This amendment is to clarify and confirm that the prior grant of security did not include the stock of North Hills Industrial Park, Inc., [NHIP] a California S-Corporation."

Lisa Underkoffler, Mr. Kirkland's secretary, filed the amended UCC-3 on May 5, 2010. Doc. No. 262 at Ex. 18 (document produced by National Corporate Research, Ltd., establishing that the UCC-3 was filed by Ms. Underkoffler). Ms. Underkoffler testified that she would not have filed the UCC-3 absent Mr. Kirkland's authorization.

Mr. Kirkland states that he never consented to the filing of the amended financing statement, was never told about the amended financing statement, and contends that the amended financing statement was filed at a time when he was out of the country and had limited communication with his office. Doc. No. 304 at ¶28.

The Court finds that at the time Ms. Underkoffler filed the UCC-3, she was an agent of Mr. Kirkland acting within the scope of her authority. As a result, Mr. Kirkland is bound to Ms. Underkoffler's filing of the UCC-3. See Cal. Civ. Code § 2330; Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors v. City Nat. Bank, N.A., 2011 WL 1832963, at *5 (N.D. Cal. 2011) ("It is well established that a principal is bound by the acts of an agent acting within the scope of the agent's authority."). Being bound by the acts of his agent Ms. Underkoffler, Mr. Kirkland cannot create a genuine dispute of material fact by testifying that he did not consent to the filing of the UCC-3.

The Trustee Has Not Demonstrated that He Is Entitled to Surcharge the BC Trust's Claim

The only proceeds as to which the BC Trust's alleged security interest could conceivably attach are the $54,588.53 that the Trustee obtained from the sale of stock in Ice Skating Enterprises, Inc. and the $50,000 that the Trustee obtained on account of Mr. Pressman's stock ownership interested in Sidecreek Development, Inc.

The Trustee asserts that he is entitled to surcharge the BC Trust's claim, and that such surcharge vastly exceeds the proceeds as to which the claim could be attach. The Trustee is correct that, pursuant to §506(c), he is entitled to "recover from property securing an allowed secured claim the reasonable, necessary costs and expenses of preserving, or disposing of, such property to the extent of any benefit to the holder of such claim" However, such a recovery would be limited to the costs incurred by the Trustee in selling the Ice Skating Enterprises stock and obtaining the distribution on account of Mr. Pressman's Sidecreek Development stock. The Trustee has not furnished any evidence of the amounts incurred to liquidate such property. Instead, the Trustee points only to the attorneys' fees accrued in liquidating all the assets of the estate.

The Trustee is Entitled to Prevail Upon His Equitable Subordination Claim

Ultimately, the fact that the BC Trust's claim can attach to a small portion of the proceeds collected by the Trustee is unavailing, as the Court finds that the Trustee is entitled to prevail upon his claim for equitable subordination.

Section 510(c) provides that “the court may under principles of equitable subordination, subordinate for purposes of distribution all or part of an allowed claim to all or part of another allowed claim.” The subordination of claims based on equitable considerations generally requires three findings: “(1) that the claimant engaged in some type of inequitable conduct, (2) that the misconduct injured creditors or conferred unfair advantage on the claimant, and (3) that subordination would not be inconsistent with the Bankruptcy Code.” Henry v. Lehman Comm. Papers, Inc. (In re First All. Mortgage Co.), 471 F.3d 977, 1006 (9th Cir. 2006).

The BC Trust acquired Mr. Kirkland’s EPD Interests through an assignment, and therefore remains subject to the rights and liabilities of Mr. Kirkland, including any liability flowing from Mr. Kirkland’s inequitable acts prior to assignment. Here, there is no genuine dispute as to the facts establishing that Mr. Kirkland engaged in inequitable conduct sufficient to support equitable subordination.

Mr. Kirkland’s conduct was inequitable in significant part because of his status as an insider of EPD. Mr. Kirkland’s insider status is established by the fact that Mr. Kirkland was EPD’s agent for service of process and served as outside counsel for companies partially owned or controlled by Mr. Pressman, including Plush Lounge Las Vegas LLC, SC Club LP, and Broadway Entertainment Marketing Inc. Even in situations where Mr. Kirkland did not formally represent EPD, he controlled EPD’s legal advice and actions. For example, on March 21, 2006, Christopher Austin, an associate at Greenberg Traurig, the law firm at which Mr. Kirkland was then a partner, sent an e-mail to Mr. Kirkland stating:

I note that EPD Investment Company, LLC is the secured party on the UCC-1 filing for the inventory at Plush Lounge. I assume EPD is another company owned/controlled by Jerry and that we are counsel for EPD. Can you confirm the relationship? I'm in the process of preparing the letter demanding the delivery/return of the remaining items identified on the UCC-1 that we were unable to recover because Marriott kicked us out, and it seems to me that the demand should come from the secured party EPD as well as (or perhaps exclusive of) Plush Lounge Las Vegas, LLC (the identified Debtor). Your thoughts?

Doc. No. 262 at Ex. 16 (records produced by Greenberg Traurig LLP).

Mr. Kirkland responded: "Please make the demand on behalf of Plush. I'll have a different lawyer make the demand on behalf of EPD." Id.

Mr. Kirkland's inequitable conduct consisted of facilitating the recordation of the UCC-1 financing statement in favor of the BC Trust, at the same time that EPD was experiencing serious cash flow problems and was not paying its other creditors. These actions inured to the detriment of EPD's other creditors but benefited the BC Trust in favor of Mr. Kirkland's children. The actions were undertaken at a time when EPD was experiencing serious cash flow issues. The recordation of the lien in favor of the BC Trust consisted of substantially all of EPD's remaining assets.

Because the Court finds that the Trustee is entitled to prevail upon his claim for equitable subordination, the Court does not rule upon the amount of interest, if any, to which EPD is entitled. Such a determination is unnecessary given that EPD's claim will be subordinated to all other claims.

Defendants' Arguments in Opposition to the Motion Lack Merit

Defendants assert various arguments in opposition to the Motion for Summary Adjudication, all of which lack merit.

First, Defendants argue that the Trustee's claims against Mr. Kirkland have been released in connection with settlements entered into between the Trustee and Mr. Kirkland's former law firms. Defendants selectively quote portions of the release provisions out of context. The releases preserved the Trustee's claims against Mr. Kirkland; only the claims against the law firms were released.

Second, Defendants argue that the Trustee may not obtain equitable subordination because he has already recovered amounts in settlements from Mr. Kirkland's prior law firms. The Trustee's settlements with those prior firms were based on avoidance actions and claims for malpractice and breach of fiduciary duty. The instant claims for equitable subordination are not duplicative of claims previously asserted. Defendants' argument lacks merit.

Third, the Trustee's disallowance and equitable subordination claims are not time-barred. Defendants claim that a statute of limitations was somehow triggered based on the date that Mr. Kirkland ceased employment with the law firm Luce Forward. Defendants' position is contrary to the Bankruptcy Code, which permits the Trustee to object to proofs of claim, and provides for the equitable subordination of claims. None of these provisions are subject to a statute of limitations.

Fourth, Defendants assert that the BC Trust has a defense to the Trustee's avoidance claims because the BC Trust qualifies as a holder in due course that took for value and in good faith under Cal. Comm. Code §3302(a). According to Defendants, the BC Trust took for value because the beneficiaries of the BC Trust are

Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland's children, and Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland are required by to support their children pursuant to Cal. Fam. Code §4053(b) and (d).

Defendants do not contest that no money or property of any kind was provided by the BC Trust to Mr. Kirkland in exchange for Mr. Kirkland's assignment of his EPD Interests to the BC Trust. Defendants instead rely upon the novel proposition that the Kirkland's obligation to support their children constitutes "value" within the meaning of Cal. Comm. Code §3302(a). Defendants do not cite any authority for this proposition, and the Court finds that it lacks merit. The Kirkland's independent statutory obligation to provide for their children cannot serve as a mechanism to enable Defendants to circumvent the Bankruptcy Code's fraudulent transfer provisions. Such a result would make it far too easy for debtors to avoid obligations to their creditors.

III. Conclusion

Based upon the foregoing, the Court finds that the Trustee is entitled to judgment in his favor on his equitable subordination claim. The Court will not enter final judgment at this time pursuant to Civil Rule 54, because judgment as to the Trustee's other claims for relief will be entered by the District Court. In the event the District Court adopts the Court's Report and Recommendation with respect to the Trustee's second, third, and sixth claims for relief, the Court will at that time enter final judgment on the equitable subordination claim.

The Trustee should be prepared to advise the Court whether he wishes to proceed with the fourth and fifth claims which were not addressed in either Motion for Summary Adjudication.

Bankruptcy Rule 9019, but is in fact more properly characterized as a motion to compel Trinity Financial Services ("Trinity") to perform under an agreement which Movant alleges it previously reached with Trinity. Movant contends that e-mail correspondence it exchanged with Trinity constitutes an enforceable agreement pursuant to which Trinity is required to accept a payoff of $50,000 in exchange for a release of its lien. Trinity asserts that the e-mails were nothing more than preliminary negotiations; that no formal agreement was ever memorialized; that Movant falsely represented their financial position during the negotiations; and that had Trinity been aware of the actual details regarding the short-sale contemplated by the global settlement agreement, it would never have agreed to release its lien for a payoff of only $50,000. Trinity takes the position that it is owed approximately $650,000, and maintains that the global settlement agreement allows Movant and entities affiliated with Movant to obtain more than its fair share of the value from the Maui Property. The Motion is joined by the Chapter 7 Trustee and by unsecured creditor Peter Rudinskas.

Movant and unsecured creditor Mr. Rudinskas conducted a Rule 2004 examination of Trinity on Thursday, January 18, 2018. Declarations filed subsequent to the Rule 2004 examination illustrate that Movant and Trinity have not made any progress toward resolving their dispute regarding the terms under which Trinity's lien can be released.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Although captioned as a motion under Bankruptcy Rule 9019, in reality the relief sought by Movant is an injunction requiring specific performance by Trinity under an alleged enforceable contract. The Court finds that Movant has failed to establish that an enforceable contract existed. The parties exchanged e-mails but no formal agreement was memorialized. The Court finds that the e-mails can fairly be construed as negotiations towards a settlement but that the e-mails do not qualify as an enforceable contract.

Further, the Court finds that even if an enforceable contract did exist, Movant has failed to show that it is entitled to injunctive relief. To obtain injunctive relief, Movant would be required to show irreparable harm. See generally Winter v. Nat. Res. Def. Council, Inc., 555 U.S. 7, 20 (2008). Movant has not made such a showing. While Movant may suffer money damages if it is unable to consummate the global settlement agreement, money damages do not constitute irreparable harm. As the Ninth Circuit has held, "economic injury alone does not support a finding of irreparable harm, because such injury can be remedied by a damage award.” Rent-A-Ctr., Inc. v. Canyon Television & Appliance Rental, Inc., 944 F.2d 597, 603 (9th Cir. 1991).

On September 5, 2017, the Court entered an order advising the parties to the global settlement agreement they would have one final opportunity to complete the short sale contemplated thereunder. The Court has stated that if the short sale is not completed by January 24, 2018, it would proceed with the adjudication of the Debtor’s objection to Gerald Goldstein’s proof of claim.

Consistent with its previous order, the Court hereby sets trial on the Debtor’s objection to Mr. Goldstein’s proof of claim commencing on 7/30/2018 at 9:00 a.m. through 8/2/2018. The Court notes that the claim objection has been brought by way of motion, rather than a formal adversary proceeding. However, the claim objection is sufficiently complex that the Court finds it necessary to adjudicate the objection by way of a trial rather than under the procedures applicable to a contested matter.

The following dates will apply:

(For contemplated hearings on motions related to expert discovery, it is counsel’s responsibility to check the Judge’s self-calendaring dates, posted on the Court’s website. If the expert discovery cutoff date falls on a date when the court is closed or that is not available for self-calendaring, the deadline for hearings on expert discovery motions is the next closest previous date which is available for self-calendaring.)
- 3) The last day to complete discovery (except as to experts), including hearings on discovery motions, is 6/30/2018. (If the non-expert discovery cutoff date is not available for self-calendaring, the deadline for non-expert discovery motions to be heard is the next closest previous date which is available for self-calendaring.)

The Court will issue separate orders informing the parties of the procedures that apply to the trial (i.e., the deadlines for the submission of witness lists and pretrial briefs).

RE: [132] and [133] Motion to Dismiss Debtor

Docket 132

Tentative Ruling:

1/23/2018

For the reasons set forth below, Motion DENIED.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Amended Motion to Dismiss Debtor (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 133]
- 2) Trustee's Opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 139]
- 3) Order Approving Chapter 7 Trustee's Motion for Order: (1) Authorizing sale of estate's right, title, and interest in alcoholic beverage control license; (2) Approving overbid procedure; and (3) Authorizing escrow to remit taxes due to the State Board of Equalization if any (the "Sale Order") [Doc. No. 71]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Sung Chung (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on February 9, 2015 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. Elissa D. Miller was appointed as Chapter 7 Trustee of the Estate (the "Trustee") on March 20, 2015 [Doc. No. 17]. This is, in effect, the Debtor's third attempt to dismiss or convert the case. See Doc. Nos. 48 & 126. The Court denied the Debtor's first Motion to Dismiss [Doc. No. 48] pursuant to the Order entered on November 12, 2015 [Doc. No. 85]. On September 24, 2015, the Court entered the "Order Approving Chapter 7 Trustee's Motion for Order: (1) Authorizing sale of estate's right, title, and interest in alcoholic beverage control license; (2) Approving overbid procedure; and (3) Authorizing escrow to remit taxes due to the State Board of Equalization if any" (the "Sale Order") [Doc. the Trustee post-petition. See Doc. Nos. 58, 71. Pursuant to the Sale Order, the Liquor License was sold for a total amount of $65,000. Doc. No. 71. On March 23, 2016, the Trustee filed the "Complaint Seeking Denial of Discharge Pursuant to § 727" [Doc. No. 104], thus commencing an adversary proceeding against the Debtor, Case No. 2:16-ap-01152-TD. On April 20, 2017, the Court entered the "Judgment of Nondischargeability" [Doc. No. 106], which denied the Debtor discharge pursuant to §§ 727(a)(2)(B), 727 (a)(3), 727(a)(4)(A) and (a)(4)(D), and 727(a)(5). Then, on October 4, 2017, the Debtor filed the "Motion to Convert Case from Chapter 7 to 13" [Doc. No. 126], which the Debtor withdrew after the Trustee filed its Opposition to the Motion to Convert [Doc. No. 127], see Doc. No. 130.

The Motion

On December 13, 2017, the Debtor filed the "Amended Motion to Dismiss Debtor" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 133]. The Debtor did not attach a proof of service to the Motion. The Motion requests dismissal for the following reasons: (1) so that the Debtor may "re-evaluate" his financial circumstances, Motion at 3–4; and (2) based on the Trustee's failure to expedite administration of the Estate, id. at 4.

The Trustee's Opposition

On January 3, 2018, the Trustee filed the Opposition to the Motion [Doc. No. 139]. The Opposition contends that the Debtor has not shown the requisite "cause" for dismissal, and that dismissal would not be in the best interest of creditors—particularly the IRS whose secured claim will be paid in full upon closing of the case. Opposition at 7–8. Additionally, the Trustee notes that the Debtor's failure to serve the Motion on all interested parties is, in itself, reason to deny the Motion. The Trustee also requests that the Court issue an Order to Show Cause re sanctions pursuant to FRBP 9011(c)(1)(B). If the Court is not inclined to issue an OSC, the Trustee reserves the right to pursue the remedy by separate motion.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Section 707(a)(1) provides that the "court may dismiss a case under this chapter only after notice and a hearing and only for cause." In Hickman v. Hana (In re Hickman), 384 B.R. 832, 840 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008), the court observed that the "term 'for cause' is defined in the Bankruptcy Code only by way of a list of three examples—unreasonable delay prejudicial to creditors, nonpayment of filing fees, and not filing schedules—that is plainly incomplete." The Hickman court explained that courts should examine the totality of the circumstances in determining whether "cause" under §707(a) is present. Id. at 840. A "case will not be dismissed on the motion of a debtor if such dismissal would cause 'some plain legal prejudice' to a creditor." Id. Legal prejudice exists if dismissal will result in a decreased distribution to creditors. See, e.g., Leach v. Internal Revenue Service (In re Leach), 130 B.R. 855, 858 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1991) (upholding denial of debtor's motion to dismiss, because dismissal would prejudice the Internal Revenue Service by permitting the debtor to refile at a later date when tax liabilities would be dischargeable).

Here, the Debtor has failed to demonstrate sufficient cause exists to warrant dismissal. The Court finds that dismissal would not be in the best interest of creditors or of the Estate, especially in light of the time the Trustee has spent investigating the Debtor's assets. Furthermore, the Trustee is currently pursuing case closing procedures.

The Court also notes that the Debtor did not comply with the notice requirements of § 707(a) or FRBP 2002(a)(4). The Debtor's failure to comply with the requisite notice procedures is an additional, independent ground for denying the Motion.

In the event the Trustee wishes to pursue sanctions pursuant to FRBP 9011(c) (1)(B), the Trustee may do so by a separate and appropriately noticed motion.

III. Conclusion

In conclusion, the Court DENIES the Debtor's Motion in its entirety.

The Trustee shall lodge a conforming order within seven (7) days of the hearing on the Motion.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. #6.00 Show Cause Hearing re [15] Why Case Should Not Be Dismissed Because Of Debtor's Failure To Pay The Filing Fee In Installments.

Docket 0

Tentative Ruling:

1/23/2018

The case is dismissed based on the Debtor's failure to pay the filing fee as ordered by the Court. Fees are delinquent in the amount of $135.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Order Approving Payment of Filing Fee in Installments (the "Fee Installment Order") [Doc. No. 7]
- 2) Order Requiring Debtor to Appear and Show Cause Why Case Should Not be Dismissed Because of Debtor's Failure to Pay the Filing Fee in Installments (the "OSC") [Doc. No. 15]
 - a) Notice of OSC [Doc. No. 20]
 - b) Notice to Creditors [of Rescheduled Hearing] [Doc. Nos. 17]

Mary Joyce Mitchell (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on September 7, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On September 8, 2017, the Court entered the "Order Denying Application to Proceed in Forma Pauperis and Notice for Payment of Filing Fees in Installments" (the "Fee Installment Order") [Doc. No. 7]. The Fee Installment Order required the Debtor to pay the first installment of $20 with the Petition, and to subsequently pay $105 per month commencing on October 9, 2017, with the final installment to be paid on December 8, 2017.

The Debtor paid the first installment of $20, but has failed to pay the remaining installments. Therefore, on November 16, 2017, the Court entered the "Order Requiring Debtor to Appear and Show Cause Why Case Should Not be Dismissed" (the "OSC") [Doc. No. 15]. As of the date of this tentative ruling, the Debtor has not responded to the OSC. The Debtor's failure to pay the fee installments as well as her

#7.00 Show Cause Hearing re [14] Why Case Should Not Be Dismissed Because Of Debtor's Failure To Pay The Filing Fee In Installments

Docket 0

Tentative Ruling:

1/23/2018

The case is dismissed based on the Debtor's failure to pay the filing fee as ordered by the Court. Fees are delinquent in the amount of $135.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Order Approving Payment of Filing Fee in Installments (the "Fee Installment Order") [Doc. No. 9]
- 2) Order Requiring Debtor to Appear and Show Cause Why Case Should Not be Dismissed Because of Debtor's Failure to Pay the Filing Fee in Installments (the "OSC") [Doc. No. 14]
 - a) Notice of OSC [Doc. No. 16]

Lucinda Velma Newcomb (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on October 18, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On October 18, 2017, the Court entered the "Order Granting Application to Pay Filing Fees in Installments" (the "Fee Installment Order") [Doc. No. 9]. The Fee Installment Order required the Debtor to pay installments of $83.75 per month commencing on November 20, 2017, with the final installment to be paid on February 20, 2018.

The Debtor has not paid any of the installments pursuant to the Fee Installment Order. Therefore, on November 21, 2017, the Court entered the "Order Requiring Debtor to Appear and Show Cause Why Case Should Not be Dismissed" (the "OSC") [Doc. No. 14]. As of the date of this tentative ruling, the Debtor has not responded to the OSC. The Debtor's failure to pay the fee installments as well as her failure to respond to the Court's OSC constitute "cause" for dismissal of the Debtor's case.

No. 1] against TrueERP, Inc. ("TrueERP"). The Complaint alleges that TrueERP supplied defective enterprise resource planning software to BBeautiful which caused BBeautiful to lose millions of dollars in sales. The Complaint seeks actual damages of not less than $10 million, as well as unspecified punitive damages.

On September 19, 2017, the Court conducted a hearing on the motion of Miller Miller Menthe, LLP ("MMM") to withdraw from representing TrueERP, Inc. The Court granted MMM's motion and ordered TrueERP to retain new counsel:

As a corporation, TrueERP cannot appear without an attorney. TrueERP must retain new counsel and file its Second Amended Counterclaim by the deadline previously set—October 3, 2017. If TrueERP does not retain new counsel and/or fails to meet this deadline, the Court will issue an order requiring TrueERP to show cause why its Answer should not be stricken and default should not be entered against it.

Final Ruling Granting Counsel's Motion to Withdraw [Doc. No. 92] at 3.

As ordered by the Court, MMM served the Final Ruling Granting Counsel's Motion to Withdraw upon TrueERP. See Declaration of Jonathan Gerber [Doc. No. 94]. The Court issued the instant Order to Show Cause after TrueERP failed to retain new counsel and failed to file its Second Amended Counterclaim by the October 3 deadline. The Order to Show Cause was served on TrueERP at the address listed on the 2017 Statement of Information that is on file with the California Secretary of State.

TrueERP has not responded to the Order to Show Cause.

II. Findings and Conclusions

The Court will strike TrueERP's Answer and enter its default. TrueERP has failed to file its Second Amended Counterclaim by the deadline ordered by the Court; has failed to retain new counsel by the deadline ordered by the Court; and has failed to file any response to the Order to Show Cause.

"[A] corporation may appear in the federal courts only through licensed counsel." Rowland v. California Men's Colony, Unit II Men's Advisory Council, 506 U.S. 194, 202 (1993). This requirement is reiterated in Local Bankruptcy Rule ("LBR") 9011-2 (a). In United States v. High Country Broad. Co., 3 F.3d 1244, 1245 (9th Cir. 1993), the Ninth Circuit held that it "was perfectly appropriate" for the District Court to enter default judgment against a corporation which was ordered to retain counsel but failed to do so. The court reached the same result in Employee Painters' Tr. v. Ethan Enterprises, Inc., 480 F.3d 993, 998 (9th Cir. 2007), holding that entry of default judgment against a corporation is "a permissible sanction for failure to comply with local rules requiring representation by counsel."

Here, TrueERP has twice been warned that if it failed to retain new counsel, default could be entered against it. The Court advised TrueERP of this possibility in its Final Ruling Granting Counsel's Motion to Withdraw [Doc. No. 92], and reiterated the warning in the Order to Show Cause. Notwithstanding these warnings TrueERP has failed to retain counsel. In fact, TrueERP failed to file any response whatsoever to the Order to Show Cause.

The High Country and Employee Painters courts held that a corporation's failure to retain counsel is by itself sufficient to support entry of default. However, the Court notes that the five-factor test that courts within the Ninth Circuit use to assess the appropriateness of a terminating sanction provides further support for the Court's decision to enter default against TrueERP. Under that test, when imposing case-dispositive sanctions, the Court considers the following factors:

- 1) the public's interest in expeditious resolution of litigation;
- 2) the court's need to manage its docket;
- 3) the risk of prejudice to the party who has litigated diligently;
- 4) the public policy favoring the disposition of cases on their merits; and
- 5) the availability of less drastic sanctions.

Connecticut Gen. Life Ins. Co. v. New Images of Beverly Hills, 482 F.3d 1091, 1096 (9th Cir. 2007).

There are three sub-parts to the fifth factor, the availability of less drastic sanctions: "whether the court has considered lesser sanctions, whether it tried them, and whether it warned the recalcitrant party about the possibility of case-dispositive sanctions." Id. The application of these factors is not mechanical; instead, the factors provide the Court "with a way to think about what to do, not a set of conditions precedent for sanctions or a script that the [Court] must follow." Id. Finally, terminating sanctions may not be imposed unless the "noncompliance involved willfulness, fault, or bad faith" R & R Sails, Inc. v. Ins. Co. of Pennsylvania, 673 F.3d 1240, 1247 (9th Cir. 2012).

Factors One and Two: The Public's Interest in Expeditious Resolution of the Litigation and the Court's Need to Manage its Docket

These factors weigh in favor of entering TrueERP's default. The Court has repeatedly advised TrueERP that it must retain counsel, yet TrueERP has failed to do so. TrueERP cannot appear without counsel. TrueERP's failure to retain counsel has already delayed this litigation. Absent entry of default judgment, TrueERP would be rewarded for its dilatory tactics.

Factor Three: The Risk of Prejudice to the Party Who Has Litigated Diligently

This factor weighs in favor of entering TrueERP's default. Entry of judgment against TrueERP will not prejudice BBeautiful, the party who has litigated diligently.

Factor Four: The Public Policy Favoring Disposition of Cases on Their Merits

This is the only factor that does not weigh in favor of entering TrueERP's default. Under the circumstances, the public policy favoring disposition of cases on their merits does not counterbalance the other factors that all weigh in favor of entering default.

Factor Five: The Availability of Less Drastic Sanctions

This factor weighs in favor of entering TrueERP's default. As discussed, the Court has repeatedly warned TrueERP that it must retain counsel. Notwithstanding these warnings, TrueERP has failed to retain counsel and has failed even to respond to the Order to Show Cause. The Court cannot allow TrueERP's failure to retain counsel to indefinitely delay the resolution of these proceedings. The Court further notes that this is not the first time that TrueERP has taken a cavalier attitude toward the discharge of its responsibilities in this litigation. On October 17, 2016, default was entered against TrueERP after it failed to respond to the Complaint. Doc. No. 16. That default was subsequently set aside after TrueERP belatedly retained counsel and filed its Answer. Doc. No. 36. TrueERP's past irresponsible behavior, combined with its failure to heed the Court's warnings regarding the necessity of retaining counsel, convinces the Court that less drastic sanctions would not remediate TrueERP's dilatory conduct.

The Court Will Conduct a Hearing to Establish the Amount of BBeautiful's Damages on December 13, 2017, at 10:00 a.m.

Once default has been entered, the well-pleaded factual allegations of the complaint are taken as true. Cripps v. Life Ins. Co. of North America, 980 F.2d 1261, 1267 (9th Cir. 1992). Entry of default does not establish damages unless the plaintiff's claim for damages "is for a sum certain or a sum that can be made certain by computation." Civil Rule 55(b). A claim is not for a sum certain unless "no doubt remains as to the amount to which a plaintiff is entitled as a result of the defendant's default." Franchise Holding II, LLC. v. Huntington Restaurants Grp., Inc., 375 F.3d 922, 929 (9th Cir. 2004). Here, BBeautiful seeks damages for the harm to its business caused by TrueERP's defective software, as well as punitive damages. BBeautiful's claim for damages is not for a sum certain, so the Court is required to conduct a hearing to determine damages. That hearing will take place on December 13, 2017, at 10:00 a.m. BBeautiful must file and serve evidence establishing the amount of its damages by no later than November 22, 2017.

III. Conclusion

Based on the foregoing, the Court will strike TrueERP's Answer and enter its default. A hearing on the amount of BBeautiful's damages will take place on December 13, 2017, at 10:00 a.m. BBeautiful shall submit a conforming order, incorporating this tentative ruling by reference, within seven days of the hearing.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Radiology Support Devices, Inc. (the "Debtor") commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on February 21, 2017. The Debtor manufactures and sells specialized anthropomorphic mannequins (known as "phantoms") designed for medical testing, teaching, training, radiography, oncology, and health physics. Among other things, the phantoms are used to test and calibrate x-ray equipment.

Chapter 11

The Debtor seeks authorization to use cash collateral through May 31, 2018. Consistent with the Court's previous cash collateral orders, the Debtor seeks authorization to exceed the amounts set forth in its cash collateral budget (the "Budget") by 15%, except that if the Debtor's revenues increase above projections, the Debtor seeks authorization to increase expenditures in proportion to the increase in revenues. The Budget also includes compensation to Mr. Alderson of $2,885.00 per week (in the previous cash collateral motion, the Debtor also requested that Mr. Alderson be paid $2,885.00 per week, which the Court allowed, see June Cash Collateral Order [Bankr. Doc. No. 82]). The Budget additionally provides for (1) monthly adequate protection payments of $1,820.45 to Wells Fargo Bank; (2) a $11,235.00 one-time cost for a new compressor; and (3) payment of administrative professional fees, pursuant to the Court's Orders "Granting Application for Payment of Interim Fees And/Or Expenses" [Bankr. Doc. Nos. 120 & 121], respectively.

The "Declaration of Bette Hiramatsu" ("Hiramatsu Decl.") [Bankr. Doc. No. 189] details the Debtor's actual post-petition sales, expenses, gross profit, and net income covering the period of the petition date through December 31, 2017. The report shows the following:

1. Net Sales/Revenue: $1,638,739.00
2. Costs of Goods Sold: $188,313.00
3. Total Operating Expenses: $983,005.00
4. Non-Operating Expenses: $100,617.00

Thus, for the post-petition period through December 31, 2017, the Debtor had a net income of $367,071.00. Motion at 6. The Debtor projected collections of $255,325.00, and thus exceeded its net income projection for this period. Id. The Debtor has also: eliminated its entire order backlog; filed motions to disallow the claims of Chawalit Krautim, Daniel Krautim, and Michael Kohrman and prevailed, which paves the way for the Debtor's Chapter 11 Plan which provides 100% payment to all creditors; and successfully negotiated consensual Plan treatment of the IRS claim.

Regarding the continued use of cash collateral, the Debtor states that the Secured Creditors are adequately protected by Debtor's continued operations and replacement liens. Motion at 8. Additionally, the Debtor anticipates having an ending cash balance of $230,486.00 by the end of May 2018. Id. There will not be any diminution in value of the Secured Creditor's collateral during the budget period. Id. The Debtor also states that it will continue to provide as additional adequate protection a replacement lien on the Debtor's accounts and will continue to make the requisite adequate protection payments to Wells Fargo Bank.

II. Findings and Conclusions

The Debtor is Authorized to Use Cash Collateral Through January 31, 2018 in Accordance with the Budget

Section 363(c)(2) requires court authorization for the use of cash collateral unless "each entity that has an interest in such cash collateral consents." In the Ninth Circuit, satisfaction of §363(c)(2)(A) requires the "affirmative express consent" of the secured creditor; "implied consent," resulting from the failure of the secured creditor to object to use of cash collateral, does not satisfy the requirements of the statute. Freightliner Market Development Corp. v. Silver Wheel Freightlines, Inc., 823 F.2d 362, 368-69 (9th Cir. 1987). Absent affirmative express consent, the Debtors "may not use" cash collateral absent the Court's determination that the use is "in accordance with the provisions" of §363—that is, that the secured creditor's interest in the cash collateral is adequately protected. See §363(c)(2)(B) and (e).

A secured creditor's interest is adequately protected if the value of its collateral is not declining; the secured creditor is not entitled to payment to compensate for its inability to foreclose upon the collateral during bankruptcy proceedings. United Savings Association of Texas v. Timbers of Inwood Forest Associates, Ltd., 484 U.S. 365 (1988).

The Debtor is authorized to use cash collateral through and including May 31, 2018, in accordance with the proposed Budget. The Debtor has made significant progress in resolving the production issues that prevented it from reducing its order backlog. The Debtor's sales during the previous three months have been significantly higher than projected, and expenses were lower than projected. To the extent that Wells Fargo is entitled to adequate protection, such adequate protection is provided by

(a) monthly cash payments to Wells Fargo in the amount of $1,820.45, (b) the Debtor's generation of additional accounts receivable through its continued sales, and (c) the granting to Wells Fargo of a replacement lien to the extent of any post-petition diminution in the value of Wells Fargo's pre-petition collateral as a result of the Debtor's use of cash collateral. To the extent that Citibank, N.A. ("Citibank") and Clay Lorinsky ("Lorinsky") are entitled to adequate protection, such adequate protection is provided by (a) the Debtor's generation of additional accounts receivable through its continued sales and (b) the granting to those creditors of a replacement lien to the extent of any post-petition diminution in the value of their pre-petition collateral as a result of the Debtor's use of cash collateral. The replacement liens granted to the Secured Creditors shall have the same validity, extent, and priority as the pre-petition interests held by each respective Secured Creditor as of the petition date.

On a monthly basis, the Debtor may exceed the expenditure for any Budget line-item by up to 15%, provided that any such excess line-item expenditure is completely offset by a corresponding reduction in expenditures on account of other line-items, such that the total monthly expenditures remain at or below the Budget's projections.

The Debtor is authorized to continue payment of administrative professional fees, pursuant to the Court's Orders "Granting Application for Payment of Interim Fees And/Or Expenses" [Bankr. Doc. Nos. 120 & 121].

A hearing on whether the Debtor may use cash collateral subsequent to May 31, 2018 will take place on May 16, 2018, at 10:00 a.m. By no later than January 31, 2018, the Debtor shall provide notice of the continued hearing to (1) all secured creditors with an interest in the cash collateral, (2) the twenty largest unsecured creditors, and (3) the United States Trustee. The Debtor shall file a proof of service indicating that notice was provided as set forth above by no later than February 7, 2018. By no later than May 2, 2018, the Debtor shall submit further evidence in support of the continued use of cash collateral. That evidence must include information on the Debtor's sales, expenses, collections on accounts receivable, order backlog amount, and profit margin, and must also discuss the extent to which the Debtor's performance varied from the Budget projections. Any response to the Debtors' additional evidence is due by May 9, 2018.

III. Conclusion

For the reasons set forth above, the Debtor is authorized to use cash collateral through and including May 31, 2018, in accordance with the Budget. A hearing on whether the Debtor may use cash collateral subsequent to May 31, 2018, will take place on May 16, 2018, at 10:00 a.m.

#102.00 HearingRE: [76] Motion for approval of chapter 11 disclosure statement

Docket 76

Tentative Ruling:

1/23/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Court SUSTAINS the Objection of the United States, and DENIES the Debtor's Motion for Approval of the Disclosure Statement. The Court finds that the Disclosure Statement does not contain adequate information. The deadline for the Debtor to file an Amended Disclosure Statement is April 24, 2018, by which date the Debtor shall have filed sufficient information with the IRS for the amount of the IRS's tax claim to be made certain.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Motion for Approval of Chapter 11 Disclosure Statement (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 76]
 - a) Disclosure Statement in Support of Plan of Reorganization (the "Disclosure Statement") [Doc. No. 74]
- 2) Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization (the "Plan") [Doc. No. 75]
- 3) Objection of the United States to the Disclosure Statement (the "Objection") [Doc. No. 83]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Chapter 11 Debtor and Debtor in Possession Michael McNulty (the "Debtor") filed the Motion for Approval of Chapter 11 Disclosure Statement (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 76] on December 12, 2017. The Motion seeks approval of the Debtor's Disclosure Statement in Support of Plan of Reorganization (the "Disclosure Statement") [Doc. No. 74]. The Debtor's Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization (the "Plan") [Doc. No. 75] was filed concurrently with the Disclosure Statement.

Chapter 11

The Disclosure Statement includes the following information:

- (1) Unclassified Claims including administrative priority and tax claims: these claims include (i) professional fees and costs; (ii) United States Trustee's fees; and (iii) postpetition domestic support obligations. Such claims shall be paid in full on, or as soon as practicable after the Effective Date or upon allowance of such claim, whichever is later. Holders of priority tax claims are entitled to priority under § 507(a)(8), and such claims shall be paid over five years from the date of the entry of the order for relief with 4% interest.
- (2) Administrative Claim—Class 1: the Debtor's attorney's fees and costs are estimated in the amount of $6,000. On the Effective Date of the Plan the Debtor proposes to pay such fees from his earnings in the amount of $6,000, subject to Court approval of the Administrative fees.
- (3) Claim of Specialized Loan Servicing—Class 5(b): Specialized Loan Servicing is the first lienholder on the Debtor's real property and has a secured claim for $605,336.63. The Debtor proposes to pay the principal balance in the amount of $432,420.74 over a period of 30 years with 5% interest. The Debtor also proposes to pay the arrears in the amount of $172,915.89 on the Effective Date of the Plan.
- (4) Tax Claim of the Franchise Tax Board—Class 5(c): the Franchise Tax Board ("FTB") has a secured claim in the amount of $11,332.16, an unsecured priority claim in the amount of $14,744.62, and a general unsecured claim in the amount of $4,233.90. The Debtor proposes payment of the secured claim over 4 years at 4% interest in monthly payments of $456.00. The Debtor proposes payment of the unsecured priority claim over 4 years at 4% interest in monthly payments of $333.00. The general unsecured claim will be paid pro rata with other general unsecured claims.
- (5) Tax Claim of the IRS: the IRS has an unsecured priority claim in the amount of $21,957.09, and an unsecured general claim in the amount of $2,457.53. The Debtor proposes payment of the unsecured priority claim over 4 years at 4% interest in monthly payments of $496.00. The general unsecured claim will be paid pro rata with other general unsecured claims.

- (6) Claim of Los Angeles County Treasurer: the Los Angeles County Treasurer and Tax Collector has a secured claim in the amount of $6,130.12. The Debtor proposes payment of the secured claim over 5 years at 18% interest in monthly payments of $156.00.
- (7) Disposable Income: the Debtor has proposed a 1% plan whereby his unsecured claims will be paid in full over 5 years in quarterly payments of $20.46 beginning on the Effective Date of the Plan.

The Plan will be funded through (a) $6,100.00 of cash available on the date of the Plan Confirmation hearing, and (b) additional cash projected disposable income, which is projected to be $14.52 per month for the 5 years following confirmation. The Disclosure Statement further provides that upon completion of all payments under the Plan, the Debtor shall receive a discharge of all preconfirmation debts, unless the Court orders otherwise. The Effective Date of the Plan is 14 days following the date of entry of the order confirming the Plan.

Opposition

On January 10, 2018, the United States filed the "Objection of the United States to the Disclosure Statement" (the "Objection") [Doc. No. 83]. The United States opposes the Disclosure Statement and contends that the Disclosure Statement does not contain adequate information as follows: (1) the Disclosure Statement and Plan fail to properly treat the IRS's priority tax claim; (2) the Disclosure Statement and Plan fail to adequately provide for administrative tax claims; (3) the Disclosure Statement sets forth a Plan that proposes discharge of Administrative Taxes without properly providing for them; (4) the Disclosure Statement and Plan fail to provide the applicable interest rate for tax claims; and (5) the Disclosure Statement does not adequately describe a feasible Chapter 11 Plan.

The recurring issue raised in the Objection is based on the fact that the IRS has, due to the Debtor's failure to file tax returns for various tax periods, been forced to estimate the priority tax liabilities due by the Debtor for these same variable tax periods. Thus the actual priority tax claim of the IRS remains unknown, and the IRS cannot determine whether the Debtor's Plan and/or Disclosure Statement propose to pay the IRS's priority tax claim in full. This issue with regards to the Debtor's failure to file the aforementioned tax returns not only limits the IRS's ability to determine whether the Disclosure Statement and/or Plan adequately provide for the IRS's priority tax claim, but also administrative tax claims. The IRS also objects on the grounds that the Disclosure Statement and Plan propose to discharge administrative taxes without properly providing for them and that the Plan fails to provide the applicable interest rate for tax claims. Lastly, the IRS contends that the absence of the aforementioned tax returns puts the IRS in a position where it cannot determine the feasibility of the Plan.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Section 1125 requires a disclosure statement to contain "information of a kind, and in sufficient detail, as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records . . . that would enable. . . a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan." In determining whether a disclosure statement provides adequate information, "the court shall consider the complexity of the case, the benefit of additional information to creditors and other parties in interest, and the cost of providing additional information." 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a). Courts interpreting § 1125 (a) have explained that the "primary purpose of a disclosure statement is to give the creditors the information they need to decide whether to accept the plan." In re Monnier Bros., 755 F.2d 1336, 1342 (8th Cir. 1985). "According to the legislative history, the parameters of what constitutes adequate information are intended to be flexible." In re Diversified Investors Fund XVII, 91 B.R. 559, 560 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1988). "Adequate information will be determined by the facts and circumstances of each case." Oneida Motor Freight, Inc. v. United Jersey Bank, 848 F.2d 414, 417 (3d Cir. 1988), accord. In re Ariz. Fast Foods, Inc., 299 B.R. 589 (Bankr. D. Ariz. 2003).

Relevant factors for evaluating the adequacy of a disclosure statement may include: (1) the events which led to the filing of a bankruptcy petition; (2) a description of the available assets and their value; (3) the anticipated future of the company; (4) the source of information stated in the disclosure statement; (5) a disclaimer; (6) the present condition of the debtor while in Chapter 11; (7) the scheduled claims; (8) the estimated return to creditors under a Chapter 7 liquidation; (9) the accounting method utilized to produce financial information and the name of the accountants responsible for such information; (10) the future management of the debtor; (11) the Chapter 11 plan or a summary thereof; (12) the estimated administrative expenses, including attorneys' and accountants' fees; (13) the collectability of accounts receivable; (14) financial information, data, valuations or projections relevant to the creditors' decision to accept or reject the Chapter 11 plan; (15) information relevant to the risks posed to creditors under the plan; (16) the actual or projected realizable value from recovery of preferential or otherwise voidable transfers; (17) litigation likely to arise in a nonbankruptcy context; (18) tax attributes of the debtor; and (19) the relationship of the debtor with affiliates.

In re Metrocraft Pub. Services, Inc., 39 B.R. 567, 568 (Bankr. Ga. 1984). However, "[d]isclosure of all factors is not necessary in every case." Id.

Here, the Court finds that the Disclosure Statement does not satisfy many of the relevant Metrocraft factors, including: (2) a description of the available assets and their value; (4) the source of information stated in the disclosure statement; (6) the present condition of the debtor while in Chapter 11; (7) the scheduled claims; (8) the estimated return to creditors under a Chapter 7 liquidation; (10) the future management of the debtor; (11) the Chapter 11 Plan or a summary thereof; (14) financial information, data, valuations or projections relevant to the creditors' decision to accept or reject the Chapter 11 Plan; (15) information relevant to the risks posed to creditors under the Plan; and (18) tax attributes of the debtor.

Notably, the Disclosure Statement and Plan are based, in part, on the IRS's estimated claim because the Debtor has not filed the required tax information for the IRS to determine the Debtor's actual tax liabilities.

For the reasons set forth above, the Court SUSTAINS the Objection of the United States, and DENIES the Debtor's Motion for Approval of the Disclosure Statement. The Court finds that the Disclosure Statement does not contain adequate information. The deadline for the Debtor to file an Amended Disclosure Statement is April 24, 2018, by which date the Debtor shall have filed sufficient information with the IRS for the amount of the IRS's tax claim to be made certain. #100.00 HearingRE: [10] Notice of motion and motion for relief from the automatic stay with supporting declarations REAL PROPERTY RE: 35 N Raymond Ave #209, Pasadena, CA 91103 . (Jafarnia, Merdaud)

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

1/25/2018

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the property in accordance with applicable law. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501. Since a chapter 7 case does not contemplate reorganization, the sole issue before the Court when stay relief is sought under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) is whether the Debtor has equity in the property. See e.g. Nev. Nat'l Bank v. Casbul of Nev., Inc. (In re Casgul of Nev., Inc.), 22 B.R. 65, 66 (9th Cir. BAP 1982); Ramco Indus. v. Preuss (In re Preuss), 15 B.R. 896 (9th Cir. BAP 1981).

The subject property has a value of $455,000.00 and is encumbered by a perfected deed of trust or mortgage in favor of the Movant. The liens against the property and the expected costs of sale total $1,359,929.02. The Court finds there is no equity and there is no evidence that the trustee can administer the subject real property for the benefit of creditors.

Further, the Court finds that there are facts presented in the Motion sufficient for the court to find bad faith pursuant to § 362(d)(4). Debtor's filing of the petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, and defraud creditors that involved: (1) the transfer of all or part ownership of, or other interest in, the Property without the consent of Movant or court approval; and (2) Multiple bankruptcy cases affecting the Property..

The 14-day period specified in Fed.R.Bankr.P. 4001(a)(3) is waived. This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. If recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, the order shall be binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect such real property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of such order by the Court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from such order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and a hearing. All other relief is denied.

Movant shall upload an appropriate order via the Court's Lodged Order Upload system.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Daniel Koontz or Cameron Schlagel, the Judge's law clerks at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. #101.00 HearingRE: [1058] Notice of motion and motion for relief from automatic stay with supporting declarations ACTION IN NON-BANKRUPTCY FORUM RE: Lead Case No. BC534466, Los Angeles County Superior Court with Proof of Service.

Docket 1058

Tentative Ruling:

1/25/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Motion is GRANTED.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay Under 11 U.S.C. §362 (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 1058]
 - a) Declaration of Itak K. Moradi in Support of Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay (the "Moradi Decl.") [Doc. No. 1059]
 - b) Request for Judicial Notice in Support of Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay [Doc. No. 1060]

 - a) Errata [to] Response and Opposition of Debtor, Gardens Regional Hospital and Medical Center, Inc., to Motion for Relief from Automatic Stay [Doc. No. 1078]
- 3) Reply to Response and Opposition of Debtor to Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay (the "Reply") [Doc. No. 1076]
 - a) Amended Proof of Service [Doc. No. 1077]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Fifty-six plaintiffs who have filed personal injury actions against the Debtor in the Los Angeles Superior Court (the "State Court") seek stay-relief pursuant to §362(d) (1). The Debtor opposes the Motion as to three plaintiffs who have not filed proofs of claim—James Boccia, Zettie Epps, and Penny Larkin. The Debtor notes that these plaintiffs are barred from filing a proof of claim because the claims bar date has passed. The Debtor states that eighteen of the plaintiffs commenced actions in the State Court without seeking stay-relief, and seeks dismissal of those actions.

Movants object to the Debtor's Opposition as having been filed untimely. Movants assert that it is not relevant that James Boccia, Zettie Epps, and Penny Larkin did not file proofs of claim, because Movants are seeking stay-relief and are not at this time seeking any distribution from the estate. Finally, Movants request that the stay be retroactively annulled as to those Movants who filed actions without obtaining stay-relief.

II. Findings and Conclusions

The Court will consider the Debtor's Opposition notwithstanding the fact that it was filed three days late. Movants have not been prejudiced by the delay.

Debtor's request that the Motion be denied as to the plaintiffs who have not filed proofs of claim is denied. Regardless of whether those plaintiffs are barred from obtaining a distribution from the estate by virtue of having failed to timely file a proof of claim (an issue which the Court does not determine at this juncture), stay-relief is appropriate given the possibility that plaintiffs may be able to recover against any available insurance.

As to all Movants, the Motion is GRANTED pursuant to §362(d)(1). The State Court is best suited to adjudicate the personal injury claims which arise under non-bankruptcy law.

Movants did not request retroactive annulment in the Motion; this request was first made in Movants' Reply. As such, the request for retroactive annulment is not properly before the Court. See Local Bankruptcy Rule 9013-1(g)(4) ("New arguments or matters raised for the first time in reply documents will not be considered."). However, the Court will entertain the request for retroactive annulment, subject to the Debtor's ability to oppose the request at the hearing.

Subject to any such opposition, the Court is prepared to grant the request for retroactive annulment. "[T]he proper standard for determining 'cause' to annul the automatic stay retroactively is a 'balancing of the equities' test." Fjeldsted v. Lien (In re Fjeldsted), 293 B.R. 12, 24 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2003). In applying this test, the general trend has been to focus on two non-exclusive factors: "(1) whether the creditor was aware of the bankruptcy petition; and (2) whether the debtor engaged in unreasonable or inequitable conduct, or prejudice would result to the creditor." Id. at 12.

Here, the record does not indicate whether Movants were aware of the bankruptcy petition. Nor has the Debtor engaged in unreasonable or inequitable conduct.

Chapter 11

However, the prejudice to Movants absent retroactive annulment outweighs any prejudice to the Debtor. If the Court did not grant retroactive annulment, the Debtor would still be required to defend against the thirty-eight actions that were not commenced in violation of the stay. The prejudice that the Debtor will suffer by being required to defend against the claims of an additional eighteen defendants in consolidated proceedings is less than the prejudice that the eighteen plaintiffs would suffer if they could not pursue their personal injury claims.

The automatic stay remains in effect with respect to the enforcement of any judgment against the Debtor or estate property. Movants are permitted to enforce any final judgment only by collecting upon available insurance in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law. Movants may not pursue any deficiency claim or any other claim against the Debtor or property of the estate. Because this Motion was opposed, Movants' request for waiver of the 14-day stay prescribed by Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 4001(a)(3) is DENIED.

Movants shall submit a conforming order, incorporating this tentative ruling by reference, within fourteen days of the hearing.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlager or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. Docket 5

Tentative Ruling:

1/26/2018

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set on a shortened notice in accordance with this judge's procedures. Oppositions, if any, will be considered at the hearing.

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1). The stay is terminated as to the Debtor and the Debtor's bankruptcy estate with respect to the Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns. Movant may enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property in accordance with applicable law, but may not pursue a deficiency claim against the debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501.

The Movant filed an unlawful detainer action on November 7, 2017. Judgment was entered in favor of the Movant in the unlawful detainer action on December 2, 2017.

This Motion has been filed to allow the Movant to proceed with the unlawful detainer proceeding in state court. The unlawful detainer proceeding may go forward because the Debtor's right to possess the premises must be determined. This does not change simply because a bankruptcy petition was filed. See In re Butler, 271 B.R. 867, 876 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2002).

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of this bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

Movant also requests annulment of the stay. However, it is not apparent from the record that any actions were taken post-petition in violation of the stay. Therefore, the Court does not find that annulment is necessary and Movant's request for annulment is DENIED.

All other relief is denied.

Movant shall upload an appropriate order via the Court's Lodged Order Upload system within 7 days of the hearing.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Chapter 7 Trustee David M. Goodrich (the "Trustee") seeks authorization to sell his right, title, and interest in residential real property located at 16335 East Elgenia Street, Covina, CA (the "Property"), on an as-is basis, without any warranties or representations. The proposed buyer is Equity Saver Construction, Inc. (the "Buyer"), and the sale is subject to overbids.

The parties do not agree upon the proper characterization of the Court's prior rulings pertaining to this matter. To provide a clear record, the Court describes the relevant facts as well as its prior rulings in detail below.

A. Prior Proceedings

In 2002, Aida Fuentes ("Aida") owned a house on East Elginia Street, Covina, California (the "Property"), as her sole and separate property. In July 2006, Aida married Rudy Eberto Fuentes ("Rudy"). [Note 1] On September 12, 2011, Aida recorded a grant deed conveying all of her right, title, and interest in the Property to Rudy as his sole and separate property.

Aida commenced a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on January 18, 2013. David M. Goodrich was appointed as the Trustee. [Note 2] On March 12, 2014, the Trustee Goodrich commenced an adversary proceeding against Rudy and Aida, seeking to avoid the September 2011 transfer of the Property as actually and constructively fraudulent. See Goodrich v. Fuentes, et al., Adv. No. 2:14-ap-01159-ER. On April 30, 2015, the Court entered judgment in favor of Trustee Goodrich and against Rudy, and avoided the September 2011 transfer. See Order: (1) Granting Motion for Summary Judgment Against Defendant Rudy E. Fuentes on Third, Sixth, and Tenth Claims for Relief in Trustee's Complaint, (2) Dismissing with Prejudice First, Second, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth Claims for Relief Against Defendant Rudy E. Fuentes in Trustee's Complaint; and (3) Dismissing Without Prejudice Tenth Claim for Relief Against Defendant Aida Fuentes in Trustee's Complaint (the "Judgment") [Doc. No. 61, Adv. No. 2:14-ap-01159-ER]. With respect to Trustee Goodrich's claim seeking turnover of the Property as against Rudy, the Court ordered that Trustee Goodrich was entitled to final judgment in his favor, but further ordered that turnover "shall be subject to Rudy's homestead exemption in the Property and the Trustee's acquisition of an order authorizing a sale of the Property." Judgment at ¶3. The Judgment that avoided the September 2011 transfer is now final and non-appealable. As a result of the Judgment, Rudy has only a possessory interest in the Property.

On September 8, 2014, Rudy commenced a separate voluntary Chapter 7 petition, and claimed a $175,000 homestead exemption in the Property. Sam S. Leslie was appointed as the Trustee in Rudy's case. On December 8, 2015, Trustee Goodrich moved to disallow Rudy's homestead exemption (the "Disallowance Motion"). On February 19, 2015, the Court denied the Trustee's Disallowance Motion, finding that Rudy was entitled to an exemption of $175,000 based on his possessory interest in the Property. See Order Denying Motion of David Goodrich for Order: (1) Disallowing Homestead Exemption in Fraudulently Transferred Real Property; or (2) in the Alternative Extending Time to Object to Debtor's Homestead Exemption [Doc. 56, Case No. 2:14-bk-27148-ER]. The Trustee appealed the Court's denial of the Disallowance Motion to the District Court, which affirmed the Bankruptcy Court's decision. The Trustee appealed the District Court's affirmance to the Ninth Circuit. On April 17, 2017, the Ninth Circuit issued a Memorandum of Decision affirming the District Court's ruling. However, the Ninth Circuit clarified that although Rudy was entitled to a homestead exemption, that exemption was limited to his possessory interest in the Property:

In order to qualify as a "homestead" under the automatic homestead exemption, certain residency requirements must be satisfied. Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 704.710(c). If the residency requirements are satisfied, a judgment debtor can claim a homestead exemption in the interest he or she has in the property, "regardless of whether the judgment debtor's interest is a fee, leasehold, or lesser interest." Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 704.820 Law Revision Commission Comments to 1982 Addition; see also Elliott v. Weil (In re Elliott), 523 B.R. 188, 196 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2014) ("[T]he [California] automatic homestead exemption applies to any interest in the property if the debtor satisfies the continuous residency requirement.").

The parties do not dispute that [Rudy] Fuentes has satisfied these residency requirements. In addition, [Rudy] Fuentes holds a possessory interest in the Property, which is an interest in real property that California law recognizes. See, e.g., Cal. Rev. & Tax. Code § 107; Cal. Code Regs. tit. 18, § 20. Because [Rudy] Fuentes has satisfied the residency requirements, he can claim a homestead exemption in his bankruptcy for the possessory interest that he holds in the Property. However, this possessory interest can be sold by his creditors unless "no bid is received at a sale of [the possessory interest] pursuant to a court order for sale that exceeds the amount of the homestead exemption plus any additional amount necessary to satisfy all liens and encumbrances on the property" Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 704.800(a).

Further, [Rudy] Fuentes's possessory interest is still subject to all other provisions of California and federal law, which may "extinguish[] . . . [his] equitable possessory interests in the real property at issue." See Eden Place, LLC v. Perl (In re Perl), 811 F.3d 1120, 1128 (9th Cir. 2016).

In a footnote, the Ninth Circuit explained that "[Rudy] Fuentes is not guaranteed to receive any particular amount of money if any other interest (besides his possessory interest) in the Property is sold." Id. at 5. The Ninth Circuit made no statements with respect to the amount of money, if any, that Rudy was entitled to receive on account of his homestead exemption.

Aida claimed a homestead exemption in the Property in the amount of $175,000. On June 23, 2017, the Court granted the Trustee's motion to disallow Aida's homestead exemption. The Court found that, pursuant to §522(g), Aida was not entitled to a homestead exemption:

Section 522(g) provides:

Notwithstanding sections 550 and 551 of this title, the debtor may exempt under subsection (b) of this section property that the trustee recovers under section 510(c)(2), 542, 543, 550, 551, or 553 of this title, to the extent that the debtor could have exempted such property under subsection (b) of this section if such property had not been transferred, if—

- (1) (A) such transfer was not a voluntary transfer of such property by the debtor; and
(B) the debtor did not conceal such property; or
- (2) the debtor could have avoided such transfer under subsection (f)(1)(B) of this section.

"Section 522(g) ... limits the ability of a debtor to claim an exemption where the trustee has recovered property for the benefit of the estate." Hitt v. Glass (In re Glass), 164 B.R. 759, 761 (9th Cir. BAP 1994). Its purpose "is to prevent a debtor from claiming an exemption in recovered property which was transferred in a manner giving rise to the trustee's avoiding powers, where the transfer was voluntary or where the transfer or property interest was concealed." Id. at 764.

There is no dispute that Aida voluntarily transferred the Property to Rudy prior to the petition. The Trustee obtained a judgment avoiding the transfer as fraudulent and recovering the Property. Because Aida voluntarily transferred property that the Trustee recovered, she is not entitled to a homestead exemption under §522(g). It is not necessary for the Court to find that Aida concealed the transfer; the mere fact that she voluntarily transferred property that the Trustee subsequently recovered is sufficient to defeat her right to a Final Ruling Granting Trustee's Motions to Disallow Aida's Homestead Exemption and to Employ a Real Estate Broker to Market the Property [Doc. No. 54, Case No. 2:13-bk-11518-ER] at 7-8.

Over Aida's objection, the Court granted the Trustee's application to employ a real estate broker to market the Property. The Court rejected Aida's contention that there was no equity in the Property to be administered for the benefit of creditors:

Aida's opposition ... is premised upon the inaccurate assumption that Rudy is entitled to payment of his $175,000 homestead exemption from the proceeds of the Property's sale. Aida's opposition ignores the language of the Ninth Circuit's Memorandum of Decision affirming the allowance of Rudy's homestead exemption. The Ninth Circuit held that Rudy is entitled to a homestead exemption, but only to the extent of his possessory interest in the Property. The Ninth Circuit further noted that Rudy is not guaranteed to receive any money on account of his homestead exemption if an interest in the Property other than his possessory interest is sold.

The Trustee is not seeking to sell Rudy's possessory interest in the Property. The Trustee will either sell the Property subject to Rudy's possessory interest, or will take action to extinguish Rudy's possessory interest prior to the sale. Rudy holds no other interest in the Property aside from his possessory interest. Rudy's homestead exemption cannot attach to the proceeds stemming from the sale of interests in the Property that he does not hold. Because Rudy's homestead exemption cannot attach to the sale proceeds, there is equity in the Property for distribution to unsecured creditors, and there is no merit to Aida's contention that the Trustee is pursuing the sale of the Property in bad faith.

This result is compelled by the language of the statute and the decision of the Ninth Circuit. The statute makes clear that a debtor's homestead exemption is limited to the debtor's interest in the property. See, e.g., Cal. Civ. Proc. Code §704.740 (providing that "the interest of a natural person in a dwelling may not sold under this division to enforce a money judgment except pursuant to a court order ..."); id. at §704.820 (providing that where a judgment debtor holds less than a fee simple interest in the property, only "the interest of the judgment debtor in the dwelling and not the dwelling shall be sold," and further providing that where there is more than one judgment debtor, "each of the judgment debtors entitled to a homestead exemption is entitled to apply his or her exemption to his or her own interest").

The Ninth Circuit's Memorandum further established that Rudy's homestead exemption applies only to his possessory interest in the Property. The court explained that Rudy "can claim a homestead exemption in his bankruptcy for the possessory interest that he holds in the Property." Memorandum at 4. The court further stated that Rudy "is not guaranteed to receive any particularly amount of money if any other interest (besides his possessory interest) in the Property is sold." Id. at 5.

The proposition that a debtor's homestead exemption can apply only to the debtor's interest in property is corroborated by the logic of other cases interpreting California's homestead statute. For example, in Schwaber v. Reed (In re Reed), 940 F.2d 1317, 1323 (9th Cir. 1991), the Ninth Circuit was confronted with a situation in which the debtor held only a one-half interest in property. For purposes of determining whether the debtor's homestead exemption could defeat the Trustee's sale of the property, the court compared the value of the exemption to the value of the debtor's one-half interest. The court did not use the value of the entire property to conduct the equity calculation. The court's approach is consistent with the principle that the homestead exemption applies only to the debtor's interest in the property. If the debtor's homestead exemption could apply to interests in the property that the debtor did not hold, the Reed court would have been required to perform the equity calculation using the value of the entire property, not just the value of the debtor's one-half interest. The limitation of a homestead exemption to the debtor's interest was also made clear in Elliot v. Weil (In re Elliott), 523 B.R. 188, 196 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2014). In that case, the court said that the "homestead exemption applies to any interest in the property." Id. at 196 (emphasis altered).

Id. at 5–7.

On September 13, 2017, the Court conducted hearings on the Trustee's motion seeking to compel Aida to turnover the Property (the "Turnover Motion") and the Trustee's motion for an order authorizing the sale of the Property free and clear of liens and encumbrances (the "First Sale Motion"). The Court denied the Turnover Motion without prejudice, finding that because Aida, Rudy, and their children all lived at the Property, any turnover order issued by the Court with respect to Aida only would be impossible to enforce. See Order Denying Without Prejudice Chapter 7 Trustee's Turnover Motion (the "Turnover Denial Order") [Doc. No. 86, Case No. 2:13-bk-11518-ER]. The Court denied the Sale Motion without prejudice since the closing of the sale was contingent upon the Trustee's ability to deliver the Property to the buyers in vacant condition. See Order Denying Without Prejudice Chapter 7 Trustee's Sale Motion [Doc. No. 85, Case No. 2:13-bk-11518-ER].

In the Turnover Denial Order, the Court found that in light of the unenforceability of a turnover order issued only with respect to Aida, it was necessary for the possessory rights of both Aida and Rudy in the Property to be litigated simultaneously. The Court further held that the issues regarding Rudy's possessory interest and homestead exemption must be adjudicated before this Court—as opposed to being adjudicated before a state court by way of an unlawful detainer action—because those issues require interpretation of the Judgment avoiding the 2011 transfer of the Property and the application of bankruptcy law. On September 14, 2017, the Court issued an order reopening Rudy's bankruptcy case to permit such adjudication to occur. See Doc. No. 79, Case No. 2:14-bk-27148-ER. On September 28, 2017, the Court denied the Trustee's motion for reconsideration of the Court's finding that it was necessary for the issues regarding Rudy's possessory interest and homestead exemption to be adjudicated before the Bankruptcy Court. See Order Denying Chapter 7 Trustee's Motion for Reconsideration [Doc. No. 93, Case No. 2:13-bk-11518-ER].

On September 18, 2017, Rudy filed an "Adversary Complaint For: (1) Declaratory Judgment Re Value of Debtor's Possessory, Equitable and Homestead Interests in Real Property; (2) Valuation of Interests; and (3) Injunctive Relief" (the "Original Complaint") in his reopened bankruptcy case. The Trustee moved to dismiss the Original Complaint, for failure to state a claim, based on the fact that the Original Complaint named "David M. Goodrich" as a defendant in his individual capacity rather than in his capacity as the Chapter 7 Trustee of the estate of Aida Fuentes. The Court granted the Motion to Dismiss but gave Rudy leave to amend. The Court explained:

Given the contentious nature of this litigation, the Court finds that the caption of the Complaint must be amended to make it absolutely clear that David M. Goodrich is being sued in his capacity as a Chapter 7 Trustee, not in his individual capacity. Upon reading the Complaint, it is clear that Rudy did not intend to sue David M. Goodrich in his individual capacity; nonetheless, the Complaint's caption is misleading and therefore creates ambiguity.

Ruling Granting Motion to Dismiss with Leave to Amend [Doc. No. 17, Case No. 2:17-ap-01475-ER] at 7.

On November 21, 2017, Rudy filed the operative First Amended Complaint (the "Complaint"). The Complaint alleges that Rudy's possessory interest in the Property has a value of no less than $175,000; that Rudy holds an equitable interest in the Property as a result of community payments on the Property's mortgage; and that the Trustee's attempts to sell the Property without paying Rudy any amount on account of his homestead exemption constitute a taking of Rudy's property without just compensation. Based on these allegations, the Complaint seeks (1) a declaration that Rudy's possessory interest has a value of $175,000; (2) a declaration that Rudy holds an equitable interest in the Property by virtue of community payments on the Property's mortgage; (3) a declaration that any termination of Rudy's possessory and equitable interests in the Property must provide for payment of or adequate protection of those interests; and (4) an injunction preventing the Trustee from selling the Property without paying Rudy $175,000 on account of his homestead exemption.

B. Summary of Papers Filed in Connection with the Trustee's Second Sale Motion

The Trustee seeks authorization to sell his right, title, and interest in the Property to Equity Saver Construction, Inc. ("Equity"), free and clear of liens and encumbrances. See generally Motion of Trustee for Order: (1) Authorizing Sale of Real Property Free and Clear of Liens and Encumbrances; (2) Approving Overbid Procedures; (3) Authorizing Payment of Any Undisputed Liens, Costs of Sale, and Property Taxes; and (4) Finding that Purchaser is Good Faith Purchaser Under 11 U.S.C. §363(m) (the "Second Sale Motion") [Doc. No. 95, Case No. 2:13-bk-11518-ER]. The sale is subject to overbids. The sale is not contingent upon the delivery of the Property in a vacant condition and/or the extinguishment of the possessory interests of Aida, Rudy, or any other occupants. The Trustee is selling only his interest in the Property, not Rudy's possessory interest. The Trustee asserts that he is authorized to sell the Property upon the foregoing terms, without paying Rudy any amount on account of his homestead exemption, based upon the Ninth Circuit's determination that Rudy "is not guaranteed to receive any particular amount of money if any other interest (besides his possessory interest) in the Property is sold." the protections of §363(m).

Rudy opposes the Second Sale Motion and makes the following arguments in support of his opposition:

- 1) Pursuant to §363(e), Rudy's equitable interest in the Property cannot be sold absent adequate protection of that interest. Rudy holds an equitable interest in the Property because community funds were used to make mortgage payments. Until the value of Rudy's equitable interest has been determined through the pending adversary proceeding, the amount of adequate protection that Rudy must be provided on account of his equitable interest cannot be determined. Therefore, the Property cannot be sold until conclusion of the adversary proceeding.
- 2) The Property is being sold by quitclaim deed. A quitclaim deed contains no warranties of title and only operates to convey the seller's interest in the Property to the buyer. In this case, the Property is subject to (a) the final order granting turnover to the Trustee, but providing that turnover is subject to Rudy's allowed homestead exemption; (b) the final order in Rudy's case overrule the Trustee's objection to Rudy's $175,000 homestead exemption; (c) the order of the District Court affirming the Bankruptcy Court's allowance of Rudy's homestead exemption; (d) the Ninth Circuit's order affirming the District Court's order; and (e) any other order relating to the Property, including the order denying the Trustee's motion for reconsideration of the order reopening Rudy's bankruptcy. Further, the purchaser would also take the Property subject to the pending adversary proceeding, meaning that the purchaser would be required to step into the Trustee's shoes and defend the adversary proceeding. This is another reason why the sale must be postponed until the adversary proceeding has been resolved.
- 3) In light of the fact that the Trustee was listed as a creditor in Rudy's case, and Rudy has obtained a discharge, the Trustee's attempt to sell the Property may violate the discharge injunction.

The Trustee makes the following arguments in reply to Rudy's opposition:

- 1) It is not necessary for the sale to be postponed until resolution of the adversary proceeding. The adversary proceeding seeks to value Rudy's possessory and alleged equitable interests in the Property. Rudy's possessory interest, and his homestead exemption in such possessory interest, is not relevant because the sale to Equity is not contingent upon the extinguishment of Rudy's possessory interest. If the sale is approved, Rudy's claims in the adversary regarding his possessory interest will become moot. Rudy's claim that he holds an equitable interest in the Property based upon the alleged use of community funds to maintain the Property are without merit, for the reasons set forth in the Trustee's concurrent motion to dismiss the adversary proceeding.

- 2) The Trustee has demonstrated that the standards governing the sale of property in a bankruptcy proceeding have been satisfied, and Rudy has failed to refute that these standards have been met. That is, the Trustee has demonstrated that the purchase price is fair and reasonable and that the sale is in the best interests of creditors and the estate.

C. Summary of Papers Filed in Connection with the Trustee's Motion to Dismiss Rudy's Claims for Valuation of His Alleged Equitable Interest in the Property

The Trustee seeks dismissal, with prejudice, of Rudy's claims regarding an equitable interest in the Property based upon the alleged use of community funds to maintain the Property from and after June 2006 (the "Equitable Claim"). The Trustee makes the following arguments in support of the Motion to Dismiss:

- 1) The "form of title" presumption establishes that the Property is Aida's separate property and that Rudy holds no equitable interest therein. Under the "form of title" presumption, the description in a deed as to how title is held presumptively reflects the actual ownership status of the property. Fadel v. DCB United LLC (In re Fadel), 492 B.R. 1, 11 (9th Cir. BAP 2013). The "form of title" presumption is codified at California Evidence Code §662, which provides: "The owner of the legal title to property is presumed to be owner of the full beneficial title. This presumption may be rebutted only by clear and convincing proof." Here, during the time that Rudy alleges that community funds were used to pay the Property's mortgage, the title provided that the Property was Aida's separate property.
- 2) Even if the "form of title" presumption does not control, the Equitable Claim is based upon reimbursement for the alleged use of community funds. Reimbursement is a monetary right which arises only between spouses upon dissolution of the marriage. Fadel, 492 B.R. at 7. Here, there has been no dissolution.
- 3) Any equitable interest Rudy may have held in the Property dissipated as a result of the doctrine of merger when Aida conveyed all her right, title, and interest in the Property to Rudy as his sole and separate property by means of the deed recorded on September 12, 2011. Under the doctrine of merger, when the person holding a dominant tenement and a servient tenement are the same, all of the lesser property interests are merged into the fee simple interest.

- 4) In In re Marriage of Moore, 28 Cal.3d 366 (1980), the California Supreme Court held that where community funds are used to make payments on separate property, the community acquires an interest in the separate property to the extent of the payments. Therefore, even if Rudy did acquire an equitable interest in the Property based on the use of community funds to make the mortgage payments, any such equitable interest would be community property. As community property of Aida's estate, that equitable interest would belong to the Trustee pursuant to §541(a)(2). Because the equitable interest belongs to the Trustee, Rudy's attempt to obtain possession of that interest by way of the Complaint violates the automatic stay in Aida's case.
- 5) If Rudy's equitable interest were not property of Aida's estate, that interest would be property of Rudy's estate and would belong to the Trustee of Rudy's estate. Consequently, only the Trustee of Rudy's estate would have standing to pursue claims relating to the alleged equitable interest.
- 6) The Complaint exceeds the scope of the Turnover Denial Order, which stated that the Court would enter an order reopening Rudy's case for the limited purpose of adjudicating only issues regarding Rudy's possessory interest and homestead exemption. To the extent that the Complaint seeks relief exceeding the scope of the Turnover Denial Order, the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction.

Rudy makes the following arguments in opposition to the Motion to Dismiss:

- 1) Civil Rule 12(g)(2) bars a party from raising arguments in a motion to dismiss that were available to the party but omitted from an earlier motion. The Trustee moved to dismiss the Original Complaint, which is identical to the operative First Amended Complaint, except that the caption was amended to make it absolutely clear that David M. Goodrich was being sued in his capacity as the Trustee for the estate of Aida Fuentes, not in his individual capacity. There is no reason why the arguments raised in this second motion to dismiss could have not been raised in the initial motion to dismiss.
- 2) The motion should be denied on the merits. First, Rudy's equitable interest in the Property is not property of his estate. Because Rudy's case was closed after having been fully administered, the equitable interest was abandoned to him pursuant to §554(c). The abandonment was not revoked upon the reopening of the case. Second, there is no merit to the Trustee's contention that the Complaint violates the automatic stay in Aida's case. The Complaint seeks to establish the value of Rudy's possessory and equitable interests in the Property. Nothing in the prayer for relief seeks to obtain possession of property of Aida's estate, as Rudy is already in lawful possession of the Property.

The Trustee makes the following arguments in reply to Rudy's opposition:

- 1) Civil Rule 12(g)(2) does not warrant denial of the Motion to Dismiss. First, Rule 12(g)(2) does not apply because the Original Complaint named David Goodrich in his individual capacity and not in his capacity as the Trustee of Aida's estate. Second, even if Rule 12(g)(2) did apply, courts within the Ninth Circuit liberally construe the rule and consider arguments raised in violation thereof if such consideration is in the interests of judicial economy. See Pepper v. Apple, Inc. (In re Apple iPhone Antitrust Litig.), 846 F.3d 313, 319 (9th Cir. 2017) ("Although Rule 12(g) technically prohibits successive motions to dismiss that raise arguments that could have been made in a prior motion ... courts faced with a successive motion often exercise their discretion to consider the new arguments in the interests of judicial economy."). Judicial economy supports consideration of the Motion to Dismiss. If the claims related to Rudy's alleged equitable interest in the Property are dismissed, the only remaining issues pertain to Rudy's possessory interest and homestead exemption in the Property. Those issues will be resolved if the Court approves the Second Sale Motion.
- 2) Rudy fails to address most of the Trustee's important substantive arguments in support of dismissal. There is no dispute that Rudy's alleged equitable interest in the Property is community property and is therefore property of Aida's estate. By prosecuting the Complaint, Rudy is attempting to obtain possession of property of Aida's estate in violation of the automatic stay.

II. Findings and Conclusions

All findings set forth in Section I.A., above, are adopted as the findings of the Court. For the reasons set forth below, the Trustee's Motion to Dismiss Rudy's claims pertaining to his alleged equitable interest in the Property is granted. The Court finds that the sale of the Property need not be postponed until the conclusion of the adversary proceeding.

The Trustee's Motion to Dismiss is Granted

"To survive a motion to dismiss, a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.' A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (internal citations omitted). To state a plausible claim for relief, a complaint must satisfy two working principles:

First, the tenet that a court must accept as true all of the allegations contained in a complaint is inapplicable to legal conclusions. Threadbare recitations of the elements of a cause of action, supported by mere conclusory statements, do not suffice.... Second, only a complaint that states a plausible claim for relief survives a motion to dismiss. Determining whether a complaint states a plausible claim for relief will ... be a context-specific task that requires the reviewing court to draw on its judicial experience and common sense. But where the well-pleaded facts do not permit the court to infer more than the mere possibility of misconduct, the complaint has alleged—but it has not "show[n]"—"that the pleader is entitled to relief."

Id. (citing Civil Rule 8(a)(2)).

Although the pleading standard Civil Rule 8 announces "does not require 'detailed factual allegations,' ... it demands more than an unadorned, the-defendant-unlawfully-harmed-me accusation.... A pleading that offers 'labels and conclusions' or a 'formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do.' Nor does a complaint suffice if it tenders 'naked assertion[s]' devoid of 'further factual enhancement.'" Id. (citing Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007)).

Civil Rule 12(g)(2) provides:

Except as provided in Rule 12(h)(2) or (3), a party that makes a motion under this rule must not make another motion under this rule raising a defense or objection that was available to the party but omitted from its earlier motion.

Rule 12(h)(2) provides that the defense of failure to state a claim may be raised (1) in any pleading, (2) by way of a motion for judgment on the pleadings, or (3) at trial.

Courts within the Ninth Circuit consider motions to dismiss made in violation of Rule 12(g)(2) if such consideration furthers judicial economy:

Although Rule 12(g) technically prohibits successive motions to dismiss that raise arguments that could have been made in a prior motion ... courts faced with a successive motion often exercise their discretion to consider the new arguments in the interests of judicial economy.

Pepper v. Apple, Inc. (In re Apple Iphone Antitrust Litig.), 846 F.3d 313, 319 (9th Cir. 2017)

The reason for this flexible construction of Rule 12(g)(2) is as follows:

Rule 12(g) is designed to avoid repetitive motion practice, delay, and ambush tactics. If the Court were to evade the merits of Defendants' ... defenses here, Defendants would be required to file answers within 14 days of this Order.

They would presumably assert [the same defenses] in those answers.

Defendants would then file Rule 12(c) motions, the parties would repeat the briefing they have already undertaken, and the Court would have to address the same questions in several months. That is not the intended effect of Rule 12(g), and the result would be in contradiction of Rule 1's mandate [to construe the Civil Rules "to secure the just, speedy, and inexpensive determination of every action and proceeding"].

The Court rejects Rudy's contention that the Motion to Dismiss is barred by Rule 12(g)(2). First, the defenses now raised by the Trustee were not available to him in the context of his motion to dismiss the Original Complaint, in view of the Original Complaint's misleading caption which created ambiguity as to whether the Trustee was being sued in his individual capacity or in his capacity as the Trustee of Aida's estate. It was not unreasonable for the Trustee to be concerned about personal liability given the contentious nature of this litigation. Aida (who is represented by the same counsel as Rudy) has previously argued that the Trustee should be required to appear and show cause why he should not be removed pursuant to §324. Removal under § 324 is an extraordinary remedy that disqualifies a Trustee from serving as the Trustee in all pending cases under the Bankruptcy Code.

Second, denial of the Motion to Dismiss on Rule 12(g)(2) grounds would not be in the interests of judicial efficiency. Since the Motion to Dismiss is brought under Rule 12(b)(6), the Trustee could raise identical arguments by way of a motion for judgment on the pleadings or at trial. Refusing to consider the Trustee's arguments at this juncture would result only in delay, in contravention of Rule 1. See Apple Iphone Antitrust Litig., 846 F.3d at 319.

Turning to the merits, the Court finds that the Complaint's allegations regarding Rudy's equitable interest in the Property fail to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. In California, where community funds are used to make payments on separate property, the community acquires an interest in the separate property proportionate to such payments. See In re Marriage of Moore, 28 Cal.3d 366 (1980). Consequently, any equitable interest that Rudy may have acquired in the Property is community property. As community property of Aida's estate, that equitable interest belongs to the Trustee pursuant to §541(a)(2). Rudy's attempt to obtain possession of this estate property is void as a violation of the automatic stay. See §362(a)(3) (staying "any act to obtain possession of property of the estate or of property from the estate or to exercise control over property of the estate"); Schwartz v. United States (In re Schwartz), 954 F.2d 569 (9th Cir. 1992) (holding that actions in violation of the automatic stay are void, not voidable). [Note 3] The Trustee is entitled to dismissal of the void claims brought in violation of the stay. Because Rudy cannot plead facts showing that an equitable interest acquired through community payments is not property of Aida's estate, the dismissal is with prejudice. See Reddy v. Litton Indus., Inc., 912 F.2d 291, 296 (9th Cir. 1990) (holding that the Court may dismiss a complaint without leave to amend where any proposed amendment would be futile).

The Second Sale Motion is Granted

Rudy's primary opposition to the Second Sale Motion is that any sale must await resolution of the adversary proceeding. As discussed above, the Complaint has been dismissed with prejudice to the extent that it asserts that Rudy holds an equitable interest in the Property by virtue of community payments.

The Complaint's remaining claims seek relief based upon Rudy's possessory interest in the Property. The Ninth Circuit has held that Rudy "is not guaranteed to receive any particular amount of money if any other interest (besides his possessory interest) in the Property is sold." Ninth Circuit Memorandum at 5. Here, the Trustee is not selling Rudy's possessory interest in the Property, and the sale does not require the Trustee to deliver the Property to the successful purchaser in vacant condition. Consistent with the statements made by the Ninth Circuit, this Court has previously ruled that Rudy is not entitled to receive any payment on account of his homestead exemption if the Trustee does not sell Rudy's possessory interest in the Property. The Court's decision overruling Aida's opposition to the Trustee's motion to employ a real estate broker to market the Property applies with equal force here:

The Trustee is not seeking to sell Rudy's possessory interest in the Property.... Rudy holds no other interest in the Property aside from his possessory interest. Rudy's homestead exemption cannot attach to the proceeds stemming from the sale of interests in the Property that he does not hold. Because Rudy's homestead exemption cannot attach to the sale proceeds, there is equity in the Property for distribution to unsecured creditors, and there is no merit to Aida's contention that the Trustee is pursuing the sale of the Property in bad faith.

This result is compelled by the language of the statute and the decision of the Ninth Circuit. The statute makes clear that a debtor's homestead exemption is limited to the debtor's interest in the property. See, e.g., Cal. Civ. Proc. Code §704.740 (providing that "the interest of a natural person in a dwelling may not sold under this division to enforce a money judgment except pursuant to a court order ..."); id. at §704.820 (providing that where a judgment debtor holds less than a fee simple interest in the property, only "the interest of the judgment debtor in the dwelling and not the dwelling shall be sold," and further providing that where there is more than one judgment debtor, "each of the judgment debtors entitled to a homestead exemption is entitled to apply his or her exemption to his or her own interest").

The Ninth Circuit's Memorandum further established that Rudy's homestead exemption applies only to his possessory interest in the Property....

The proposition that a debtor's homestead exemption can apply only to the debtor's interest in property is corroborated by the logic of other cases interpreting California's homestead statute. For example, in Schwaber v. Reed (In re Reed), 940 F.2d 1317, 1323 (9th Cir. 1991), the Ninth Circuit was confronted with a situation in which the debtor held only a one-half interest in property. For purposes of determining whether the debtor's homestead exemption could defeat the Trustee's sale of the property, the court compared the value of the exemption to the value of the debtor's one-half interest. The court did not use the value of the entire property to conduct the equity calculation. The court's approach is consistent with the principle that the homestead exemption applies only to the debtor's interest in the property. If the debtor's homestead exemption could apply to interests in the property that the debtor did not hold, the Reed court would have been required to perform the equity calculation using the value of the entire property, not just the value of the debtor's one-half interest. The limitation of a homestead exemption to the debtor's interest was also made clear in Elliot v. Weil (In re Elliott), 523 B.R. 188, 196 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2014). In that case, the court said that the "homestead exemption applies to any interest in the property." Id. at 196

Final Ruling Granting Trustee's Motions to Disallow Aida's Homestead Exemption and to Employ a Real Estate Broker to Market the Property [Doc. No. 54, Case No. 2:13-bk-11518-ER] at 7-8.

There is no merit to Rudy's contention that the successful purchaser takes the Property subject to the pending litigation regarding Rudy's possessory interest. The terms of the purchase agreement provide that the purchaser is acquiring only the Trustee's interest in the Property and is not acquiring Rudy's possessory interest. It defies logic to suggest that the purchase of the Trustee's interest could somehow be subject to claims regarding an interest in the Property that is not being sold.

Contrary to Rudy's position, the successful purchaser will not be required to step into the Trustee's shoes and defend against Rudy's claims regarding his possessory interest. Once the sale has been completed, Rudy's estate will have no interest in the Property. Completion of the sale will divest the Court of jurisdiction over Rudy's claims regarding the value of his possessory interest. Therefore, once the sale has been completed, the Court will be required to dismiss the Complaint's remaining claims based upon its lack of jurisdiction.

The Bankruptcy Court has jurisdiction over "all cases under title 11." 28 U.S.C. § 1334(a). "Generally, in the bankruptcy context, the word 'case' is a term of art which refers to 'that which is commenced by the filing of a petition; it is the "whole ball of wax," the chapter 7, 9, 11, 12 or 13 case.'" Blevins Elec., Inc. v. First Am. Nat'l Bank (In re Blevins Elec., Inc.), 185 B.R. 250, 253 (Bankr. E.D. Tenn. 1995).

The Bankruptcy Court also has jurisdiction over "all civil proceedings arising under title 11, or arising in or related to cases under title 11." 28 U.S.C. §1334(b). The three types of jurisdiction conferred under 28 U.S.C. §1334(b) are known as "arising under," "arising in," and "related to" jurisdiction. "Arising under" jurisdiction exists if "the cause of action is created by title 11." Menk v. Lapaglia (In re Menk), 241 B.R. 896, 909 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1999). "Arising in" jurisdiction applies to "those administrative proceedings that, while not based on any right created by title 11, nevertheless have no existence outside bankruptcy." Id. "Related to" jurisdiction exists if "the outcome of the proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy.... An action is related to bankruptcy if the action could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action (either positively or negatively) and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankruptcy estate." Fietz v. Great Western Savings (In re Fietz),

852 F.2d 455, 457 (9th Cir. 1988) (internal citations omitted).

Upon completion of the sale, the Court will lack "arising under" jurisdiction because the Complaint's causes of action arise under state law, not under title 11. The Court will lack "arising in" jurisdiction because the Complaint is not an administrative proceeding of the type that has no existence outside of bankruptcy. The Court will lack "related to" jurisdiction because there is no conceivable manner in which the outcome of the proceeding could affect the bankruptcy estate. Rudy has received a discharge and his estate has been fully administered.

The Court previously found that issues regarding Rudy's possessory interest and homestead exemption must be adjudicated before this Court—as opposed to being adjudicated before a state court by way of an unlawful detainer action—because those issues require interpretation of the Judgment avoiding the 2011 transfer of the Property and the application of bankruptcy law. That finding was made in the context of the First Sale Motion, which differed materially from the instant Second Sale Motion. The First Sale Motion required the Trustee to deliver the Property to the purchasers free of Rudy's possessory interest. By contrast, the instant Second Sale Motion contains no such requirement. As a result of the entirely different structure of the Second Sale Motion, Rudy's homestead exemption cannot attach to the sales proceeds, and the issues regarding Rudy's possessory interest no longer require interpretation of the Judgment avoiding the 2011 transfer of the Property or the application of bankruptcy law.

There is no merit to Rudy's assertion that the sale violates the discharge injunction entered in Rudy's bankruptcy case. The Trustee is not selling any interest of Rudy in the Property. The sale is not an attempt by the Trustee to collect a debt against Rudy.

Auction Procedures

The Court will distribute numbered auction paddles to the proposed purchaser and all qualified overbidders. The initial overbid will be $365,000. Subsequent overbids will be increments of $5,000, with the increments subject to adjustment by the Court depending upon the bidding. The Court will announce each bid level. To remain in the auction, bidders must participate at all bid levels. That is, parties who do not bid in a round cannot later change their minds and re-enter the auction. Parties may make a bid higher than that announced by the Court by approaching the podium and stating their bid.

At the conclusion of the auction the Court will take testimony from the winning bidder to determine whether that bidder is entitled to the protections of §363(m).

Given names are used to distinguish Aida and Rudy Fuentes. No disrespect is intended.

Note 2

As discussed in greater detail below, Sam S. Leslie was appointed as the Chapter 7 Trustee for the bankruptcy estate of Rudy Fuentes. Rudy is the spouse of Aida Fuentes, and the facts of his bankruptcy case are relevant to the instant motion. Trustee Leslie has not filed any papers in connection with this motion. Unless otherwise indicated, all references to the "Trustee" are to David M. Goodrich, the Trustee of Aida Fuentes' bankruptcy estate.

Rudy asserts in conclusory fashion that the Complaint's allegations do not violate the stay, but he cites no authority refuting Marriage of Moore.

Chapter 11

On November 13, 2017, the Court struck TrueERP's Answer and entered its default, based on TrueERP's failure to retain counsel and failure to respond to the Court's order requiring it to show cause why its default should not be entered. See Order Striking Defendant's Answer and Entering Default [Doc. No. 101] and Final Ruling on Order to Show Cause [Doc. No. 100].

BBeautiful seeks entry of default judgment in its favor in the amount of $147,256.40, consisting of $146,100.00 (the amount BBeautiful paid for the defective software) plus $1,156.40 (for prejudgment interest). BBeautiful does not seek recovery on its claims for punitive damages or for damages incurred as a result of the business disruption caused by the defective software. In support, BBeautiful submits declarations of its principal, Helga Arminak; its damages expert, Robert Wunderlich, Ph.D., and its current counsel.

II. Findings and Conclusions

The findings previously made by the Court in connection with its entry of default against TrueERP are incorporated herein by reference. See Order Striking Defendant's Answer and Entering Default [Doc. No. 101] and Final Ruling on Order to Show Cause [Doc. No. 100].

Once default has been entered, the well-pleaded factual allegations of the complaint are taken as true. Cripps v. Life Ins. Co. of North America, 980 F.2d 1261, 1267 (9th Cir.1992). The Complaint's well-pleaded allegations establish that BBeautiful is entitled to judgment against TrueERP for fraud and breach of contract, because of TrueERP's failure to deliver operational enterprise resource planning software as promised. The declaration of BBeautiful's principal, Helga Arminak, establishes that BBeautiful sustained damages in the amount of $146,100.00 (the amount paid for the defective software). That amount is confirmed by the declaration of BBeautiful's damages expert, Robert Wunderlich, Ph.D., who analyzed BBeautiful's invoices. BBeautiful has also established that it is entitled to prejudgment interest, in the amount of $1,156.40, pursuant to Cal. Civ. Code §3287, which provides for the award of prejudgment interest if damages are capable of being made certain by calculation. Accordingly, BBeautiful is entitled to judgment in the total amount of $147,256.40. [Note 1]

Among the reasons for entry of TrueERP's default was TrueERP's failure to file a Second Amended Counterclaim by the deadline set by the Court. #2.00 HearingRE: [11] Notice of motion and motion for relief from the automatic stay with supporting declarations REAL PROPERTY RE: 27935 Stageline Road, Castaic, CA 91384 . , Creditor c/o Seterus, Inc., its successors and/or assigns (Glowin, Nichole)

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the property in accordance with applicable law. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501. Since a chapter 7 case does not contemplate reorganization, the sole issue before the Court when stay relief is sought under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) is whether the Debtor has equity in the property. See, e.g., Martens v. Countrywide Home Loans (In re Martens), 331 B.R. 395, 398 (8th Cir. BAP 2005); Ramco Indus. v. Preuss (In re Preuss), 15 B.R. 896, 897 (9th Cir. BAP 1981).

The subject property has a value of $460,000.00 and is encumbered by a perfected deed of trust or mortgage in favor of the Movant. The liens against the property and the expected costs of sale total $546,937.97. The Court finds there is no equity and there is no evidence that the trustee can administer the subject real property for the benefit of creditors.

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the

#1.00 HearingRE: [29] Motion to Dismiss Debtor Bankruptcy Case pursuant to 11 U.S.C. Section 349(a) (Nguyen, Nguyen)

Docket 29

Tentative Ruling:

2/5/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Court DENIES the Motion.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Motion to Dismiss Bankruptcy Case without Prejudice Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 349(a), and to Dismiss Both Trustee's Complaints against Debtor (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 29]
- 2) Trustee's Opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 33]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Hiep Tan Tran (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on September 1, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. Timothy J. Yoo was appointed as Chapter 7 Trustee of the Estate (the "Trustee"). There are two pending adversary proceedings against the Debtor, both of which are in default. The first is Yoo v. Tan (In re Tran), Adv. No. 2:17-ap-01507-ER (the "548 Adversary"); the second is Yoo v. Tan (In re Tran), Adv. No. 2:17-ap-01508-ER (the "727 Adversary"). The 548 Adversary was commenced by the Trustee on October 20, 2017 against the Debtor's brother Tran Hung Tan to avoid the undisclosed allegedly fraudulent transfer of a certain triplex located at 4335 W. 139th Street, Hawthorne, CA 90250 (the "Triplex"). A default against Tran Hung Tan was entered in the 548 Adversary on December 1, 2017. The 727 Adversary was commenced by the Trustee on October 20, 2017 against the Debtor and seeks to deny the Debtor his discharge for alleged bankruptcy fraud concerning the Triplex. A default against the Debtor was entered in the 727 Adversary on December 1, 2017.

The Motion

On December 15, 2017, the Debtor filed the "Motion to Dismiss Bankruptcy Case without Prejudice Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 349(a), and to Dismiss Both Trustee's Complaints against Debtor" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 29]. The Motion contends that cause exists to grant dismissal of the case and the related adversary proceedings without prejudice because, in sum, the timing of the filing of the Petition was due to mistake or inadvertence, and transfers of property at issue in the respective adversary proceedings were not made with fraudulent intent as the Trustee alleges. The Debtor's primary contention is that, notwithstanding the multiple transfers of the Triplex between the Debtor's parents, the Debtor, and other family members, the Debtor never actually held a beneficial ownership interest in the Triplex because it was the intent of his parents for the Triplex to be held for the benefit of the family. The Debtor further contends that the two pre-petition transfers of the Triplex executed by the Debtor in favor of his brother, Tran Hung Tan, were not made to avoid liability from an automobile accident as the Trustee alleged. The Motion argues that dismissal of the case will not harm creditors because the Debtor never actually owned a beneficial interest in the Triplex and to allow the Trustee to administer the Triplex would, therefore, be "inequitable and unconscionable."

The Trustee's Opposition

On January 23, 2018, the Trustee filed the Opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 33]. The Opposition contends that the Debtor has not shown the requisite "cause" for dismissal, and that dismissal would not be in the best interest of creditors. Furthermore, the Motion does not disclose any arrangement to pay the unsecured administrative claims against the Estate as required by LBR 1017-2(e)(2). Additionally, the Trustee contends that the Motion seeks sub rosa to improperly dismiss the two pending adversary proceedings, both of which are in default.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

The Motion was filed as a motion to "Dismiss Bankruptcy Case without Prejudice Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 349(a)." Doc. No. 29. Section 349, however, does not set forth the standards for voluntary dismissal of a bankruptcy case. Rather, voluntary dismissal of a Chapter 7 case is governed by the standards set forth in § 707

(a); thus, the Court construes the Motion as a Motion to Dismiss pursuant to § 707(a).

Section 707(a)(1) provides that the "court may dismiss a case under this chapter only after notice and a hearing and only for cause." In Hickman v. Hana (In re Hickman), 384 B.R. 832, 840 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2008), the court observed that the "term 'for cause' is defined in the Bankruptcy Code only by way of a list of three examples—unreasonable delay prejudicial to creditors, nonpayment of filing fees, and not filing schedules—that is plainly incomplete." The Hickman court explained that courts should examine the totality of the circumstances in determining whether "cause" under § 707(a) is present. Id. at 840. A "case will not be dismissed on the motion of a debtor if such dismissal would cause 'some plain legal prejudice' to a creditor." Id. Legal prejudice exists if dismissal will result in a decreased distribution to creditors. See, e.g., Leach v. Internal Revenue Service (In re Leach), 130 B.R. 855, 858 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1991) (upholding denial of debtor's motion to dismiss, because dismissal would prejudice the Internal Revenue Service by permitting the debtor to refile at a later date when tax liabilities would be dischargeable).

Local Bankruptcy Rule 1017-2(e), which governs "Dismissal of Case or Suspension of Proceedings," provides in pertinent part that:

- (2) the declaration in support of the motion must disclose any arrangement or agreement between the debtor and creditors or any other person in connection with the motion for dismissal or suspension.
- (3) the court may condition the dismissal upon payment of fees and expenses, including fees due to the United States Trustee.

Here, the Debtor has failed to demonstrate sufficient cause exists to warrant dismissal. As an initial matter, the Motion seeks not only dismissal of the Debtor's bankruptcy case, but also the related Adversary Proceedings in which default has been entered against the Debtor's brother, Tran Hung Tan, and the Debtor, respectively. To the extent the Motion seeks dismissal of the Adversary Proceedings, the Debtor cannot rely upon § 707(a) to dismiss the Adversary Proceedings where Default judgments have already been entered. Neither the Debtor nor Mr. Tan filed any responsive pleadings in the Adversary Proceedings despite having the opportunity to do so. The Court finds that the arguments raised by the Debtor in the instant Motion could and should have been raised in an appropriate responsive pleading in the Adversary Proceedings. Furthermore, the Debtor has failed to show cause for setting aside either of the judgments in the Adversary Proceedings. See In re Shamam, 2015 WL 1544581 at *6 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2015) ("To determine whether good cause exists, the bankruptcy court must consider whether: (1) the defendant engaged in culpable conduct that led to the default; (2) the defendant lacked a meritorious defense; or (3) reopening the default judgment would prejudice the plaintiff.").

To the extent the Motion seeks dismissal of the Debtors bankruptcy case under § 707(a), the Court finds that dismissal would not be in the best interest of creditors or the Estate, especially in light of the two pending adversary proceedings, which are both in default. The Court is not persuaded by the Debtor's arguments regarding the relevant pre-petition transfers of ownership of the Triplex and the Debtor's supposed lack of a beneficial ownership interest in the Triplex.

III. Conclusion

In conclusion, the Court DENIES the Debtor's Motion in its entirety.

The Trustee shall lodge a conforming order within seven (7) days of the hearing on the Motion.

The Motion

On January 9, 2018, the Debtor filed the "Notice of Motion and Motion for Order Approving Payment of Administrative Expense and Sale Related Expenses; Memorandum of Points and Authorities" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 73]. The sale of the property authorized by the Sale Order closed ahead of schedule on December 28, 2017. Motion at 5. Pursuant to the Sale Order, the Sale Proceeds are being held in Goe & Forsythe, LLP's Trust Account. Id. at 6; Yoon Declaration at ¶ 8. The Motion states that the Debtor incurred certain expenses in the Debtor's operation of its business up to the closing of the sale and in connection with the sale for which the Debtor is liable and which constitute administrative expenses. Id. The Administrative Expenses are as follows:

- (1) Buyer's DFO, LLC fees in the total amount of $7,123.46;
- (2) McLane/Meadowbrook Meat Company, food vendor transactions for the period between December 13, 2017 and December 27, 2017, in the total amount of $10,740.02, id.; see also Declaration of Peter Yoon ("Yoon Declaration") [Doc. No. 73], Exhibit 10;
- (3) SoCalGas, post-petition utility charges, in the estimated total amount of $3,500;
- (4) Long Beach Power, post-petition utility charges, in the estimated total amount of $6,000;
- (5) Verizon/Frontier, phone/internet charges, in the estimated total amount of $1,100; and
- (6) Athens Trash Management, trash services, in the estimated total amount of $3,000.

The Motion states that there are sufficient funds in the Estate from the sale proceeds to pay the Administrative Expenses.

(1)(A) the actual, necessary costs and expenses of preserving the estate . . .

Section 507 of the Bankruptcy Code gives priority status to "administrative expenses allowed under section 503(b)." A claimant must show that the debt: (1) arose from a transaction with the debtor-in-possession and (2) directly and substantially benefitted the estate. In re BCE W, L.P., 319 F.3d 1166, 1172 (9th Cir. 2003). "The burden of proving an administrative expense claim is on the claimant." Id. (citing Microsoft Corp. v. DAK Indus. (In re DAK Indust.), 66 F.3d 1091, 1094 (9th Cir.1995)).

Here, the Court finds that the Debtor has sufficiently shown that the expenses incurred were ordinary and necessary expenses which arose post-petition, and which directly and substantially benefitted the estate. Thus, the claimed Administrative Expenses are allowable under § 503(b), and are entitled to administrative priority under § 507. Moreover, as of the date of this Tentative Ruling, the court has not received any opposition. Pursuant to LBR 9013-1(h), failure to file a timely opposition may be deemed consent to the granting of the motion.

III. Conclusion

In conclusion, based on the foregoing the Court GRANTS the Motion. The Debtor is authorized to pay the administrative expenses from the Sale Proceeds.

The Debtor shall submit an appropriate order within seven days of the hearing.

Docket 921

Tentative Ruling:

2/6/2018

The Motion is GRANTED for the reasons set forth below.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Chapter 7 Trustee's Motion for Order Authorizing and Approving "Stipulation By and Between Howard M. Ehrenberg, Chapter 7 Trustee, and CIT Bank, N.A., f/k/a OneWest Bank, N.A. Regarding Allowance of Secured Claim and Authorization for Payment from Escrow" Pursuant to Rule 9019 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 921]
 - a) Notice of [Motion] [Doc. No. 922]
- 2) No opposition to the Motion is on file

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

The Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee") seeks approval of a stipulation (the "Stipulation") between the Trustee and CIT Bank, N.A. ("CIT") providing for the compromise of CIT's secured claim.

On February 20, 1992, CIT's predecessor-in-interest extended a loan, in the amount of $2.6 million, to Theodosios and Harry Roussos (collectively, the "Roussos Brothers"). The loan was secured by property located at 153 San Vicente Boulevard, Santa Monica, CA 90402 (the "San Vicente Property"). The loan is evidenced by a Promissory Note and Deed of Trust (the Note and Deed of Trust collectively, the "Loan"), which provides that CIT is entitled to recover attorneys' fees incurred in litigation affecting the San Vicente Property or CIT's security interest therein. In its proof of claim, CIT asserts an entitlement to post-petition attorneys' fees and costs in excess of $200,000.

On May 24, 2017, the Court entered an order approving the Trustee's sale of the San Vicente Property for $23.8 million. The sale closed on July 25, 2017. The Trustee has paid CIT $736,708.78 from escrow to satisfy the Loan's remaining principal balance (excluding attorneys' fees and costs). Because the parties could not agree upon the amount of attorneys' fees, costs, and other ancillary charges to which CIT was entitled, the parties agreed to hold back an additional $235,287.93 in escrow.

The Trustee subsequently objected to CIT's claim for attorneys' fees and costs based upon CIT's refusal to submit its billing records to the Trustee for review. The Trustee asserted that it was impossible to evaluate the reasonableness of the claimed attorneys' fees without reviewing the billing records. CIT argued that it was not required to submit its billing records to the Trustee because the records were protected by the attorney-client and work product privileges.

On September 29, 2017, the Court entered an order referring the dispute to mediation before recalled United States Bankruptcy Judge Thomas B. Donovan. Shortly before the scheduled mediation, the Trustee and CIT reached an agreement providing for the settlement of CIT's claim. Specifically, CIT has agreed to accept $150,000 in full and final satisfaction of its claims against the estates. The Trustee seeks approval of the Stipulation memorializing the compromise pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019. No opposition to the Motion has been filed.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Bankruptcy Rule 9019 provides that the Court may approve a compromise or settlement. "In determining the fairness, reasonableness and adequacy of a proposed settlement agreement, the court must consider: (a) The probability of success in the litigation; (b) the difficulties, if any, to be encountered in the matter of collection; (c) the complexity of the litigation involved, and the expense, inconvenience and delay necessarily attending it; (d) the paramount interest of the creditors and a proper deference to their reasonable views in the premises." Martin v. Kane (In re A&C Properties), 784 F.2d 1377, 1381 (9th Cir. 1986). "[C]ompromises are favored in bankruptcy, and the decision of the bankruptcy judge to approve or disapprove the compromise of the parties rests in the sound discretion of the bankruptcy judge." In re Sassalos, 160 B.R. 646, 653 (D. Ore. 1993). In approving a settlement agreement, the Court must "canvass the issues and see whether the settlement 'falls below the lowest point in the range of reasonableness." Cosoff v. Rodman (In re W.T. Grant Co.), 699 F.2d 599, 608 (2d Cir. 1983). Applying the A&C Properties factors, the Court finds that the settlement is adequate, fair, and reasonable, and are in the best interests of the estate and creditors.

Paramount Interests of Creditors

This factor weighs strongly in favor of approving the settlement. No creditors have objected to approval of the settlement. The settlement benefits creditors by reducing CIT's allowed claim by approximately $85,000—from $235,287.93 to $150,000.

Difficulties to Be Encountered in the Matter of Collection

This factor does not apply.

Complexity of the Litigation

This factor weighs in favor of approving the settlement. If the Court declined to approve the settlement, CIT's post-petition attorneys' fees and expenses would continue to increase. The settlement agreement prevents additional fees from accruing.

Probability of Success on the Merits

This factor weighs in favor of approving the settlement. As an oversecured creditor, CIT is entitled to receive "any reasonable fees, costs, or charges provided for under" the Loan under which its claim arises, pursuant to §506(b). The Trustee's opposition to CIT's attorneys' fees was predicated upon CIT's failure to provide its complete billing records. The Trustee's position was that it was impossible to verify whether CIT's fees were reasonable absent a review of CIT's complete billing records. However, although CIT has not produced its complete billing records, it has provided a detailed description of the legal work it undertook in connection with its claim. In other words, the record is not entirely devoid of evidence in support of CIT's contention that its fees are reasonable. Therefore, it is not likely that the Trustee could succeed in disallowing CIT's claim for attorneys' fees in its entirety, as the Trustee had originally sought to do. The settlement, which reduces CIT's attorneys' fees and costs by approximately $85,000, is reasonable. This is not a situation where the Trustee has reached a quick settlement simply to avoid litigation.

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion is GRANTED in its entirety. The Trustee

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Henry Richard Miller, Jr., and Peter Atthaphol Wisuthsuraphol (the "Debtors") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on January 6, 2018 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On January 16, 2018, Khaled M. Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles, captioned Jong W. Park v. Khaled M. Ahmed, et al., Case No. BC567940 (the "State Court Action"). The Movant, Khaled M. Ahmed, is a named defendant in the State Court Action, and Cross-Complainant. The Movant, M&K General Merchandise is a defendant in the State Court Action. The Movants contend that the Debtor, Henry Richard Miller, Jr. ("Mr. Miller"), is an "indispensable witness regarding the claims involving the other parties . . ." in the State Court Action. Motion at 4. The State Court Action was filed on December 29, 2014. Trial is scheduled to begin on February 20, 2018, and is estimated to require 15 days of trial/hearings. The State Court Action involves a dispute concerning the sale of certain real estate. The Complaint in the State Court Action against the Movants asserts claims for: Rescission & Restitution; Fraudulent Suppression; Promissory Fraud; Breach of Contract; Breach of Implied Covenant; Conversion; Violation of Civil Code 1950.7; and Fraudulent Transfer. The Cross-Complaint in the State Court Action filed by the Movant, Khaled M. Ahmed, asserts claims for: Fraudulent Misrepresentation; Concealment; and Negligent Misrepresentation. The Cross-Complaint alleges, among other things, that the Cross-Defendants, Ludger Mercier and DMY Far East Enterprises, Inc. ("DMY") were under the direct management and supervision of Mr. Miller who was also a purported broker. "Supplemental to the Motion" ("Supplemental") [Doc. No. 15-1] at 1. Mr. Miller is alleged to be the sole owner and principal of DMY. Id. at 2. Movants noticed the deposition of DMY to take place in December 2017; however, Mr. Miller refused to appear or designate a corporate representative to appear at DMY's deposition. Id. The Movants filed a Motion to Compel which was scheduled for hearing on January 23, 2018. Neither Mr. Miller nor DMY opposed the Motion to Compel. The Movants contend that rather than opposing the Motion to Compel, Mr. Miller and the Joint-Debtor, Mr. Wisuthsuraphol, filed the Petition. Id. at 3.

The Movant contends that cause exists to grant stay-relief under §362(d)(1) for the following reasons:

- (1) The State Court Action can be tried more expeditiously in the nonbankruptcy forum. The State Court Action involves non-debtor parties and a single trial in the nonbankruptcy forum is the most efficient use of judicial resources.
- (2) The bankruptcy case was filed in bad faith specifically to delay or interfere with the prosecution of the State Court Action. The timing of the filing of the Petition indicates it was intended to delay or interfere with the State Court Action, based upon the fact that the Petition was filed approximately one month before trial in the State Court Action which has been pending for over 3 years. The Petition was filed just prior to a hearing regarding whether Mr. Miller should be sanctioned for refusing to attend a deposition on behalf of non-debtor Cross-Defendant DMY.

The Motion seeks an order: (1) terminating the automatic stay; (2) permitting the Movants to proceed to judgment in the State Court Action, along with Mr. Miller's co-defendants Ludger Mercier, Jong Park and DMY; and/or (3) permitting Movants to subpoena Mr. Miller to appear as a witness and cross examine him during the trial in the State Court Action. Supplemental at 1.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

As a preliminary matter, a motion for relief from the automatic stay is a summary proceeding that does not involve an adjudication of the merits of the underlying claims. As recognized by the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel in In re Luz Int'l, Ltd.:

Given the limited grounds for obtaining a motion for relief from stay, read in conjunction with the expedited schedule for a hearing on the motion, most courts hold that motion for relief from stay hearings should not involve an adjudication of the merits of claims, defenses, or counterclaims, but simply determine whether the creditor has a colorable claim to the property of the estate. See In re Johnson, 756 F.2d 738, 740 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 474 U.S. 828, 106 S.Ct. 88, 88 L.Ed.2d 72 (1985) ("Hearings on relief from the automatic stay are thus handled in a summary fashion. The validity of the claim or contract underlying the claim is not litigated during the hearing.").

following, in pertinent part:

- (1) the commencement or continuation, including the issuance or employment of process of a judicial, administrative, or other action or proceeding against the debtor that was or could have been commenced before the commencement of the case under this title, or to recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title.

11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(1).

Section 362(d)(1) permits a bankruptcy court to grant relief from the automatic stay upon a showing of "cause." Cause is a flexible concept and courts often conduct a fact intensive, case-by-case balancing test, examining the totality of the circumstances to determine whether sufficient cause exists to lift the stay. In re SCO Grp., Inc., 395 B.R. 852, 856 (Bankr. D. Del. 2007) (citing Baldino v. Wilson (In re Wilson), 116 F.3d 87, 90 (3d Cir. 1997); In re Laguna Assocs. Ltd., 30 F.3d 734, 737 (7th Cir. 1994)); In re MacDonald, 755 F.2d 715, 717 (9th Cir. 1985). "Among factors appropriate to consider in determining whether relief from the automatic stay should be granted to allow state court proceedings to continue are considerations of judicial economy and the expertise of the state court." In re Kronemyer, 405 B.R. 915, 921 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2009) (citing In re MacDonald, 755 F.2d 715, 717 (9th Cir. 1985)).

Here, to the extent the automatic stay applies under the circumstances described above, the Court finds that the causes of actions in the state court complaint attached to the Motion involve state law violations and are within the expertise of the state court. Allowing Movants to continue the intended state court complaint will best promote the judicial economy by adjudicating and entering a final judgment as to the underlying claims that may either support or negate the filing of a proof of claim and/or an adversary complaint. If a state court judgment is entered against the Debtors or either one of them, and if the Movant herein later seeks to have that judgment held nondischargeable in this court, clear findings and conclusions must be rendered sufficient to meet the standards under 11 U.S.C. section 523.

Based on the foregoing, to the extent the automatic stay applies, the Court GRANTS the Motion pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) to permit the Movants to proceed under applicable non-bankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to proceed to

#2.00 HearingRE: [12] Notice of motion and motion for relief from the automatic stay with supporting declarations REAL PROPERTY RE: 11441 Gonsalves Street, Cerritos, CA 90703 . (Weifenbach, Diane)

Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

2/8/2018

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set on a shortened notice in accordance with Judge Robles' procedures. Oppositions, if any, will be considered at the hearing.

The Court finds that there is sufficient evidence to grant relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4). The filing of the petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, and defraud creditors, which involved the transfer of all or part ownership of, or other interest in, the Property without the consent of Movant or court approval. Declaration of Gloria A. Rocha in support of Motion at paragraph 18.

For the same reasons, the Motion is GRANTED pursuant to section 362(d)(1) based on Debtor's bad faith filing. The 14-day period specified in Fed.R.Bankr.P. 4001(a)(3) is waived. This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. If recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, the order shall be binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect such real property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of such order by the Court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from such order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and a hearing. Any Federal, State, or local governmental unit that accepts notices of interests or liens in real property shall accept a certified copy of this order for indexing and recording. All other relief is denied.

I. Background

The Court has entered Orders approving the following stipulations providing for Plan treatment of certain Claims:

- (1) On February 7, 2018, the Court entered the "Order Granting Second Stipulation between Debtor and Wilmington Associates for Chapter 11 Plan Treatment of Claim and Assumption of Lease" [Doc. No. 198]. See also "Second Stipulation between Debtor and Wilmington Associates for Chapter 11 Plan Treatment of Claim and Assumption of Lease" (the "Second Wilmington Stipulation") [Doc. No. 193].
- (2) On January 4, 2018, the Court entered the "Order Granting Stipulation for Chapter 11 Plan Treatment of Claim of the Internal Revenue Service" [Doc. No. 181]. See also "Stipulation for Chapter 11 Plan Treatment of Claim of the Internal Revenue Service" (the "IRS Stipulation") [Doc. No. 177].

Each respective Stipulation contains a provision stipulating that the Debtor will file a First Amended Disclosure Statement and Plan to provide for, and set forth the stipulated treatment of, the respective allowed claim. See Second Wilmington Stipulation at 3; IRS Stipulation at 4.

#6.00 Hearing re [113] Objection to Claim #4 by Claimant Rainbow International of Van Nuys

Docket 0

Tentative Ruling:

2/13/2018

The Debtor's Claim Objection involves disputed issues of material fact that must be resolved by way of a trial at which live witness testimony will be taken. As set forth below, trial will take place during the week of 8/27/2018.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Debtor's Objection to Claim #4 by Rainbow International of Van Nuys, in the Amount of $16,149.96 (the "Claim Objection") [Doc. No. 113]
- 2) Rainbow International of Van Nuys' Response to Debtor's Objection to its Proof of Claim (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 133]
- 3) Debtor's Reply Memorandum in Support of His Objection to Claim #4 by Rainbow International of Van Nuys, in the Amount of $16,149.96 (the "Reply") [Doc. No. 136]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Attorney John Fuchs (the "Debtor") commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on June 13, 2017. The Debtor is being represented in this case by his law firm, the Fuchs Law Group, APC. The work on the Debtor's behalf in this case has been performed by Mr. Fuchs and his associate, Gail S. Gilfillan. Fuchs Decl. [Doc. No. 44] at ¶1.

On October 25, 2017, the Court approved the Debtor's motion to sell real property located at 17726 Calle de Palermo, Pacific Palisades, CA 90272 (the "Residence"). Doc. No. 62 (the "Sale Order"). As ordered by the Court, the sales proceeds of the Residence are currently being held on deposit in the Court's registry.

Rainbow International of Van Nuys ("Rainbow") asserts an unsecured claim in the amount of $16,149.96, based upon water remediation and repair services that

Chapter 11

Rainbow performed after a flood occurred at the Residence. Debtor asserts that Rainbow's claim should be disallowed in its entirety.

The Debtor's Claim Objection

The Debtor makes the following arguments and representations in support of his objection to Rainbow's claim:

On July 27, 2015, a massive flood occurred at the Residence. The Debtor was instructed by his home insurer, State Farm, to retain Rainbow to remediate the standing water, and to retain Service Masters Professional Restoration ("Service Masters") for repair work. The Debtor later discovered that State Farm had existing relationships with Service Masters and Rainbow, because they provided lower bids than other contractors.

At the direction of State Farm, the Debtor retained Rainbow to perform the following four tasks:

- 1) Inspect every room at the Residence to determine the extent of the water damage so that a proper repair estimate could be prepared by Service Masters.
- 2) Remove water-damaged carpeting, subfloors, drywall, and other damaged property, and install floor protection in the undamaged parts of the Residence to prevent the migration of mold and moisture.
- 3) "Pack-out" the damaged and undamaged furniture and other personal property and place it in storage until the repairs were completed.
- 4) "Pack-back" the undamaged items once repairs were completed.

As a result of Rainbow's failure to adequately perform these tasks, the Debtor sustained damages as follows:

- 1) As a result of Rainbow's failure to adequately inspect all affected rooms, the Debtor did not discover water damage in the garage and laundry room until two months after the flood. Because of the delay in the discovery of the damage, State Farm refused to pay the claim, and the Debtor was required to pay $10,000 out of pocket to make necessary repairs. The Debtor ultimately obtained payment on the claim from State Farm, but only after incurring legal fees in excess of $25,000.
- 2) Rainbow refused to provide the report generated from its inspections, which the Debtor needed for the bad faith lawsuit that he commenced against State Farm. As a result of Rainbow's failure to provide the report, the Debtor was unable to demonstrate the extent of the water damage as of the day of the flood - to State Farm. Consequently, State Farm denied the Debtor's claims for damage to $41,000 worth of furniture and $48,000 worth of electronics.

- 3) Rainbow began the demolition and removal of water-damaged property before testing for mold. A day or two after Rainbow began the demolition process, the Debtor was advised by the contractor who constructed the Residence that immediate demolition could cause mold to become airborne and spread to areas undamaged by the flood. When the Residence was sold two years later, the Debtor was required to give the purchasers a $10,000 credit to remediate mold that was still present. Rainbow's negligent conduct in commencing immediate demolition without first determining the presence of mold was most likely responsible for exacerbating the mold damage. The Debtor's spouse contracted pneumonia for eight months as a result of the mold. Rainbow's claim should be reduced by $5,000 as compensation for its negligent conduct.
 - 4) Rainbow failed to provide sufficient protection for the undamaged carpets and wood flooring while its workers performed the pack-out and pack-in. As a result, most of the existing carpeting on the first and second floors had to be steam-cleaned at a cost of $400, and the hardwood floors had to be sanded and refinished.

In view of the damages sustained by the Debtor as a result of Rainbow's negligence, Rainbow's claim of $16,149.96 should be disallowed in its entirety.

Rainbow's Opposition to the Debtor's Claim Objection

Rainbow makes the following arguments and representations in its Opposition to the Debtor's Claim Objection:

The Debtors did not allow Rainbow's employees to access certain portions of the Residence. Specifically, the Debtors did not permit employees to access the garage or laundry room. Therefore, it was impossible for Rainbow to discover the water damage in these areas.

Rainbow's employees did not damage the carpeting or hardwood floors during the pack-out and pack-in. Rainbow never received any complaints about the work it performed at any time during the pack-out or pack-in.

At no time was Rainbow hired by or instructed by State Farm.

Chapter 11

The Debtor makes the following arguments and representations in his Reply to Rainbow's Opposition:

Rainbow falsely states that the Debtor refused to allow its employees access to certain areas of the Residence. Rainbow's own contract, which is attached to its claim, states that "[o]ccupant agrees to provide full and unrestricted access to the Job Site Address to RAINBOW INTERNATIONAL employees, agents and subcontractors, and their vehicles and equipment." Pictures taken by the Debtor to document the flood damage show that the door to the laundry room is wide open and that Rainbow had started the process of removing damaged carpeting from the first floor hallway, some of which is at the entrance to the laundry room.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Adjudicating the Claim Objection requires the Court to make findings with respect to a material factual dispute—namely, whether the Debtor permitted Rainbow's employees access to the laundry room and garage. This issue cannot be determined solely upon declaration testimony. A trial at which live witness testimony will be taken is required because the Court must assess the credibility of the witnesses. See Khachikyan v. Hahn (In re Khachikyan), 335 B.R. 121, 125 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2005) (holding that where material facts are in dispute, testimony must be taken in the same manner as in an adversary proceeding).

Trial of the Claim Objection shall take place during the week of 8/27/2018. The exact date of the trial will be set at the Pretrial Conference. The following dates shall apply:

- 1) The last day to disclose expert witnesses and expert witness reports is 5/29/2018.
- 2) The last date to complete discovery relating to expert witnesses (e.g., depositions of expert witnesses), including hearings on motions related to expert discovery, is 7/17/2018. (For contemplated hearings on motions related to expert discovery, it is counsel's responsibility to check the Judge's self-calendaring dates, posted on the Court's website. If the expert discovery cutoff date falls on a date when the court is closed or that is not available for self-calendaring, the deadline for hearings on expert discovery motions is the next closest previous date which is available for self-calendaring.)
- 3) The last day to complete discovery (except as to experts), including hearings on discovery motions, is 7/28/2018. (If the non-expert discovery cutoff date is not available for self-calendaring, the deadline for non-expert discovery motions to be heard is the next closest previous date which is available for self-calendaring.)

- 4) A Pretrial Conference is set for 8/14/2018 at 11:00 a.m. By no later than fourteen days prior to the Pretrial Conference, the parties must submit a Joint Pretrial Stipulation via the Court's Lodged Order Upload (LOU) system. Submission via LOU allows the Court to edit the Joint Pretrial Stipulation, if necessary. Parties should consult the Court Manual, section 4, for information about LOU.

The Court will issue a separate order informing the parties of the procedures that apply to the trial (i.e., the deadlines for the submission of witness lists and pretrial briefs).

This matter shall be referred to the Mediation Panel. The Debtor shall lodge a completed "Request for Assignment to Mediation Program; [Proposed] Order Thereon" (See Amended General Order 95-01 available on the Court's website) within 15 days from the date of this hearing, and deliver a hard copy directly to chambers c/o the judge's law clerk Daniel Koontz.

The Court will enter an appropriate scheduling order.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. If you wish to make a telephonic appearance, contact Court Call at 888-882-6878, no later than one hour before the hearing.

#7.00 Hearing re [112] Objection to Claim #14 by Claimant Mikhaeil Rouil Corporation, Inc. dba ServiceMaster Professional Restoration

Docket 0

Tentative Ruling:

2/13/2018

The Debtor's Claim Objection involves disputed issues of material fact that must be resolved by way of a trial at which live witness testimony will be taken. As set forth below, trial will take place during the week of 8/27/2018.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Debtor's Objection to Claim #14 by Mikhaeil Rouel Corporation, Inc. d/b/a Service Master Professional Restoration, in the Amount of $30,703.56 (the "Claim Objection") [Doc. No. 112]
- 2) Response to Debtor's Objection to Claim #14 by Mikhaeil Rouel Corporation, Inc. d/b/a Service Master Professional Restoration, in the Amount of $30,703.56 (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 135]
- 3) Reply Memorandum in Support of Debtor's Objection to Claim #14 by Mikhaeil Rouel Corporation, Inc. d/b/a Service Master Professional Restoration, in the Amount of $30,703.56 (the "Reply") [Doc. No. 137]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Attorney John Fuchs (the "Debtor") commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on June 13, 2017. The Debtor is being represented in this case by his law firm, the Fuchs Law Group, APC. The work on the Debtor's behalf in this case has been performed by Mr. Fuchs and his associate, Gail S. Gilfillan. Fuchs Decl. [Doc. No. 44] at ¶1.

On October 25, 2017, the Court approved the Debtor's motion to sell real property located at 17726 Calle de Palermo, Pacific Palisades, CA 90272 (the "Residence"). See Doc. No. 62 (the "Sale Order"). As ordered by the Court, the sales proceeds of the Residence are currently being held on deposit in the Court's registry.

Chapter 11

Mikhaeil Rouel Corporation, Inc., d/b/a Service Master Professional Restoration ("Service Masters") asserts an unsecured claim in the amount of $30,703.56. Debtor asserts that Service Master's claim should be disallowed in its entirety.

The Debtor's Claim Objection

The Debtor makes the following arguments and representations in support of his objection to Service Masters' claim:

On July 27, 2015, a massive flood occurred at the Residence. The Debtor was instructed by his home insurer, State Farm, to retain Rainbow International ("Rainbow") to remediate the standing water, and to retain Service Masters Professional Restoration ("Service Masters") for repair work. The Debtor later discovered that State Farm had existing relationships with Service Masters and Rainbow, because they provided lower bids than other contractors.

Because much of the work upon which Service Masters' claim is predicated was done negligently or was not done at all, Service Masters' claim should be disallowed. Specifically, Service Masters is not entitled to payment for the following:

- 1) Service Masters' claim includes a charge of $8,232.45 for "mold remediation." Service Masters failed to adequately remediate the mold. A ProLab Report commissioned by the purchasers of the Residence showed elevated mold levels in the downstairs hallway, which is where the worst of the flooding occurred. The Debtor was required to provide the purchasers a $15,000 credit, at least $10,000 of which was allocated to mold remediation. In addition, the Debtor's spouse contracted pneumonia and sustained $2,000 in medical expenses as a result of Service Masters' failure to remediate the mold.
- 2) Service Masters' claim includes a charge of $1,800 for framing a damaged shear wall, plus $1,044.96 for a scaffold and two ladders. Service Masters never performed this work. Because Service Masters negligently overcut the shear wall too close to the ceiling ledgers, the Debtor hired his own framer to perform the repairs at a cost of $1,500.
- 3) Service Masters failed to provide a construction supervisor. As a result, the Debtor and his spouse had to stay at home for a portion of the day during a four-month period to perform construction supervision. The Debtor and his spouse spent 319 hours performing construction supervision work that Service Masters should have performed as part of its line item for overhead and profit. At $25/hour, the supervision cost to the Debtor and his spouse was at least $7,975.

- 4) Service Masters' work was negligent in numerous other respects. Service Masters did not have a subcontractor who could match the Canadian maple hardwood floor that needed to be replaced. Service Masters did not have a carpeting subcontractor and was not qualified to replace the laundry room cabinets.

Service Masters' Opposition to the Debtor's Claim Objection

Service Masters makes the following arguments and representations in its Opposition to the Debtor's Claim Objection:

The Claim Objection is nothing more than the Debtor's attempt to avoid paying Service Masters the money it is owed. The Debtor did not raise any of the complaints he now makes to the Court at the time Service Masters performed the work. On November 8, 2015, Service Masters signed over to the Debtor an insurance check jointly made out to the Debtor and Service Masters, based upon the Debtor's promise that Service Masters would receive payment in full within thirty days. At this time, the Debtor was fully aware of all the issues which he now asserts furnish cause for disallowing Service Masters' claim.

As further evidence that the Claim Objection is a sham, the Debtor's spouse wrote a glowing letter of recommendation for Service Masters that contradicts every claim the Debtor is now making. The letter states:

The following is a letter of recommendation for the outstanding service provided by Service Masters of Canoga Park, CA.

My husband and I had a flood in our Pacific Palisades home in July of 2015. The pressure regulator from the street to the house failed and caused the in-take hose on one of our upstairs toilets to burst, which caused the water from that second floor toilet to gush for over four hours. When I arrived home that day, it was raining on the first floor of our house. The damage done was enormous.

We were referred to Mike Rouel of Service Masters. Mike is a licensed General Contractor so we knew we were in good hands. Mike and his team of experts handled every single aspect of our damage recovery. They came to our home and walked us through all the steps that needed to be taken. This was a big job—we had five rooms that needed to be completely demolished and rebuilt. They took care of the demolition of walls, ceilings and floors down to the studs. They did the mold remediation. They handled the reconstruction of our walls, ceilings and floors. They completed the drywall and painting of all the affected rooms. Throughout this process, they were always very careful and considerate of our home. Mike came almost every single day to check with his team of workers, see what progress had been made, and check-in with us.

Mike's team is professional, well-spoken, considerate and efficient. They are excellent at what they do. One employee in particular, Luiz, was especially helpful to me during this difficult time. Luiz is always willing to go the extra mile. He was the "point person" on the job daily and was always there if I needed anything or could answer a question for me.

I strongly recommend Mike Rouel of Service Masters located on Deering Avenue in Canoga Park, CA. If, God forbid, you ever have a flood in your home, you need to put yourself in the hands of an expert who knows what to do. We are thankful we called Service Masters.

The Debtor's Reply in Support of the Claim Objection

The Debtor makes the following arguments and representations in his Reply in support of the Claim Objection:

Service Masters asserts that because the Debtor agreed in November 2015 to pay the balance then claimed to be due, he is now somehow barred from objecting to Service Masters' claim based on its incomplete and negligent remediation and repair work.

The letter of recommendation that the Debtor's spouse wrote does not undermine the Claim Objection. The Debtor's spouse wrote the letter before discovering that Service Masters' work was incomplete and negligent.

Service Masters does not refute the undisputed evidence that the mold was not properly remediated. And in addition to failing to properly complete repairs, Service Masters failed to discover the damage to the laundry room as well as various other instances of damage. As a result, the estimate that Service Masters submitted to State Farm was incomplete and State Farm initially refused to pay for all of the repair costs. The Debtor was forced to incur substantial litigation expenses to obtain payment of the repair claim from State Farm.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Adjudicating the Claim Objection requires the Court to make findings with respect to disputed material facts—including whether Service Masters adequately performed the mold remediation work and whether Service Masters negligently performed various repairs. The Court has been presented with conflicting declaration testimony regarding the quality of the work. The issue of whether the work was adequately performed cannot be determined solely upon declaration testimony. A trial at which live witness testimony will be taken is required because the Court must assess the credibility of the witnesses. See Khachikyan v. Hahn (In re Khachikyan), 335 B.R. 121, 125 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2005) (holding that where material facts are in dispute, testimony must be taken in the same manner as in an adversary proceeding).

Trial of the Claim Objection shall take place during the week of 8/27/2018. The exact date of the trial will be set at the Pretrial Conference. The following dates shall apply:

- 1) The last day to disclose expert witnesses and expert witness reports is 5/29/2018.
- 2) The last date to complete discovery relating to expert witnesses (e.g., depositions of expert witnesses), including hearings on motions related to expert discovery, is 7/17/2018. (For contemplated hearings on motions related to expert discovery, it is counsel's responsibility to check the Judge's self-calendaring dates, posted on the Court's website. If the expert discovery cutoff date falls on a date when the court is closed or that is not available for self-calendaring, the deadline for hearings on expert discovery motions is the next closest previous date which is available for self-calendaring.)
- 3) The last day to complete discovery (except as to experts), including hearings on discovery motions, is 7/28/2018. (If the non-expert discovery cutoff date is not available for self-calendaring, the deadline for non-expert discovery motions to be heard is the next closest previous date which is available for self-calendaring.)
- 4) A Pretrial Conference is set for 8/14/2018 at 11:00 a.m. By no later than fourteen days prior to the Pretrial Conference, the parties must submit a Joint Pretrial Stipulation via the Court's Lodged Order Upload (LOU) system. Submission via LOU allows the Court to edit the Joint Pretrial Stipulation, if necessary. Parties should consult the Court Manual, section 4, for information about LOU.

The Court will issue a separate order informing the parties of the procedures that apply to the trial (i.e., the deadlines for the submission of witness lists and pretrial briefs).

This matter shall be referred to the Mediation Panel. The Debtor shall lodge a completed "Request for Assignment to Mediation Program; [Proposed] Order

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Attorney John Fuchs (the "Debtor") commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on June 13, 2017. The Debtor is being represented in this case by his law firm, the Fuchs Law Group, APC. The work on the Debtor's behalf in this case has been performed by Mr. Fuchs and his associate, Gail S. Gilfillan. Fuchs Decl. [Doc. No. 44] at ¶1.

Chapter 11

$1,648,975.29. SLS' claim is based on a loan extended to the Debtor to purchase the Property. Prior to the filing of the petition, the Debtor commenced litigation against SLS and affiliated entities in the Los Angeles Superior Court (the "State Court Litigation"), alleging that SLS [Note 1] violated the California Homeowners Bill of Rights ("HBOR") in connection with attempts to foreclose upon the Property. The State Court Complaint seeks damages against SLS based upon the alleged violations of the HBOR. The trial court declined to award the Debtor any damages for HBOR violations. The Debtor has appealed that decision and filed an opening brief in the appeal on October 19, 2017. The Debtor asserts that he is likely to prevail in the appeal and ultimately obtain a judgment against SLS in excess of $300,000.

By way of the instant Claim Objection, the Debtor seeks to reduce SLS's secured claim by approximately $300,000, from $1,648,975.29 to $1,348,975.20, on account of the recovery the Debtor anticipates obtaining in the State Court Litigation. In the alternative, the Debtor requests that the Court postpone determining the allowed amount of SLS' claim until the State Court Litigation has been completed. As a second alternative, the Debtor requests that the Court set the amount of the claim at $1,392,136.22, in which case the Debtor will dismiss the State Court Litigation.

In opposition, SLS asserts that the Debtor has failed to show that its claim may be disallowed under any of the grounds set forth under §502(b)(9). According to SLS, the Debtor's claims regarding violations of the HBOR do not supply a basis for reducing its claim. In reply to SLS' opposition, the Debtor reiterates that it is appropriate to offset SLS' claim by the $300,000 in damages that the Debtor anticipates recovering in the State Court Litigation.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Section 502 requires the Court to disallow a claim that "is unenforceable against the debtor and the property of the debtor, under any agreement or applicable law for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatured."

Under Bankruptcy Rule 3001(f), a proof of claim executed and filed in accordance with the Bankruptcy Rules constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. To overcome the presumption of validity created by a timely-filed proof of claim, an objecting party must do one of the following: (1) object based on legal grounds and provide a memorandum of points and authorities setting forth the legal basis for the objection; or (2) object based on a factual ground and provide sufficient evidence (usually in the form of declarations under penalty of perjury) to create triable issues of fact. *In re G.I. Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. BAP 1996); In re Hemingway Transport, Inc., 993 F.2d 915, 925 (1st Cir. 1993). Upon objection, a proof of claim provides "some evidence as to its validity and amount" and is "strong enough to carry over a mere formal objection without more." See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Spec., Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000) (citing In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). An objecting party bears the burden and must "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Holm, 931 F.2d at 623. When the objector has shown enough evidence to negate one or more facts in the proof of claim, the burden shifts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of evidence. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (citation omitted).

Here, the Debtor does not attack the validity of the Deed of Trust securing the indebtedness or assert some other infirmity infecting SLS's claim. Instead, Debtor argues that SLS's claim should be reduced by the damages the Debtor contends that he sustained as a result of SLS's alleged violations of the HBOR. Although the Debtor does not reference the doctrine of recoupment in his papers, that is the remedy that he is seeking here. Under the equitable doctrine of recoupment, if A is indebted to B, and B is likewise indebted to A, one debt may be applied in satisfaction of the other and A and B are not required to satisfy their mutual liabilities separately.

In order to avail himself of the doctrine of recoupment, the Debtor must show that the debts in question satisfy the "logical relationship" test, meaning that the debts must arise from the "same transaction or occurrence." Sims v. U.S. Dep't of Health and Hum. Servs. (In re TLC Hosps., Inc.), 224 F.3d 1008, 1011 (9th Cir. 2000). For recoupment purposes, a transaction "may include 'a series of many occurrences, depending not so much upon the immediateness of their connection as upon their logical relationship,'" id. at 1012 (internal citation omitted), provided that the "logical relationship" test is not "applied so loosely that multiple occurrences in any one continuous commercial relationship would constitute one transaction" Id. In the recoupment context, courts use the same definition of "transaction or occurrence" as is used to determine whether a counterclaim is compulsory:

The common-law claim for recoupment is analogous to a "compulsory counterclaim interposed solely to defeat or diminish plaintiff's recovery." The "logical relationship test" is applied under Fed.R.Civ.P. 13(a) to determine a compulsory counterclaim, i.e., whether the claim "arises out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of the opposing party's claim."

A logical relationship exists when the counterclaim arises from the same aggregate set of operative facts as the initial claim, in that the same operative facts serve as the basis of both claims or the aggregate core of facts upon which the claim rests activates additional legal rights otherwise dormant in the defendant.

In applying this standard, "courts have permitted a variety of obligations to be recouped against each other, requiring only that the obligations be sufficiently interconnected so that it would be unjust to insist that one party fulfill its obligation without requiring the same of the other party."

Id. at 755 (internal citations omitted).

In addition, "[a]lthough an express contract is not necessary for the application of recoupment, courts often find that the 'same transaction' requirement is satisfied when corresponding liabilities arise under a single contract." Id. at 758.

Here, the Debtor is not entitled to recoup any damages he may have sustained as a result of SLS's violations of the HBOR (if any), because the logical relationship is not satisfied. The aggregate core of operative facts that serve as the basis for SLS' claim—the Debtor's failure to remain current under the loan—does not activate the Debtor's rights against SLS. The Debtor's claims against SLS are not based upon SLS's failure to comply with its obligations under the loan; they are based upon SLS' alleged failure to comply with obligations imposed under California law (in this case, the California HBOR). While it is true that there is some relationship between the claims—they both involve the Residence—that relationship is too attenuated to meet the "same transaction" requirement. And the Court can discern no injustice in requiring the Debtor to pursue his claims against SLS before a separate forum—the State Court—as opposed to the Bankruptcy Court.

Based upon the foregoing, the Claim Objection is OVERRULED. SLS's claim is allowed in the amount of $1,648,975.29.

SLS shall submit a conforming order, incorporating this tentative ruling by reference, within seven days of the hearing.

For the reasons set forth below, the Trustee's deadline to assume or reject the Debtor's executory contracts and unexpired leases is extended to and including April 23, 2018.

- 2) No opposition to the Motion is on file

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Green Jane, Inc. (the "Debtor") commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on March 6, 2017. On May 26, 2017, the Court converted the case to Chapter 7. Doc. Nos. 58 and 61. Pursuant to §365(d)(1), the initial deadline for the Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee") to assume or reject the Debtor's executory contracts or unexpired leases of residential real property was July 25, 2017 (such deadline, the "Assumption/Rejection Deadline"). The Court has twice extended the Assumption/Rejection Deadline, without prejudice to the Trustee's ability to seek further extensions; the Assumption/Rejection deadline is currently January 22, 2018. The Trustee seeks a third extension of the deadline to April 23, 2018. The Trustee states that his ability to investigate the executory contracts and unexpired leases has been inhibited, because the Trustee has been required to initiate contempt proceedings against BevTech to protect the estate's assets. (A hearing on an Order to Show Cause Re: Contempt issued against BevTech is set for February 21, 2018.)

No opposition to the Motion is on file.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Section 365(d)(1) provides:

In a case under chapter 7 of this title, if the trustee does not assume or reject an executory contract or unexpired lease of residential real property or of personal property of the debtor within 60 days after the order for relief, or within such additional time as the court, for cause, within such 60-day period, fixes, then such contract or lease is deemed rejected.

The Trustee has not cited, and the Court has been unable to locate, any Ninth Circuit authority setting forth what constitutes "cause" for an extension of the 60-day period specified in §365(d)(1). However, the Ninth Circuit BAP has stated that cause exists to extend §365(d)(4)'s deadline to assume an unexpired lease of nonresidential real property where the case involves numerous and complicated leases. Willamette Water Front, Ltd. v. Victoria Station Inc. (In re Victoria Station Inc.), 88 B.R. 231, 236 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1988), aff'd, 875 F.2d 1380 (9th Cir. 1989). Applying Victoria Station's reasoning to the analogous situation presented by this case, the Court finds that cause exists to extend the Assumption/Rejection Deadline in view of the numerous complicated executory contracts and unexpired leases to which the Debtor is a party. The Trustee's counsel has not had an adequate opportunity to review these unexpired leases and executory contracts. Creditors and the estate would be prejudiced if the Assumption/Rejection Deadline were not extended, since some of the executory contracts and unexpired leases could prove to be valuable to the estate.

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion is GRANTED in its entirety. The Trustee's deadline to assume or reject the Debtor's executory contracts and unexpired leases is extended to and including April 23, 2018, without prejudice to the Trustee's ability to seek a further extension. The Trustee shall submit a conforming order, incorporating this tentative ruling by reference, within seven days of the hearing.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

On August 29, 2016, the Court approved the sale of the estate's interest in this litigation to Defendants Morad Neman and MBN Real Estate, LLC ("MBN") for $1 million. Bankruptcy Doc. No. 130. After Morad Neman failed to complete the purchase, backup bidder Accessories Mart, LLC purchased the litigation for $905,000 on October 20, 2016. Adv. Doc. No. 57. Accessories Mart subsequently assigned its interest in the litigation to JL AM Plus ("JLAMP"). On September 2, 2016, the Court entered a preliminary injunction, barring Morad Neman and MBN Real Estate from transferring or encumbering the assets which are the subject of this litigation. Bankruptcy Doc. No. 138.

On November 22, 2016, JLAMP filed a First Amended Complaint for (1) Avoidance and Recovery of Fraudulent Transfers; (2) Avoidance and Recovery of Preferential Transfers; and (3) Unjust Enrichment (the "Complaint") [Adv. Doc. No. 68]. The Complaint's allegations are as follows:

- 1) Prior to commencing a voluntary Chapter 7 petition, Morad and Yaffa Javedanfar (the "Debtors") owned interests in (A) Boyd L.P. and Sky High LLC and (B) properties located at 310 East Boyd Street, Los Angeles, CA 90013 (the "Boyd Street Property"), 931 East Pico Boulevard, Los Angeles, CA 90021 (the "Pico Blvd. Property"), and 715 East 14th Street, Los Angeles, CA 90021 (the "14th Street Property") (collectively, the "Assets"). In or around December 2012, Debtors transferred their interests in Boyd LP and Sky High LLC to defendants Morad Neman and MBN Real Estate, LLC (collectively, the "Defendants"). On January 11, 2013, Debtors transferred their interests in the Boyd Street Property, the Pico Blvd. Property, and the 14th Street Property to the Defendants.
- 2) At the time of the transfers, Defendants knew of the Debtors' obligations to their creditors and knew that the Debtors were insolvent. The purpose of the transfers was to frustrate the rights of the Debtors' creditors.
- 3) There is a unity of interest between Morad Neman and MBN, such that treatment of MBN as a distinct entity would permit an abuse of the corporate privilege and produce an inequitable result. Accordingly, Morad Neman should be deemed to be the alter ego of MBN.

Based on the foregoing allegations, the Complaint seeks the following relief:

- 1) Avoidance of the transfers as constructively fraudulent, pursuant to §§544(b) and 548(a)(1)(B).
- 2) Avoidance of the transfers as preferences, pursuant to §547(b).
- 3) Restitution and disgorgement of the transferred Assets, and an award of punitive damages against the Defendants.
- 4) Imposition of a constructive trust upon the Assets and immediate turnover of the Assets.

On May 25, 2017, the Court granted Morad Neman's motion for summary judgment. The Court found that JLAMP had failed to allege the specific facts necessary to establish that Mr. Neman was the alter ego of MBN. The Court found that Morad Neman had presented facts showing that there was no genuine dispute that Morad Neman could not be held liable as MBN's alter ego. The Court entered final judgment in Morad Neman's favor after finding under Civil Rule 54(b) that there was no just reason to delay entry of judgment.

JLAMP moves to compel Morad Neman's deposition testimony, in his capacity as the manager of MBN, and to compel MBN to furnish additional responses to interrogatories. JLAMP has noticed a motion to compel MBN to produce additional documents, which is set for hearing on February 21, 2018. Trial is set for the week of March 26, 2018.

Summary of Plaintiffs' Motions to Compel Discovery Responses, the Defendants' Opposition, and Plaintiffs' Supplemental Memoranda in Support of the Motions

Morad Neman is the manager of MBN. See Declaration of John S. Purcell, Exhibit A, pg. 7 (Simon Neman's deposition, p. 12-13.) On September 18, 2017, JLAMP took the Rule 30(b)(6) deposition of MBN. MBN produced Simon Neman, Morad Neman's nephew, as its Rule 30(b)(6) witness. JLAMP contends that Simon Neman lacked adequate knowledge of MBN's operations or the transactions relevant to this litigation. JLAMP subsequently noticed the deposition of Morad Neman, but he failed to appear. Morad Neman took the position that he was unable to appear because he faced criminal charges in another matter. JLAMP asserts that the criminal charges Morad Neman faces have nothing to do with the instant litigation and in no way prevent Morad Neman from offering deposition testimony.

In its opposition to JLAMP's motion to compel Morad Neman to provide deposition testimony, MBN no longer asserts that the criminal charges Morad Neman faces preclude him from testifying. Instead, MBN states that it is not required to designate Morad Neman to testify because it has already produced Simon Neman as its Rule 30(b)(6) witness. In reply, JLAMP states that MBN has misunderstood its motion. JLAMP states that it does not contend that Morad Neman was required to appear as a substitute Rule 30(b)(6) witness. Instead, JLAMP's position is that as a party, MBN is required to produce any officer, director, or managing agent, and that Mr. Neman is indisputably a managing agent of MBN. JLAMP states that the deposition notice directed to Morad Neman never mentioned Rule 30(b)(6). JLAMP's position is that it is entitled to compel Morad Neman to appear, in his capacity as a managing agent of MBN, pursuant to Rule 30(b)(1).

In a companion motion to compel MBN to supply further interrogatory responses, JLAMP contends that MBN purposefully failed to identify Morad Neman as a witness knowledgeable about facts relevant to this case, solely to avoid having him deposed. JLAMP moves to compel MBN to submit verified discovery responses and amended initial disclosures that identify Mr. Neman as a witness with knowledge. JLAMP states that the deposition testimony of Simon Neman establishes that Morad Neman had final say in all material decisions related to the transactions at the center of this case.

MBN asserts that JLAMP is in no way prejudiced by its failure to list Mr. Neman as a witness, given that Mr. Neman was named as a defendant. MBN further contends that JLAMP is not in compliance with its initial disclosure obligations because it has not provided MBN with any document relating to the value of the assets that JLAMP seeks to recover in this litigation.

JLAMP maintains that certain of MBN's other interrogatory responses are deficient and moves to compel MBN to amend those responses. The deficiencies alleged by JLAMP are as follows:

- 1) In response to interrogatories requiring a description of all consideration received by the Debtors in exchange for the transfer of various properties or interests in property, MBN stated that it "assumed secured and unsecured debt obligations in amounts which, in the aggregate, equaled or exceed the value of all of the" property that was transferred.
- 2) In response to other interrogatories dealing with the consideration provided Debtors in exchange for the properties at issue, MBN stated that it would provide JLAMP a "catalogue" containing the information requested. MBN has never provided the catalogue.

- 3) MBN's responses to Interrogatories 19 and 22 both cut off at the following point: "Without limiting the generality of that objection ..., MBN responds as follows:" Although JLAMP has pointed out this apparent error repeatedly to MBN, the response has not been corrected.

In response to these alleged deficiencies, MBN states that its "[i]nterrogatory responses were forthright and complete, if the goal is information." Doc. No. 173 at ¶III.B.

JLAMP seeks attorneys' fees and costs for bringing the two motions to compel, in the aggregate amount of $17,500. JLAMP also seeks sanctions against MBN's counsel, on the grounds that MBN's Opposition is comprised of frivolous and irrelevant arguments. MBN argues that JLAMP's counsel's billing rate of $870 per hour is excessive in view of the complexity of the litigation.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Civil Rule 37(a) provides that a "party may move for an order compelling disclosure or discovery." Civil Rule 37(a)(3)(B) provides that a "party seeking discovery may move for an order compelling an answer, designation, production, or inspection." For purposes of Rule 37, an "evasive or incomplete disclosure, answer, or response must be treated as a failure to disclose, answer, or respond."

"Parties are permitted to discover any relevant nonprivileged matter. Fed.R.Civ.P. 26(b)(1). This rule is construed very broadly, encompassing 'any matter that bears on, or that reasonably could lead to other matter that could bear on, any issue that is or may be in the case.' Discovery is not limited to the issues raised only in the pleadings, but rather it is designed to define and clarify the issues." Miller v. Pancucci, 141 F.R.D. 292, 296 (C.D. Cal. 1992). "The party opposing discovery bears the burden of resisting disclosure." Rogers v. Giurbino, 288 F.R.D. 469, 478-79 (S.D. Cal. 2012).

MBN is Ordered to Cause Morad Neman to Appear and Provide Deposition Testimony

MBN is ordered to cause Morad Neman to appear and provide deposition testimony. There is no dispute that Morad Neman is the manager of MBN and has been involved in the real property transactions that are the subject of this litigation. There is no merit to MBN's argument that Morad Neman is not required to testify simply because MBN designated Simon Neman as its Rule 30(b)(6) witness. As the leading treatise on federal practice provides:

The Rule 30(b)(6) procedure should be distinguished from the situation in which a party wants to take the deposition of a specific individual associated with the corporation or organization. Because Rule 30(b)(6) imposes on the organization the obligation to select the individual witness, the party seeking discovery under that provision of the rule is not permitted to insist that it choose a specific person to testify unless in response to a Rule 30(b)(6) notice. But Rule 30(b)(6) also says expressly that it does not preclude taking a deposition by any other procedure authorized by the rules. Thus, a party who wishes the deposition of a specific officer or agent of a corporation may still obtain it and is not required to allow the corporation to decide for itself whose testimony the other party may have.

Wright and Miller, 8A Fed. Prac. & Proc. Civ. § 2103 (3d ed.).

JLAMP and MBN shall meet and confer to establish a mutually agreeable time for Morad Neman's deposition. However, Morad Neman must appear for deposition by no later than February 23, 2018.

MBN is Ordered to Supply Amended Interrogatory Responses

As set forth below, the Court finds that certain of MBN's interrogatory responses are evasive and incomplete. Pursuant to Civil Rule 37(a), the Court will order MBN to supply amended responses that are not evasive and incomplete.

The following interrogatory responses must be amended:

- 1) Interrogatories 9, 11, 21, and 23 required MBN to identify witnesses who had knowledge of MBN's defenses or who had knowledge of the transactions that are the subject of this litigation. In response, MBN identified only Simon Neman, Anthony Friedman (who served as the Chapter 7 Trustee in the related bankruptcy case of Morad Javedanfar), and accounting firm Newmark Grubb Knight Frank. MBN did not identify Morad Neman, even though it is undisputed that Morad Neman is the manager of MBN and has substantial knowledge of the real estate transactions that are the subject of this litigation. The failure to disclose Morad Neman as a witness renders MBN's response incomplete and evasive.
- 2) Interrogatory 7 required MBN to describe "all consideration received by Debtors in exchange for the transfer of their interest in Boyd LP to MBN."

Chapter 7

In response, MBN stated that it “assumed secured and unsecured debt obligations in amounts which, in the aggregate, equaled or exceeded the value of all of the ‘interest in Boyd LP.’” This tautological statement is not responsive.

- 3) In response to interrogatories 8, 10, 19, and 20, MBN stated that it would furnish JLAMP with a catalogue containing the relevant information. MBN has failed to supply the catalogue. This omission must be corrected.
- 4) MBN’s responses to interrogatories 19 and 22 are blank, and as such are completely inadequate.

None of the arguments advanced by MBN in opposition to the Motions to Compel have merit. First, MBN accuses JLAMP of undue delay in bringing the Motions. JLAMP properly attempted to obtain the discovery to which it was entitled without Court intervention. Only after those repeated efforts proved futile did it file the Motions to Compel.

Second, MBN attempts to distract from the issues at hand by asserting that it has produced 1,153 pages of documents and data and 400 pages of e-mails. That production does not address the deficiencies identified above.

MBN is Ordered to Pay JLAMP Attorneys’ Fees in the Amount of $17,500

Civil Rule 37(a)(5)(A) provides that where a motion to compel discovery is granted, the "court must, after giving an opportunity to be heard, require the party or deponent whose conduct necessitated the motion, the party or attorney advising that conduct, or both to pay the movant’s reasonable expenses incurred in making the motion, including attorney’s fees." However, if any of the following three circumstances apply, the Court must not order the payment of expenses:

- i. The movant filed the motion before attempting in good faith to obtain the disclosure or discovery without court action;
- ii. The opposing party’s nondisclosure, response, or objection was substantially justified; or
- iii. Other circumstances make an award of expenses unjust.

Civil Rule 37(a)(5)(A)(i)–(iii).

None of the circumstances preventing the Court from ordering the payment of expenses apply here. First, JLAMP attempted in good faith to resolve the discovery dispute without Court intervention. JLAMP reached out to MBN to obtain adequate responses to the interrogatories on numerous occasions but its efforts were unsuccessful.

Second, MBN's evasive interrogatory responses, as well as its failure to produce Morad Neman for a deposition, were not substantially justified. Substantial justification means "'justified in substance or in the main'—that is, justified to a degree that could satisfy a reasonable person." Pierce v. Underwood, 487 U.S. 552, 565 (1988). Noncompliance with discovery obligations is substantially justified if there is a "genuine dispute," id. at 565, or if "reasonable people could differ as to whether the party requested must comply." Reygo Pac. Corp. v. Johnston Pump Co., 680 F.2d 647, 649 (9th Cir. 1982) (overruled on other grounds, Molski v. Evergreen Dynasty Corp., 500 F.3d 1047, 1055 n.2 (9th Cir. 2007)). MBN has failed to identify any genuine dispute and presents only conclusory arguments in opposition to JLAMP's Motions to Compel.

Third, there are no other circumstances which make an award of expenses, including legal fees unjust.

The Court finds attorneys' fees in the amount of $10,000 for both Motions warranted under the circumstances. The Court finds that neither Motion would have been required absent a good faith attempt to fully respond to interrogatories or to have Morad Neman appear for deposition. The Court also finds that JLAM attempted to resolve these disputes without Court intervention. A fee award of $10,000.00 is reasonable given the fact that the Motions factually and legally covered much of the same ground. The Court declines to make MBN's counsel jointly and severally liable for the expenses, or to impose sanctions against MBN's counsel pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c)(4). There is not sufficient evidence before the Court to establish that counsel advised MBN to neglect its discovery obligations.. And although the Court finds MBN's arguments in opposition to be without merit, those arguments are not so frivolous as to warrant sanctions.

Conclusion

Based upon the foregoing, MBN is ordered to (1) cause Morad Neman to appear and provide deposition testimony by no later than February 23, 2018; (2) supply amended interrogatory responses as described herein; and (3) pay JLAMP $10,000 in attorney's fees.

Tentative Ruling:

2/16/2018

The Court finds that based upon the pleadings and evidence filed in connection with this matter to date, sufficient cause has been established to continue this matter to a final hearing on April 23, 2018 at 10:00 a.m. At that time, the Court will take testimony from live witnesses to establish the burdens of proof set forth in section 362 (g) and will be limited to the issues of adequate protection and equity in the subject property.

The court orders that the automatic stay is extended to and including April 23, 2018, or to any continued date which may hereafter be ordered.

The following briefing schedule shall apply:

Movant's supplemental brief, declaration(s) and list of witnesses (witnesses must include the declarants): Filed and served March 23, 2018

Debtor's supplemental opposition brief, declaration(s) and list of witnesses (witnesses must include the declarants): Filed and served April 16, 2018

No other briefs will be entertained by the court and may not be filed absent permission of the court.

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to repossess or otherwise obtain possession and dispose of its collateral pursuant to applicable law, and to use the proceeds from its disposition to satisfy its claim. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501. The Court finds that there is no equity in the subject vehicle and that the vehicle is not necessary for an effective reorganization since this is a chapter 7 case.

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code.

The 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

All other relief is denied.

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set on a shortened notice in accordance with this judge's procedures. Oppositions, if any, will be considered at the hearing.

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1). The stay is terminated as to the Debtor and the Debtor's bankruptcy estate with respect to the Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns. Movant may enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property in accordance with applicable law, but may not pursue a deficiency claim against the debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501.

The Movant caused a notice to quit to be served upon the Debtor on December 29, 2017.

This Motion has been filed to allow the Movant to proceed with the Movant's contemplated unlawful detainer proceeding in state court. The unlawful detainer proceeding may go forward because the Debtor's right to possess the premises must be determined. This does not change simply because a bankruptcy petition was filed. See In re Butler, 271 B.R. 867, 876 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2002).

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of this bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code.

No. 1087]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

The Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the "Committee") moves to compel the Debtor to produce documents. The Court has set a hearing on the Motion on shortened notice. The discovery dispute pertains to the Debtor's motion to approve a compromise (the "Compromise Motion") between the Debtor, on the one hand, and Sycamore Healthcare Services, LLC ("Sycamore"), Roxbury Healthcare Services, LLC ("Roxbury"), S&W Health Management, Co., Inc. ("SW Health"), Selvin & Weiner, APC ("S&W APC"), and Beryl Weiner ("Mr. Weiner" and, collectively with Sycamore, Roxbury, SW Health, and S&W APC, the "Weiner Parties"), on the other hand. The Committee opposes the Compromise Motion and has filed a motion seeking derivative standing (the "Standing Motion") to prosecute against the Weiner Parties the claims that the Debtor seeks to resolve via the Compromise Motion. Pursuant to an order setting a briefing schedule entered on February 1, 2018 [Doc. No. 1091], the Standing Motion and Compromise Motion will stand submitted as of March 22, 2018, and no hearing on either motion will be conducted unless otherwise ordered by the Court.

On December 6, 2017, the Debtor and the Weiner Parties participated in mediation before the Hon. Gregg W. Zive and reached a settlement (the "Settlement Agreement”), the terms of which were placed on the record. The key terms of the settlement were as follows:

- 1) All secured and unsecured claims of the Weiner Parties were to be extinguished.
- 2) The $1,707,434 reserved by the Debtor to pay the Weiner Parties’ claims was to be released to the Debtor for the benefit of the estate.
- 3) Certain of the Weiner Parties were to commence litigation against their insurers, asserting that the insurers breached their obligations to defend the Weiner Parties against claims asserted against the Weiner Parties by the Committee. After payment of attorneys’ fees, any recovery in the litigation would be shared equally between the estate and the Weiner Parties.

While the Debtor and the Weiner Parties were in the process of memorializing the Settlement Agreement reached before Judge Zive, the Committee served subpoenas upon the Weiner Parties and their insurance carriers, seeking to obtain information pertaining to the Weiner Parties’ insurance coverage claims. The Weiner Parties took the position that the Committee’s discovery was intended to build an argument, to be presented in open court, as to the potential weaknesses or defenses as to the Weiner Parties’ claims against their insurance carriers (the “Coverage Claims”). See Roxbury/Sycamore Response at ¶2. In order to protect the Coverage Claims, the Weiner Parties negotiated a revision to the Settlement Agreement with the Debtor. Under the revised Settlement Agreement, in lieu of the Debtor and the Weiner Parties sharing equally in any recovery obtained in connection with the Coverage Claims, the Weiner Parties will pay the estate $400,000. The other terms of the settlement remain unchanged. The Debtor filed the Compromise Motion, seeking approval of the Settlement Agreement, on February 14, 2018.

By way of the instant Motion to Compel, the Committee seeks to compel the Debtor to produce documents and communications between the Debtor and the Weiner Parties from and after the conclusion of the December 6, 2017 mediation. The Committee asserts that such documents are necessary for it to prosecute the Standing Motion and oppose the Compromise Motion. The Committee’s theory is that evaluation of the Settlement Agreement requires a review of the documents and communications that the Debtor and the Weiner Parties exchanged during the process of memorializing the Settlement Agreement.

On December 18, 2017, the Committee served upon the Debtor the document request demanding the post-mediation communications between the Debtor and the Weiner Parties (the “December 18 Request”). The Debtor’s counsel agreed to accept the document request via e-mail in lieu of a formal document demand under Bankruptcy Rule 7034.

On December 20, 2017, the Debtor and the Weiner Parties executed a “Common Interest Privilege and Confidentiality Agreement” (the “Confidentiality Agreement”) [Doc. No. 1093, Ex. A]. The Confidentiality Agreement states that is effective as of December 7, 2017. The Debtor states that the Debtor and the Weiner Parties agreed to execute the Confidentiality Agreement on December 8 and commenced preparing the Confidentiality Agreement on December 20. The Debtor states that execution of the Confidentiality Agreement was delayed by a death and funeral.

The Confidentiality Agreement applies to information exchanged between the Debtor and the Weiner Parties during the process of memorializing the Settlement Agreement, and provides in relevant part:

The signatories to this Agreement intend that information be exchanged among them and still remain protected from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege and the attorney work-product privilege. The signatories to this Agreement further intend that any exchange of information be within the “joint defense/joint interest” privilege as recognized by numerous authorities, including, but not limited to Hunydee v. United States, 355 F.2d 183 (9th Cir. 1965); Continental Oil Company v. United States, 330 F.2d 347 (9th Cir. 1964); and Raytheon Company v. Superior Court, 208 Cal.App.3d 683 (1989), and to the maximum extent recognized by law.

The Committee’s Motion to Compel

The Committee makes the following arguments in support of its Motion to Compel the Debtor to produce the information exchanged between the Debtor and the Weiner Parties during the process of memorializing the Settlement Agreement:

The Debtor’s assertion that the settlement communications are protected by the “common interest” or “joint defense” privilege is without merit. “Rather than a separate privilege, the ‘common interest’ or ‘joint defense’ rule is an exception to ordinary waiver rules designed to allow attorneys for different clients pursuing a common legal strategy to communicate with each other. However, a shared desire to see the same outcome in a legal matter is insufficient to bring a communication between two parties within this exception. Instead, the parties must make the communication in pursuit of a joint strategy in accordance with some form of agreement—whether written or unwritten.” In re Pac. Pictures Corp., 679 F.3d 1121, 1129 (9th Cir. 2012) (internal citations omitted).

Parties negotiating a settlement agreement are inherently adverse. Unless the Debtor concedes that its interests are not adverse to the Weiner Parties—which would amount to an admission of its conflict of interest and inability to effectively address the estate’s claims against the Weiner Parties—the Debtor and the Weiner Parties cannot assert the common interest protection with respect to their communications.

Nor are the communications protected by this Court’s “Third Amended General Order 95-01” (“General Order 95-01”), which provides that communications during mediation are confidential. General Order 95-01 does not apply because the communications occurred after the mediation with Judge Zive. See Folb v. Motion Picture Indus. Pension & Health Plans, 16 F. Supp. 2d 1164, 1180 (C.D. Cal. 1998), aff’d, 216 F.3d 1082 (9th Cir. 2000) (“On the facts presented here, the Court concludes that communications to the mediator and communications between parties during the mediation are protected. In addition, communications in preparation for and during the course of a mediation with a neutral must be protected. Subsequent negotiations between the parties, however, are not protected even if they include information initially disclosed in the mediation. To protect additional communications, the parties are required to return to mediation. A contrary rule would permit a party to claim the privilege with respect to any settlement negotiations so long as the communications took place following an attempt to mediate the dispute.”).

In addition, General Order 95-01 requires the parties and the mediator to execute “a written confidentiality agreement in the form attached as Official Form 708.” General Order 95-01 at ¶6.3. The Debtor and the Weiner Parties did not execute Official Form 708.

If the Court does not compel the Debtor to produce to the Committee the documents covered by the December 18 Request, the Court should, at a minimum, (i) compel the production of all documents with respect to which the Debtor asserts common interest protection to the Court for in camera review and (ii) order the Debtor to produce a privilege log with respect to all such documents.

The Debtor’s Opposition to the Motion to Compel

The Debtor makes the following arguments in Opposition to the Motion to Compel:

General Order 95-01 provides in relevant part:

No written or oral communication made, or any document presented, by any party, attorney, Mediator, Alternate Mediator or other participant in connection with or during any Mediation Conference, including the written Mediation Conference statements referred to in Paragraph 7.8 below, may be disclosed to anyone not involved in the Mediation, nor may any such communication be used in any pending or future proceeding in this Court or any other court. All such communications and documents shall be subject to all of the protections afforded by FRBP 7068.

General Order 95-01 at ¶6.1.

The communications and documents sought by the Committee were exchanged between the Debtor and the Weiner Parties in their efforts to finalize the Settlement Agreement reached at the mediation before Judge Zive (the “Mediation Conference”). As such, those communications were made “in connection with” the Mediation Conference and may not be used in proceedings before the Court.

Although the parties did not execute Official Form 708 before the Mediation Conference began, there is no dispute that Judge Zive repeatedly made clear, and all parties agreed, that communications presented in connection with the Mediation Conference were confidential.

The Committee’s reliance upon Folb for the proposition that post-mediation communications are not confidential is misplaced. In Folb, the court examined the existence and scope of a mediation privilege under federal common law, not the scope of confidentiality under the Court’s Mediation Program for Bankruptcy Cases and Adversary Proceedings (the “Mediation Program”).

Even disregarding the rules governing the confidentiality of communications exchanged in connection with mediation, courts have held that where discovery is sought of settlement communications “in the same ongoing litigation,” such discovery “is proper only where the party seeking it lays a foundation by adducing from other sources evidence indicating that the settlement may be collusive.” Diagnostics Systems Corp. v. Symantec Corp., No. SA CV 06–1211 DOC (ANx), 2008 WL 9396386 *10 (C.D.Ca. Apr. 4, 2008), citing Lobatz v. U.S. West Cellular of Cal., Inc., 222 F.3d 1142, 1148 (9th Cir. 2000) and Mars Steel Corp. v. Continental Illinois Nat’l Bank & Trust Co., 834 F.2d 677, 684 (7th Cir. 1987). The Committee has filed no declarations from anyone with first-hand knowledge showing that the Debtor has engaged in any collusion with the Weiner Parties.

Finally, much of the discovery sought by the Committee is no longer relevant given the modifications to the Settlement Agreement. Many of the communications at issue pertain to the prior version of the Settlement Agreement which provided that the Debtor and the Weiner Parties would share equally in any recovery obtained in connection with the Coverage Claims. In lieu of an equal recovery, the revised Settlement Agreement now provides that the Weiner Parties will pay the estate $400,000. Therefore, issues pertaining to the Weiner Parties' insurance coverage are no longer relevant.

Roxbury and Sycamore's Opposition to the Motion to Compel and the Committee's Reply in Support of the Motion

Roxbury and Sycamore join the Debtor's Opposition to the Motion to Compel. Roxbury/Sycamore reiterate the Debtor's argument that a substantial portion of the Committee's discovery request has become moot in view of the revisions to the Settlement Agreement. Roxbury/Sycamore contest the Committee's assertion that the Settlement Agreement must be subjected to heightened scrutiny on the grounds that the Weiner Parties are insiders. According to Roxbury/Sycamore, as of the commencement of the case none of the Weiner Parties held any position with or interest in the Debtor and have not held any position with the Debtor during the case.

In Reply to Roxbury and Sycamore's Opposition, the Committee argues that review of the post-mediation communications is necessary so that the Committee can determine whether the Settlement Agreement was negotiated in good-faith. The Committee further argues that Mr. Weiner qualifies as an insider because he served as an ordinary course professional by representing the Debtor in connection with state court litigation.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Multiple reasons support denial of the Motion to Compel. First, the post-mediation communications are protected from disclosure by General Order 95-01, which provides in relevant part:

No written or oral communication made, or any document presented, by any party, attorney, Mediator, Alternate Mediator or other participant in connection with or during any Mediation Conference, including the written Mediation Conference statements referred to in Paragraph 7.8 below, may be disclosed to anyone not involved in the Mediation, nor may any such communication be used in any pending or future proceeding in this Court or any other court. All such communications and documents shall be subject to all of the protections afforded by FRBP 7068.

Chapter 11

Although the communications at issue did not occur at the Mediation Conference, the communications were necessary to memorialize the Settlement Agreement. Accordingly, the communications were made “in connection with” the Mediation Conference. The fact that the Debtor and the Weiner Parties did not execute Official Form 708 does not waive the protections of General Order 95-01. Judge Zive made clear and all parties understood that the communications at the Mediation Conference were confidential. A minor oversight such as the failure to sign Official Form 708 cannot waive the protections afforded by General Order 95-01.

The Committee’s reliance upon Folb, for the proposition that communications conducted subsequent to a mediation conference are not privileged, is misplaced. Folb examined whether a mediation privilege existed under federal common law and did not assess the scope of confidentiality under General Order 95-01. Therefore, Folb is inapposite.

Second, there is no merit to the Committee’s contention that it must have access to the post-mediation communications in order to evaluate whether the Settlement Agreement is in the best interests of the estate. The Committee, having conducted an extensive investigation of the claims that are the subject of the Settlement Agreement, is in possession of all the information it needs to present its arguments to the Court regarding the merits of the upcoming Compromise Motion. Further, many of the communications sought by the Committee are no longer relevant because they pertain to the earlier version of the Settlement Agreement that provided for an equal split between the Debtor and the Weiner Parties of any recovery obtained in connection with the Coverage Claims.

Third, the communications sought by the Committee are subject to the common interest privilege. Communications between attorneys for different clients are protected by the common interest privilege if the communications are made “in pursuit of a joint strategy in accordance with some form of agreement.” Pac. Pictures Corp. v. U.S. Dist. Court (In re Pac. Pictures Corp.), 679 F.3d 1121, 1129 (9th Cir. 2012). Here, the Debtor and the Weiner Parties executed the written Confidentiality Agreement, in which the parties agreed to exchange confidential communications to facilitate Court approval of the Settlement Agreement. In seeking to obtain approval of the Settlement Agreement, the Debtor and the Weiner Parties were pursuing a joint legal strategy.

The Committee argues that the Debtor and the Weiner Parties were not pursuing a joint legal strategy, on the grounds that parties negotiating a settlement agreement are inherently adverse. The Committee is incorrect. The Debtor and the Weiner Parties reached an agreement in principle at the Mediation Conference conducted by Judge Zive on December 6, 2017. The material terms of that agreement were placed upon the record. The post-mediation communications were exchanged in order to formalize the terms of the agreement that had already been reached. Therefore, at the time those communications were exchanged, the interests of the Debtor and the Weiner Parties no longer were adverse—their disputes had been resolved at the Mediation Conference. The fact that one of the terms of the Settlement Agreement had to be modified because the Committee’s discovery threatened to jeopardize the Weiner Parties’ Coverage Claims does not impact the analysis.

In re Lidoderm Antitrust Litig., No. 14-MD-02521-WHO, 2016 WL 861019, at *1 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 7, 2016), upon which the Committee relies in support of its contention that parties negotiating a settlement agreement are inherently adverse, is inapposite. In Lidoderm, the communications pertained to discussions between parties about how to allocate the costs of a settlement between themselves. Id. The communications did not concern the terms of the settlement. Id. In finding that the common interest privilege did not apply to such communications, the Lidoderm court observed that the settlement contained no cost-sharing provisions and that the parties engaged in the cost-sharing negotiations in furtherance of their ongoing business relationship, not for the purpose of facilitating the settlement. The court found that there was “little evidentiary support for the proposition that an agreement on the cost split ... was a ‘necessary predicate’ to the ... settlement.” Id. at *2. In the present case, by contrast, the communications at issue were necessary to memorialize the Settlement Agreement that had been reached before Judge Zive.

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion to Compel is DENIED. For the same reasons, the Committee’s request that the Court conduct an in camera review of the communications at issue and order the Debtor to produce a privilege log with respect to the communications is DENIED.

The Debtor shall submit a conforming order, incorporating this tentative ruling by reference, within seven days of the hearing.

The Disclosure Statement

On January 9, 2018, the Debtor filed the "First Amended Disclosure Statement in Support of Plan of Reorganization" (the "Amended Disclosure Statement") [Doc. No. 67]. The "Motion for Approval of Chapter 11 Disclosure Statement" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 69] was filed concurrently with the Disclosure Statement. The Amended Disclosure Statement includes the following information:

- (1) Unclassified Claims including Administrative Priority and Tax claims: these claims include (i) professional fees and costs; (ii) United States Trustee's fees; and (iii) postpetition domestic support obligations. Such claims shall be paid in full on, or as soon as practicable after the Effective Date or upon allowance of such claim, whichever is later. Holders of priority tax claims are entitled to priority under § 507(a)(8), and such claims shall be paid over five years from the date of the entry of the order for relief with 4% interest. Holders of involuntary gap period claims allowed under § 502(f), which are entitled to priority under § 507(a)(3), will be paid in full on, or as soon as practicable after the Effective Date or upon allowance of such claim, whichever is later.
 - (a) Priority Tax Claim of the IRS: The IRS has an Unsecured Priority Claim in the amount of $1,827.40. The Debtor proposes to pay the Unsecured Priority Claim of the IRS in equal monthly payments of $156.00 over a one year period with an interest rate of 4%. Cueto Declaration at ¶ 17.
- (2) Administrative Claims/Fees: The Debtor estimates his attorney fees and costs to Anyama Law Firm to be $10,000.00. "First Amended Declaration of Marco Antonio Cueto" (the "Cueto Declaration") [Doc. No. 67] at ¶ 8. The Debtor proposes to pay his administrative fees from his earnings in the amount of $10,000.00 on the Effective Date of the Plan. Id. at ¶ 9. The Debtor understands that Administrative fees are subject to Court approval after notice and a hearing. Id. at ¶ 10.

- (3) Class 5(b)—Impaired Secured Claim of Home Street Bank: Home Street Bank is the First lienholder on the Debtor's real property located at 15111 Freeman Ave., Apt. 72, Lawndale, CA 90260 (the "Freeman Property") and as of July 11, 2017, has an impaired secured claim in the amount of $310,995.27 (the "Home Street Claim"). The Debtor proposes to pay the Home Street Claim over 30 years. Cueto Declaration at ¶ 12. The total amount of payments over 30 years to satisfy the Home Street Claim is $601,016.00, with an interest rate of 5%. The first payment date is the Plan Effective Date. The Debtor proposes to pay monthly installments on the first day of each month in the amount of $1,669.00 with an anticipated final payment date of February 1, 2048.
- (4) Class 5(c)—Impaired Secured Claim of Citi Mortgage: Citi Mortgage is the Second lienholder on the Freeman Property and as of July 11, 2017, has an impaired secured claim for $118,475.52. The total amount of payments over time to satisfy the Home Street Claim is $118,475.52, with an interest rate of 0%. The first payment date was December 1, 2017. The Debtor proposes to pay monthly installments on the first day of each month in the amount of $416.71 with an anticipated final payment date of February 21, 2037. The payments are based on the "Stipulation Agreement" entered into between the Debtor and Citi Mortgage. See "First Amended Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization" (the "Amended Plan") [Doc. No. 68] Exhibit 1.
- (5) Class 6(b): Other General Unsecured Creditors: Other general unsecured creditors will be paid 100% of their allowed claims over one year in equal monthly installments due on the first day of each calendar month without interest starting on the first such date after the Effective Date. The total amount of the two claims in this class is $1,040.42. See Amended Disclosure Statement Exhibit C.
- (6) Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases: The Debtor assumes the unexpired lease with Christina E. Blais, 15111 Freeman Ave., Apt. 72, Lawndale, CA 90260 (the "Blais Lease"). See Amended Disclosure Statement Exhibit E. Chapter 11

- (7) Sources of Plan Payments: The Debtor intends to make the payments required under the Plan from the following sources:
- (a) Available Cash: The Debtor projects $10,500.00 cash will be available on the Effective Date.
 - (b) Future Disposable Income: The Debtor estimates that projected monthly disposable income available to creditors for the one year period following confirmation will be $1,024.46. This is based on the monthly income of $10,142.59 and expenses of $9,118.13 as set forth in the "Debtor's Declaration of Current/Postpetition Income and Expenses," Amended Disclosure Statement Exhibit A.
- (8) Risk Factors: The Plan has the following risks: the Debtor has a one year rental agreement with his tenant. The tenant may refuse to renew the lease which may result in a lapse in time before the Debtor can secure new tenants. Furthermore, tenants may default on their rental obligations.
- (9) Liquidation Analysis: Pursuant to the Debtor's liquidation analysis, the Disclosure Statement shows that, under Chapter 7 liquidation, unsecured creditors would likely be paid 0% on their claims. The Debtor asserts that under the proposed Plan, unsecured creditors would receive 100% recovery.

Opposition

On February 6, 2018, Creditor HomeStreet Bank filed the "Objection of Secured Creditor HomeStreet Bank to Approval of the Amended Disclosure Statement and Amended Plan of Reorganization" (the "HomeStreet Objection") [Doc. No. 79]. The HomeStreet Objection objects to Amended Disclosure Statement and Amended Plan on the following grounds: (1) the Amended Disclosure Statement's and Amended Plan's proposal to repay HomeStreet's Secured Claim with interest payable at 5% amortized over 30 years from the Effective Date is insufficient—HomeStreet contends that 5.875% is an appropriate interest rate using the prime rate of 4.50% and adding a risk adjustment of 1.50%; (2) the Amended Plan's proposal to pay a monthly payment of $1,699.00 per month for 30 years beginning on the Effective Date is not sufficient to cure the arrearage amounts as of the Petition Date; (3) the Amended Plan does not contain a specific undertaking as to which party will be responsible for post-confirmation real estate taxes and casualty insurance; (4) the Amended Plan proposes an extension of the maturity date of HomeStreet's loan to 2048—HomeStreet objects to any extension of the maturity date; and (5) the Amended Plan does not provide for HomeStreet's pre-confirmation regular payments.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Section 1125 requires a disclosure statement to contain "information of a kind, and in sufficient detail, as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records . . . that would enable. . . a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan." In determining whether a disclosure statement provides adequate information, "the court shall consider the complexity of the case, the benefit of additional information to creditors and other parties in interest, and the cost of providing additional information." 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a). Courts interpreting § 1125 (a) have explained that the "primary purpose of a disclosure statement is to give the creditors the information they need to decide whether to accept the plan." In re Monnier Bros., 755 F.2d 1336, 1342 (8th Cir. 1985). "According to the legislative history, the parameters of what constitutes adequate information are intended to be flexible." In re Diversified Investors Fund XVII, 91 B.R. 559, 560 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1988). "Adequate information will be determined by the facts and circumstances of each case." Oneida Motor Freight, Inc. v. United Jersey Bank, 848 F.2d 414, 417 (3d Cir. 1988), accord. In re Ariz. Fast Foods, Inc., 299 B.R. 589 (Bankr. D. Ariz. 2003).

Relevant factors for evaluating the adequacy of a disclosure statement may include: (1) the events which led to the filing of a bankruptcy petition; (2) a description of the available assets and their value; (3) the anticipated future of the company; (4) the source of information stated in the disclosure statement; (5) a disclaimer; (6) the present condition of the debtor while in Chapter 11; (7) the scheduled claims; (8) the estimated return to creditors under a Chapter 7 liquidation; (9) the accounting method utilized to produce financial information and the name of the accountants responsible for such information; (10) the future management of the debtor; (11) the Chapter 11 plan or a summary thereof; (12) the estimated administrative expenses, including attorneys' and accountants' fees; (13) the collectability of accounts receivable; (14) financial information, data, valuations or projections relevant to the creditors' decision to accept or reject the Chapter 11 plan; (15) information relevant to the risks posed to creditors under the plan; (16) the actual or projected realizable value from recovery of preferential or otherwise voidable transfers; (17) litigation likely to arise in a nonbankruptcy context; (18) tax attributes of the debtor; and (19) the relationship of the debtor with affiliates.

In re Metrocraft Pub. Services, Inc., 39 B.R. 567, 568 (Bankr. Ga. 1984). However, "[d]isclosure of all factors is not necessary in every case." Id.

Here, the Court finds that the Disclosure Statement satisfies many relevant Metrocraft factors, including: (2) a description of the available assets and their value; (4) the source of information stated in the disclosure statement; (5) a disclaimer; (6) the present condition of the debtor while in Chapter 11; (7) the scheduled claims; (8) the estimated return to creditors under a Chapter 7 liquidation; (11) the Chapter 11 Plan or a summary thereof; (12) the estimated administrative expenses, including attorneys' and accountants' fees; (14) financial information, data, valuations or projections relevant to the creditors' decision to accept or reject the Chapter 11 Plan; and (15) information relevant to the risks posed to creditors under the Plan.

The HomeStreet Objection

Having considered the arguments raised in the HomeStreet Objection, and based on the nature of the objections, the Court finds that the objections are objections to the Amended Plan and, thus, should be considered in the context of Plan Confirmation. The HomeStreet Objection does not object to the adequacy of the information contained in the Amended Disclosure Statement.

III. Conclusion

Based on the foregoing, the Debtor's Amended Disclosure Statement is APPROVED. The following dates will apply with respect to the solicitation of votes and plan confirmation:

Comparison of Original Plan Dated October 11, 2017 as Compared to First Amended Plan Dated December 13, 2017" (the "Amended Plan") [Doc. No. 189]. No objections to confirmation are on file.

Summary of the Amended Plan

The Amended Plan will become effective (the "Effective Date") on the second business day after entry of the Confirmation Order.

The Amended Plan includes "Unclassified Claims" as follows:

- 1) Administrative Priority Claims: these claims include (i) professional fees and costs; (ii) United States Trustee's fees; and (iii) postpetition domestic support obligations. Such claims shall be paid in full on, or as soon as practicable after the Effective Date or upon allowance of such claim, whichever is later.
- 2) Priority Tax Claims: Unsecured Claims of Governmental Units entitled to priority under § 507(a)(8). These claims will be paid in full on the Effective Date unless the Debtor files an objection to such claim prior to the Effective Date.
 - a) California State Board of Equalization, Proof of Claim ("POC") No. 7: $537
 - b) California Franchise Tax Board, POC No. 15: $0
 - c) California Employment Development Department, scheduled amount: $0
 - d) City of Los Angeles, scheduled amount: $3,142.32
 - e) Internal Revenue Service, POC No. 4 as amended: $0
 - f) Los Angeles County Tax Collector, POC No. 9: $4,236.44
 - g) Oregon DCBS, scheduled amount: $0

- j) Washington State Department of Revenue, POC No. 5: $403.13
- k) Washington State Department of Labor and Industrial Relations, POC No. 33: $1,917.79

The Amended Plan's classification scheme for Claims and Interests is as follows:

- 1) Class 1: Priority Claims – Classes 1(a)-(g): these classes include allowed unsecured claims entitled to priority under § 507 (except those which are unclassified claims as set forth above).
 - a) Class 1(a): Unsecured domestic support obligations – None
 - b) Class 1(b): Wage and commission claims – None
 - c) Class 1(c): Employee benefit plan contribution claims – None
 - d) Class 1(d): Grain producer and fishermen claims – None
 - e) Class 1(e): Consumer deposit claims – None
 - f) Class 1(f): Commitment to federal depository institutions regulatory agency – None
 - g) Class 1(g): Death or personal injury claims resulting from unlawful operation of a motor vehicle while intoxicated – None
- 2) Class 2: Secured Claims – Classes 2(a)–(b)
 - a) Class 2(a): Impaired Secured Claim of Camco Resources, LLC ("Camco"), POC No. 20 – $1,236,683.57. There are no asserted arrearages. Pursuant to the "Commission Agreement," the Debtor is obligated to make minimum monthly payments to Camco; failure to make the required payments constitutes a default. Camco will be impaired in that the Debtor's obligation to make any payments during the first three calendar months following the Effective Date will be suspended (the "Suspended Payments"). Commencing on the 15th Day of the first calendar month that is more than three calendar months following the Effective Date, the Reorganized debtor will resume making the required monthly payments and will pay an amount equal to the Suspended Payments to Camco in 12 equal monthly installments.

- b) Class 2(b): Impaired Secured Claim of Steve Kelley Lopez ("Lopez"), POC No. 21 – $201,698.00. There are asserted arrearages in the amount of $200,000. The loan from Lopez matured on February 11, 2017, and is memorialized by a promissory note (the "Note"), security agreement, and filed UCC-1 financing statement. Interest on the loan accrues at 10% per annum. Post-petition, the Debtor has been making interest only payments. Lopez will be impaired in that the Note's maturity date will be extended one year after the Effective Date, with the Debtor continuing to make payments of interest only or more at the reduced rate of 5% per annum.
- 3) Class 3: General Unsecured Claims – Classes 3(a)–(b)
- a) Class 3(a): General Unsecured Claims of the Class Action Creditors and any other allowed wage and hour/class action claims – $94,261,954.84 (consisting of the claims listed below). Claim No. 28 is based on a state court judgment that is currently being appealed by the Debtor, and Claim No. 26 is based on a state court lawsuit that was pending at the time of the filing of the Petition.¹ [Note 1]. Class 3(a) also includes all claims that were or may be asserted by Joan Velarde and on behalf of All Others Similarly Situated v. Tricor America, Inc., et al., including the Debtor, in the case filed on July 13, 2017 in the Superior Court of California, County of San Francisco, Case No. CGC17560118 (the "Velarde Action"). knowledge of the Debtor's bankruptcy. While Velarde dismissed the Velarde Action against the Debtor, the Debtor deems the Velarde Action as an informal proof of claim. The Amended Plan treats all actual or potential members of the Velarde Action as Class 3(a) creditors. Additionally, pursuant to the "Order Setting Bar Date for Filing Proofs of Claim" [Doc. No. 150], which set November 29, 2017 as the supplemental proof of claims bar date, the following claims which were filed on or before the November 29, 2017 Supplemental Claims Bar Date are included in Class 3(a): (i) Claim No. 38 by Fern Marie Thompson in the amount of $6,000.00; and (ii) Claim No. 39 filed by Janey Mills in the amount of $1,735.71. See "Amended Disclosure Statement—Redline of Original Disclosure Statement in Support of Chapter 11 Plan Dated October 11, 2017 as Compared to First Amended Disclosure Statement in Support of First Amended Chapter 11 Plan Dated December 13, 2017" (the "Amended Disclosure Statement") [Doc. No. 190] at 27–28. Class 3 (a) Creditors shall share in the Class 3(a) Fund—an interpleader account established at the bankruptcy court, pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rules—in the sum of $400,000. Class 3(a) creditors shall not receive any other distribution.

- b) Class 3(b): Other General Unsecured Creditors – $1,044,869.38. This class includes all allowed unsecured claims not in Class 3(a) and not entitled to priority. $100,000 shall be deposited into an account reserved for the payment of Class 3(b) Claims ("Class 3(b) Fund") on the Effective Date. Distribution to Holders of Class 3(b) Claims will be made in two $50,000 installments.

4) Class 4: Interests in the Debtor

- a) All Interests in the Debtor are currently held by Larry Lum ("Lum") and Ali Sharifi ("Sharifi"), who each own 50% of the Debtor's outstanding and issued stock, and who have been the Debtor's sole officers, directors, and shareholders since its inception. Holders of Interests in the Debtor shall have such Interests cancelled on the Effective Date, and new stock in the Debtor shall be issued to the conditioned upon their contributing the sum of $500,000.00 on the Effective Date to purchase 100% of the equity in the Reorganized Debtor.

The Amended Plan and Amended Disclosure Statement detail the means of funding the Amended Plan and making Effective Date payments. The Debtor anticipates that it will have approximately $1,584.00 in unrestricted cash on the Effective Date. See Disclosure Statement [Doc. No. 190], Ex. 6 (Debtor's Cash Flow Projection for the periods July 1, 2017 through October 31, 2017, and November 1, 2017 through February 31, 2018). Approximately $100,000 in post-Effective Date payments to Camco are deferred under the Amended Plan, and are likely to become due within 90 days after the Effective Date. Approximately $200,000 in post-Effective Date payments to Lopez are deferred under the Amended Plan, and are likely to become due within 90 days after the Effective Date. The deferral of the payments to Lopez will allow the Debtor 12 additional months to generate funds to pay off this debt. The $500,000 to be paid to the Reorganized Debtor by Lum and Sharifi for their purchase of the equity in the Reorganized Debtor is earmarked for funding the Class 3 (a) Fund in the amount of $400,000, and for funding the Class 3(b) Fund in the amount of $100,000.

Opposition

As of the date of this tentative ruling, no objections to confirmation are on file.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

As set forth below, the Court finds that the Amended Plan complies with all applicable provisions of § 1129.

Section 1129(a)(1)

Section 1129(a)(1) requires that the "plan compl[y] with the applicable provisions of this title." According to the Collier, the "legislative history suggests that the applicable provisions are those governing the plan's internal structure and drafting: 'Paragraph (1) requires that the plan comply with the applicable provisions of chapter 11, such as section 1122 and 1123, governing classification and contents of a plan.'" Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 1129.01[1] (16th rev'd ed.) (citing S. Rep. No. 989, 95th Cong., 2d Sess. 126 (1978)).

CONT... Unity Courier Service, Inc.

Chapter 11

Section 1122(a) provides that "a plan may place a claim or an interest in a particular class only if such claim or interest is substantially similar to the other claims or interests of such class."

Each of the secured claims is classified separately, as is appropriate because each secured claimant has unique rights with respect to specific collateral. The claims of unsecured creditors in Class 9 are substantially similar to each other. The Amended Plan satisfies § 1122(a).

2. Section 1122(b)

Section 1122(b) provides that "a plan may designate a separate class of claims consisting only of every unsecured claim that is less than or reduced to an amount that the court approves as reasonable and necessary for administrative convenience."

The Amended Plan does not separately classify certain unsecured claims. Section 1122(b) is inapplicable.

3. Section 1123(a)(1)

Section 1123(a)(1) requires that a plan "designate ... classes of claims, other than claims of a kind specified in section 507(a)(2) [administrative expense claims], 507(a)(3) [claims arising during the gap period in an involuntary case], or 507(a)(8) [priority tax claims], and classes of interest."

There are no involuntary gap claims because this is a voluntary Chapter 11 case. The Amended Plan separately classifies § 507(a)(2) administrative expense claims and § 507(a)(8) priority tax claims. The Amended Plan satisfies § 1123(a)(1).

4. Section 1123(a)(2)

Section 1123(a)(2) requires that the plan "specify any class of claims or interests that is not impaired under the plan."

There are no unimpaired classes. The Amended Plan satisfies § 1123(a)(2).

5. Section 1123(a)(3)

Section 1123(a)(3) requires that the plan "specify the treatment of any class of claims or interests that is impaired under the plan."

The description of each class set forth in Article II of the Amended Plan details the treatment of the impaired class. The Amended Plan satisfies § 1123(a)(3).

Chapter 11

6. Section 1123(a)(4)

Section 1123(a)(4) requires that the Plan "provide the same treatment for each claim or interest of a particular class unless the holder of a particular claim or interest agrees to a less favorable treatment of such particular claim or interest."

The Amended Plan provides the same treatment to claims and interests of the same class. The Amended Plan satisfies § 1123(a)(4).

7. Section 1123(a)(5)

Section 1123(a)(5) requires that the plan "provide adequate means for the plan's implementation."

Article V of the Amended Plan describes the means for implementation of the Amended Plan's provisions. The Amended Plan provides for funding from: operating income; cash on hand on the Effective Date; a $500,000 cash contribution from Lum and Sharifi which is used to create a $400,000 fund to pay 100% of the amount to be distributed to Class 3(a) creditors and a $100,000 fund to be used to pay 100% of the amount to be distributed to Class 3(b) creditors; the deferral of three monthly payments due to Class 2(a) creditor, and extension of the maturity date and reduction in the interest rate paid to the Class 2(b) creditor. The Amended Plan satisfies § 1123(a)(5).

8. Section 1123(a)(6)

Section 1123(a)(6) provides: "[A] plan shall provide for the inclusion in the charter of the debtor, if the debtor is a corporation ..., of a provision prohibiting the issuance of nonvoting equity securities, and providing, as to the several classes of securities possessing voting power, an appropriate distribution of such power among such classes, including, in the case of any class of equity securities having a preference over another class of equity securities with respect to dividends, adequate provisions for the election of directors representing such preferred class in the event of default in the payment of such dividends."

The Amended Plan provides that the Debtor's organizational documents will be amended to prohibit the Reorganized Debtor from issuing non-voting equity securities to the extent necessary to comply with § 1123(a)(6). The Amended Plan satisfies §1123(a)(6).

Chapter 11

Section 1123(a)(7) requires that the plan's provisions with respect to the selection of officers and directors be consistent with public policy and the interests of creditors and equity security holders.

The Amended Plan provides that, on the Effective Date, Larry Lum shall be appointed President and Ali Sharifi shall be the Chairman of the Board, Corporate Secretary, and Chief Financial Officer of the Reorganized Debtor and shall be its sole directors. Each of the directors has experience with the Debtor and will be the sole shareholders of the Reorganized Debtor. The Amended Plan satisfies § 1123(a)(7).

10. Section 1123(b)

Section 1123(b) sets forth provisions that are permitted, but not required, in a plan of reorganization.

The Amended Plan contains certain of § 1123(b)'s optional provisions including subparagraphs (1), (2), (3), (5), and (6). The Amended Plan is consistent with § 1123(b).

Section 1129(a)(2)

Section 1129(a)(2) requires that the "proponent of the plan compl[y] with the applicable provisions of this title."

The Court finds that the Debtor as Amended Plan proponent has:

- 1) Obtained Court approval of a Disclosure Statement in accordance with § 1125 (see Order Approving Disclosure Statement and Fixing Time for Filing Acceptance or Rejections of Plan [Doc. No. 172]); and
- 2) Obtained Court approval of the employment of professional persons (see Order Granting Application and First Amendment to Application by Debtor and Debtor-in-Possession for Authority to Employ Law Offices of Ira Benjamin Katz, P.C., and the Law Offices of David W. Meadows as General Bankruptcy Counsel [Doc. No. 62]).

Accordingly, the Debtor has satisfied the requirements of § 1129(a)(2).

Section 1129(a)(3)

Section 1129(a)(3) requires that the "plan has been proposed in good faith and not by any means forbidden by law." As one court has explained:

Chapter 11

The term 'good faith' in the context of 11 U.S.C. § 1129(a)(3) is not statutorily defined but has been interpreted by case law as referring to a plan that 'achieves a result consistent with the objectives and purposes of the Code.' 'The requisite good faith determination is based on the totality of the circumstances.'

In re Melcher, 329 B.R. 865, 876 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2005) (internal citations omitted).

The Amended Plan presented here seeks results consistent with the purposes and objectives of the code. The Debtor negotiated the Amended Plan provisions with both of its secured creditors and at least one member of each of the unsecured creditor classes. All of the ballots received were cast in favor of Amended Plan Confirmation. The interests of the Debtor's equity security holders are being canceled, but they are contributing $500,000 to the Reorganized Debtor to fund the respective Amended Plan distributions to Class 3(a) and 3(b) creditors. The terms and conditions of the Amended Plan allow the Debtor's business to reorganize while paying creditors at least as much as such creditors would receive in a Chapter 7 liquidation. The Amended Plan satisfies §1129(a)(3).

Section 1129(a)(4)

Section 1129(a)(4) requires that "[a]ny payment made or to be made by the proponent, by the debtor, or by a person issuing securities or acquiring property under the plan, for services or for costs and expenses in or in connection with the case, or in connection with the plan and incident to the case, has been approved by, or is subject to the approval of, the court as reasonable."

Article I, Section A of the Amended Plan provides for payment of attorney and other professional fees only upon application to, and approval by, the Court. The Amended Plan satisfies § 1129(a)(4).

Section 1129(a)(5)

Section 1129(a)(5) requires that the plan disclose "the identity and affiliations of any individual proposed to serve, after confirmation of the plan, as a director, officer, or voting trustee of the debtor, an affiliate of the debtor participating in a joint plan with the debtor, or a successor to the debtor under the plan." Section 1129(a)(5)(A)(ii) requires that the appointment to or continuation in office of an director or officer be consistent with the interests of creditors, equity security holders, and public policy. Section 1129(a)(5)(B) requires the plan proponent to disclose the identity of any insider to be employed by the reorganized debtor.

Article II, Section 4, Article VII, Section S, and Article VII, Section T describe the current and future roles of Lum and Sharifi as the sole current officers and directors of the Debtor and the sole post-Effective Date officers and directors of the Debtor. The Amended Plan satisfies § 1129(a)(5).

Section 1129(a)(6)

Section 1129(a)(6), which requires that a governmental regulatory commission with jurisdiction over rates charged by a debtor approve any rate changes provided for in the Amended Plan, does not apply.

Section 1129(a)(7)

Section 1129(a)(7), known as the "best interests of creditors test," provides in relevant part: "With respect to each impaired class of claims or interests, each holder of a claim or interest of such class has accepted the plan; or will receive or retain under the plan on account of such claim or interest property of a value, as of the effective date of the plan, that is not less than the amount that such holder would so receive or retain if the debtor were liquidated under chapter 7 of this title on such date."

Based upon its review of the Liquidation Analysis included with the Disclosure Statement, under Chapter 7 liquidation unsecured creditors would likely be paid 0% on their claims. Not all holders of Class 3(a) and 3(b) claims voted. The Amended Plan provides each holder of a Class 3(a) or 3(b) claim with a recovery or property of value, as of the Effective Date, that is not less than the amount that such holder would receive in a Chapter 7 liquidation. Under the Amended Plan, unsecured creditors would receive between 0.42431454% and 9.6267647% of their allowed claim. The Amended Plan satisfies § 1129(a)(7).

Section 1129(a)(8)

Section 1129(a)(8) requires each class to accept the plan, unless the class is not impaired. To accept a plan, members of a class must affirmatively vote in favor of the plan. In re M. Long Arabians, 103 B.R. 211, 215-16 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1989).

Classes 2(a), 2(b), 3(a), 3(b), and 4 are all impaired and all such classes voted to confirm the Amended Plan. Furthermore, 100% of the ballots received by the voting deadline were case in favor of Amended Plan confirmation, including votes of each of the five classes.

Chapter 11

In addition to the above, to be "fair and equitable," a plan must comply with the "absolute priority rule." See Case v. Los Angeles Lumber Co., 308 U.S. 106 (1939). In applying § 1129(b)(2)(B), this Court follows the approach set forth in In re Arnold, 471 B.R. 578 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) and applies the absolute priority rule to individual chapter 11 debtors. Collier defines that absolute priority rule:

A plan of reorganization may not allocate any property whatsoever to any junior class on account of the members' interest or claim in a debtor unless all senior classes consent, or unless such senior classes receive property equal in value to the full amount of their allowed claims, or the debtor's reorganization value, whichever is less.

7 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 1129.03 02 (Alan N. Resnick & Henry J. Sommer eds. 16th ed.).

As required by the Bankruptcy Code, the Amended Plan places claims and interests into various Classes according to their priority, with the exception of the "unclassified claims" consistent with the provisions of § 1123(a)(1). The Amended Plan complies with the absolute priority rule.

In sum, the Amended Plan satisfies the applicable requirements of § 1129(a)(8) and § 1129(b).

Section 1129(a)(9)

Section 1129(a)(9) requires that holders of certain administrative and priority claims receive cash equal to the allowed claim amount on the effective date of the plan, unless the claimant agrees to different treatment.

Article I, Section A provides for payment of attorney and other professional fees only upon application to, and approval by, the Court. The Debtor will pay other claims allowed under § 503(b) and entitled to priority under § 507(a)(2), including United States Trustee's fees, in full on the Effective Date except to the extent that a holder of these claims agrees to other terms.

Article I, Section B sets forth the list of filed and or scheduled "Unsecured Claims of Governmental Units" entitled to priority under § 507(a)(8). These claims will be paid in full on the Effective Date unless the Debtor files an objection to such claim prior to the Effective Date or the Debtor and the creditor agree upon a different payment amount.

Chapter 11

The Amended Plan satisfies § 1129(a)(9).

Section 1129(a)(10)

Section 1129(a)(10) requires that at least one class of impaired claims accept the plan.

All five impaired classes have accepted the Amended Plan. The Amended Plan satisfies § 1129(a)(10).

Section 1129(a)(11)

Section 1129(a)(11), known as the "feasibility requirement," requires the Court to find that "[c]onfirmation of the plan is not likely to be followed by the liquidation, or the need for further financial reorganization, of the debtor or any successor to the debtor under the plan, unless such liquidation or reorganization is proposed in the plan."

Based upon its review of the budget projections included with the Amended Disclosure Statement, the Court finds that the Debtor's projected income and cash available on the Effective date are sufficient to make required plan payments. The Amended Plan is feasible and satisfies § 1129(a)(11).

Section 1129(a)(12)

Section 1129(a)(12) requires that the Debtor pay all United States Trustee fees prior to confirmation or provide for payment of those fees on the effective date.

The Amended Plan and the projections in the Amended Disclosure Statement include payment of all Administrative Claims. The Amended Plan satisfies § 1129(a)(12).

Section 1129(a)(13)

Section 1129(a)(13), which contains requirements pertaining to the payment of retirement benefits, does not apply.

Section 1129(a)(14)

Section 1129(a)(14), which contains requirements pertaining to the payment of domestic support obligations, does not apply.

Section 1129(a)(15)

Section 1129(a)(15)(B) applies only to an individual case. As the Debtor is not an individual, § 1129(a)(15)(B) does not apply.

Section 1129(a)(16)

Section 1129(a)(16) provides: "All transfers of property under the plan shall be made in accordance with any applicable provisions of nonbankruptcy law that govern the transfer of property by a corporation or trust that is not a moneyed, business, or commercial corporation or trust."

The Debtor is a Corporation that engages in a business for profit and, therefore, § 1129(a)(16) does not apply.

Section 1129(d)

Section 1129(d) provides: "Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section, on request of a party in interest that is a governmental unit, the court may not confirm a plan if the principal purpose of the plan is the avoidance of taxes or the avoidance of the application of section 5 of the Securities Act of 1933."

No governmental unit has requested that the court not confirm the Amended Plan on the grounds that the Amended Plan's purpose is the avoidance of taxes. The Amended Plan was proposed in good faith, and the principal purpose of the Amended Plan is to allow the Debtor to continue operating its business while paying creditors at least as much as they would receive in a Chapter 7 liquidation. The Amended Plan satisfies § 1129(d).

III. Conclusion

Based on the foregoing, the Debtor's Amended Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization is CONFIRMED.

The Debtor shall upload a conforming order within seven days of the hearing.

#21.00 HearingRE: [179] Motion to Compel Further Responses to Requests for Production of Documents, Set One (Hewlett, Douglas)

Docket 179

Tentative Ruling:

2/20/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Motion to Compel is GRANTED.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Real Party in Interest JL AM Plus, LLC's Notice of Motion and Motion to Compel MBN Real Estate Investments' Further Responses to Requests for Production of Documents, Set One (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 179]
 - a) Joint Stipulation in Support of Real Party in Interest JL AM Plus, LLC's Notice of Motion and Motion to Compel MBN Real Estate Investments' Further Responses to Requests for Production of Documents, Set One [Doc. No. 179]
- 2) Declaration of Stephen F. Biegenzahn in Opposition to Plaintiff's Motion to Compel Production of Documents [Doc. No. 185]
- 3) Plaintiff's LR 37-2.3 Supplemental Memorandum in Support of Plaintiff's Notice of Motion and Motion to Compel Further Responses to Requests for Production [Doc. No. 190]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

On August 29, 2016, the Court approved the sale of the estate's interest in this litigation to Defendants Morad Neman and MBN Real Estate, LLC ("MBN") for $1 million. Bankruptcy Doc. No. 130. After Morad Neman failed to complete the purchase, backup bidder Accessories Mart, LLC purchased the litigation for $905,000 on October 20, 2016. Adv. Doc. No. 57. Accessories Mart subsequently assigned its interest in the litigation to JL AM Plus ("JLAMP"). On September 2, 2016, the Court entered a preliminary injunction, barring Morad Neman and MBN Real Estate from transferring or encumbering the assets which are the subject of this litigation.

Chapter 7

Bankruptcy Doc. No. 138.

On November 22, 2016, JLAMP filed a First Amended Complaint for (1) Avoidance and Recovery of Fraudulent Transfers; (2) Avoidance and Recovery of Preferential Transfers; and (3) Unjust Enrichment (the "Complaint") [Adv. Doc. No. 68]. The Complaint's allegations are as follows:

- 1) Prior to commencing a voluntary Chapter 7 petition, Morad and Yaffa Javedanfar (the "Debtors") owned interests in (A) Boyd L.P. and Sky High LLC and (B) properties located at 310 East Boyd Street, Los Angeles, CA 90013 (the "Boyd Street Property"), 931 East Pico Boulevard, Los Angeles, CA 90021 (the "Pico Blvd. Property"), and 715 East 14th Street, Los Angeles, CA 90021 (the "14th Street Property") (collectively, the "Assets"). In or around December 2012, Debtors transferred their interests in Boyd LP and Sky High LLC to defendants Morad Neman and MBN Real Estate, LLC (collectively, the "Defendants"). On January 11, 2013, Debtors transferred their interests in the Boyd Street Property, the Pico Blvd. Property, and the 14th Street Property to the Defendants.
- 2) At the time of the transfers, Defendants knew of the Debtors' obligations to their creditors and knew that the Debtors were insolvent. The purpose of the transfers was to frustrate the rights of the Debtors' creditors.
- 3) There is a unity of interest between Morad Neman and MBN, such that treatment of MBN as a distinct entity would permit an abuse of the corporate privilege and produce an inequitable result. Accordingly, Morad Neman should be deemed to be the alter ego of MBN.

Based on the foregoing allegations, the Complaint seeks the following relief:

- 1) Avoidance of the transfers as constructively fraudulent, pursuant to §§544(b) and 548(a)(1)(B).
- 2) Avoidance of the transfers as preferences, pursuant to §547(b).
- 3) Restitution and disgorgement of the transferred Assets, and an award of punitive damages against the Defendants.
- 4) Imposition of a constructive trust upon the Assets and immediate turnover of the Assets.

On May 25, 2017, the Court granted Morad Neman's motion for summary judgment. The Court found that JLAMP had failed to allege the specific facts necessary to establish that Mr. Neman was the alter ego of MBN. The Court found that Morad Neman had presented facts showing that there was no genuine dispute that Morad Neman could not be held liable as MBN's alter ego. The Court entered final judgment in Morad Neman's favor after finding under Civil Rule 54(b) that there was no just reason to delay entry of judgment.

JLAMP moves to compel MBN to further respond to its Requests for Production ("RFPs") of documents, and seeks monetary sanctions. According to JLAMP, MBN has promised, but failed, to produce the following documents:

- 1) Full and complete bank records from 2008 to the present. MBN has produced some bank records but only up to 2013.
- 2) All correspondence with the team that appraised the properties in question. MBN has produced the appraisal reports but has not produced its e-mail correspondence with its appraisers.
- 3) All documents relating to the debts that were forgiven in exchange for transfer of the properties, including financials and bank records for all the entities, as well as the data stored in Quickbooks and any other accounting software from 2008 to the present.
- 4) Any loan agreements between the Debtors and MBN or Morad Ben Neman or any entities owned in full or in part by Morad Ben Neman.

JLAMP asserts that MBN must be required to produce the missing documents, or to admit the documents at issue do not exist. MBN states that it has produced 1,153 pages of documents; that it produced additional documents on January 26, 2018; and that the Motion to Compel is a desperate attempt by JLAMP to salvage the claims asserted in the litigation. MBN further argues that JLAMP's theory of the case is predicated upon an inflated valuation of the properties at issue and does not take into account the circumstances under which those properties were transferred—including that MBN's minority interest in the properties significantly reduced any value that MBN could have realistically expect to receive. With respect to JLAMP's request for sanctions, MBN argues that JLAMP's counsel's billing rate of $870 per hour is excessive in view of the complexity of the litigation.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Civil Rule 37(a) provides that a "party may move for an order compelling disclosure or discovery." Civil Rule 37(a)(3)(B) provides that a "party seeking discovery may move for an order compelling an answer, designation, production, or inspection." For purposes of Rule 37, an "evasive or incomplete disclosure, answer, or response must be treated as a failure to disclose, answer, or respond."

"Parties are permitted to discover any relevant nonprivileged matter. Fed.R.Civ.P. 26(b)(1). This rule is construed very broadly, encompassing 'any matter that bears on, or that reasonably could lead to other matter that could bear on, any issue that is or may be in the case.' Discovery is not limited to the issues raised only in the pleadings, but rather it is designed to define and clarify the issues." Miller v. Pancucci, 141 F.R.D. 292, 296 (C.D. Cal. 1992). "The party opposing discovery bears the burden of resisting disclosure." Rogers v. Giurbino, 288 F.R.D. 469, 478-79 (S.D. Cal. 2012).

A. RFP Nos. 17–24, 74–81, 177–178, and 188–189

These RFPs seek information regarding whether the debts owed by the Debtors were sufficient to justify the transfer of the assets to MBN. The RFPs seek, among other things, information regarding the Debtors' liabilities to various entities; information regarding any loans from such entities to the Debtors; and information regarding any payments on such loans.

As this is a fraudulent transfer action, the Court finds that these RFPs are "relevant ... and proportional to the needs of the case, considering the importance of the issues at stake in the action, the amount in controversy, the parties' relative access to relevant information, the parties' resources, the importance of the discovery in resolving the issues, and whether the burden or expense of the proposed discovery outweighs its likely benefit." Civil Rule 26(b)(1). The RFPs deal with a key issue—whether the exchange of the properties for the debt was legitimate.

MBN must produce the responsive documents by no later than February 28, 2018. To the extent that responsive documents do not exist, MBN must amend its responses to so state.

B. RFP Nos. 27–32, 84–89, 128–133, and 194–199

These RFPs seek, among other things, information pertaining to the transfer of the Debtors' interest in the assets in question to MBN or to other entities, and information regarding the Debtors' liabilities to entities directly or indirectly owned and/or controlled by MBN. There is no dispute that MBN promised to produce a catalogue containing the requested documents, but never produced such a catalogue.

The Court finds that the information sought by the RFPs is relevant to the matters at issue in this fraudulent transfer action, and that the discovery sought is proportional to the needs of the case. There is no merit to MBN's assertion that the legitimacy of the Debtors' indebtedness to Morad Ben Neman and/or MBN is not relevant. If the Debtors did owe Mr. Neman and/or MBN money, then the transfer of assets having an equivalent value would not likely be avoidable as fraudulent.

MBN must produce the responsive documents by no later than February 28, 2018. To the extent that responsive documents do not exist, MBN must amend its responses to so state.

C. RFP Nos. 42–52, 99–108, 134–143, and 204–213

These RFPs seek information regarding the financial and tax affairs of the relevant entities, including information regarding the entities' income, accounts receivable, operating expenses, indebtedness, and tax returns.

The Court finds that the information sought by the RFPs is relevant, because it is necessary to allow JLAMP to evaluate MBN's claims that it has been operating its businesses relating to the relevant properties in good faith and has dealt legitimately with the Debtors. The Court further finds that the discovery sought is proportional to the needs of the case.

MBN states that it produced documents responsive to these RFPs on January 26, 2018. It is not clear from the record whether MBN's January 26 production (which occurred on the same date the Motion to Compel was filed) was adequate. Therefore, the Court will order MBN to produce the responsive documents, to the extent that it has not already produced them, by no later than February 28, 2018. To the extent that responsive documents do not exist, MBN must amend its responses to so state.

D. RFP Nos. 37–41, 94–98, 132–133, 167–168, and 202–203

These RFPs seek copies of leases relating to the Properties from 2008 to the present. MBN asserts that not all of the leases are relevant; it argues that, for example, a 2017 lease is not relevant to a valuation of the property as of 2012.

MBN's objections as to relevance are overruled. Although a 2017 lease is not as probative as to value as leases closer to the transfer date, such a lease has some relevance, especially considering that the properties are located in a gentrifying area in which rent increases could be anticipated. In view of the amount at issue, the discovery sought is proportional to the needs of the case.

MBN must produce the responsive documents by no later than February 28, 2018. To the extent that responsive documents do not exist, MBN must amend its responses to so state.

Chapter 7

These RFPs seek information relating to appraisals of the assets at issue. MBN has produced the appraisals themselves and an agreement with appraisers but has not produced other related communications, such as e-mails, billing records, or other communications with the appraisers. MBN has admitted that it communicated with its appraisers. MBN objects to the production of communications with appraisers on the ground that such communications are protected by the work-product doctrine. JLAMP responds that MBN has waived any applicable privilege by failing to claim such privilege in its responses to the RFPs, and that MBN has not previously asserted that its appraisers were "litigation experts." JLAMP further notes that the appraisals in question were conducted years before this litigation began.

MBN's privilege objection is overruled. Civil Rule 26(b)(3) protects "documents ... prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial." The communications at issue do not fall within the scope of Rule 26(b)(3), because the appraisals were commissioned prior to this litigation.

MBN must produce the responsive documents by no later than February 28, 2018. To the extent that responsive documents do not exist, MBN must amend its responses to so state.

F. RFP Nos. 54–59, 111–116, 146–151, 181–186, and 216–221

These RFPs seek information regarding MBN's legal position, such as documents supporting MBN's contention that the Debtors' interest in Boyd LP had no value; documents supporting the contention that the Debtors received reasonably equivalent value and fair consideration in exchange for the transfers at issue; and documents supporting the contention that the Debtors were obligated by contract to make the transfers.

MBN does not deny that it has failed to produce the documents; it instead states that its legal position is that the value of the assets transferred was roughly equal to the secured obligations encumbering those assets. MBN's cursory recital of its legal position is not an excuse to avoid responding to the RFPs. MBN must produce the responsive documents by no later than February 28, 2018. To the extent that responsive documents do not exist, MBN must amend its responses to so state.

MBN is Ordered to Pay JLAMP Attorneys' Fees in the Amount of $6,000

conduct, or both to pay the movant's reasonable expenses incurred in making the motion, including attorney's fees." However, if any of the following three circumstances apply, the Court must not order the payment of expenses:

- i. The movant filed the motion before attempting in good faith to obtain the disclosure or discovery without court action;
- ii. The opposing party's nondisclosure, response, or objection was substantially justified; or
- iii. Other circumstances make an award of expenses unjust.

Civil Rule 37(a)(5)(A)(i)-(iii).

None of the circumstances preventing the Court from ordering the payment of expenses apply here. JLAMP met and conferred with MBN prior to filing the Motion to Compel in a good-faith effort to obtain the discovery without court action. MBN's failure to produce the documents at issue was not substantially justified, and there are no other circumstances that make an award of expenses unjust. JLAMP will be awarded fees of only $6,000, not the $10,000 in fees that it requests. The Court declines to hold MBN's counsel jointly and severally liable for the fee award, or to impose sanctions against MBN's counsel pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 7026-1(c)(4). There is not sufficient evidence before the Court to establish that counsel advised MBN to neglect its discovery obligations. And although the Court finds MBN's arguments in opposition to be without merit, those arguments are not so frivolous as to warrant sanctions.

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion to Compel is GRANTED. JLAMP shall submit a conforming order, incorporating this tentative ruling by reference, within seven days of the hearing.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. Tentative Ruling:

2/20/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Debtor's Objection to Claim No. 13 filed by Tod Short in the amount of $51,499.81 is SUSTAINED. Claim No. 13 is disallowed in its entirety.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Notice of Objection and Debtor's Objection to Creditor Tod Short's Claim (the "Short Objection") [Doc. No. 95]
- 2) Claim No. 13 filed by Tod Short in the Amount of $51,499.81

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Base Architecture Planning & Engr, Inc. (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 Petition on July 14, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1].

Claim No. 13

On September 1, 2017, Creditor Tod Short filed Claim No. 13 in the amount of $51,499.81 (the "Short Claim"). The Short Claim asserts that (i) all or part of the Claim is secured, and (ii) all of the Claim is entitled to priority under 11 U.S.C. § 507 (a)(4). Claim No. 13 at 2–3. The aggregate amount of the Short Claim consists of claims for "$28,999.81 less pay" and "$22,500 [commissions] for the Inglewood Stadium Construction Project." Id. at 4. Chapter 11

Inglewood Stadium Construction Project, the Short Claim states:

On August 21, 2017 . . . I was informed that BASE Architecture, Planning & Engineering, Inc. (BASE) had obtained a 3 year contract with the Inglewood Stadium Construction Project. Under oath Mr. Michael Anderson Owner and CEO of [BASE] said that for the next 3 year [sic] BASE will be making $600,000 a year. This true statement by Mr. Anderson means BASE must pay me a Performance Bonus of $7,500 a year for 3 years [citing to page 2 of the "Offer of Employment" submitted with Claim No. 13].

Claim No. 13 at 4; see also id. at 6. The following evidence was filed in support of the Short Claim: (1) "Offer of Employment" dated July 4, 2010, Claim No. 13 at 5–8; (2) Correspondence dated September 3, 2016 from Michael Anderson to Tod Short with the subject line "Payrate," id. at 9; (3) Pay Stubs for multiple pay periods, id. at 10–11; (5) Correspondence dated July 20, 2017 from "tshort512@aol.com" to "tshort512@aol.com" with a note stating "text from Michael Anderson 7/15/17 . . .," id. at 12; and (6) Documents which appear to be time sheets for Tod Short for various pay periods, id. at 13–18.

Objection to Claim No. 13

On January 18, 2018, the Debtor filed the "Notice of Objection and Debtor's Objection to Creditor Tod Short's Claim" (the "Short Objection") [Doc. No. 95]. The Debtor objects to the entire amount of the Short Claim, and disputes the amounts claimed for "less pay" and for commission "for the Inglewood Stadium Construction Project." Short Objection at 1. Alternatively, the Debtor asserts that the claim does not have the right to priority of "at least 100%," and to the extent the Short Claim asserts that the Claimant has a lien on "real estate," Claim No. 13 at 2, the Debtor does not own any real estate and, therefore, the Short Claim cannot be secured. Short Objection at 1.

The Short Objection explains that the Claimant was employed by the Debtor during two different periods. The first period lasted from July 19, 2010 when the Claimant was first hired by the Debtor as "Director of Business Development," through December 31, 2013 when the Claimant's employment was terminated as a lay-off (the "First Employment Period"). Id. at 4; "Declaration of Michael Anderson"

("Anderson Declaration") [Doc. No. 95] at ¶ 2. The terms of the employment agreement for the First Employment Period included, among other things, an annual salary of $60,000, an auto allowance of $6,000, and a performance bonus based on the value of contracts the Claimant secured for the Debtor. Anderson Declaration at ¶ 2; see also id. at Exhibit A; Claim No. 13 at 5–8 ("Offer of Employment"). The Short Objection states that the Claimant's salary was paid in full for the First Employment Period and, additionally, the Claimant was paid the agreed upon commission for two contracts which the Claimant secured for the Debtor. Short Objection at 4; Anderson Declaration at ¶ 2.

The second period lasted from January 1, 2015 when the Claimant was rehired for "Business Development," through March 3, 2017 (the "Second Employment Period"). Anderson Declaration at ¶ 3. During the Second Employment Period, the Claimant purportedly agreed to a bi-weekly salary of approximately $1,750 for an annual salary of $45,000 with the same commission rate as the First Employment Period. Id. The Claimant was terminated on March 3, 2017 in part because the Debtor could not afford his position and in part because he was not acquiring any new business. Id. The Short Objection states that the Claimant was paid in full for the First Employment Period including accrued vacation pay. Short Objection at 4; Anderson Declaration at ¶ 3.

The Short Objection contends that no additional salary or commissions are owed to the Claimant for work performed by the Claimant during either the First or Second Employment Periods. See Short Objection at 5; Anderson Declaration at ¶ 4. The Short Objection further argues that the Claimant did not earn commission on the Inglewood Stadium Construction Project. Mr. Anderson explains:

The Debtor was seeking a subcontract on the project with a construction management company, Airware LLC, that was to provide elevator operator services on the stadium project. The construction management company was proposing a subcontract to the prime construction company, Turner Construction. Airware, LLC was not awarded a contract and thus the Debtor was not awarded a subcontract under it. The Debtor never negotiated or received a contract to work on the stadium project and does not anticipate doing so.

Anderson Declaration at ¶ 4. The Short Objection contends that the Short Claim should be disallowed under § 502(b)(1). Alternatively, if the Short Claim is allowed: (1) the Short Claim exceeds the maximum of $12,850 for priority claims under § 502(a)(4) and must, therefore, be reduced to that amount; and (2) that under § 502(a)(4) only the portion earned within 180 days of the Petition Date (i.e. the period from January 18, 2017 through July 17, 2017) is entitled to priority.

Opposition to the Short Objection

As of the date of this tentative ruling, no opposition to the Short Objection has been filed.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

A proof of claim executed and filed in accordance with the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(f). "The filing of an objection to a proof of claim 'creates a dispute which is a contested matter' within the meaning of Bankruptcy Rule 9014 and must be resolved after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief." Lundell v. Anchor Const. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000) (citing Adv. Comm. Notes to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 9014). Upon objection, the proof of claim provides "some evidence as to its validity and amount" and carries over a "mere formal objection." Id. The objector must produce sufficient evidence "tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations in the proofs of claim themselves." Id. (quoting Wright v. Holm (In re Holm), 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir.1991)). The claimant must "prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times upon the claimant." Id. Bankruptcy Code § 502(b) sets forth nine bases for a claim to be disallowed. To the extent that a claim falls within any of these paragraphs, upon proper objection, the Court will disallow the claim. The "'basic federal rule' in bankruptcy is that state law governs the substance of claims." Raleigh v. Illinois Dep't of Revenue, 530 U.S. 15, 20 (2000) (quoting Butner v. United States, 440 U.S. 48, 57 (1979)). Under § 502(b)(1), the court shall disallow a claim if "such claim is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor, under any agreement or applicable law for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatuired [.]"

As a preliminary matter, the Court finds that the Short Objection was properly served upon the Claimant, Tod Short, at 512 E. Claremont Street, Pasadena, CA 91104, via U.S. Mail on January 18, 2018. See "Proof of Service of Document" [Doc. No. 95]; see also Claim No. 13 at 1.

The Court finds that the Debtor has provided sufficient evidence "tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations in the proofs of claim themselves." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (quoting Wright v. Holm (In re Holm), 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir.1991)). The evidence submitted in support of the Short Claim includes among other things: certain correspondence between the Claimant and Mr. Anderson regarding "payrate," see Claim No. 13 at 9; Pay stubs for various pay periods, see id. at 10–11; a purported record (emailed from the Claimant to himself) of the contents of a text message that was allegedly sent from Mr. Anderson to the Claimant, see id. at 12; and certain documents which appear to the Court to be handwritten time sheets for the Claimant for various pay periods, id. at 13–18. Additionally, the Claimant states that he is owed commission for the Inglewood Stadium Project based on the testimony of the CEO of the Debtor at the 341(a) meeting; however, the Claimant does not provide any record of these purported statements by the CEO of the Debtor. In support of the Short Objection, the Debtor submits, among other things, the Declaration of Michael Anderson—the CEO and custodian of records of the Debtor—who states that the Claimant was paid in full for all work performed by the Claimant during both the First and Second Employment Periods, including any commission owed to the Claimant and accrued vacation pay. Anderson Declaration at ¶¶ 2–3. Additionally, the Debtor submits a letter dated August 23, 2017 that was sent to the Claimant by Mr. Anderson, in which Mr. Anderson explains the circumstances of the Claimant's employment, the wages that were paid to the Claimant, and the commissions which the Claimant was paid, and states which concludes that the Claimant was paid in full pursuant to the terms of the employment agreement. See Short Objection Exhibit B; Anderson Declaration at ¶ 5. Furthermore, Mr. Anderson denies that any contract was entered into related to the Inglewood Stadium Construction Project and that he does not anticipate entering to any contract related to that project in the future, Anderson Declaration at ¶ 4, which directly undermines the amount of the Short Claim for commission from this project. Thus, while the Claimant's evidence is sufficient to support the prima facie validity of the amount of the Short Claim, it is not sufficient, in light of the admissible evidence submitted in support of the Short Objection, to "prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence." Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039. The Claimant received notice of the Short Objection pursuant to FRBP 9019 and had an opportunity to respond and submit further evidence to establish the amount of his claim; however, no opposition to the Short Objection has been filed.

Therefore, the Court finds that the Debtor has carried its burden as the objecting party and that the Claimant has not satisfied its burden to establish the validity or amount of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence.

III. Conclusion

Based on the foregoing, the Debtor's Objection to Claim No. 13 filed by Tod Short in the amount of $51,499.81 is SUSTAINED. Claim No. 13 is disallowed in its entirety.

#102.00 Hearing
RE: [18] Defendant's Motion to Set Aside Default [Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 55(c)] -

fr. 1-23-18

Docket 18

Tentative Ruling:

2/20/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Motion is GRANTED and Soundside's default is set aside.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Defendant's Motion to Set Aside Default (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 18]
 - a) Declaration of Harry Gibson in Support of Defendant's Motion to Set Aside Default [Doc. No. 19]
- 2) Chapter 7 Trustee's Opposition to Defendant's Motion to Set Aside Default (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 33]

- 5) Defendant's Reply in Support of Motion to Set Aside Default (the "Reply") [Doc. No. 36]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

On August 28, 2017, the Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee") commenced this preference action against Soundside Holdings, Inc. ("Soundside"). On October 20, 2017, the Clerk of the Court entered Soundside's default.

Soundside moves to set aside the default and makes the following arguments in support of the Motion:

Chapter 7

- 1) Good cause exists to set aside the default. Soundside's president, Harry Gibson, is not an attorney. When Mr. Gibson received the Summons and Complaint via first class mail, he was suspicious, believing that the paperwork was an effort to strong-arm a payment. Mr. Gibson thought that real litigation would involve more formalities, such as personal service, and was confused because the Complaint named Soundside Holdings, Inc. (when the Defendant's correct name is Soundside Holdings, LLC). Upon receiving the Notice of Default, Soundside promptly retained counsel and filed the instant Motion to set aside the default.
- 2) Soundside has a meritorious defense. The payments at issue were made in the ordinary course of business and Soundside provided new value in exchange for the payments. In addition, one of the six payments at issue may have been made to an entity other than the Debtor.

The Chapter 7 Trustee opposes the Motion and makes the following arguments in support of his Opposition:

- 1) Soundside has failed to demonstrate good cause to set aside the default. In Pena v. Seguros La Commercial SA, 770 F.2d 811, 815 (9th Cir. 1985), the Ninth Circuit found that a defendant's failure to respond was culpable, even though the defendant did not have actual notice of the Complaint, because the defendant had constructive knowledge of the action through the service of process to the Arizona Department of Insurance, and the defendant had failed to provide its correct address to the parties with whom it did business. Here, the facts are even stronger because Soundside has acknowledged it had actual notice of the Complaint.
- 2) Soundside's conclusory statements that it has a meritorious defense are insufficient. Soundside has not presented any specific facts showing that it made payments in the ordinary course of business or provided new value. The Debtor's bank statements show that the preferential payments at issue were made from Soundside's accounts.
- 3) Soundside has not shown that vacating the default would not prejudice the Trustee. Here, the prejudice to the Trustee is greater because Soundside has not demonstrated that it has a meritorious defense. See Cielinski v. Kitchen (In re Tires & Terms of Columbus, Inc.), 262 B.R. 885, 889 (Bankr. M.D. Ga. 2000) ("Courts have generally found that the threat of prejudice is much greater when no factual basis for a meritorious defense exists.").

Chapter 7

Soundside makes the following arguments in its Reply in support of the Motion:

- 1) The Trustee does not accurately state the standard for when a default is culpable. “[A] defendant’s conduct is culpable if he has received actual or constructive notice of the filing of the action and intentionally failed to answer. As we have previously explained, in this context the term ‘intentionally’ means that a movant cannot be treated as culpable simply for having made a conscious choice not to answer; rather, to treat a failure to answer as culpable, the movant must have acted with bad faith, such as an intention to take advantage of the opposing party, interfere with judicial decision-making, or otherwise manipulate the legal process.” United States v. Signed Pers. Check No. 730 of Yubran S. Mesle, 615 F.3d 1085, 1092 (9th Cir. 2010) (internal citations and quotation marks omitted). Here, Mr. Gibson’s failure to respond to the Complaint was the result of a misunderstanding and was not in bad faith.
- 2) The bank account statements attached to the Kwong Declaration, purporting to show that Soundside made preferential payments, are inadmissible as hearsay. Mr. Kwong has no knowledge of the records or the contents and cannot authenticate the bank records of the Debtor. The business records exception does not apply given the Trustee’s lack of personal knowledge as to the authenticity of the records.

In a reply submitted to the evidentiary objections submitted by Soundside, the Trustee asserts that the bank records attached to the Kwong Declaration are admissible under Evidence Rule 901(b), which permits authentication based upon the “appearance, contents, substance, internal patterns, or other distinctive characteristics of the item.” According to the Trustee, the bank records have been properly authenticated because they have the appearance of bank records, such as the insignia of the banks.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Civil Rule 55(c)—made applicable to these proceedings by Bankruptcy Rule 7055—provides: “The court may set aside an entry of default for good cause.” “The ‘good cause’ standard that governs vacating an entry of default under Rule 55(c) is the same standard that governs vacating a default judgment under Rule 60(b).” Franchise Holding II, LLC. v. Huntington Restaurants Grp., Inc., 375 F.3d 922, 925 (9th Cir.

2004). The Court may deny a motion to vacate a default for any of the following reasons: "(1) the plaintiff would be prejudiced if the judgment is set aside, (2) defendant has no meritorious defense, or (3) the defendant's culpable conduct led to the default." Am. Ass'n of Naturopathic Physicians v. Hayhurst, 227 F.3d 1104, 1108 (9th Cir. 2000), as amended on denial of reh'g (Nov. 1, 2000). Because "[t]his tripartite test is disjunctive," Plaintiff is required to demonstrate only that one of the factors applies in order for the Court to deny the motion to vacate default. Id.

The Court finds it appropriate to set aside the default. First, the Trustee is not prejudiced by the setting aside of the default. "To be prejudicial, the setting aside of a [default] must result in greater harm than simply delaying resolution of the case. Rather, 'the standard is whether [plaintiff's] ability to pursue his claim will be hindered.'" TCI Grp. Life Ins. Plan v. Knoebber, 244 F.3d 691, 701 (9th Cir. 2001), as amended on denial of reh'g and reh'g en banc (May 9, 2001). The non-defaulting party's ability to pursue its claim may be hindered if the delay has caused tangible harm such as "loss of evidence, increased difficulties of discovery, or greater opportunity for fraud or collusion." Id.

Here, default was entered on October 20, 2017. Soundside moved to set aside the default on November 21, 2017. There is no indication that this relatively short delay has resulted in any tangible harm to the Trustee.

Second, Soundside may have a meritorious defense. As the Ninth Circuit has explained:

"A defendant seeking to vacate a default judgment must present specific facts that would constitute a defense. But the burden on a party seeking to vacate a default judgment is not extraordinarily heavy." All that is necessary to satisfy the "meritorious defense" requirement is to allege sufficient facts that, if true, would constitute a defense: "the question whether the factual allegation [i]s true" is not to be determined by the court when it decides the motion to set aside the default. Id. Rather, that question "would be the subject of the later litigation."

United States v. Signed Pers. Check No. 730 of Yubran S. Mesle, 615 F.3d 1085, 1094 (9th Cir. 2010) (internal citations omitted).

Here, Soundside has alleged specific facts sufficient to constitute a defense. Soundside has alleged that the payments at issue were made in the ordinary course of business and that Soundside provided new value in exchange for the payments. Because the Court finds that Soundside has established that it may have a meritorious defense, the Court does not reach the evidentiary dispute with respect to the bank statements attached to the Kwong Declaration.

Third, Soundside's initial failure to respond to the Complaint was not culpable. "[A] defendant's conduct [is] culpable for ... where there is no explanation of the default inconsistent with a devious, deliberate, willful, or bad faith failure to respond." Employee Painters' Trust v. Ethan Enterprises, Inc., 480 F.3d 993, 1000 (9th Cir. 2007). Here, Mr. Gibson's testimony shows that he did not cause Soundside to respond to the Complaint because he believed that litigation required greater formality than service by first class mail, thought that the paperwork was an attempt to extort money from Soundside, and was confused because the paperwork was addressed to "Soundside Holdings, Inc.," rather than Defendant's correct name, "Soundside Holdings, LLC." Soundside's failure to respond was not devious or in bad faith.

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion is GRANTED and the default is set aside. The following deadlines will apply to this action:

- 1) Defendant must respond to the Complaint by no later than March 7, 2018.
- 2) The last day to amend pleadings and/or join other parties is April 12, 2018.
- 3) The last day to disclose expert witnesses and expert witness reports is June 26, 2018.

- 8) A Pretrial Conference is set for September 11, 2018 at 11:00 a.m. By no later than fourteen days prior to the Pretrial Conference, the parties must submit a Joint Pretrial Stipulation via the Court's Lodged Order Upload (LOU) system. Submission via LOU allows the Court to edit the Joint Pretrial Stipulation, if necessary. Parties should consult the Court Manual, section 4, for information about LOU.
- 9) Trial is set for the week of September 24, 2018. The trial day commences at 9:00 a.m. The exact date of the trial will be set at the Pretrial Conference. Consult the Court's website for the Judge's requirements regarding exhibit binders and trial briefs.

The matter shall be referred to the Mediation Panel. The parties shall meet and confer and select a Mediator from this District's Mediation Panel. Plaintiff will lodge a completed "Request for Assignment to Mediation Program; [Proposed] Order Thereon" (See Amended General Order 95-01 available on the Court's website) within 15 days from the date of this hearing, and deliver a hard copy directly to chambers c/o the judge's law clerk Daniel Koontz.

The Court will enter a Scheduling Order and an order setting aside the default. The Trustee shall submit the order referring the matter to mediation.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlager or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. If you wish to make a telephonic appearance, contact Court Call at 888-882-6878, no later than one hour before the hearing.

Additional attachment(s) added on 1/9/2018 (Collins, Kim S.). Additional attachment(s) added on 1/9/2018 (Collins, Kim S.).

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

2/21/2018

The involuntary petition is DISMISSED for the reasons set forth below.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Involuntary Petition Against a Non-Individual [Doc. No. 1]
- 2) Summons and Notice of Status Conference in an Involuntary Bankruptcy Case [Doc. No. 3]

The Petitioning Creditor has failed to file a proof of service establishing that the Summons, Notice of Status Conference, and Involuntary Petition were served upon the Alleged Debtor. The Summons issued to the Petitioning Creditor clearly informs the Petitioning Creditor of the obligation to serve the Summons, Notice of Status Conference, and Involuntary Petition upon the Alleged Debtor. The Summons further advises the Petitioning Creditor that failure to properly effectuate service may result in dismissal of the involuntary petition.

Local Bankruptcy Rule 1010-1 provides in relevant part: "The court may dismiss an involuntary petition without further notice and hearing if the petitioner fails to ... (c) serve the summons and petition within the time allowed by FRBP 7004; (d) file a proof of service of the summons and petition with the court; or (e) appear at the status conference set by the court."

Based upon the foregoing, the involuntary petition is DISMISSED. The Court will enter an appropriate order.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Nafiz Kadir and Nighat Sultana (the "Debtors") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on October 12, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. Timothy J. Yoo accepted appointment as the Chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee") for the Debtors' bankruptcy case.

The Debtors' Schedules list, among other assets, a 100% sole proprietorship interest in a retail store business ("KNS Market") which is operated from the leased premises located at 1549 Glendale Boulevard, Los Angeles, CA 90057 (the "Premises"). The Debtors are parties to the written lease agreement for the Premises (the "Lease") with Ana B. Haydar (the "Landlord"). See "Declaration of Timothy J. Yoo" ("Yoo Declaration") [Doc. No. 28] at Exhibit 2. According to the Debtors' Schedules, KNS Market has assets with a total estimated value of $26,300.00 and has liabilities in the total amount of $11,846.00. The Debtors have claimed an exemption of $14,454.00 for KNS Market pursuant to Cal. Code Civ. P. § 703.140(b)(5). See "Amended Schedule C" [Doc. No. 32]. The Landlord has represented to the Trustee and his counsel that the rent amounts that remain unpaid for the Lease, through January 31, 2018, total $6,125.00. Yoo Declaration at ¶ 8. Rent in the additional amount of $1,225.00 will be due for the month of February 2018. Id. Based on this, the Trustee believes that the amount required to be paid to cure defaults under the Lease, through February 28, 2018, is $7,350.00 (the "Cure Amount"). Id.

On February 1, 2018, the Trustee filed the "Chapter 7 Trustee's Motion for Entry of An Order: (a) Approving Sale of Certain Assets of the Debtor's Estate; (b) Approving Overbid Procedures; (c) Approving the Assumption and Assignment of Real Property Lease; and (d) Granting Related Relief" (the "Sale Motion") [Doc. No. 28]. The Trustee has received an offer from Syed M.G. Hossain (the "Buyer") to purchase certain assets associated with KNS Market. Sale Motion at 10. The Trustee seeks to sell the Estate's right, title, and interest in the Lease, certain inventory, machinery, equipment, fixtures, furniture, and other personal property owned by the

The Trustee has received a good faith deposit in the amount of $26,900.00 from the Buyer in accordance with the terms of the APA. The Trustee has also been advised by counsel for the Buyer, Sunil Brahmhatt, that he is currently holding the balance of the Purchase Price ($26,900.00) in a client trust account. Yoo Declaration at ¶ 11.

The key sale terms are as follows:

- 1) Proposed purchaser: Syed M.G. Hossain;
- 2) Property for Sale: (a) the Estate's right, title, and interest in in the Lease, certain inventory, machinery, equipment, fixtures, furniture, and other personal property owned by the Debtors, and certain other assets (collectively, the "Property"); (b) Pre-paid deposits and security deposits totaling $2,300.00 paid by the Debtors to the Landlord under the terms of the Lease; and (c) all permits, licenses, authorizations, registrations, and approvals relating to the Premises and/or KNS Market, including the certain beer and wine license number 543129 (the "Liquor License"). A complete description of the Property for Sale is set forth in Article 1 of the APA, which is attached as "Exhibit 1" to the Yoo Declaration [Doc. No. 28].
- 3) Purchase price: $53,800.00;
- 4) Condition of Property: the Property is purchased in "as is, where is" condition without any representations or warranties of any kind;
- 5) Overbids: The initial overbid shall be $55,000.00. The overbid increment is subject to adjustment by the Court to facilitate bidding. Overbidders interested in submitting an Overbid for the Property must, no later than 4:00 p.m. PST on February 19, 2018 (the "Overbid Deadline"), deliver such Overbid in writing to Counsel for the Trustee (Juliet Y. Oh, Esq., Levene, Neale, Bender, Yoo & Brill LLP, 10250 Constellation Blvd., Suite 1700, Los Angeles, CA 90067). Overbidders must deliver: (a) a deposit in the amount of $27,500.00 in the form of a cashier's check to the Trustee by the Overbid Deadline; (b) deliver proof of committed funds to the Counsel for the Trustee; and (c) information to demonstrate adequate assurance of future performance of the Lease by such bidder.

The Trustee estimates that the proposed sale will result in a sum sufficient to cure all defaults under the Lease and make a distribution to creditors of the Estate other than the Landlord. The Trustee anticipates net sale proceeds in the amount of $17,056.00.

The Trustee requests an Order:

- (1) Finding that the "Notice of the [Sale Motion]" [Doc. No. 29] is adequate;
- (2) Granting the Sale Motion in its entirety;
- (3) Approving the Overbid Procedures;
- (4) Authorizing the Trustee to sell the Property to the Buyer (or to a successful overbidder), pursuant to the terms and conditions set forth in the APA;
- (5) Approving the assumption and assignment of the Lease to the Buyer (or a successful overbidder), and establishing the Cure Amount which must be paid in connection therewith;
- (6) Authorizing the Trustee to execute and deliver, on behalf of the Estate, all documents necessary to consummate the sale of the Property and the assignment of the Lease; and
- (7) Waiving the 14-day stay periods set forth in FRBP 6004(h) and 6006(d).

The Opposition

On February 7, 2018, the Debtors filed the "Debtors' Limited Opposition to the [Sale Motion]" (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 36]¹ [Note 1]. The Opposition states that the Debtors do not oppose the relief sought by the Sale Motion. Rather, the Opposition seeks to "assert and confirm" that the Debtors will receive their full exemption under Cal. Code Civ. P. § 703.140(b)(5) (the "Wildcard Exemption") in the amount of $25,169.00 as scheduled by the Debtors in their Amended Schedule C [Doc. No. 32]. The Opposition explains that the Debtors initially claimed a Wildcard Exemption in the amount of $14,454.00 based on a good faith valuation of the Property. Upon learning that there may be proceeds available from the sale of the Property, the Debtors confirmed that the Trustee was aware of the unused portion of the Debtors' Wildcard Exemption and that the Debtors would assert such unused portion to maximize their Wildcard Exemption. "Declaration of William J. Smyth" ("Smyth Declaration") [Doc. No. 36] at ¶ 6. The Trustee anticipates that the sale of the Property will result in net proceeds available for distribution "Even if the Debtors are permitted to amend their Schedules to increase their claim of exemption for the Property to include the unused portion of their 'wildcard exemption'" Sale Motion at 10 n.1; Yoo Declaration at ¶ 15 n.3.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Section 363(b) of the Bankruptcy Code permits the trustee to sell estate property outside the ordinary course of business, subject to court approval. The trustee must articulate a business justification for the sale. In re Walter, 83 B.R. 14, 19–20 (9th Cir. BAP 1988). Whether the articulated business justification is sufficient "depends on the case," in view of "all salient factors pertaining to the proceeding." Id. at 19–20.

Here, the Trustee articulates a sufficient business justification for the sale. The Trustee believes the proposed sale of the Property is in the best interest of the Estate, and furthermore, that the sale price represents the fair and reasonable value of the Property. See Yoo Declaration at ¶ 15. The sale of the Property will enable the Trustee to pay all administrative expenses and make a distribution to creditors of the Estate. Id. Additionally, the sale is subject to overbids, which allows any party wishing to purchase the Property at a higher price to do so. The purchase offer of $53,800.00 was obtained by the Trustee through arm's length negotiations. Id. at ¶ 19.

The Debtors' Wildcard Exemption

Rule 1009(a) of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure provides:

A voluntary petition, list, schedule, or statement may be amended by the debtor as a matter of course at any time before the case is closed. The debtor shall give notice of the amendment to the trustee and to any entity affected thereby. On motion of a party in interest, after notice and a hearing, the court may order any voluntary petition, list, schedule, or statement to be amended and the clerk shall give notice of the amendment to entities designated by the court.

Here, the Court finds that the Debtors' "Amended Schedule C" [Doc. No. 32] was properly filed and that the Debtors served notice of the amendment on all interested parties. Therefore, the Court finds that the Debtors claim, and are entitled to, the full exemption under Cal. Code Civ. P. § 703.140(b)(5) in the amount of $25,169.00.

Auction Procedures

The Court will distribute numbered auction paddles to the proposed purchaser and all qualified overbidders. The initial overbid will be $55,000.00. Subsequent overbids will be increments of $1,000.00, with the increments subject to adjustment by the Court depending upon the bidding. The Court will announce each bid level. To remain in the auction, bidders must participate at all bid levels. That is, parties who do not bid in a round cannot later change their minds and re-enter the auction. Parties may make a bid higher than that announced by the Court by approaching the podium and stating their bid.

If a bidder other than Syed M.G. Hossain prevails at the auction, the Court will take testimony to determine whether that bidder is entitled to the protections of §363 (m).

III. Conclusion

In conclusion, based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Trustee's Sale Motion in its entirety. The Court will conduct the auction in accordance with the procedures set forth above.

The Trustee shall submit an appropriate order within seven days of the hearing.

If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

2/21/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Motion for Default Judgment is GRANTED in its entirety.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Complaint for: (1) Slander of Title; (2) Disallowance of Claim; (3) Avoidance of Lien; (4) Declaratory Relief; (5) Violation of Cal Civ. Code §2943; (6) Punitive Damages; and Attorneys' Fees and Costs (the "Complaint") [Doc. No. 1]

 - b) Notice of Errata Re: Motion for Default Judgment [Doc. No. 20]
- 3) No opposition from the Defendant

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

On November 17, 2017, Liberty Asset Management Corporation ("Liberty") commenced the instant action against Yonggan Pan. The Complaint alleges that Defendant improperly asserts liens against property belonging to Liberty. The Complaint seeks removal of the liens, voiding of the liens, declaratory relief that no amount is owing on the notes underlying the disputed liens, disallowance of any claims against Liberty asserted by Defendant, statutory damages, punitive damages, and attorneys' fees and costs. The properties against which the liens are asserted have been sold; the disputed liens now attach to the sales proceeds of those properties. On January 11, 2018, the Clerk of the Court entered default against the Defendant. Liberty now seeks entry of default judgment in its favor. No opposition to the Motion

II. Findings and Conclusions

Once default has been entered, the well-pleaded factual allegations of the complaint are taken as true. Cripps v. Life Ins. Co. of North America, 980 F.2d 1261, 1267 (9th Cir.1992). The Complaint's allegations, as well as the supporting declaration of Lawrence R. Perkins submitted in connection with the Motion for Default Judgment, establish that Liberty is entitled to judgment that:

- 1) The Short Form Deed of Trust and Assignment of Rents for the benefit of Defendant, recorded with respect to real property located at 1001 East Road, La Habra Heights, CA 90631 (the "La Habra Property"), is void and of no force and effect.
- 2) The Short Form Deed of Trust and Assignment of Rents for the benefit of Defendant, recorded with respect to real property located at 3808 Hollins Avenue, Claremont, CA 91711 (the "Claremont Property"), is void and of no force and effect.
- 3) The liens asserted by Defendant against the La Habra Property (the "La Habra Lien") and Claremont Property (the "Claremont Lien") are void and of no force and effect.
- 4) The La Habra Lien and Claremont Lien shall not attach to any proceeds resulting from the sale or other disposition of the La Habra Property and/or Claremont Property.
- 5) Defendant shall not be entitled to a claim in Liberty's Chapter 11 bankruptcy on account of the La Habra Lien and/or Claremont Lien.
- 6) Defendant shall not be entitled to any distribution in Liberty's Chapter 11 bankruptcy on account of the La Habra Lien and/or Claremont Lien.
- 7) Liberty shall have the right to record this Default Judgment with the Los Angeles County Recorder or any other appropriate agency as proof and evidence of the foregoing.

#1.00 HearingRE: [9] Notice of motion and motion for relief from the automatic stay with supporting declarations PERSONAL PROPERTY RE: 2014 NISSAN PATHFINDER, VIN 5N1AR2MN3EC707171 . (Wang, Jennifer)

Docket 9

Tentative Ruling:

2/23/2018

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to repossess or otherwise obtain possession and dispose of its collateral pursuant to applicable law, and to use the proceeds from its disposition to satisfy its claim. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501. The Court finds that there is no equity in the subject vehicle and that the vehicle is not necessary for an effective reorganization since this is a chapter 7 case.

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. All other relief is denied.

Movant shall upload an appropriate order via the Court's Lodged Order Upload system within 7 days of the hearing.

#3.00 Hearing
STATUS CONFERENCE RE: [70] Motion for Leave to File Counterclaim to Debtor's Second Amended Complaint in Adversary Proceeding and Combine Claim Therein; Memorandum of Points and Authorities

FR. 5-17-17; 8-15-17; 12-13-17

Docket 70

Tentative Ruling:

3/5/2018

For the reasons set forth below, a continued status conference will be conducted on June 5, 2018, at 10:00 a.m.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Notice of Motion and Motion Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019(a) for an Order Approving Settlement Between Debtor and Maxwell Defendants [Doc. No. 419, Case No. 2:16-bk-13575-ER]
- 2) Order Granting Motion Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019(a) for an Order Approving Settlement Between Debtor and Maxwell Defendants [Doc. No. 433, Case No. 2:16-bk-13575-ER]
- 3) Joint Status Report [Doc. No. 89, Adv. No. 2:16-ap-01277-ER]

On September 14, 2017, the Court approved a settlement agreement (the "Settlement Agreement") resolving this action. See Doc. Nos. 419, 428, and 433, Case No. 2:16-bk-13575-ER. The material terms of the Settlement Agreement are as follows:

- 1) Defendants shall pay Liberty Asset Management Corporation ("Liberty") $1 million (the "Settlement Payment"). Settlement Agreement at ¶1 [Doc. No. 419 at Ex. A, Case No. 2:16-bk-13575]. Upon full payment of the Settlement Amount, Liberty "will promptly file a notice or stipulation of dismissal of the action." Id. at ¶6.

Chapter 11

- 2) Defendants shall execute and deliver to Liberty a Stipulated Judgment against Defendants and in favor of Liberty in the amount of $1.5 million. Liberty shall not record the Stipulated Judgment unless Defendants fail to make the Settlement Payment. Settlement Agreement at ¶2.
- 3) Defendants shall use their best efforts to sell property located at 17634 Bellflower Boulevard, CA (the "Bellflower Property") to a third party within twelve months (the "Sale Period"). Settlement Agreement at ¶3. Defendants shall receive the first $150,000 of the sales proceeds (net of certain costs), with Liberty to receive the balance. If the Bellflower Property is not sold within the Sale Period, Liberty shall have the option, subject to Bankruptcy Court approval, to purchase the Bellflower Property from Defendants for $150,000. Id. at ¶5.

Defendants have made the Settlement Payment. Defendants state that issues remain regarding the sale of the Bellflower Property:

Defendant wants to sell the [Bellflower Property] but has not yet received approval by [Liberty] (although Defendant has the right to sell the property, without such written approval). If the matter cannot be resolved between the parties it will require Defendant to file a Motion with the Court seeking approval of the sale of the dilapidated [Bellflower Property] to an adjoining landowner for its fair market value as provided to [Liberty], in writing, by Defendant. Therefore, the case should not be dismissed and a further status conference [should be] set out for 75 days.

Joint Status Report at ¶G.

Liberty states that because the Settlement Amount has been paid, it has "circulated a stipulation for dismissal ... and will file [the] stipulation once it is signed by Defendant." Id. at ¶G.

The Court will conduct a continued Status Conference on June 5, 2018, at 10:00 a.m. In the Court's view, dismissal of the action at this juncture would be premature, given that the issues regarding the Bellflower Property have not been resolved and given that Defendants have not consented to execution of a stipulation for dismissal. However, on the present record, there is no compelling reason why consummation of the Settlement Agreement's provisions regarding sale of the Bellflower Property should require Court intervention. Those provisions are straightforward and the Court expects the parties to negotiate and resolve any issues regarding the sale in good faith.

Liberty shall submit an order continuing the status conference within seven days

fr: 12-12-17

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

3/6/2018

The Court conducted an initial Status Conference in this matter on December 12, 2017. This matter has been assigned to mediation and litigation deadlines have been set. This continued status conference was set at the parties' request because the exchange of initial disclosures had not been completed.

The parties have requested an additional 60-day continuance of the litigation deadlines set by the Court, based upon the fact that "Defendant's Counsel is still in the process of obtaining all relevant Initial Disclosures for review by Plaintiff and his Counsel and Forensic Accountant which will require additional time." Status Report at ¶G.

The Court will continue the litigation deadlines by 60-days as requested by the parties, but will not grant any further continuances absent exceptionally compelling circumstances. The deadlines previously set are amended as follows:

- 1) The last day to amend pleadings and/or join other parties is 6/14/2018.
- 2) The last day to disclose expert witnesses and expert witness reports is 8/28/2018.
- 3) The last day to disclose rebuttal expert witnesses and rebuttal expert witness

If the expert discovery cutoff date falls on a date when the court is closed or that is not available for self-scheduling, the deadline for hearings on expert discovery motions is the next closest date which is available for self-scheduling.)
- 5) The last day for dispositive motions to be heard is 10/23/2018. (If the motion cutoff date is not available for self-scheduling, the deadline for dispositive motions to be heard is the next closest date which is available for self-scheduling.)
- 6) The last day to complete discovery (except as to experts), including hearings on discovery motions, is 10/27/2018. (If the non-expert discovery cutoff date is not available for self-scheduling, the deadline for non-expert discovery motions to be heard is the next closest date which is available for self-scheduling.)
- 7) A Pretrial Conference is set for 11/13/2018 at 11:00 a.m. By no later than fourteen days prior to the Pretrial Conference, the parties must submit a Joint Pretrial Stipulation via the Court's Lodged Order Upload (LOU) system. Submission via LOU allows the Court to edit the Joint Pretrial Stipulation, if necessary. Parties should consult the Court Manual, section 4, for information about LOU.

A continued status conference will be held on May 8, 2018, at 10:00 a.m. A Joint Status Report must be submitted by no later than fourteen days prior to the hearing. The Court will enter a Scheduling Order.

FR. 12-12-17

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

3/6/2018

The Court conducted an initial Status Conference in this matter on December 12, 2017. The parties represented that the action had settled; this continued Status Conference was set to monitor the consummation of the Settlement Agreement.

Plaintiff states that the filing of a Bankruptcy Rule 9019 Motion has been delayed as a result of a family emergency and requests a 45-day continuance of the Status Conference and litigation deadlines.

The Court will conduct a continued Status Conference on May 8, 2018, at 10:00 a.m. A Joint Status Report must be submitted by no later than fourteen days prior to the hearing. If the Rule 9019 Motion has been resolved by that date, the continued Status Conference will go off calendar. The litigation deadlines previously ordered by the Court, see Scheduling Order [Doc. No. 3], shall remain in effect.

The Court will enter an appropriate order.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear,

 VACATED  REASON: JUDGMENT ENTERED 2-5-18

Tentative Ruling:

12/11/2017

Appearances required. Defendant has timely demanded a jury trial in this preference action, and has not filed a proof of claim against the estate. Therefore, Defendant is entitled to a jury trial. See Langenkamp v. Culp, 498 U.S. 42, 45 (1990) ("If a party does not submit a claim against the bankruptcy estate, however, the trustee can recover allegedly preferential transfers only by filing what amounts to a legal action to recover a monetary transfer. In those circumstances the preference defendant is entitled to a jury trial.").

Neither Plaintiff or Defendant has filed a Statement of Consent, pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 9015-2(b), specifying whether each party consents to having the jury trial conducted by the Bankruptcy Court. The parties must appear to advise the Court whether they consent to having the Bankruptcy Court preside over the jury trial or whether they wish the jury trial to take place before the District Court.

The dates previously ordered by the Court are confirmed as follows (except that the Pretrial Conference is rescheduled from June 12, 2018 to June 5, 2018):

- 1) The last day to amend pleadings and/or join other parties is 1/12/2018.
- 2) The last day to disclose expert witnesses and expert witness reports is 3/27/2018.

- 4) The last date to complete discovery relating to expert witnesses (e.g., depositions of expert witnesses), including hearings on motions related to expert discovery, is 5/15/2018. (For contemplated hearings on motions related to expert discovery, it is counsel's responsibility to check the Judge's self-calendaring dates, posted on the Court's website. If the expert discovery cutoff date falls on a date when the court is closed or that is not available for self-calendaring, the deadline for hearings on expert discovery motions is the next closest date which is available for self-calendaring.)
- 5) The last day for dispositive motions to be heard is 5/22/2018. (If the motion cutoff date is not available for self-calendaring, the deadline for dispositive motions to be heard is the next closest date which is available for self-calendaring.)
- 6) The last day to complete discovery (except as to experts), including hearings on discovery motions, is 5/31/2018. (If the non-expert discovery cutoff date is not available for self-calendaring, the deadline for non-expert discovery motions to be heard is the next closest date which is available for self-calendaring.)
- 7) A Pretrial Conference is set for 6/05/2018 at 11:00 a.m. By no later than fourteen days prior to the Pretrial Conference, the parties must submit a Joint Pretrial Stipulation via the Court's Lodged Order Upload (LOU) system. Submission via LOU allows the Court to edit the Joint Pretrial Stipulation, if necessary. Parties should consult the Court Manual, section 4, for information about LOU.

This matter shall be referred to the Mediation Panel. Plaintiff shall lodge a completed "Request for Assignment to Mediation Program; [Proposed] Order Thereon" (See Amended General Order 95-01 available on the Court's website) within 15 days from the date of this hearing, and deliver a hard copy directly to chambers c/o the judge's law clerk Daniel Koontz.

Complaint For: (1) Avoidance And Recovery Of Preferential Transfers [11 U.S.C. §§ 547 (b), 550(a), and 551]; and (2) Disallowance Of Any Claims Held By Defendant [11 U.S.C. § 502(d)] Nature of Suit: (12 (Recovery of money/property - 547 preference)),(14 (Recovery of money/property - other)) (Kwong, Jeffrey)

FR. 12-12-17

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

3/6/2018

The parties have requested that the Court set a continued status conference so that the parties may (1) update the Court on the status of the mediation and (2) request a continuance of litigation deadlines, if necessary. Accordingly, a continued Status Conference shall be held on May 8, 2018, at 10:00 a.m. A Joint Status Report must be submitted by no later than fourteen days prior to the hearing. The litigation deadlines set by the Court on December 11, 2017, see Doc. No. 17, shall remain in effect.

The Court will enter an appropriate order.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. If you wish to make a telephonic appearance, contact Court Call at 888-882-6878, no later than one hour before the hearing.

Tentative Ruling:

3/6/2018

Appearances required. The Joint Status Report was submitted on behalf of Defendant, Inbox Media LLC, by Tam Nguyen. There is no indication upon the Status Report whether Tam Nguyen is an attorney admitted to practice law. As a corporation, Inbox Media LLC can appear only through counsel.

Default was entered against the Defendant on October 19, 2017. Doc. No. 11. Defendant asserts that the entry of default was improper due to a lack of proper process. Both parties state that they are in settlement discussions and have exchanged several offers and counteroffers.

Entry of a defendant's default cuts off the defendant's right to appear in the action or present evidence. Horton v. Sierra Conservation Ctr., No. 1:09-CV-01441-AWI-SMS, 2010 WL 743849, at *1 (E.D. set aside the default under Rule 55(c).

In the event this action cannot be settled, Defendant must obtain a stipulation from Plaintiff to set aside the default or file a motion to set aside the default. However, the Court anticipates that a settlement can be reached, particularly in view of the small amount of money at stake in this action, and encourages the parties to work diligently toward that end.

Plaintiff's deadline to file a Bankruptcy Rule 9019 Motion is April 11, 2018. In the event that a settlement cannot be reached by that date, the deadline for Plaintiff to file a Motion for Default Judgment is also April 11, 2018. I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Bank of America, N.A. ("Bank of America") seeks to conduct Rule 2004 examinations of (1) the person most knowledgeable of the Debtor, Rosales Meat Distributors, Inc. and (2) the person most knowledgeable of the Liquidating Trustee for the estate of Rosales Meat Distributors, Inc.

Bank of America holds a deed of trust against property located at 321–323 East Belmont Street, Ontario, CA 91761 (the "Property"). Bank of America's deed of trust is currently in junior position to a deed of trust recorded against the Property to secure an outstanding obligation of $41,983.92 that was owed to the Debtor by Raul S. Lara (the "Lara DOT"). The Debtor is the beneficiary of the Lara DOT.

The Debtor's assets are currently being administered by a Liquidating Trustee pursuant to the Debtor's confirmed Plan of Liquidation. On March 30, 2017, the Liquidating Trustee advised creditors that he had no record of any obligation secured by the Lara DOT and lacked any information confirming whether the $41,983.92 secured by the Lara DOT was ever paid. See Liquidating Trustee's Notice of Resolution of Deed of Trust [Doc. No. 372]. The Liquidating Trustee further advised creditors that in view of the absence of any information confirming payment, the Liquidating Trustee would not agree to a release of the Lara DOT except upon payment of the $41,983.92 amount at issue. Id.

Bank of America subsequently furnished the Liquidating Trustee with documentation purporting to show that the indebtedness secured by the Lara DOT had been satisfied. The Liquidating Trustee did not deem the documentation sufficient to show satisfaction of the debt and declined to reconvey the Lara DOT. Bank of America seeks to examine the Liquidating Trustee and the Debtor to obtain additional information establishing that the indebtedness secured by the Lara DOT has been satisfied.

Chapter 11

On February 8, 2018, the Court set this hearing on Bank of America's Rule 2004 Motions, and directed the Liquidating Trustee to submit a declaration explaining what information it would deem satisfactory to conclude that the indebtedness secured by the Lara DOT had been satisfied. See Order Setting Hearings on Bank of America's Motions Seeking Rule 2004 Examinations of the Debtor and the Liquidating Trustee [Doc. No. 392]. The Court stated that the "declaration should address the feasibility of obtaining such information, in view of the fact that the escrow company that handled the previous sale of the Property is no longer in business and the transaction took place more than ten years ago." Id.

The declaration submitted by the Liquidating Trustee provides in relevant part:

I have requested that the Bank provide me with proof of payment of the lien, as I do not have any documentation from the Debtor's records showing payment of the lien. The Debtor's former principal says that he recalls the underlying debt on the lien being paid some years ago, and that it was by check, which check would have been deposited in the Debtor's bank account. The Bank served a subpoena on the Debtor's bank, and the Debtor's bank has no record of the payment. The Bank was able to obtain a document called a "Closing Ledger" from Gateway Title Company. That ledger discusses amounts to be paid to "Rosales Meat Dust, Inc." I am inferring that the Rosales Meat Dust, Inc. reference is the misspelling of Rosales Meat Dist., Inc., but, as with everything else regarding the Deed of Trust, I am only inferring.

The issue I am running into is that I have no record of the payment actually being received by the Debtor on the Deed of Trust. The Debtor's books and records are with a postconfirmation purchaser of its assets. By all accounts, those books and records do not include any reference to payment on the Deed of Trust. The lack of any documentation is likely linked to how long ago the transaction would have taken place. The Debtor's bank has no record of the payment being deposited. All I have at my disposal to release a $43,000 Deed of Trust is an escrow statement of an out-of-business escrow company that misspells the Debtor's name and the principal of the Debtor's recollection of receipt of payment from eleven (11) years ago. In my estimation, I do not have sufficient proof that this amount was paid to allow me to voluntarily release the lien on behalf of the Debtor's estate. If I had a cancelled check or bank statement showing a deposit of the amount listed in the escrow, or a ledger from the Debtor showing receipt of the check, I believe I would feel comfortable filing a motion to obtain an order to release the Deed of Trust. I do not have anything close to that at the moment.

One of the problems with the Motion is that I also do not have any documentation to provide the Bank. I do not believe the Debtor, or the purchaser of the Debtor's assets has any documentation that they could provide the Bank regarding the Deed of Trust that the Bank does not already have.

Other than obtaining an order from the Court, I am unsure of how this lien can be resolved. Again, I do not want to release a lien without the Court's order based on the lack of documentation at my disposal.

One resolution would be a deposit of the Deed of Trust amount in the Court's registry pending this Court's order on a motion from the Bank requesting the same, on notice to all creditors.

Klaus Decl. at ¶¶4–8.

Bank of America filed a Reply to the Liquidating Trustee's declaration, in which it makes the following arguments:

Bank of America has been advised by Rosendo Gonzalez, counsel to the Debtors, that the Debtor used Bank of the West while it was operating. However, the Debtor's principals could not provide an account number or other information. Bank of the West was unable to locate any documents in response to a subpoena issued upon it by Bank of America. Bank of America should be able to ask the Debtor which banks it used, which branch, and so forth. The Trustee's statements that he does not believe that the Debtor has documentation regarding the Deed of Trust are pure speculation.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Bankruptcy Rule 2004(a) authorizes the Court to "order the examination of any entity." The scope of a Rule 2004 examination is as follows:

The examination of an entity under this rule ... may relate only to the acts, conduct, or property or to the liabilities and financial condition of the debtor, or to any matter which may affect the administration of the debtor's estate, or to the debtor's right to a discharge.

Bankruptcy Rule 2004(b).

"It is well established that the scope of a Rule 2004 examination is exceptionally broad and provides few of the procedural safeguards found in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26.... Examinations under Rule 2004 are allowed for the 'purpose of discovering assets and unearthing frauds' and have been compared to a 'fishing expedition." Dynamic Finance Corp. v. Chapter 11 Trustee Richard Kipperman (In re N. Plaza, LLC), 395 B.R. 113, 122 (S.D. Cal. 2008).

Here, the examination sought by Bank of America of the Debtor's principal seeks to elicit information relevant to the administration of the estate—namely, whether the indebtedness secured by the Lara DOT, an asset held by the Liquidating Trustee, has been paid. The contemplated examination of the Debtor's principal clearly falls within the scope of Rule 2004. It is hereby GRANTED.

Considering the extensive declaration filed herein, the Court finds that the examination of the Liquidating Trustee should be denied and sought again by motion only if the Debtor's principal cannot provide meaningful testimony and/or documents with regard to the payoff and if it clear that the Liquidating Trustee is likely to have documents sought by Movant. Therefore, this examination is DENIED WITHOUT PREJUDICE.

Lastly, the court is not entirely convinced that discovery from the Bank of the West has been diligently pursued. The Bank of the West subpoena should be reissued, this time with the Debtor's principal named as an account holder.

Bank of America shall submit an order incorporating this tentative ruling by reference within seven days of the hearing.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Nextar, Inc. (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on October 11, 2011 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. Edward M. Wolkowitz accepted appointment as the Chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee") for the Debtor's bankruptcy case. The Trustee has administered the Debtor's Estate, and is now in the process of winding down administration of this case.

On January 18, 2018, the Trustee filed the "Notice of Motion and Motion of Chapter 7 Trustee for Order Authorizing Sale of Certain Assets of the Debtor's Estate Free and Clear of Liens, Claims, Interests, and Encumbrances" (the "Sale Motion") [Doc. No. 63]. The Trustee has determined that there may exist property of the Estate, consisting of known or unknown claims, property rights, or assets, which have not been previously sold, assigned, or transferred (collectively, the "Remnant Assets"). The trustee has determined that the cost of pursuing the Remnant Assets will likely exceed the benefit that the Estate would possibly receive on account of the Remnant Assets. Therefore, the Trustee seeks an order: (a) authorizing the sale of the Remnant Assets to Oak Point Partners, Inc. ("Oak Point") free and clear of all liens, claims, interests, and encumbrances; and (b) approving the terms of the negotiated agreement between the Trustee and Oak Point for the sale of the Remnant Assets (the "Purchase Agreement"). The Trustee additionally requests that the 14-day stay under FRBP 6004 (h) be waived. The key sale terms are as follows:

- 1) Proposed purchaser: Oak Point;
- 2) Property for Sale: The Remnant Assets (the Remnant Assets do not include: (i) cash held by the Trustee for distribution to creditors and professionals; and (ii) the Purchase Price for the Remnant Assets);
- 3) Purchase price: $5,000.00;
- 4) Overbids: The initial overbid shall be $9,000.00; subsequent overbids shall be in the amount of $1,000.00. The overbid increment is subject to adjustment by the Court to facilitate bidding. Overbidders must deliver a deposit to the Trustee in the amount of such interested bidder's initial overbid.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Section 363(b) of the Bankruptcy Code permits the trustee to sell estate property outside the ordinary course of business, subject to court approval. The trustee must articulate a business justification for the sale. In re Walter, 83 B.R. 14, 19–20 (9th Cir. BAP 1988). Whether the articulated business justification is sufficient "depends on the case," in view of "all salient factors pertaining to the proceeding." Id. at 19–20.

However, the court does have a couple of questions: What is the Court approving the sale of? Since at least some of the elements of the Remnant Assets are known to

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Motion to Avoid Judicial Lien of Powell Industries (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 53]
- 2) No Opposition has been filed as of the date of this tentative ruling

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Jeannette Broberg (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on April 26, 2010 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On March 21, 2011, the Court entered the Order of Discharge [Doc. No. 27], and on April 8, 2011, the Debtor's case was ordered closed pursuant to the "Order Closing Case" [Doc. No. 29].

On December 25, 2017, the Debtor filed the "Motion to Reopen Case" (the "Motion to Reopen") [Doc. No. 30]. On January 12, 2018, the Court entered the "Order Granting Motion to Reopen to File Lien Avoidance Motions" [Doc. No. 36]. On December 25, 2017, the Debtor filed, among other Lien Avoidance Motions, the First Motion to Avoid Judicial Lien of Powell Industries [Doc. No. 31]. On January 31, 2018, the Court entered the Order Denying the First Motion Avoid Judicial Lien of Powell Industries without Prejudice [Doc. II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

The Renewed Motion is DENIED without prejudice. The Court finds that the Debtor failed to serve the Renewed Motion upon the Powell Industries (the “Lienholder”) in a manner authorized under FRBP 7004(b). Additionally, the Debtor did not comply with the Court’s instructions in the Order Denying the First Motion Avoid Judicial Lien of Powell Industries without Prejudice [Doc. No. 42] for the Debtor to file the Renewed Motion pursuant to LBR 9013-1(o). The Debtor shall file and serve a second renewed motion consistent with the Court’s instructions set forth below. Failure to file and serve the second renewed motion consistent with the Court’s instructions will result in the Court denying the second renewed motion with prejudice.

- (1) The Debtor shall file the second renewed motion on negative notice pursuant to LBR 9013-1(o) (“Motions and Matters Determined After Notice of Opportunity to Request Hearing”). An electronic copy of the Local Bankruptcy Rules is available on the Court’s website:
<http://www.cacb.uscourts.gov/local-rules>
- (2) Pursuant to FRBP 7004(b)(3), the Debtor shall serve the second renewed motion upon the Lienholder by mailing via first class mail a copy of the notice and second renewed motion to the Lienholder’s Agent for Service of Process:

#2.00 HearingRE: [52] Motion to Avoid Lien JUDICIAL LIEN with LA FINANCIAL FCU

Docket 52

Tentative Ruling:

3/7/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Motion is GRANTED as set forth below.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Motion to Avoid Judicial Lien of LA Financial Federal Credit Union (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 52]
- 2) No Opposition has been filed as of the date of this tentative ruling

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Jeannette Broberg (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on April 26, 2010 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On March 21, 2011, the Court entered the Order of Discharge [Doc. No. 27], and on April 8, 2011, the Debtor's case was ordered closed pursuant to the "Order Closing Case" [Doc. No. 29].

On December 25, 2017, the Debtor filed the "Motion to Reopen Case" (the "Motion to Reopen") [Doc. No. 30]. On January 12, 2018, the Court entered the "Order Granting Motion to Reopen to File Lien Avoidance Motions" [Doc. No. 36]. On December 25, 2017, the Debtor filed, among other Lien Avoidance Motions, the First Motion to Avoid Judicial Lien of LA Financial Federal Credit Union ("LA Financial") [Doc. No. 34]. On January 31, 2018, the Court entered the Order Denying the First Motion Avoid Judicial Lien of LA Financial without Prejudice [Doc. No. 45], and ordered the Debtor to file a renewed motion pursuant to LBR 9013-1(o), served in a manner authorized under FRBP 7004(b).

Consistent with the Court's Order Denying the First Motion to Avoid the Judicial Lien of LA Financial [Doc. No. 45], on February 13, 2018, the Debtor filed the Renewed Motion to Avoid Judicial Lien of LA Financial (the "Renewed Motion") [Doc. No. 52]. The Debtor is the owner of certain real property located at 7651 Kyle Street, Tujunga, CA 91042 (the "Property"). Renewed Motion at 2; "Declaration of Jeannette Broberg" ("Broberg Declaration") [Doc. No. 50] at ¶ 3. The Debtor claimed an exemption in the Property as her principal residence under Cal. Code Civ. P. § 703.140(b)(1). Petition, Schedule C. According to the Debtor's Schedule A, the Property has a fair market value of $250,000.00. The Property is encumbered by a First Deed of Trust held by Wells Fargo Bank N.A. in the amount of $352,818.00. The Renewed Motion seeks to avoid the judicial lien of LA Financial in the amount of $37,422.07, recorded on March 4, 2010. See Renewed Motion, Exhibit D. The Renewed Motion contends that the above-described judicial lien of LA Financial impairs exemptions to which the Debtor would be entitled under 11 U.S.C. § 522(b).

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Pursuant to § 522(f), a debtor may avoid the fixing of a lien on an interest of the debtor in property to the extent that such lien impairs an exemption if such lien is a judicial lien, other than a judicial lien that secures a debt of a kind that is specified in § 523(a)(5). 11 U.S.C. § 522(f). "For the purposes of this subsection, a lien shall be considered to impair an exemption to the extent that the sum of: (i) the lien; (ii) all other liens on the property; and (iii) the amount of the exemption that the debtor could claim if there were no liens on the property, exceeds the value that the debtor's interest in the property would have in the absence of any liens." Id. A debtor's interest in the property is determined by the "fair market value as of the date of the filing of the petition." 11 U.S.C. §§ 522(a), (f). To prevail on a motion to avoid a judicial lien, the debtor must show that: (1) he has an interest in the homestead property; (2) he is entitled to a homestead exemption; (3) the asserted lien impairs that exemption; and (4) the lien is a judicial lien. In re Meeks, 349 B.R. 19, 21 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 2006). "As the moving party, the debtor carries the burden of proof on all factors." Id.; see also In re Pederson, 230 B.R. 158, 160 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1999); In re Catli, 999 F.2d 1405, 1406 (9th Cir. 1993).

Based on the pleadings and supporting declarations filed and reviewed, the Court finds that the Debtor has satisfied the requirements of § 522(f) and GRANTS the Renewed Motion.

The calculation of impairment is as follows: $250,000 (FMV) - $1.00 (the Debtor's Exemption) - $352,818.00 (Wells Fargo First Mortgage) = ($102,819.00).

Thus, the Court finds that the Judicial Lien of LA Financial impairs the Debtor's Exemption. Based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Debtor's Motion. The Judicial Lien of LA Financial is avoided pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 522(f) in its entirety.

Docket 51

Tentative Ruling:

3/7/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Motion is DENIED without prejudice.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Motion to Avoid Judicial Lien of Financial Pacific Leasing LLC (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 51]
- 2) No Opposition has been filed as of the date of this tentative ruling

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Jeannette Broberg (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on April 26, 2010 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On March 21, 2011, the Court entered the Order of Discharge [Doc. II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

The Renewed Motion is DENIED without prejudice. The Court finds that the Debtor failed to serve the Renewed Motion upon the Financial Pacific Leasing LLC (the "Lienholder") in a manner authorized under FRBP 7004(b). Additionally, the Debtor did not comply with the Court's instructions in the Order Denying the First Motion Avoid Judicial Lien of Financial Pacific Leasing LLC without Prejudice [Doc. No. 44] for the Debtor to file the Renewed Motion pursuant to LBR 9013-1(o). The Debtor shall file and serve a second renewed motion consistent with the Court's instructions set forth below. Failure to file and serve the second renewed motion consistent with the Court's instructions will result in the Court denying the second renewed motion with prejudice.

- (1) The Debtor shall file the second renewed motion on negative notice pursuant to LBR 9013-1(o) ("Motions and Matters Determined After Notice of Opportunity to Request Hearing"). An electronic copy of the Local Bankruptcy Rules is available on the Court's website:
<http://www.cacb.uscourts.gov/local-rules>
- (2) Pursuant to FRBP 7004(b)(3), the Debtor shall serve the second renewed motion upon the Lienholder by mailing via first class mail a copy of the notice and second renewed motion to the Lienholder's Agent for Service of Process:

Financial Pacific Leasing, Inc.
ATTN: CT Corporation System

The Property is encumbered by a First Deed of Trust held by Wells Fargo Bank N.A. in the amount of $352,818.00. The Renewed Motion seeks to avoid the judicial lien of Emahn Counts in the amount of $1,340.00, recorded on March 2, 2011. See Renewed Motion, Exhibit D. The Renewed Motion contends that the above-described judicial lien of Emahn Counts impairs exemptions to which the Debtor would be entitled under 11 U.S.C. § 522(b).

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Pursuant to § 522(f), a debtor may avoid the fixing of a lien on an interest of the debtor in property to the extent that such lien impairs an exemption if such lien is a judicial lien, other than a judicial lien that secures a debt of a kind that is specified in § 523(a)(5). 11 U.S.C. § 522(f). Based on the pleadings and supporting declarations filed and reviewed, the Court finds that the Debtor has satisfied the requirements of § 522(f) and GRANTS the Renewed Motion.

The calculation of impairment is as follows: $250,000 (FMV) - $1.00 (the Debtor's Exemption) - $352,818.00 (Wells Fargo First Mortgage) = ($102,819.00). Thus, the Court finds that the Judicial Lien of Emahn Counts impairs the Debtor's

Beach Dans, Inc. (the "Debtor") commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on October 18, 2017. The Debtor's principal asset was a Denny's-franchised restaurant located at 601 Long Beach Blvd., Long Beach, CA 90802 (the "Restaurant"). On December 8, 2017, the Court approved the sale of the Restaurant for $1,010,000. See Doc. No. 57. The sale closed on December 28, 2017.

The Debtor's counsel, Goe & Forsythe, LLP ("G&F"), currently holds $997,454 in sales proceeds in its client trust account. National Franchise Sales ("NFS"), Denfood # 2, Inc. ("Denfood"), Meadowbrook Meat Company ("Meadowbrook"), and the Employment Development Department ("EDD") assert a security interest in the sales proceeds. Debtor moves to surcharge the liens asserted by the secured creditors, pursuant to §506(c), in the amount of $138,585.68, for the purpose of paying its counsel, G&F. Debtor asserts that the efforts of G&F have benefitted secured creditors because the auction of the Restaurant orchestrated by G&F increased the ultimate sale price by $310,000.

The Debtor initially indicated that United Community Bank ("UCB") asserted a security interest in the sales proceeds. Subsequent to the filing of the Motion, the Debtor and UCB entered into a stipulation, under which UCB disclaims any security interest in the sales proceeds and states that it does not oppose the Motion.

The Debtor has entered into a stipulation with NFS and Denfood. That stipulation provides that to the extent that the security interests of NFS and Denfood are enforceable, the collateral securing such interests has a value of $100,000. Based upon G&F's agreement to maintain $100,000 in its client trust account on account of the security interests asserted by NFS and Denfood, NFS and Denfood do not oppose the Motion.

No other entities asserting a security interest in the sales proceeds have filed an opposition to the Motion.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Section 506(c) provides:

The trustee may recover from property securing an allowed secured claim the reasonable, necessary costs and expenses of preserving, or disposing of, such property to the extent of any benefit to the holder of such claim, including the payment of all ad valorem property taxes with respect to the property.

As explained by the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel, the purpose of §506(c) is as follows:

"Section 506(c) was intended by Congress as a codification of ... the equitable principle that a lienholder may be charged with the reasonable costs and expenses incurred by the ... trustee which are required to preserve or dispose of the property subject to lien to the extent the lien-holder derives a benefit therefrom." 3 Collier's on Bankruptcy, ¶ 506.06. "The underlying rationale for charging a lienholder with the costs and expenses of preserving or disposing of the secured collateral is that the general estate and unsecured creditors should not be required to bear the cost of protecting what is not theirs." In re Codesco, Inc., 6 C.B.C.2d 395, 18 B.R. 225 ([Bankr.]S.D.N.Y.1982).

Security Leasing Partners, LP v. ProAlert, LLC (In re Proalert, LLC), 314 B.R. 436, 442 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2004) (internal citations omitted).

To recover under §506(c), the Debtor must "demonstrate that the expenses it seeks to surcharge against the [secured creditors] were reasonable, necessary, and beneficial to the [secured creditors'] recovery, or that the [secured creditors] caused or consented to those expenses." Compton Impressions, Ltd. v. Queen City Bank, N.A. (In re Compton Impressions, Ltd.), 217 F.3d 1256, 1260 (9th Cir. 2000). The necessity and reasonableness of expenses incurred by the Debtor are measured "against the benefits obtained for the secured creditor and the amount that the secured creditor would have necessarily incurred through foreclosure and disposal of the property," the threshold inquiry being "whether the services for which a surcharge is sought were necessary to the secured creditor." Id.

To satisfy the benefit prong of the test, the Debtor "must establish in quantifiable terms that it expended funds directly to protect and preserve the collateral." Id. "Section 506(c) is not intended as a substitute for the recovery of administrative expenses normally the responsibility of the debtor's estate," and "[a]dministrative expenses or the general costs of reorganization may not generally be charged against secured collateral." Cascade Hydraulics & Util. Serv., Inc. v. Central Bank of Montana (In re Cascade Hydraulics & Util. Serv., Inc.), 815 F.2d 546, 548 (9th Cir. 1987); see also United Jersey Bank v. Miller (In re C.S. Assocs.), 29 F.3d 903, 906 (3d Cir. 1994) ("Section 506(c) was not intended to encompass ordinary administrative expenses that are attributable to the general operation and dissolution of an estate in bankruptcy. Rather, it was designed to extract from a particular asset the cost of preserving or disposing of that asset.").

Here, the costs the Debtor seeks to surcharge are garden variety costs of reorganization routinely accrued in Chapter 11 cases. The Debtor incurred attorneys' fees in connection with the sale of the Restaurant on a shortened time frame. Rapid sale of assets is common practice in Chapter 11. Surcharge might be justified had the Debtor spent money outside the ordinary course of administering the estate that directly benefitted the secured creditors' collateral—such as by repairing the Restaurant's roof to protect it from water damage or buying food so that the Restaurant could continue operating and be sold as a going concern. None of the costs sought by the Debtor are of such a nature.

The Debtor asserts that "the Disputed Creditors were well aware of Debtor's and G&F's actions in monetizing the estate's assets and did not oppose and were obviously aware that substantial attorneys' fees were being incurred to bring approximately one million dollars into the estate, thus giving rise to ‘consent’ to the fees and expenses." Motion at 10. However, "mere cooperation with the debtor does not make the secured creditor liable for all expenses of administration," because such liability shifting would make it "difficult, if not impossible, to induce new lenders to finance a chapter 11 operation" and "would discourage ... the debtor in possession from taking reasonable steps to expedite the reorganization and encourage negligence." Cascade Hydraulics, 815 F.2d at 548-49.

Finally, the Debtor’s contention that it was primarily responsible for boosting the sale price of the Restaurant by more than $310,000 is belied by the record. As the audio recording of the sale motion hearing will confirm, the winning bidder at the December 5 auction stated that he learned the Restaurant was for sale because he operated Denny’s restaurants in the surrounding area, and was informed by his customers that the Restaurant was struggling. Thus, nothing the Debtor did facilitated the higher bid.

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion is DENIED. The Court will enter an appropriate order.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

This litigation involved the Chapter 7 Trustee's ("Trustee") attempt to recover, on behalf of the estates of Harry and Theodosios Roussos (the "Roussos Brothers"), a (1) 20-unit apartment building located at 2727-2741 Abbot Kinney Boulevard, Venice, CA (the "Abbot Kinney Property") and (2) a 30-unit building located at 153 San Vicente Boulevard, Santa Monica, CA (the "San Vicente Property") (collectively, the "Properties").

The Roussos Brothers commenced voluntary Chapter 11 petitions on June 14, 1993. The cases were jointly administered. On August 5, 1994, the Bankruptcy Court entered an order (the "1994 Sale Order") approving the sale of the Abbot Kinney Property to O.F. Enterprises, LP ("OF"), and approving the sale of the San Vicente Property to S.M.B. Investors Associates, LP ("SMB"). On October 19, 1994, the Roussos Brothers executed a grant deed conveying title to the Abbott Kinney Property to OF. On November 29, 1994, the Roussos Brothers executed a grant deed conveying title to the San Vicente Property to SMB. The Roussos Brothers' Chapter 11 cases were converted to Chapter 7 on May 2, 1995. [Note 1] Both Harry and Theodosios received discharges on January 2, 1996. [Note 2] The cases were closed on June 27, 2002.

On July 23, 2015, the cases were reopened upon the motion of the United States Trustee. On August 4, 2015, the Trustee filed two complaints, both of which seek to recover the Properties. The complaints are identical; one was filed in Harry's Chapter 7 case (Adv. No. 2:15-ap-01406-ER), the other in Theodosios' Chapter 7 case (Adv. No. 2:15-ap-01404-ER). Throughout the prosecution of this litigation, the motions filed and the orders entered in each adversary proceeding have been identical. [Note 3]

The complaints were filed against Harry Roussos, Christine Roussos (Harry's spouse), Theodosios Roussos, Paula Roussos (Theodosios' spouse, who passed away in December 2016), OF, Liro, Inc. (the general partner of OF), SMB, SMB Management, Inc. (the general partner of SMB), Chase Bank, N.A., and CIT Bank, N.A. (formerly known as OneWest Bank, N.A.). The complaints alleged that the Roussos Brothers procured the 1994 Sale Order by committing fraud on the court, and sought to invalidate the 1994 Sale Order so that title to the Properties would be revested in the Roussos Brothers' bankruptcy estates. Specifically, the complaints alleged that to obtain the Sale Order, the Roussos Brothers submitted to the Bankruptcy Court declarations falsely stating that the sale was at arm's length and that they had no interest in the purchaser entities OF and SMB, when in fact the Roussos Brothers secretly controlled OF and SMB.

On October 9, 2015, the Court imposed a temporary ninety-day stay of an arbitration action captioned Harry Roussos and Christine Roussos v. Theodosios Roussos and Paula Roussos (the "Arbitration"). See Bankruptcy Doc. No. 424. The Arbitration, which was being conducted by Judge Shook (the "Arbitrator"), involved a dispute over the management and ownership of the Properties. The Court stayed the Arbitration to the extent that it affected, directly or indirectly, title to or ownership of the Properties. On December 21, 2015, the Court entered a preliminary injunction (the Theodosios appealed the Preliminary Injunction Order; on June 27, 2016, the District Court affirmed the issuance of the preliminary injunction. See Adv. Doc. No. 318. Theodosios appealed the District Court's affirmance of the preliminary injunction to the Ninth Circuit. On January 4, 2017, after this Court had approved an agreement settling the litigation, the Ninth Circuit dismissed Theodosios' appeal of the Preliminary Injunction Order as moot. See Adv. Doc. No. 436.

Appointment of Sarah Daly as Managing Director

On May 25, 2016, the Court entered an order permitting Judge Shook, who was conducting the Arbitration stayed by the Preliminary Injunction Order, to appoint a director to manage the affairs of OF, Liro, SMB, and SMB Management (collectively, the "Four Entities"). See Order Confirming that the Automatic Stay and the Court's Previous Order Enjoining the Arbitration Do Not Apply to Bar the Arbitrator from Appointing a Managing Director of S.M.B. Investors Associates, L.P.; S.M.B. Management, Inc.; O.F. Enterprises, Ltd.; and Liro, Inc. (the "Management Order") [Bankruptcy Doc. No. 551]. The Management Order provides in relevant part:

The Court confirms that neither the Arbitration Injunction nor the automatic stay arising in the jointly-administered Chapter 7 bankruptcy cases of Harry and Theodosios Roussos bar the Arbitrator, Judge John H. Shook, Ret., from taking the following actions:

- 1) Appointing a managing director who will manage the affairs of S.M.B. Investors Associates, L.P.; S.M.B. Management, Inc.; O.F. Enterprises, Ltd.; and Liro, Inc. (the "Purchaser Entities"), and who will have the following responsibilities:
 - a) Hiring counsel to represent the Purchaser Entities in Adv. No. 2:15-ap-01406-ER and 2:15-ap-01404-ER (the "Adversary Proceedings") and in the jointly-administered Chapter 7 bankruptcy cases of Harry and Theodosios Roussos (Case Nos. 2:15-bk-21624-ER and 2:15-bk-21626-ER).

On June 6, 2016, Judge Shook appointed Sarah Daly ("Ms. Daly") as the managing director of S.M.B. Management, Inc. and Liro, Inc. Judge Shook's order provides:

Harry and Christine's Emergency Motion to Limit Ms. Daly's Authority as Managing Director

On May 15, 2017, Harry and Christine filed an emergency motion seeking to limit Ms. Daly's ability to borrow funds against various properties in her capacity as Managing Director. See Doc. No. 447, Adv. No. 2:14-ap-01406-ER. Harry and Christine asserted that absent relief, Ms. Daly was likely to misappropriate funds for her personal benefit. On May 18, 2017, the Court issued a Memorandum of Decision Denying Emergency Motion Filed by Harry and Christine Roussos [Doc. No. 448, Adv. No. 2:14-ap-01406] (the "Daly Memorandum"). The Court stated:

The Court declines to adopt the narrow construction of the Management Order advocated by Harry and Christine. The Management Order provides that the managing director "will manage the affairs" of the Four Entities. It then provides that the managing director will have certain responsibilities, and sets forth a list of those responsibilities. But nothing in the Management Order provides that the managing director's authority is limited to the specific responsibilities described in the order. The narrow construction advocated by Harry and Christine renders certain of the Management Order's language superfluous. If the managing director had authority only to perform the responsibilities that were specifically described therein, the more generalized grant of authority to "manage the affairs" of the Four Entities would have been unnecessary. That is, rather than stating that Judge Shook was not barred from "[a]ppointing a managing director who will manage the affairs of [the Four Entities], and who will have the following responsibilities . . .," the Management Order could have simply stated that Judge Shook was not barred from "[a]ppointing a manager director who will have the following responsibilities . . ."

Harry and Christine's construction is also inconsistent with the interpretation the Court has previously accorded the Management Order. For example, in approving the Settlement Agreement, the Court found that the Management Order bestowed upon Ms. Daly the authority to settle these actions, even though there is no provision in the Management Order specifically stating that Ms. Daly has settlement authority.

Daly Memorandum at 6.

The Court further found that Harry and Christine had failed to demonstrate that there was an imminent risk that Ms. Daly was likely to loot the Four Entities for her personal gain, and found that Harry and Christine had not shown that they were entitled to injunctive relief against Ms. Daly. See generally Daly Memorandum at 7–8.

Approval of the Settlement Agreement

On October 6, 2016, the Court approved a settlement agreement (the "Settlement Agreement") between the Trustee, on the one hand, and the Four Entities and Harry and Christine Roussos, the other hand. See Order Approving Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement Approval Order") [Bankruptcy Doc. No. 591]. The Settlement Agreement provided that the Properties were property of the Roussos Brothers' estates and authorized the Trustee to sell the San Vicente Property and, if necessary, the Abbot Kinney Property in order to fund a settlement amount of $11 million (the "Settlement Amount"). Concurrently with approval of the Settlement Agreement, the Court entered judgments which provided, among other things, that the Preliminary Injunction Order was vacated.

Sale of the San Vicente Property and Distribution of the Proceeds

On May 24, 2017, the Court approved the sale of the San Vicente Property for $23.8 million. See Doc. No. 785. On September 25, 2017, the Court approved a settlement between the Trustee and Theodosios. See Doc. No. 857 (the "Theodosios Settlement Approval Order").

The Settlement Agreement (as supplemented by the Theodosios Settlement Approval Order) provided that proceeds from the sale of the San Vicente Property in excess of the Settlement Amount were to be distributed as follows:

- 1) First, to pay the costs of sale (include brokerage commissions and escrow costs);
- 2) Second, to satisfy any liens against the San Vicente Property;
- 3) Third, to pay the estate's capital gains tax liability;
- 4) Fourth, to pay the estate the Settlement Amount;

 - b) $1.5 million to Theodosios under §726(a)(6), with $750,000 of the $1.5 million amount to be paid by the Trustee to Lula Michaelides; and
- 6) Sixth, to SMB.

The Trustee has paid all costs of sale; all liens against the San Vicente Property; all capital gains taxes [Note 4]; the Settlement Amount; and the amounts owing to Harry, Theodosios, and Ms. Michaelides. The Trustee is prepared to make the final payment to SMB, but the parties disagree over whether that payment can or should be made. Because the sale proceeds of the San Vicente Property were sufficient to satisfy the Settlement Amount, the Trustee conveyed the estate's interest in the Abbott Kinney Property to OF on August 4, 2017, pursuant to the §8(b) of the Settlement Agreement. See Doc. No. 827 at ¶3 (declaration of Trustee Ehrenberg).

Judge Shook's Partition Award and Harry and Christine's Attempts to Confirm the Partition Award

The Court's vacatur of the Preliminary Injunction Order, followed by the estate's conveyance of its interest in the Abbott Kinney Property to OF, permitted Harry and Christine to take actions to attempt to enforce a Statement of Decision and Judgment in Binding Arbitration (the "Partition Award") issued by Judge Shook. In the Partition Award, Judge Shook found that limited partners SMB and OF were incapable of functioning because they were controlled by the Roussos Brothers, who "have developed major and substantive differences of opinion concerning the management and general operation of the family business." Partition Award at 2–3. Judge Shook ruled that "partition by sale appears to be the only answer and must be granted." Id. at 3. Judge Shook recognized that the OF and SMB Partnership Agreements contained provisions prohibiting partition, but held that he had the authority to modify the Partnership Agreements "as needed to further the goals of equity, including excusal or modification of contractual terms." Id. at 6. Accordingly, Judge Shook modified the Partnership Agreements "to strike and delete the waivers to the right to partition in order to equitably remedy the dissension among the co-owners of the properties." Id. Judge Shook ordered that the "Properties shall be partitioned for sale" and "marketed to third parties to obtain the great values for the parties." Id. at 11.

On October 21, 2016, Harry and Christine commenced Case No. BS165997 in the Los Angeles Superior Court (the "State Court") by filing a petition to confirm the Partition Award. SMB, acting through Sarah Daly and represented by Daniel J. McCarthy, opposed confirmation of the Partition Award. On January 12, 2018, the State Court issued a Ruling Re: Motion of Petitioners to Confirm the Arbitration Award and Issue Judgment Thereon, and Request for Attorney's Fees in the Amount of $15,912.50 (the "Jan. 12 Order"). The Jan. 12 Order provides that the "[a]rbitration awards [a reference to the Partition Award] are confirmed only as made." SMB and Harry and Christine dispute the precise meaning and scope of the Jan. 12 Order. Specifically, Harry and Christine maintain that the Jan. 12 Order granted the request for appointment of a partition referee to oversee the sale of the properties subject to the arbitration, while SMB asserts that appointment of a partition referee was not ordered. Cf. Notice of Ruling on Petitioners' Motion to Confirm the Arbitration Awards, and Issue Judgment Thereon with Objection to Petitioners' Notice of Ruling on Petitioners' Motion to Confirm the Arbitration Awards, and Issue Judgment Thereon.

SMB asserts that the State Court erred in confirming the Partition Award. SMB's theory is that there is no admissible evidence that the corporate entities ever executed any agreement to be subject to arbitration before Judge Shook. SMB intends to file a motion for a new trial before the State Court once judgment confirming the Partition Award is entered.

Harry and Christine have filed a motion seeking sanctions against Mr. McCarthy; that motion is set for hearing on March 8, 2018, at 8:30 a.m.

Theodosios has appealed the Jan. 12 Order. Theodosios asserts that his appeal stays all proceedings in Case No. BS165997. See Notice of Stay of Proceedings (filed Feb. 14, 2018).

Summary of the Trustee's Motion; the Responses of Harry and Christine, Theodosios, and SMB; and the Trustee's Supporting Reply

The Trustee seeks clarification from the Bankruptcy Court regarding discharge of his obligation to pay the balance of the net sales proceeds of the San Vicente Property to SMB. The Trustee takes no position regarding the manner of payment.

Harry and Christine assert that SMB has been hijacked by Ms. Daly and Mr. McCarthy. Harry and Christine's position is that the payments owing to SMB should be made to the party appointed by the State Court to oversee the partition and sale of the properties. According to Harry and Christine, Ms. Daly and Mr. McCarthy have been managing SMB (and entities related thereto) in a manner designed to maximize their fees, and have not acted in SMB's best interests. Harry and Christine's argument is that because Harry, Christine, and Theodosios hold all beneficial interests in SMB, it is appropriate for Harry and Christine to dictate the manner of the SMB payment.

Theodosios agrees that Ms. Daly and Mr. McCarthy have not properly administered SMB's assets. Theodosios wants the SMB payment to be made to the probate registry of the Superior Court in Case No. 17STPB08818. In the alternative, Theodosios states that the payment should be made directly to the SMB Trust, as follows: 50% to Theodosios, as co-trustee of the SMB Trust, and 50% to Harry, as co-trustee of the SMB Trust.

SMB disputes the allegations that Ms. Daly and Mr. McCarthy have not properly managed its affairs. Mr. McCarthy submits a detailed declaration disputing Harry and Christine's allegations that his representation of SMB before the State Court has breached the bounds of ethical behavior.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Given this case's history, it is striking that Theodosios has the temerity to assert that "Sarah Daly is an unbonded rogue officer that has no proper stake in the funds at issue who has pillaged and defrauded the Brothers and their children of countless dollars in her self-serving and fraudulent administration of their assets." Doc. No. 937 at p. 3. All the evidence of fraud in this matter points to Harry and Theodosios, not to Sarah Daly. As the District Court has summarized the facts:

In July 2015, the bankruptcy cases of the Roussos Brothers were reopened when a creditor, Lula Michaelides, discovered that the Roussos Brothers had committed a fraud on the Bankruptcy Court in 1994.... The Roussos Brothers' fraud was discovered by Michaelides as a result of evidence produced in an arbitration proceeding between the Roussos Brothers to resolve their disputes regarding the ownership and management of various properties and entities.... The settlement agreement [approved by the Bankruptcy Court] provided that the two fraudulently sold apartment buildings would be returned to the Roussos Brothers' bankruptcy estates.

Order Affirming Bankruptcy Court's Orders [Case No. 2:16-cv-08643-JFW, Doc. No. 38; signed April 20, 2017] at 3-4.

Theodosios and Harry are hardly in a position to complain about Ms. Daly and Mr. McCarthy's management of SMB. The circumstances under which Ms. Daly was appointed as SMB's Managing Director are worth restating. As a result of the internecine dispute between Harry and Theodosios, serious issues regarding the management of the Properties arose. Harry and Theodosios' inability to agree upon the selection of a successor property management company resulted in the Properties going without professional management between January 16, 2016 and approximately May 25, 2016. The property management issues were resolved only after the Trustee filed a motion seeking to appoint a receiver to take control of the Properties. It was against this backdrop of chaos and dysfunction that the Court entered its order finding that neither the automatic stay or the Arbitration Injunction barred Judge Shook from appointing a managing director.

After Judge Shook appointed Sarah Daly as Managing Director, both Harry and Theodosios have, at various times, taken issue with various decisions she has made. Theodosios vigorously opposed Ms. Daly's decision to cause SMB and other entities involved in the litigation to enter into the Settlement Agreement. On September 22, 2016, Theodosios sent Ms. Daly an e-mail stating: "I will pursue every available legal remedy against you no matter how long it takes if you continue to act against the best interest of the entities by ... trying to sign a settlement agreement that you know you are not authorized to sign." See Doc. No. 582, Case No. 2:15-bk-21624, at Ex. B. One of Theodosios' attorneys asserted that Ms. Daly risked substantial personal liability in connection with the Settlement Agreement:

My clients want Ms. Daly to know they will seek all legal and equitable remedies against her if you withdraw due to her failure to honor the fee agreement she approved and signed and the terms of the limited partnership agreements, including, but not limited to, filing a lawsuit against her to recover the millions of dollars they will have lost because Ms. Daly decided not to honor her fiduciary and contractual duties to protect the best interests of the entities. If she dares to act in this manner or enters into an illegitimate settlement with the bankruptcy trustee, she would be wise to make sure the bankruptcy trustee agrees to fully indemnify her from the legal fees she will incur defending herself and any resulting judgment, which could include punitive damages which, by law, I don't think the bankruptcy trustee can even indemnify her against. She is playing a risky game, and if she knows anything, she knows that Ted will never give up until his dying breath in his pursuit of Ms. Daly.

Id.

Harry and Christine supported the actions Ms. Daly took on behalf of SMB and the related entities in connection with the Settlement Agreement. But soon thereafter they too became dissatisfied with Ms. Daly's performance as Managing Director. As discussed previously, Harry and Christine filed a motion seeking to circumscribe Ms.

Daly's management authority, in which they accused Ms. Daly of violating her fiduciary duties and engaging in "egregious conduct." See Doc. No. 447, Adv. No. 2:15-ap-01406-ER, at 3. The Court found that there was no merit to Harry and Christine's allegations. See generally Daly Memorandum.

The foregoing provides important context for understanding the accusations of impropriety asserted against Ms. Daly and Mr. McCarthy by Theodosios, Harry, and Christine. After orchestrating the fraud against the Bankruptcy Court in 1994, Theodosios and Harry fought for years between themselves over management of the Properties. They eventually turned to private arbitration in an attempt to resolve their disputes. After Theodosios and Harry's inability to cooperate placed management of the Properties into disarray, Judge Shook, the arbitrator, appointed Ms. Daly as Managing Director to resolve the deadlock. Depending upon the issue at hand, either Theodosios or Harry and Christine protested vociferously against Ms. Daly's actions. Against this backdrop the Court hardly finds it surprising to see Harry, Christine, and Theodosios return with a slew of vitriolic allegations against Ms. Daly and Mr. McCarthy.

As has been the case in the past, none of the allegations are supported by competent evidence. Harry and Christine point to the sale of the Abbott Kinney Property as an example of the bad faith of Ms. Daly and Mr. McCarthy. Harry and Christine maintain that the Abbott Kinney Property was sold for only $6.8 million when it was worth $8 million. They offer no admissible evidence in support of this contention. Nor was it improper for Ms. Daly to market the Abbott Kinney Property for sale. As explained in the Daly Memorandum, the Management Order bestowed upon Ms. Daly broad authority to direct the affairs of the Four Entities. Certainly selling property in which the entities hold an interest falls within the scope of that authority.

Harry, Christine, and Theodosios also maintain that Ms. Daly and Mr. McCarthy are paying themselves excessive fees. Once again, these allegations are conclusory. Further, it would not be unexpected for fees to be substantial in view of the complexity and contentiousness of these matters.

There is no merit to Theodosios' contention that Ms. Daly and Mr. McCarthy cannot appear because SMB Management—which is SMB's general partner—is suspended. First, it is SMB Management that has been suspended; the instant Motion involves a payment to SMB. Second, the Court has already determined that Theodosios has waived his right to contest SMB Management's ability to participate in this litigation by reason of its suspension. See generally Memorandum of Decision Granting Emergency Motion to Approve Settlement Agreement [Doc. No. 590] at 7-9.

There is no dispute that the Settlement Agreement provides that the remaining funds are to be paid to SMB. Harry, Christine, and Theodosios have failed to establish that SMB is under rogue management or that the SMB cannot be entrusted to receive the SMB payment. To the extent that Harry, Christine, and Theodosios object to the decisions made by SMB, they have only themselves to blame for their current predicament. The plain language of the Settlement Agreement provides that the Trustee is to make the final payment to SMB. The Court will authorize the Trustee to make the payment to SMB so that the administration of these estates can be completed.

III. Conclusion

Based upon the foregoing, the Court directs the Trustee to make the final payment called for under the Settlement Agreement to SMB Investors Associates, LP. The Trustee shall submit an order, incorporating this tentative ruling by reference, within seven days of the hearing.

Docket 26

Tentative Ruling:

3/7/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Motion is GRANTED in its entirety. The 14-day stay under FRBP 6004(h) is WAIVED.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Chapter 7 Trustee's Motion for Order Authorizing the Trustee to: (1) Conduct an Auction Sale of Personal Property Assets of the Estate Free and Clear of Liens Pursuant to Bankruptcy Code §§ 363(b) and 363(f); (2) Employ Van Horn Auction Group, LLC as Auctioneer and Pay Compensation and Expenses to the Auctioneer; and (3) Granting Related Relief Including Use of Sale Proceeds to Pay Actual Costs Incurred (the "Sale Motion") [Doc. No. 26]
- 2) No Opposition has been filed as of the date of this tentative ruling.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Norlaine, Inc. (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on December 22, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. David M. Goodrich accepted appointment as the Chapter 7 trustee (the "Trustee") for the Debtor's bankruptcy case.

On February 14, 2018, the Trustee filed the "Chapter 7 Trustee's Motion for Order Authorizing the Trustee to: (1) Conduct an Auction Sale of Personal Property Assets of the Estate Free and Clear of Liens Pursuant to Bankruptcy Code §§ 363(b) and 363(f); (2) Employ Van Horn Auction Group, LLC as Auctioneer and Pay Compensation and Expenses to the Auctioneer; and (3) Granting Related Relief Including Use of Sale Proceeds to Pay Actual Costs Incurred (the "Sale Motion") [Doc. No. 26]. The Trustee has determined that the sale of certain of the Debtor's personal property assets through an auction will provide the most benefit for the Estate and its creditors. The personal property assets to be included in the auction are generally described as machinery and equipment used in the operations of the Debtor's mannequin production operations including: three forklifts; seven Mannetron rotational casting machines; MJ Maillis pallet wrapping machine; pallet jacks; stock ladders and carts; welding and woodworking equipment; hand tools; drill presses; spray booths; pallet racking; molds; and office furniture, fixtures and equipment (collectively, the "Assets"). The Trustee believes that some of the mannequins and molds listed on the Debtor's Schedules may not constitute property of the Estate. Thus, excluded from the Assets are: (i) any mannequins or molds owned by Destination Maternity, Inc. ("Destination") or Disney Stores USA, LLC ("Disney"); and (ii) any other mannequin inventory of the Debtor pending the Trustee's determination as to whether proceeds therefrom might be encumbered by a lien in favor of Caisse Regionale De Credit Agricole as scheduled on the Debtor's Schedule D. The majority of the Assets are located on premises located at 1449 West Industrial Park Street, Covina, CA 91722 leased by the Debtor (the "Leased Premises") under a prepetition lease agreement between the Debtor and Trietsch Property Enterprises, LP that provides for monthly rental payments in the amount of $20,000.00 (the "Lease"). The Sale Motion states that the Trustee needs to liquidate the assets in order to pay rent as agreed under the terms of the "Stipulation for Occupancy and Payment of Rent" [Doc. No. 18], which was approved by the Court on February 6, 2018 [Doc. No. 21]. The Trustee seeks to sell the Assets at a public auction free and clear of liens under § 363(f), and additionally seeks authorization to employ Van Horn Auction Group, LLC as auctioneer (the "Auctioneer"). The key sale terms are as follows:

- 1) Proposed purchaser: Public Auction;
- 2) Property for Sale: The Assets, including: three forklifts; seven Mannetron rotational casting machines; MJ Maillis pallet wrapping machine; pallet jacks; stock ladders and carts; welding and woodworking equipment; hand tools; drill presses; spray booths; pallet racking; molds; and office furniture, fixtures and equipment (excluded from the Assets are: (i) any mannequins or molds owned by Destination Maternity, Inc. LLC ("Disney"); and (ii) any other mannequin inventory of the Debtor pending the Trustee's determination as to whether proceeds therefrom might be encumbered by a lien in favor of Caisse Regionale De Credit Agricole as scheduled on the Debtor's Schedule D);

- 3) Purchase price: The Auctioneer estimates that the Assets have a total liquidation value of approximately $50,000.00 to $53,000.00 through a piece meal auction sale, see "Declaration of Scott R. Van Horn" ("Van Horn Declaration") [Doc. No. 26] at ¶ 4;
- 4) Auction Sale Terms: The Assets will be liquidated by auction to the highest bidder. The Auction will be scheduled for approximately thirty (30) days after the date of entry of the Order approving the Sale Motion. Onsite viewing of the items to be auctioned will be held no later than one day prior to the auction at the auction viewing location of 1449 West Industrial Park Street, Covina, CA 91722. The sale will be without limit and without reserve. The Assets will be offered to the buyers in "As-Is, Where-Is" condition.

The Trustee requests authorization to employ the Auctioneer to coordinate the auction and authorization to pay the Auctioneer's compensation and expenses pursuant to the terms of the "Auction Services Proposal," which is attached to the "Declaration of David M. Goodrich" ("Goodrich Declaration") [Doc. No. 26] as Exhibit 2. Attached as Exhibit 4 to the Van Horn Declaration is a copy of the Auctioneer's blanket bond in favor of the United States of America for coverage in the aggregate amount of $50,000.00, and an additional single auction performance bond in the amount of $53,000.00. The Auctioneer's costs will be billed at actual cost and shall not exceed a total amount of $8,500.00. A 13% Buyer's Premium will be charged to each purchaser and will be collected by the Auctioneer and turned over to the Trustee. The Auctioneer shall provide the Trustee with a Report of Auctioneer within 21 days after the conclusion of the auction. The Trustee requests authorization to use the proceeds of the sale to make approved disbursements to the Auctioneer pursuant to the terms of the Sale Motion.

The Trustee additionally requests authorization to use funds of the Estate in the amount of $1,643.00 to pay for an insurance policy for the auction sale.

Lastly, the Trustee requests authorization to terminate and reject the Lease effective as of five business days after the auction sale has concluded and directing that any proofs of claim arising from the termination and rejection of the Lease must be filed with the Court not later than April 23, 2018. The Sale Motion states that once the auction sale has concluded, the Lease will have no benefit for the Estate and creditors.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Section 363(b) of the Bankruptcy Code permits the trustee to sell estate property outside the ordinary course of business, subject to court approval. The trustee must articulate a business justification for the sale. In re Walter, 83 B.R. 14, 19–20 (9th Cir. BAP 1988). Whether the articulated business justification is sufficient "depends on the case," in view of "all salient factors pertaining to the proceeding." Id. at 19–20. Here, the Trustee articulates a sufficient business justification for the sale. The Trustee believes the proposed sale of the Assets is in the best interest of the Estate, and furthermore, that the projected sale price represents the fair market value of the Assets. The sale of the Assets will be by public auction, thus ensuring competitive bidding.

The Trustee has met the conditions for the sale of the Property free and clear of all liens. Section 363(f) permits a sale of property "free and clear of any interest in such property of an entity other than the estate" if any one of the following conditions is met:

- (1) applicable nonbankruptcy law permits the sale of such property free and clear of such interest;
- (2) such entity consents;
- (3) such interest is a lien and the price at which such property is to be sold is greater than the aggregate value of all liens on such property;
- (4) such interest is in bona fide dispute; or
- (5) such entity could be compelled, in a legal or equitable proceeding, to accept a money satisfaction of such interest.

11 U.S.C. § 363(f). Here, the Court finds that the Sale Motion satisfies the requirements of §§ 363(f)(3) and 363(f)(4). The Trustee believes that the price at which the Assets are to be sold is greater than the aggregate value of any liens on the Assets. Goodrich Declaration at ¶ 11. The Trustee does not believe that there are any liens impacting the Assets and, based on this, any unresolved liens will be the subject of a bona fide dispute. Id.

Authorization to Employ Auctioneer

The Court finds that the employment of the Auctioneer is appropriate, and that the terms set forth in the Auction Services Proposal are fair and reasonable. The Trustee is authorized to employ the Auctioneer consistent with the terms set forth in the Auction Services Proposal.

III. Conclusion

Based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Trustee's Sale Motion in its entirety. The 14-day stay under FRBP 6004(h) is WAIVED.

The Trustee shall submit an appropriate order within seven days of the hearing.

If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. If you wish to make a telephonic appearance, contact Court Call at 888-882-6878, no later than one hour before the hearing.

#1.00 HearingRE: [16] Notice of motion and motion for relief from automatic stay with supporting declarations ACTION IN NON-BANKRUPTCY FORUM.

Docket 16

Tentative Ruling:

3/9/2018

The Court GRANTS the Motion pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) to permit the Movants to proceed under applicable non-bankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to proceed to final judgment in the non-bankruptcy forum, provided that the stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against Debtors or estate property.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay Under 11 U.S.C. § 362 (Action in Nonbankruptcy Forum) (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 16]
- 2) No Opposition to the Motion has been filed as of the date of this tentative ruling

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Sun & Stars Lighting, Inc. (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on August 30, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On February 7, 2018, Emporium Hardwoods Operating Company, LLC and Emporium Real Estate, LLC (the "Movants") filed the "Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 (Action in Nonbankruptcy Forum)" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 16].

The Motion

The Motion seeks stay-relief pursuant to § 362(d)(1), so that the Movants may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce their remedies to proceed to final judgment in the nonbankruptcy forum in an action currently pending in the Pennsylvania Court of Common Pleas, County of Cameron, captioned Emporium

Chapter 7

Hardwoods Operating Company, LLC et al. v. Energy Efficient, Inc. et al., Case No. 2017-932 (the "State Court Action"). The State Court Action was filed on May 19, 2017. Trial is estimated to require 7 days of trial/hearings. The Complaint in the State Court Action asserts claims for: property damage as a result of negligence; products liability; and breach of warranty.

The Movant contends that cause exists to grant stay-relief under §362(d)(1) for the following reasons:

- (1) The Movants seek recovery only from applicable insurance, if any, and waives any deficiency or other claim against the Debtor or property of the Debtor's bankruptcy estate.
- (2) The State Court Action involves non-debtor parties and a single trial in the nonbankruptcy forum is the most efficient use of judicial resources. "Declaration of Stephen M. Winning" ("Winning Declaration") [Doc. No. 16] at ¶ 5(d)

The Motion is incomplete insofar as the Movants did not complete the section of the Motion titled "Movant requests the following relief."

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

As a preliminary matter, a motion for relief from the automatic stay is a summary proceeding that does not involve an adjudication of the merits of the underlying claims. As recognized by the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel in In re Luz Int'l, Ltd.:

Given the limited grounds for obtaining a motion for relief from stay, read in conjunction with the expedited schedule for a hearing on the motion, most courts hold that motion for relief from stay hearings should not involve an adjudication of the merits of claims, defenses, or counterclaims, but simply determine whether the creditor has a colorable claim to the property of the estate. See In re Johnson, 756 F.2d 738, 740 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 474 U.S. 828, 106 S.Ct. 88, 88 L.Ed.2d 72 (1985) ("Hearings on relief from the automatic stay are thus handled in a summary fashion. The validity of the claim or contract underlying the claim is not litigated during the hearing.").

The automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. § 362(a) stays all action involving the following, in pertinent part:

- (1) the commencement or continuation, including the issuance or employment of process of a judicial, administrative, or other action or proceeding against the debtor that was or could have been commenced before the commencement of the case under this title, or to recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title.

11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(1).

Section 362(d)(1) permits a bankruptcy court to grant relief from the automatic stay upon a showing of "cause." Cause is a flexible concept and courts often conduct a fact intensive, case-by-case balancing test, examining the totality of the circumstances to determine whether sufficient cause exists to lift the stay. In re SCO Grp., Inc., 395 B.R. 852, 856 (Bankr. D. Del. 2007) (citing Baldino v. Wilson (In re Wilson), 116 F.3d 87, 90 (3d Cir. 1997); In re Laguna Assocs. Ltd., 30 F.3d 734, 737 (7th Cir. 1994)); In re MacDonald, 755 F.2d 715, 717 (9th Cir. 1985). "Among factors appropriate to consider in determining whether relief from the automatic stay should be granted to allow state court proceedings to continue are considerations of judicial economy and the expertise of the state court." In re Kronemyer, 405 B.R. 915, 921 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2009) (citing In re MacDonald, 755 F.2d 715, 717 (9th Cir. 1985)).

Here, to the extent the automatic stay applies under the circumstances described above, the Court finds that the causes of actions in the state court complaint attached to the Motion involve state law violations and are within the expertise of the state court. Allowing the Movants to continue the intended state court complaint will best promote the judicial economy by adjudicating a final judgment as to the underlying claims that may either support or negate the filing of a proof of claim and/or an adversary complaint.

Docket 8

Tentative Ruling:

3/9/2018

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

On February 14, 2018, the Debtor filed the Nonopposition to the Motion [Doc. No. 10]. The Debtor does not oppose the relief sought by the Movant.

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1). The stay is terminated as to the Debtor and the Debtor's bankruptcy estate with respect to the Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns. Movant may enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property in accordance with applicable law, but may not pursue a deficiency claim against the debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501.

The Movant filed an unlawful detainer action on May 17, 2017.

This Motion has been filed to allow the Movant to proceed with the unlawful detainer proceeding in state court. The unlawful detainer proceeding may go forward because the Debtor's right to possess the premises must be determined. This does not change simply because a bankruptcy petition was filed. See In re Butler, 271 B.R. 867,

Docket 20

Tentative Ruling:

3/9/2018

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to repossess or otherwise obtain possession and dispose of its collateral pursuant to applicable law, and to use the proceeds from its disposition to satisfy its claim. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501. The Court finds that there is no equity in the subject vehicle and that the vehicle is not necessary for an effective reorganization since this is a chapter 7 case.

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. All other relief is denied.

Movant shall upload an appropriate order via the Court's Lodged Order Upload system within 7 days of the hearing.

Chapter 11

#8.00 HearingRE: [80] Notice of motion and motion for relief from the automatic stay with supporting declarations REAL PROPERTY RE: 1151 Virginia Street, Berkeley, California 94702 . (Wilkinson, Reilly)

Docket 80

Tentative Ruling:

3/9/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Motion is GRANTED in its entirety.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay Under 11 U.S.C. §362 ("Motion") [Doc. No. 80]
- 2) No Opposition has been filed as of the date of this tentative ruling.
- 3) Non-Opposition filed by the Debtor [Doc. No. 83].

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Red Booth, Inc. (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on October 23, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On February 28, 2018, Civic Holdings V-N Trust (the "Movant") filed the "Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay Under 11 U.S.C. §362" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 80], set for hearing on shortened notice pursuant to the Court's calendaring procedures.

The Motion

The Motion seeks relief from the automatic stay under §§ 362(d)(1), (d)(2), and (d)(4), in relation to the certain real property located at 1151 Virginia Street, Berkeley, CA 94702 (the "Property"). The Movant holds a first deed of trust that encumbers the Property. The Motion asserts that relief from stay should be granted because: (1) under § 362(d)(1), the Movant's interest in the Property is not adequately protected, and cause exists for relief from the automatic stay; (2) under § 362(d)(2), the Debtor has no equity in the Property and the Property is not necessary to an effective reorganization; and (3) under § 362(d)(4), the filing of the Petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors that involved the transfer of all or part ownership of, or other interest in, the Property without the consent of the Movant or court approval. "Declaration of Brian Sindell" ("Sindell Declaration") [Doc. No. 37] at ¶¶ 11, 18. The Debtor did not list the Property on the Debtor's schedules.

On October 30, 2017, a fraudulent deed of trust was recorded in the San Francisco Recorder's Office prior to the Movant's trustee's sale of the Property. Sindell Declaration at ¶ 18, Continuation Page. The fraudulent deed of trust was executed on October 30, 2017, and was recorded that same day at 12:42 p.m. Id. The deed of trust lists the Debtor as one of several beneficiaries. Id. The Property is owned by Maud Alarbesh ("Alarbesh"). Id. This is the second time that Alarbesh has employed the use of a fraudulent deed of trust to stop a trustee's sale of the Property. On January 25, 2018, a hearing on relief from stay was held before the Honorable Rene Lastreto II, United States Bankruptcy Judge, in the bankruptcy case of In re SAC Development, Inc., Case No. 17-12857 (Bankr. E.D. Cal., Fresno Div.). Id. On January 30, 2018, the bankruptcy court in Sac Development entered an order granting relief from stay, including under § 362(d)(4), with respect to the Property in favor of the Movant. Id.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

The Court finds that the filing of the bankruptcy petition was part of scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors that involved a transfer of an interest in the Property to the Debtor. The scheme also involved the filing of multiple bankruptcy cases affecting the Property. The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to §§ 362(d)(1), (d) (2) and (d)(4). The Court finds that the Property is not necessary to an effective reorganization in this case. The Court makes no findings with respect to whether the Debtor was involved in the fraudulent scheme.

The 14-day period specified in Fed.R.Bankr.P. 4001(a)(3) is waived. This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. If recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, the order shall be binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect such real property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of such order by the Court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from such order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and a hearing. Any Federal, State, or local governmental unit that accepts notices of interests or liens in real property shall accept a certified copy of this order for indexing and recording.

As this is the latest relief from stay filed in connection with this Debtor who has no connection to the subject Property, the court finds that this case has been "highjacked" by entities acting in bad faith and with no connection to the Debtor. Hereafter, relief from stay will be granted in this case upon 24 hour's notice and with a declaration from the Debtor or its counsel that disclaims any interest in the subject property. No hearing will be held.

The Movant shall submit a conforming order within seven days of the hearing.

Docket 17

Tentative Ruling:

3/12/2018

Appearances required.

On February 13, 2018, Defendant's counsel filed a motion seeking leave to withdraw from representation (the "Motion to Withdraw"). The Motion to Withdraw states that counsel has not been in contact with Defendant since November 2017 and that counsel has reason to believe that Defendant has moved out of the country. Counsel did not set the Motion to Withdraw for hearing, has not lodged any order in connection with the Motion to Withdraw, and has taken no action with respect to the Motion to Withdraw since filing it. The Joint Status Report filed by the parties on February 26, 2018 contains no mention of Defendant's counsel's inability to contact her client. The Court requires an update as to whether counsel has been able to establish contact with the Defendant and whether counsel intends to continue seeking leave to withdraw from representation.

On November 29, 2016, the Court entered an order staying this dischargeability action pending completion of litigation concerning the underlying indebtedness proceeding before the Los Angeles Superior Court (the "State Court Action"). The Court also vacated the dates that had been set for the pretrial conference and trial. On February 15, 2018, judgment in the amount of $52,000 was entered against the Defendant in the State Court Action.

Chapter 7

The State Court Complaint alleged that Defendant conspired with several people to destroy Plaintiffs' reputation by publishing defamatory statements on Facebook. According to the most recent Joint Status Report, the State Court found that Defendant's conduct was willful and oppressive, and the State Court Judgment included punitive damages of $2,000.

The Court has reviewed the Minute Orders entered by the State Court describing the trial that was conducted during February 2018. The State Court has made findings of fact and has entered judgment regarding Defendant's defamatory statements. The State Court's factual findings are possibly entitled to preclusive effect; if that is the case, and once the underlying judgment has become final, the only remaining issue for this Court to determine is whether the indebtedness arising as a result of those defamatory statements is non-dischargeable. That issue can be adjudicated most efficiently by way of a motion for summary judgment to determine the preclusive effect of the judgment.

Plaintiff is HEREBY ORDERED to file a motion for summary judgment (the "Motion") by no later than May 14, 2018. The Minute Order entered by the State Court on February 15, 2018 states that the State Court's "ruling is fully reflected in the official notes of the Court reporter." So that this Court is fully aware of the findings made by the State Court, the Motion shall include as a supporting exhibit a reproduction of the State Court's ruling as reflected in the notes of the Court reporter. The Motion shall also include whatever other portions of the State Court record as are necessary to fully apprise this Court of the findings made by the State Court.

The Court FURTHER ORDERS that all discovery in this action must be completed by no later than April 14, 2018; this deadline applies to both expert and non-expert discovery.

The Court will enter a Scheduling Order.

Tentative Ruling:

3/12/2018

The Court approved the parties' initial stipulation extending the Defendant's deadline to respond to the Complaint to January 30, 2018. Doc. No. 12. The Joint Status Report indicates that the parties have stipulated to an additional extension of Defendant's time to respond to the Complaint; however, no such stipulation has been filed with the Court, and the Status Report does not state the timeframe of the stipulated extension. Defendants have not answered or otherwise responded to the Complaint.

A stipulation providing an extension of time to respond to a complaint is not effective unless and until approved by the Court. Such stipulations are subject to review by the Court because pursuant to Civil Rule 1, the Court has an obligation to secure the speedy adjudication of every action. The Court appreciates that the parties are endeavoring to settle this action and expects positive results from the settlement discussions. However, in the Court's experience, settlements are most likely to be achieved against the backdrop of litigation deadlines.

Based upon the foregoing, the Court HEREBY ORDERS as follows:

- 1) The following dates shall apply to this action:
 - a) Defendant's deadline to respond to the Complaint is 4/17/2018.
 - b) The last day to amend pleadings and/or join other parties is 6/14/2018.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

3/12/2018: No default to be taken for the reasons set forth below. Dates as ordered - court to prepare order.

Defendant's deadline to respond to the Complaint was February 5, 2018. Defendant filed an Answer on February 20, 2018, fifteen days late. Prior to the filing of Defendant's Answer, Plaintiff filed a Request for Entry of Default on February 9, 2018, Doc. No. 9. The Clerk of the Court did not enter default because Plaintiff failed to attach the declaration required by Local Bankruptcy Rule 7055-1(a).

On February 20, 2018, Defendant filed an Answer to the Complaint. Because Defendant is proceeding in pro se and cannot file documents electronically, Defendant's Answer was not viewable on the CM/ECF docket until 12:14 p.m. on February 21, 2018. Apparently before Defendant's Answer became viewable upon the docket, Plaintiff filed a second Request for Entry of Default.

The Court, upon its own motion, will direct the Clerk of the Court to take no action with respect to Plaintiff's second Request for Entry of Default. Although Defendant filed the Answer fifteen days late, entry of default would result only in needless delay, because Defendant would be entitled to an order setting aside the default under the circumstances. The discussion below illustrates why the Court would be required to set aside a hypothetical default entered against the Defendant.

Civil Rule 55(c)—made applicable to these proceedings by Bankruptcy Rule 7055—provides: "The court may set aside an entry of default for good cause." "The 'good cause' standard that governs vacating an entry of default under Rule 55(c) is the same standard that governs vacating a default judgment under Rule 60(b)." Franchise Holding II, LLC. v. Huntington Restaurants Grp., Inc., 375 F.3d 922, 925 (9th Cir.

2004). The Court may deny a motion to vacate a default for any of the following reasons: "(1) the plaintiff would be prejudiced if the judgment is set aside, (2) defendant has no meritorious defense, or (3) the defendant's culpable conduct led to the default." Am. Ass'n of Naturopathic Physicians v. Hayhurst, 227 F.3d 1104, 1108 (9th Cir. 2000), as amended on denial of reh'g (Nov. 1, 2000). Because "[t]his tripartite test is disjunctive," Plaintiff is required to demonstrate only that one of the factors applies in order for the Court to deny the motion to vacate default. Id.

Here, none of the reasons supporting denial of a motion to set aside default apply. First, Plaintiff is not prejudiced by the setting aside of the default. "To be prejudicial, the setting aside of a [default] must result in greater harm than simply delaying resolution of the case. Rather, 'the standard is whether [plaintiff's] ability to pursue his claim will be hindered.'" TCI Grp. Life Ins. Plan v. Knoebber, 244 F.3d 691, 701 (9th Cir. 2001), as amended on denial of reh'g and reh'g en banc (May 9, 2001). The non-defaulting party's ability to pursue its claim may be hindered if the delay has caused tangible harm such as "loss of evidence, increased difficulties of discovery, or greater opportunity for fraud or collusion." Id. No such tangible harm could conceivably have resulted from Defendant's filing of the Answer a mere fifteen days late.

Second, by filing an Answer in which he denies the Complaint's allegations, Defendant has shown at least the possibility of a meritorious defense.

Third, there is no indication that Defendant's fifteen-day delay in filing the Answer was culpable. "[A] defendant's conduct [is] culpable for ... where there is no explanation of the default inconsistent with a devious, deliberate, willful, or bad faith failure to respond." Employee Painters' Trust v. Ethan Enterprises, Inc., 480 F.3d 993, 1000 (9th Cir. 2007). Filing an Answer fifteen days late is not devious, deliberate, or in bad faith.

Having found that Plaintiff is not entitled to entry of default, and having reviewed the Joint Status Report submitted by the parties, the Court HEREBY ORDERS as follows:

- 1) The dates previously ordered shall continue to apply, as follows:
 - a) The last day to amend pleadings and/or join other parties is 4/12/2018.
 - b) The last day to disclose expert witnesses and expert witness reports is 6/26/2018.

Tentative Ruling:

3/12/2018

The Summons was issued on December 19, 2017. Plaintiff mailed the Summons and Complaint to the Defendants on December 29, 2017. Doc. No. 10. Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 7004(e), Plaintiff was required to deposit the Summons and Complaint in the mail "within 7 days after the summons is issued." That is, Plaintiff was required to mail the Summons and Complaint by no later than December 26, 2017.

The Clerk of the Court entered default against the Defendants on February 27, 2018. Doc. No. 15. Because the summons was not timely served, default should not have been entered. Pursuant to Civil Rule 60(a), the Clerk of the Court's entry of default is HEREBY VACATED. Plaintiff shall obtain and serve an alias summons by no later than March 20, 2018. Concurrently with the issuance of the Alias Summons, the Clerk of the Court will issue an updated Scheduling Order setting forth new dates that will govern the course of this action.

The Court will enter an appropriate order.

Tentative Ruling:

12/18/2017

For the reasons set forth below, the Debtor is authorized to use cash collateral through and including March 31, 2018, in accordance with the terms of the Third Stipulation with Citizen's Business Bank. The Court, having received no objection or further stipulation, extends the terms of the Second IRS Stipulation through and including March 31, 2018. A hearing on whether the Debtor may use cash collateral subsequent to March 31, 2018 will take place on March 13, 2018 at 10:00 a.m. Papers in support of the continued use of cash collateral must be filed and served by February 20, 2018. Objections, if any, to the Debtor's continued use of cash collateral must be filed and served by February 27, 2018. Any reply may be filed and served by March 6, 2018.

Use of Cash Collateral [Doc. No. 37]

Chapter 11

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Base Architecture Planning & Engr Inc. (the "Debtor") commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on July 14, 2017. The Debtor is an urban design, architecture, planning, and civil engineering firm located in Los Angeles. The Debtor specializes in designing and constructing airport facilities, transit projects, municipal and civic facilities, schools, and commercial offices. The Debtor has 22 active contracts with different property owners and government agencies, which it expects to assume. The immediate cause of the petition was the entry of a judgment against the Debtor in the amount of $70,000 on May 25, 2017.

On November 28, 2017, the Debtor filed the "Supplemental to Motion for Authority to Use Cash Collateral" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 81]. The Debtor seeks authorization to use cash collateral in accordance with: (1) the stipulation executed between the Debtor and Citizens Business Bank (the "Bank Stipulation") [Doc. No. 85]; and (2) the stipulation executed between the Debtor and the Internal Revenue Service (the "First IRS Stipulation") [Doc. No. 26]. The Debtor states that it owes Citizens Business Bank (the "Bank") $212,120.15 as of the petition date; that the Debtor owes the IRS $500,000; that the indebtedness of the Bank is senior to the indebtedness of the IRS; that both the Bank and the IRS hold blanket liens on all the Debtor's assets; and that the Bank holds a personal guaranty against the Debtor's primary shareholder, Michael H. Anderson, as well as liens against two real properties. The Debtor seeks to extend the two stipulations through and including March 31, 2018.

The material terms of the Bank Stipulation are as follows:

- 1) The Debtor acknowledges and agrees (a) that it is liable to the Bank in the amount of $212,120.15; (b) that the Bank's indebtedness is secured by a valid, perfected security interest on substantially all assets of the Debtor; (c) and that the Bank's indebtedness constitutes an allowed claim under the Bankruptcy Code.
- 2) Solely during the operative period of the Bank Stipulation, the Debtor waives the rights (a) to surcharge the Bank's collateral pursuant to §506(c) or (b) to incur financing or indebtedness from any party other than the Bank that includes the granting by the Debtor of liens, claims, or interests in favor of such other party that are senior to or pari passu with the liens, claims, and interests in favor of the Bank.

- 3) The Debtor will make monthly adequate protection payments to the Bank in the amount of $5,000.00, commencing on November 1, 2017. As further adequate protection, the Bank will receive a replacement lien on the rents, proceeds, and profits of its collateral, with such replacement lien having the same validity, extent, and priority as the Bank's prepetition lien. In addition, if the foregoing protection is insufficient to satisfy in full the Bank's claim, the Bank will be granted a superpriority administrative claim pursuant to §507(b).
- 4) The Bank Stipulation authorizes the Debtor to use cash collateral through April 30, 2018.

The material terms of the First IRS Stipulation, which were incorporated by the Second IRS Stipulation, are as follows:

- 1) The Debtor will make monthly adequate protection payments to the United States in the amount of $500.00, retroactive to the petition date, with payments to commence within seven calendar days after the Court approves the IRS Stipulation.
- 2) As further adequate protection, the IRS will receive a replacement lien on the Debtor's post-petition accounts receivable and on all other property acquired by the Debtor subsequent to the petition, with such replacement lien having the same validity, extent, and priority as the IRS' pre-petition lien. To the extent that the foregoing protection proves insufficient, the IRS will be granted a superpriority administrative claim pursuant to §507 (b).
- 3) The Debtor must remain current on its post-petition tax obligations, including its obligation to timely make federal payroll tax deposits and estimated income tax payments.

The "Second Stipulation between Debtor and Internal Revenue Service Regarding Interim Use of Cash Collateral and Adequate Protection" (the "Second IRS Stipulation") [Doc. No. 62] was filed on October 16, 2017. The Second IRS Stipulation incorporates the material terms of the First IRS Stipulation, and stipulates that the Debtor may continue to use cash collateral in accordance with the terms of the First IRS Stipulation until December 31, 2017. The Motion seeks to extend the Second IRS Stipulation through March 31, 2018.

No opposition has been filed.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Section 363(c)(2) requires court authorization for the use of cash collateral unless "each entity that has an interest in such cash collateral consents." In the Ninth Circuit, satisfaction of Section 363(c)(2)(A) requires the "affirmative express consent" of the secured creditor; "implied consent," resulting from the failure of the secured creditor to object to use of cash collateral, does not satisfy the requirements of the statute. Freightliner Market Development Corp. v. Silver Wheel Freightlines, Inc., 823 F.2d 362, 368-69 (9th Cir. 1987). Absent affirmative express consent, the Debtors "may not use" cash collateral absent the Court's determination that the use is "in accordance with the provisions" of Section 363—that is, that the secured creditor's interest in the cash collateral is adequately protected. Section 363(c)(2)(B); Section 363(e).

A secured creditor's interest is adequately protected if the value of its collateral is not declining; the secured creditor is not entitled to payment to compensate for its inability to foreclose upon the collateral during bankruptcy proceedings. United Savings Association of Texas v. Timbers of Inwood Forest Associates, Ltd., 484 U.S. 365 (1988).

The Court finds the terms of the Bank Stipulation, including the Debtor's acknowledgment of the validity of the Bank's indebtedness and its acknowledgment that the Bank holds an allowed claim under the Bankruptcy Code, to be acceptable. The terms of the Second IRS Stipulation are also acceptable. The Court, therefore, authorizes the continued use of cash collateral provided that the Debtor continues to comply with the terms of both Stipulations, including making the adequate protection payments required under the Bank Stipulation and the First IRS Stipulation.

Conclusion

In conclusion, for the reasons set forth above, the Court GRANTS the Debtor's Motion. The Debtor is authorized to use cash collateral through and including March 31, 2018, in accordance with the terms of the Third Stipulation with Citizen's Business Bank. Furthermore, having received no objection or further stipulation, the Court extends the terms of the Second IRS Stipulation through and including March 31, 2018. Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

3/12/2018

Appearances required.

Plaintiff and Defendant were unable to agree upon a Joint Pretrial Stipulation. The Court has reviewed the separate proposed Pretrial Orders submitted by Plaintiff and the Defendant. In the Court's view, the differences between the parties are not so great as to preclude the submission of a Joint Pretrial Stipulation. The Court will hold a continued Pretrial Conference on April 17, 2018, at 11:00 a.m. The Court expects the parties to agree upon and submit a proposed Joint Pretrial Stipulation by no later than fourteen days prior to the continued hearing. In negotiating the Joint Pretrial Stipulation, the parties should consult the Court's views regarding the material issues of law and fact presented by this action, set forth below.

The Defendant, Wendy Tejada, asserts that Plaintiff Sorayda Velasquez has failed to supply to Defendant a copy of Plaintiff's Exhibit 1, a Lease Agreement dated September 1, 2012 (the "Lease"). As noted below, the Lease is a key issue in these proceedings. The Court requires an update regarding whether the discovery dispute regarding the Lease has been resolved.

Material Issues of Law and Fact

The Complaint alleges that Wendy Tejada was the landlord of Sorayda Velasquez between September 2012 and February 2016. The gravamen of the Complaint is that Ms. Tejada purposefully disconnected Ms. Velasquez's water service in order to induce Ms. Velasquez to vacate the property. Ms. Tejada asserts that she never entered into a rental or lease agreement with Ms. Velasquez. Ms. Tejada further asserts that she never received any rental payments from Ms. Velasquez at any time.

In the Court's view, a key issue is the authenticity of Plaintiff's Exhibit 1, a lease agreement dated September 1, 2012 (the "Lease"). The Joint Pretrial Stipulation should set forth with specificity the parties' respective positions regarding the Lease. For example: Is it Ms. Tejada's position that there was a verbal rental agreement that was never formalized in lieu of the Lease? Does Ms. Tejada contend that Ms. Velasquez was a squatter or was otherwise occupying the property unlawfully?

There is no dispute that Ms. Tejada terminated her account with Golden State Water Company ("GSWC") in January 2013. The Joint Pretrial Stipulation must set forth with greater specificity the parties' positions regarding the facts surrounding Ms. Tejada's termination of the GSWC account. Specifically, why did Ms. Tejada close the account? To what extent were tenants at this multi-unit property informed of the closure? How did Ms. Tejada contemplate that tenants would receive water service upon closure of the account?

Ms. Tejada's proposed Pretrial Order contemplates extensive testimony regarding interactions between GSWC and tenants at the building subsequent to Ms. Tejada's closure of her GSWC account. For example, Ms. Tejada proposes to present testimony showing that (1) tenants at the property established their own accounts with GSWC but failed to timely remit payments, causing GSWC to terminate water service; (2) tenants unlawfully tampered with the water meter to steal water after GSWC terminated service; and (3) Ms. Tejada was advised that she could not open a new GSWC account in her own name until a delinquent water bill in the name of one of the tenants was brought current. Such issues are of minimal relevance to this action. What is most relevant is whether Ms. Tejada agreed to rent the property to Ms. Velasquez; whether the rental agreement contemplated the provision of water service; why Ms. Tejada closed her account with GSWC in January 2013; and what information Ms. Tejada conveyed to Ms. Velasquez regarding the closure of the GSWC account.

The Court notes that Ms. Tejada's proposed Pretrial Order also references certain decisions made by the Los Angeles Superior Court (the "State Court") in the action captioned Sorayda Velasquez v. Golden State Water Company, Wendy Tejada, et al. (the "State Court Action"). Ms. Tejada places particular weight upon findings made by the State Court in its Order Denying Plaintiffs' Motion for Preliminary Injunction (the "Preliminary Injunction Order"). In particular, Ms. Tejada points to the State Court's finding that Ms. Velasquez's testimony was not credible and would be accorded little weight. Credibility determinations made by a different tribunal are not relevant to this proceeding.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

The parties have failed to file a Joint Pretrial Stipulation and have failed to otherwise respond to the Court's Order to Comply. Pursuant to the Order to Comply, counsel for Plaintiff and counsel for Defendant are both sanctioned in the amount of $250.00. By separate order, the Court will require Plaintiff to appear and show cause why this action should not be dismissed for failure to prosecute. The Court notes that in addition to failing to take any action in preparation for the Pretrial Conference, Plaintiff has failed to submit an order assigning this matter to mediation (such order, the "Mediation Order"). This failure is particularly egregious given that after Plaintiff initially failed to submit the Mediation Order, the Court issued an additional order requiring Plaintiff to submit the Mediation Order, which Plaintiff likewise ignored.

The Court will enter an appropriate order.

The Debtor's Claim Objection

The Debtor objects to the claim of the IRS, and makes the following arguments and representations in support of his objection:

The IRS has failed to produce a sufficiently detailed accounting of the amount of past taxes that it has collected by levy and how these amounts were credited against the taxes claimed to be due. Absent such an accounting, the IRS has failed to establish the accuracy of its Proof of Claim. In fact, the Proof of Claim is inflated because it does not account for past tax levies and past tax refunds that have been seized, as follows:

- 1) In early 2016, the IRS seized a $3,505 tax refund that has not been applied to the amounts claimed to be due.
- 2) The Debtor's 2016 tax return reflects an entitlement to an $8,159 tax refund. The Debtor has not received this refund. In the event the $8,159 refund is seized, the IRS' claim will be further reduced.
- 3) The IRS has seized at least $25,000 by way of levies that have not been properly accounted for.

The Court should order the IRS to provide a detailed accounting of its seizures and levies from January 1, 2008 to the present, showing the amounts assessed, whether the assessment was based on 1040, 940, or 941 returns, and the amounts of interest and penalties. In the alternative, the IRS' claim should be reduced by at least $33,159—to account for the $25,000 previously seized that has not been properly accounted for in addition to the $8,159 refund.

The IRS' Opposition to the Debtor's Claim Objection

The IRS makes the following arguments and representations in opposition to the Debtor's Claim Objection:

The IRS has already provided to the Debtor the detailed accounting that he demands in the Claim Objection. On November 8, 2017, the Debtor, Assistant United States Attorney Jolene Tanner, and IRS Insolvency Advisor Neal Kakuske participated in a telephone call to discuss the IRS' Proof of Claim. During the call, Ms. Tanner referred the Debtor to transcripts setting forth tax levies that the IRS had attached to its opposition to the Debtor's Sale Motion.

The amounts that the IRS has levied, in the total amount of $20,014.48, and the application of those levies are as follows:

In addition, on November 15, 2013, the Debtor entered into a voluntary installment agreement with the IRS. Under the terms of the installment agreement, the Debtor was to pay the IRS $500 per month for the first twelve months, followed by an increased payment of $3,182 per month commencing in month twelve. Collection was suspended while the Debtor was in the installment agreement. The Debtor failed to make a single payment under the installment agreement.

There is no merit to the Debtor's argument that the IRS' Proof of Claim should be reduced by $8,159, the amount of the refund the Debtor claims for the 2016 tax year. The IRS applied the 2016 tax refund to taxes owed by the Debtor on account of the Form 1040 account for 2007.

The Debtor's Reply to the IRS' Opposition

The Debtor makes the following arguments and representations in Reply to the Opposition filed by the IRS:

relied upon. First, the IRS claims that the Debtor made no payments under the installment agreement that he entered into in November 2013. In fact, the Debtor made payments of $3,743.93 under the installment agreement. Those payments have not been accounted for in the list of levies and payments furnished in the IRS' Opposition.

Second, the declarations attached to the Opposition discuss issues regarding unpaid business taxes from Form 941, but the associated "Account Transcripts" attached to the Opposition do not refer to 941 taxes. Instead, the Account Transcripts cite only Form 1040 taxes and civil penalties.

Third, the Debtor has located Notices of Levy from 2012, showing that on the very date that the IRS asserted that $584.43 was overdue for 1040 taxes for 2008, it assessed civil penalties in the amount of $20,000. That civil penalty calculation cannot be accurate as it represents penalties of nearly 2,000%.

Fourth, payments made under the installment agreement, in the total amount of $2,457, were applied to 1995 taxes claimed to be due. At the time, those taxes were uncollectible as being beyond the statute of limitations.

The Debtor's Claim Objection should be ordered to mediation and/or a trial. Alternatively, the Debtor is willing to offer, as a compromise, to pay the amount of taxes claimed to be due, without interest or penalties, in the amount of $93,555.25.

The Supplemental Declaration of Insolvency Advisor Neal Kakuske

Insolvency Advisor Neal Kakuske submitted a Supplemental Declaration in response to the Debtor's Reply. The representations made in the Supplemental Declaration may be summarized as follows:

The declaration submitted in connection with the IRS' Opposition to the Claim Objection erroneously stated that the Debtor had made no payments under the installment agreement. Further review of records establishes that payments under the installment agreement were made and applied as follows:

- 1) On February 4, 2014, the Debtor made the first payment under the installment agreement in the amount of $500. This payment was credited to the March 31, 1995 trust fund recovery penalty account. At the time, the collection statute was still open, due to a number of actions that tolled the collection statute.
- 2) On October 3, 2013, the IRS received $332.70 from the Debtor. This amount was credited to the Form 1040 account for the 2007 tax year.
- 3) On March 23, 2014, the IRS received $320.38 from the Debtor. This amount was credited to the Form 1040 account for the 2012 tax year. This payment was a voluntary payment received in response to a CP14 notice of balance due for the 2012 tax year.

- 4) On April 25, 2014, the IRS received $633.85 from the Debtor. This amount was credited to the Form 1040 account for the 2008 tax year. This payment was in response to the CP523 notice of default on the installment agreement.
- 5) On May 15, 2014, the IRS received $1,000 from the Debtor. This amount was credited to the trust fund recovery penalty account for the period ending March 31, 1995.
- 6) On June 19, 2014, the IRS received $1,000 from the Debtor. This amount was credited to the trust fund recovery penalty account for the period ending March 31, 1995.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Under Bankruptcy Rule 3001(f), a proof of claim executed and filed in accordance with the Bankruptcy Rules constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. To overcome the presumption of validity created by a timely-filed proof of claim, an objecting party must do one of the following: (1) object based on legal grounds and provide a memorandum of points and authorities setting forth the legal basis for the objection; or (2) object based on a factual ground and provide sufficient evidence (usually in the form of declarations under penalty of perjury) to create triable issues of fact. In re G.I. Indus., Inc., 204 F.3d 1276, 1280 (9th Cir. BAP 2000); In re Medina, 205 B.R. 216, 222 (9th Cir. BAP 1996); In re Hemingway Transport, Inc., 993 F.2d 915, 925 (1st Cir. 1993). Upon objection, a proof of claim provides "some evidence as to its validity and amount" and is "strong enough to carry over a mere formal objection without more." See Lundell v. Anchor Constr. Spec., Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000) (citing In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991)). An objecting party bears the burden and must "show facts tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations of the proofs of claim themselves." Holm, 931 F.2d at 623. When the objector has shown enough evidence to negate one or more facts in the proof of claim, the burden shifts back to the claimant to prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of evidence. See Lundell, 223 F.3d at 1039 (citation omitted).

Proof of Claim 2-2 is allowed as a secured claim in the amount of $152,073.43 (which is the full amount claimed by the IRS). The Debtor contends that the claim is inflated, not having been properly reduced by amounts that the IRS seized or levied.

Chapter 11

The Debtor is mistaken. IRS Insolvency Advisor Neal Kakuske has submitted detailed declarations in support of the amounts claimed which are accompanied by extensive documentation. Only a small portion of that extensive documentation has been reproduced in the tables above. The Kakuske declarations and the accompanying supporting documentation establish that the IRS' Proof of Claim accurately reflects the Debtor's tax liability, and that the IRS has properly applied past levies and refund seizure to outstanding taxes that the Debtor owed.

The Debtor hones in on an inconsequential error in one of Mr. Kakuske's declarations—a statement that the Debtor made no payments under the 2013 installment agreement. The oversight was quickly corrected in a subsequent declaration submitted by Mr. Kakuske which explains in detail how the installment payments made by the Debtor were applied. The presence of such an error does not, as the Debtor contends, cast doubt upon the accuracy of the IRS' accounting. In view of the twenty-year history of the IRS' attempts to collect from the Debtor the taxes which he owes, the inconsequential oversight is understandable.

The Debtor attempts to distract from the issue of the unpaid taxes with allegations that Revenue Agent James Eliff has "mercilessly harassed" him. It hardly bears repeating that tax collection officials are never popular and that taxpayers do not like tax enforcement procedures. The Debtor's ad hominem attacks upon Mr. Eliff are wholly inappropriate.

The Debtor's tactic in the instant Claim Objection is best reflected by an e-mail that the Debtor sent to United States Attorney Jolene Tanner on November 10, 2017 (Doc. No. 153, Ex. E). It provides:

I am still in the process of reviewing the transcripts, but I have a question for you, out of curiosity. If I had been able to work out an Offer in Compromise with Mr. Elliff before I filed my bankruptcy, would I have been able to negotiate a discount off of the amount set forth in the IRS' Amended Proof of Claim?

Simply put, the Claim Objection is nothing more than the Debtor's continued attempt to obtain a tax discount. The Debtor is not entitled to a discount; he owes the full amount of taxes set forth in the IRS' Proof of Claim. And in the absence of any genuine disputed issues of fact, the Debtor is not entitled to a trial in connection with the Claim Objection. Indeed, to indulge the Debtor's request—made only to increase his bargaining leverage with the IRS—would be a derogation of this Court's responsibility to the public, as it would require the IRS to spend further taxpayer performed by Mr. Fuchs and his associate, Gail S. Gilfillan. Fuchs Decl. [Doc. No. 44] at ¶1.

On October 25, 2017, the Court approved the Debtor's motion to sell real property located at 17726 Calle de Palermo, Pacific Palisades, CA 90272 (the "Residence"). Doc. No. 62 (the "Sale Order"). As ordered by the Court, the sales proceeds of the Residence are currently being held on deposit in the Court's registry.

The Debtor seeks approval of the Disclosure Statement filed in connection with his Chapter 11 Plan (the "Plan"). The Plan's material terms are as follows:

- 1) The Bank of New York Mellon will hold an allowed secured claim in the amount of $1,392,136.22 and will receive a regular monthly payment of $8,164.33.
- 2) Ocwen Loan Servicing will hold an unimpaired secured claim and will receive regular monthly payments of $2,185.10.
- 3) Unsecured claims of $5,000 or less will receive an unspecified payment.
- 4) Three undisputed remaining claims will be paid in full.

Mercedes-Benz Financial Services ("Mercedes") objects to the Disclosure Statement on the grounds that it fails to identify the treatment of Mercedes' claim with sufficient specificity, by referring only to claims secured by auto loans. The Debtor states that he has continued to make current payments on account of Mercedes' claim and is willing to amend the Plan to provide the necessary specificity.

The Internal Revenue Service (the "IRS") objects to the Disclosure Statement because it fails to describe payments to be made on account of its claim. The Debtor asserts that the Plan does not provide for payments to the IRS because he has objected to the IRS' claim.

The United States Trustee (the "UST") asserts that the Disclosure Statement and Plan are defective for the following reasons:

- 1) the Plan is not feasible because the Debtor has monthly negative net income of $3,730.98;
- 2) the liquidation analysis does not demonstrate that creditors will receive more under the Plan than in a Chapter 7 liquidation;
- 3) the Plan fails to specify the treatment of creditors holding claims of $5,000 or less;
- 4) the Plan fails to identify priority unsecured creditors; and
- 5) recent Monthly Operating Reports filed by the Debtor show that his expenses are higher than the expenses stated in his Declaration of Current/Postpetition

Income and Expense.

Chapter 11

In Response to the UST's Opposition, the Debtor asserts that:

- 1) There is no merit to the UST's suggestion that the Monthly Operating Reports reflect higher expenses. The Debtor's expenses were temporarily higher because he recently moved; the Debtor used the $160,000 in homestead exemption proceeds that he received to fund those expenses.
- 2) With regard to the UST's objections pertaining to the liquidation analysis, a liquidation analysis is unnecessary because this is not a liquidating plan.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Having reviewed the Plan, Disclosure Statement, the objections to the Disclosure Statement filed by various parties, and the Debtor's responses to those objections, the Court finds that certain changes must be made to the Plan. The Court finds that addressing these issues now, rather than in connection with a Plan Confirmation hearing, will expedite these proceedings. The Court notes that some of the issues may stem in part from ambiguities arising from the design and structure of the optional template Plan upon which the Debtor relied.

First, Class 2a consists of the secured claim of the Bank of New York Mellon ("BNY"). The Plan states that BNY's claim is unimpaired, and provides that the total amount of the allowed claim is $1,392,136.22. However, the total allowed amount of BNY's claim is $1,648,975.29. See Order on Objections to Claims [Doc. No. 149]. The Plan must be amended to accurately state the amount of BNY's claim.

Second, Class 6 consists of convenience claims of $5,000 or less. But in subsequent briefing, the Debtor implies that Class 6 consists of claims of $5,000 or more. See Doc. No. 167 at p. 4. The composition and treatment of Class 6 claims must be clarified.

Third, the Plan does not provide for payment of the IRS' claim as a result of the Debtor's pending Claim Objection. However, the Court has found that the IRS claim is allowable in its entirety. The Amended Plan must therefore provide for the treatment of the IRS' claim in accordance with the Bankruptcy Code.

Fourth, additional specificity with regard to Mercedes' claim is necessary. It is not enough that the Plan refers merely to payments upon an automobile loan without identifying specific creditors.

Fifth, the Debtor's assertion that a Liquidation Analysis is unnecessary because this is not a liquidating plan is incorrect as a matter of law. In order to obtain plan confirmation, the Debtor must establish that the requirements of §1129(a)(7) have been met, which means completing a liquidation analysis.

By no later than April 10, 2018, the Debtor shall (1) file a First Amended Plan and First Amended Disclosure Statement and (2) notice a hearing on the adequacy of the First Amended Disclosure Statement.

The Court will enter an appropriate order.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Notice of Motion and Motion for Default Judgment [Doc. No. 31]
 - a) Amended Proof of Service Re: Notice of Motion and Motion for Default Judgment [Doc. No. 33]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Hiep Tan Tran (the “Debtor”) commenced a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on September 1, 2017. The Chapter 7 Trustee commenced fraudulent transfer and turnover actions against the Debtor and the Debtor’s brother, Tran Hung Tan. In an attempt to obtain dismissal of the fraudulent transfer actions, the Debtor filed a motion seeking voluntary dismissal of his Chapter 7 petition (the “Voluntary Dismissal Motion”). On February 8, 2018, the Court denied the Voluntary Dismissal Motion. See Final Ruling Denying Voluntary Dismissal Motion (the “Final Ruling Denying Voluntary Dismissal Motion”) [Doc. No. 35, Case No. 2:17-bk-20784-ER].

The Trustee now moves for entry of default judgment in both adversary proceedings. No opposition to either Motion for Default Judgment has been filed. This tentative ruling pertains to the proceeding captioned Timothy Yoo, Chapter 7 Trustee v. Tran Hung Tan (Adv. No. 2:17-ap-01507-ER).

By way of the underlying Complaint, the Trustee seeks to recover possession of real property located at 4335 W. 139th Street, Hawthorne, CA 90250 (the “Triplex”). The Complaint alleges that the Debtor fraudulently transferred the Triplex to the Defendant, who is the Debtor’s brother.

Chapter 11

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Base Architecture Planning & Engr Inc. (the "Debtor") commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on July 14, 2017. The Debtor is an urban design, architecture, planning, and civil engineering firm located in Los Angeles. The Debtor specializes in designing and constructing airport facilities, transit projects, municipal and civic facilities, schools, and commercial offices. The Debtor has 22 active contracts with different property owners and government agencies, which it expects to assume. The immediate cause of the petition was the entry of a judgment against the Debtor in the amount of $70,000 on May 25, 2017.

On February 20, 2018, the Debtor filed the "Supplemental to Motion for Authority to Use Cash Collateral (THIRD)" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 104]. The Debtor seeks authorization to use cash collateral in accordance with: (1) the stipulation executed between the Debtor and Citizens Business Bank (the "Bank Stipulation") [Doc. No. 85]; and (2) the stipulation executed between the Debtor and the Internal Revenue Service (the "First IRS Stipulation") [Doc. No. 26]. The Debtor states that it owes Citizens Business Bank (the "Bank") $212,120.15 as of the petition date; that the Debtor owes the IRS $500,000; that the indebtedness of the Bank is senior to the indebtedness of the IRS; that both the Bank and the IRS hold blanket liens on all the Debtor's assets; and that the Bank holds a personal guaranty against the Debtor's primary shareholder, Michael H. Anderson, as well as liens against two real properties. The Debtor seeks to extend the two stipulations through and including June 30, 2018.

The material terms of the Bank Stipulation are as follows:

- 1) The Debtor acknowledges and agrees (a) that it is liable to the Bank in the amount of $212,120.15; (b) that the Bank's indebtedness is secured by a valid, perfected security interest on substantially all assets of the Debtor; (c) and that the Bank's indebtedness constitutes an allowed claim under the Bankruptcy Code.
- 2) Solely during the operative period of the Bank Stipulation, the Debtor waives the rights (a) to surcharge the Bank's collateral pursuant to §506(c) or (b) to incur financing or indebtedness from any party other than the Bank that includes the granting by the Debtor of liens, claims, or interests in favor of such other party that are senior to or pari passu with the liens, claims, and interests in favor of the Bank.

- 3) The Debtor will make monthly adequate protection payments to the Bank in the amount of $5,000.00, commencing on November 1, 2017. As further adequate protection, the Bank will receive a replacement lien on the rents, proceeds, and profits of its collateral, with such replacement lien having the same validity, extent, and priority as the Bank's prepetition lien. In addition, if the foregoing protection is insufficient to satisfy in full the Bank's claim, the Bank will be granted a superpriority administrative claim pursuant to §507(b).
- 4) The Bank Stipulation authorizes the Debtor to use cash collateral through April 30, 2018.

The material terms of the First IRS Stipulation, which were incorporated by the Second IRS Stipulation, are as follows:

- 1) The Debtor will make monthly adequate protection payments to the United States in the amount of $500.00, retroactive to the petition date, with payments to commence within seven calendar days after the Court approves the IRS Stipulation.
- 2) As further adequate protection, the IRS will receive a replacement lien on the Debtor's post-petition accounts receivable and on all other property acquired by the Debtor subsequent to the petition, with such replacement lien having the same validity, extent, and priority as the IRS' pre-petition lien. To the extent that the foregoing protection proves insufficient, the IRS will be granted a superpriority administrative claim pursuant to §507 (b).
- 3) The Debtor must remain current on its post-petition tax obligations, including its obligation to timely make federal payroll tax deposits and estimated income tax payments.

The "Third Stipulation between Debtor and Internal Revenue Service Regarding Interim Use of Cash Collateral and Adequate Protection" (the "Third IRS Stipulation") [Doc. No. 98] was filed on February 7, 2018. The Third IRS Stipulation incorporates the material terms of the First IRS Stipulation, and stipulates that the Debtor may continue to use cash collateral in accordance with the terms of the First IRS Stipulation until March 31, 2018.

Chapter 11

The Debtor seeks to extend the terms of each of the Bank Stipulation and the Third IRS Stipulation through and including June 30, 2018.

No opposition has been filed.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Section 363(c)(2) requires court authorization for the use of cash collateral unless "each entity that has an interest in such cash collateral consents." In the Ninth Circuit, satisfaction of Section 363(c)(2)(A) requires the "affirmative express consent" of the secured creditor; "implied consent," resulting from the failure of the secured creditor to object to use of cash collateral, does not satisfy the requirements of the statute. Freightliner Market Development Corp. v. Silver Wheel Freightlines, Inc., 823 F.2d 362, 368-69 (9th Cir. 1987). Absent affirmative express consent, the Debtors "may not use" cash collateral absent the Court's determination that the use is "in accordance with the provisions" of Section 363—that is, that the secured creditor's interest in the cash collateral is adequately protected. Section 363(c)(2)(B); Section 363(e).

A secured creditor's interest is adequately protected if the value of its collateral is not declining; the secured creditor is not entitled to payment to compensate for its inability to foreclose upon the collateral during bankruptcy proceedings. United Savings Association of Texas v. Timbers of Inwood Forest Associates, Ltd., 484 U.S. 365 (1988).

The Court finds the terms of the Bank Stipulation, including the Debtor's acknowledgment of the validity of the Bank's indebtedness and its acknowledgment that the Bank holds an allowed claim under the Bankruptcy Code, to be acceptable. The terms of the Third IRS Stipulation are also acceptable. The Court, therefore, authorizes the continued use of cash collateral provided that the Debtor continues to comply with the terms of both Stipulations, including making the adequate protection payments required under the Bank Stipulation and the First IRS Stipulation.

Conclusion

In conclusion, for the reasons set forth above, the Court GRANTS the Debtor's Motion. The Debtor is authorized to use cash collateral through and including June 30, 2018, in accordance with the terms of the Third Stipulation with Citizen's Business Bank. Furthermore, having received no objection or further stipulation, the Court extends the terms of the Third IRS Stipulation through and including June 30, 2018. A hearing on whether the Debtor may use cash collateral subsequent to June 30,

#10.00 HearingRE: [239] Motion For Order Closing Case on Interim Basis.

Docket 239

Tentative Ruling:

3/14/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Motion is GRANTED in its entirety. The matter herein is decided on the papers and no appearances will be taken at March 15, 2018 scheduled hearing.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Amendment to Notice of Motion and Motion for Order Closing Case on An Interim Basis—Seeking A Final Decree Closing Case on A Final Basis (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 250]
 - a) Notice of Motion and Motion for Order Closing Case on An Interim Basis [Doc. No. 239]
- 2) Supplemental Declaration of Ali Sharifi in Support of the Motion ("Sharifi Declaration") [Doc. No. 249]
- 3) No opposition has been filed as of the date of this tentative ruling.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Unity Courier Service, Inc. (the "Debtor" or "Reorganized Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on March 31, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. The Debtor filed the First Amended Plan of Reorganization (the "Plan") [Doc. No. 189] on December 13, 2017. On February 22, 2018, the Court entered the "Order Granting Debtor's Motion for Order Confirming Debtor's First Amended Plan of Reorganization Dated December 13, 2017 As Modified" (the "Plan Confirmation Order") [Doc. No. 237]. The Effective Date of the Plan was February 26, 2018.

Chapter 11

On March 12, 2018, the Reorganized Debtor filed the "Amendment to Notice of Motion and Motion for Order Closing Case on An Interim Basis—Seeking A Final Decree Closing Case on A Final Basis" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 250].¹ [Note 1]. The Motion requests an order closing the case on a final basis pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 350 and Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3022 so that the Reorganized Debtor may avoid incurring an additional $30,000.00 in quarterly fees to the Office of the United States Trustee (the "UST"). The Motion states that, notwithstanding the disbursements under the Plan that will eventually be made by the Court to the allowed Class 3(a) claimants out of the Registry Fund, see "Motion for Order Authorizing Establishment of Registry Fund for Class 3(a) Disbursements" (the "Registry Fund Motion") [Doc. No. 238] (which is scheduled to be heard concurrently with the present Motion), and by the Reorganized Debtor to Class 3(b) claimants out of the Class 3(b) Fund, entry of a final decree closing the case should not be delayed. The Motion contends that a final decree closing the case is appropriate based on the following facts: (1) the Plan has been confirmed prior to the hearing on this Motion; (2) all payments required to be made to date under the Plan will have been made; (3) all deposits required under the Plan have been made; (4) all transfers required to be made under the Plan will have been made (with the exception of the $400,000.00 earmarked for distribution to Class 3(a) creditors that will be deposited into the Court upon entry of an order granting the Registry Fund Motion); (5) the Reorganized Debtor will have assumed the management and control of the property dealt with by the Plan; (6) all priority payments will have been made, and certain of the interval payments to be made over time will have commenced; and (7) there are no pending contested matters or adversary proceedings. See generally "Supplemental Declaration of Ali Sharifi in Support of the Motion" ("Sharifi Declaration") [Doc. No. 249].

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Section 350 of the Bankruptcy Code provides, in pertinent part:

- (a) After an estate is fully administered and the court has discharged the trustee, the court shall close the case.
- (b) A case may be reopened in the court in which such case was closed to administer assets, to accord relief to the debtor, or for other cause.

Rule 3022 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure provides that, "[a]fter an estate is fully administered in a chapter 11 reorganization case, the court, on its own motion or on motion of a party in interest, shall enter a final decree closing the case. See also Local Bankruptcy Rule 3022-1(a) ("After an estate is fully administered in a chapter 11 reorganization case, a reorganized debtor . . . may file a motion for a final decree . . ."). In determining whether the estate has been fully administered, the court considers factors including:

- (1) whether the order confirming the plan has become final, (2) whether deposits required by the plan have been distributed, (3) whether the property proposed by the plan to be transferred has been transferred, (4) whether the debtor or the successor of the debtor under the plan has assumed the business or the management of the property dealt with by the plan, (5) whether payments under the plan have commenced, and (6) whether all motions, contested matters, and adversary proceedings have been finally resolved.

Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3022, Advisory Committee Notes, 1993 Amendments.

Here, the Court finds that entry of a final decree closing the Case is appropriate under the circumstances. The Court finds that the Estate is "substantially consummated," as required under LBR 3022-1(b). The Court has confirmed the Plan, and the Reorganized Debtor has and will continue to comply with the provisions of the Plan. See Sharifi Declaration at ¶ 12. Furthermore, while there are future disbursements to be made under the Plan to Class 3(a) and 3(b) claimants from the Class 3(a) Registry Fund and the Class 3(b) Fund, respectively, such disbursements should not delay entry of a final decree closing the case because the disbursements are merely ministerial. See In re Antiquities of Nevada, Inc., 173 B.R. 926, 930 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1994) (holding that the plan had been "substantially consummated" where the reorganized debtor had "assumed management and control of the property administered under the confirmed plan, and commenced distribution of payments" under the plan); In re Mold Makers, Inc., 124 B.R. 766, 767–68 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1990) (entry of final decree closing Chapter 11 case was appropriate, after payments had begun, even though not all that was called for under plan had been done, where estate had been fully administered and plan had been consummated). As such, at the time which the disbursements are to be made under the Plan, the Court will enter an order authorizing the disbursements to be made without reopening the case, and without further notice or hearing. Lastly, the Court retains jurisdiction to, if and when the need arises, reopen the Debtor's case "to administer assets, to accord relief to the debtor, or for other cause." 11 U.S.C. § 350(b).

III. Conclusion

Based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Motion in its entirety. The Debtor shall lodge a conforming order within seven (7) days of the hearing.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. If you wish to make a telephonic appearance, contact Court Call at 888-882-6878, no later than one hour before the hearing.

Note 1: The Debtor filed the Motion, which amended a previous motion that sought only interim closure of the case [Doc. No. 239], because the Debtor's counsel was informed by the UST that if the case was reopened after being closed on an interim basis, "the UST may take the position that the Debtor is obligated to pay quarterly fees for disbursements made during the entire period which the case was originally closed . . ." Tentative Ruling:

3/14/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Motion is GRANTED in its entirety. The matter herein is decided on the pleadings and no appearances will be taken at March 15 scheduled hearing.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Notice of Motion and Motion for Order Authorizing Establishment of Registry Fund for Class 3(a) Disbursements (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 238]
- 2) No opposition has been filed as of the date of this tentative ruling.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Unity Courier Service, Inc. (the "Debtor" or "Reorganized Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on March 31, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. The Debtor filed the First Amended Plan of Reorganization (the "Plan") [Doc. No. 189] on December 13, 2017. On February 22, 2018, the Court entered the "Order Granting Debtor's Motion for Order Confirming Debtor's First Amended Plan of Reorganization Dated December 13, 2017 As Modified" (the "Plan Confirmation Order") [Doc. No. 237]. The Effective Date of the Plan was February 26, 2018.

The Motion

On February 22, 2018, the Reorganized Debtor filed the "Notice of Motion and Motion for Order Authorizing Establishment of Registry Fund for Class 3(a) Disbursements" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 238]. The Plan provides for the deposit of $400,000.00 for the benefit of holders of Allowed Claims of Class 3(a) creditors, either as individuals or as Class Representatives. The Motion seeks implementation of this provision of the Plan for the benefit of Class 3(a) Claimants. Class 3(a) currently includes the following claims: (1) Claimant Pedro Polio Class Claim in the amount of $80,867,985.71 (the "Polio Class Claim"); (2) the presumptively allowed, timely filed proofs of: (a) Claim No. 28, filed by Angela Brooks, et al., individually and on behalf of the TBS Class in the amount of $5,313,926.99 (the "TBS Class Claim"); (b) Claim No. 38 filed by Fern Thompson in the amount of $6,000.00; and (c) Claim No. 39 filed by Janey Mills in the amount of $1,735.71; and (3) the informal proof of claim by Joan Velarde, on account of the certain state court complaint which was dismissed by Velarde without prejudice (the "Velarde Claim"). Pursuant to the Plan, holders of Allowed or presumptively Allowed Class 3(a) Claims must first object or otherwise resolve the informal Velarde Claim prior to any distributions from the Class 3(a) Fund.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Local Bankruptcy Rule 7067-1 sets out procedures for establishment of a registry fund. Among other things, LBR 7067-1 requires a court order prior to funds being sent to the court or the clerk for deposit. Additionally, the party seeking authorization to deposit funds into the registry must prepare an order which complies with LBR 9004-1 and which states "(A) the exact amount to be deposited; (B) that the funds are to be deposited into an interest bearing account; and (C) that the funds will remain on deposit until further order of the court." LBR 7067-1(a)(2). The order must also contain the language set forth in LBR 7067-1(a)(2). The funds must be submitted to the clerk by check or money order made payable to "U.S. Bankruptcy Court" in the exact amount specific in the court order. LBR 7067-1(a)(3).

Here, the Court GRANTS the Motion. The confirmed Plan provides for the deposit of $400,000.00 for the benefit of holders of Allowed Claims of Class 3(a) creditors, either as individuals or as Class Representatives. The Court finds that the proposed order, which is attached as "Exhibit 1" to the Motion, meets the requirements of LBR 7067-1. The Debtor is willing and able to establish the $400,000 Registry Fund, and the Debtor shall deliver such funds to the Clerk of the Court upon entry of the order granting this Motion pursuant to 7067-1(a)(3).

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

On October 31, 2017, BuildDirect.com Technologies, Inc. (the "Debtor"), commenced a proceeding in the Supreme Court of British Columbia (the "Canadian Court") under Canada's Companies; Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 (the "Canadian Proceeding"), in order to restructure the Debtor's finances. Thereafter, the court in the Canadian Proceeding appointed PricewaterhouseCoopers, Inc., as monitor (the "Monitor"), and the Debtor as Foreign Representative in the Canadian Proceeding under 11 U.S.C § 1505. The Canadian Court authorized the Debtor to commence proceedings under 11 U.S.C § 1501 et seq. to have the Canadian Proceeding recognized as the "foreign main proceeding," pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1515.

The Debtor filed a Chapter 15 Petition for Recognition of Foreign Proceeding (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1] on November 1, 2017. The Debtor filed the "Emergency Motion for Foreign Representative for Entry of Provisional and Final Orders Granting Relief Pursuant to Sections 362, 365(e), 1517, 1519, 1520, 1521, and 105(a) of United States Bankruptcy Code" (the "Motion for Provisional Order") [Doc. No. 4] on November 2, 2017. The Debtor concurrently filed the "Petition for Recognition of Foreign Proceeding" (the "Petition for Recognition") [Doc. No. 3]. On November 2, 2017, the Court issued the "Order Setting Hearing on Emergency Motion for Entry of Provisional Order" [Doc. No. 6], which scheduled a hearing on the Motion for Provisional Order for November 3, 2017. Following the hearing on November 3, 2017, the Court entered the "Provisional Order Granting [Related Relief]" [Doc. No. 14] and scheduled a final hearing on recognition of the Petition for December 6, 2017. Following the final hearing, on December 8, 2017, the Court entered the "Order Granting Recognition of Foreign Main Proceedings and Related Relief" (the "Recognition Order") [Doc. No. 30], which granted the Petition and recognized the Canadian Proceeding, and all prior proceedings held therein, as a foreign proceeding and foreign main proceeding pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1517. The Recognition Order further stated that "The Canadian Proceedings and all terms of the Canadian Order shall be and hereby are granted comity in the United States."

The Canadian Court subsequently granted further relief that enabled the Debtor to proceed with its restructuring efforts. See "Motion for Recognition and Enforcement of Order of the Supreme Court of British Columbia Approving and Sanctioning the Plan of Compromise, Arrangement and Reorganization, Dated February 20, 2018, of BuildDirect.com Technologies Inc. and Granting Related Relief" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 39] at 9–10. Such relief included, among other things: authorization for the Debtor to carry out a certain "Sale and Investment Solicitation Process," id. at 9; the Bar Date Order setting the bar date for the filing of proofs of claim, id. at 10; and the "Meeting Order" which set March 12, 2018 as the date on which the meeting of creditors (the "Meeting") would be held and at which creditors would vote on the Plan, id.; see also "Affidavit of Suzanne Mercier in Support of the Motion" ("Mercier Affidavit") [Doc. No. 40], Exhibit D. On February 22, 2018, the Debtor filed the "Notice of Issuance by the Supreme Court of British Columbia of [Entry of the Meeting Order]" [Doc. No. 37]. The Meeting Order also sets March 13, 2018 as the date for the hearing by the Canadian Court on the application of the Debtor for entry of the "Sanction Order," the Canadian equivalent of an order confirming a Plan of Reorganization [Doc. No. 39, Exhibit B].

Summary of the Plan

On March 13, 2018, the Canadian Court entered the Order Sanctioning the Plan and Amendments to the Plan. "Notice of Issuance by the Supreme Court of British Columbia of Order Made After Application Sanctioning Plan and Amendments to Plan" (the "Sanction Order") [Doc. No. 48]. The Plan contemplates the cancellation or exchange of all existing equity interests in the Debtor and the issuance of equity interests in the Reorganized Debtor to new investors, existing "Secured Noteholders," and to other existing equity holders that are "Qualifying Investors." See Motion at 11; "Affidavit of Dan Park" ("Park Affidavit") [Doc. No. 40, Exhibit A] at ¶ 9. The Plan provides for the elimination of all existing debt, with the exception of amounts owing to Deans Knight. Id. at ¶ 7. Unsecured Creditors, whose claims total approximately $17,201,000, will receive some distributions on their allowed claims.

Motion at 11–12. The majority of Unsecured Creditors are suppliers to the Debtor and, under the Plan, suppliers will have the opportunity to continue to do business with the Reorganized Debtor. Id. at 12; Park Affidavit at ¶ 10. The Plan is contingent on the completion of the Capital Financing that is currently being undertaken by the Debtor. Motion at 12.

The Motion

The Motion, which was filed by the Debtor on February 22, 2018, seeks recognition and enforcement of the Sanction Order (the "Sanction Recognition Order"), which relief the Debtor contends is necessary to ensure that the Plan can be implemented. Motion at 15. The Debtor has limited funding to continue operations, Park Affidavit at ¶ 13; thus, the contemplated Effective Date of the Plan is March 19, 2018, see Motion at 13. As a result, the Debtor sought and received authority to convene the Meeting quickly, and is seeking entry of the Sanction Order and the Sanction Recognition Order with similar pace. Id. at 39.

The Motion additionally seeks issuance of a permanent injunction which the Debtor contends is necessary to effectuate the terms of the Plan. The Motion further requests that the court apply § 1145 and declare that the securities to be issued through Section 4.4 of the Plan are exempt from registration under the United States Securities Act of 1933, and applicable securities laws. Lastly, the Motion requests that the case be closed pursuant to §§ 1517(d) and 350.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Section 1521 of the Bankruptcy Code provides that, "Upon recognition of a foreign proceeding . . . , where necessary to effectuate the purpose of this chapter and to protect the assets of the debtor or the interests of the creditors, the court may, at the request of the foreign representative, grant any appropriate relief" 11 U.S.C. § 1521(a). Such relief includes "granting any additional relief that may be available to a trustee" subject to certain exceptions. 11 U.S.C. § 1521(a)(7). Additionally, § 1507 authorizes a court to provide "additional assistance" to a foreign representative at any time after recognition. A court determining whether to provide additional assistance under § 1507 considers the factors enumerated under subsection (b), which provides:

(b) In determining whether to provide additional assistance under this title or under other laws of the United States, the court shall consider whether such additional assistance, consistent with principles of comity, will reasonably assure

- { "pageset": "Sac" (1) just treatment of all holders of claims against or interests in the debtor's property;
- (2) protection of claim holders in the United States against prejudice and inconvenience in the processing of claims in such foreign proceeding;
- (3) prevention of preferential or fraudulent dispositions of property of the debtor;
- (4) distribution of proceeds of the debtor's property substantially in accordance with the order prescribed by this title; and
- (5) if appropriate, the provision of an opportunity for a fresh start for the individual that such foreign proceeding concerns.

11 U.S.C. § 1507(b). Section 1507 has been held to include granting such relief as is necessary to consummate a plan which would be consistent with the types of relief granted in chapter 11 proceedings. See In re Rede Energia S.A., 515 B.R. 69, 90–91 (Bankr. S.D. N.Y. 2014) (granting "Plan Enforcement Relief" under §§ 1521 and 1507); "Compendium of Unpublished Authorities in Support of the Motion" [Doc. of the Sanction Order is appropriate and necessary to ensure that the Plan can be timely implemented. The Court finds that the Debtor has diligently pursued its restructuring efforts both before this Court and in the Canadian Proceeding, such that the Debtor is well-positioned to successfully reorganize. See Park Declaration at ¶¶ 6–22. Consistent with the provisions of § 1507, recognition of the Sanction Order will reasonably assure: (1) the just treatment of holders of claims and interests through the consummation of the Plan; (2) the Plan and the Canadian Proceeding did not prejudice or inconvenience creditors in the United States because the Debtor took appropriate steps to provide notice of the Bar Date Order by lodging such order with the Court, see Doc. No. 34, and the Plan does not discriminate based on citizenship; (3) the Sanction Order and Plan provide for equitable distributions to holders of similarly situated claims; and (4) the Sanction Order and Plan are substantially similar to what a United States confirmation order and Chapter 11 plan typically provide.

Based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Motion for recognition and enforcement of the Sanction Order.

Permanent Injunction

Section 304(b)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code "gives bankruptcy courts broad authority to issue an injunction" to "enable all claims against a foreign debtor to be handled in the same forum, if the foreign forum meets certain criteria" In re Manning, 236 B.R. 14, 22 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1999). "In determining whether to enjoin creditors under § 304(b)(1), bankruptcy courts 'shall be guided by what will best assure an economical and expeditious administration of [the foreign bankruptcy] estate.'" Id. (citing 11 U.S.C. § 304(c)). Section 304(c) sets forth the following factors that the court should consider in making a determination under § 304(b):

- (1) just treatment of all holders of claims against or interests in such estate;
- (2) protection of claim holders in the United States against prejudice and inconvenience in the processing of claims in such foreign proceeding;
- (3) prevention of preferential or fraudulent dispositions of property of such estate;
- (4) distribution of proceeds of such estate substantially in accordance with the order prescribed by this title;
- (5) comity; and
- (6) if appropriate, the provision of an opportunity for a fresh start for the individual that such foreign proceeding concerns.

Chapter 15

See also In re Manning, 236 B.R. at 23.

For the same reasons as were discussed above—because the inquiry under § 304 (c) for issuance of an injunction substantially mirrors the inquiry under § 1507(b) for granting "additional assistance"—the Court finds that imposition of an injunction is appropriate to assure "an economical and expeditious administration" of the Estate by ensuring the fair and efficient implementation of the Plan as approved by the Canadian Court through the Sanction Order. Granting such relief is consistent with the principles of comity and public policy.

Based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Motion for a permanent injunction to ensure the implementation of the Plan.

Section 1145: Securities to Be Issued Under the Plan

Section 1145 of the Bankruptcy Code provides a limited exemption from registration under federal and state securities law for an offer or sale of securities that are: (i) offered or sold "under a plan," § 1145(a)(1); (ii) of the debtor, of an affiliate participating in a joint plan with the debtor or of a successor to the debtor under the plan," id.; and (iii) "in exchange for a claim against, an interest in, or a claim for an administrative expense in the case concerning, the debtor or such affiliate," § 1145(a)(1)(A). Section 1145 "shield[s] from liability under the federal securities laws those individuals participating in the reorganization of an entity in bankruptcy" in order to "encourage satisfaction of debts or other existing interests in the debtor." U.S. S.E.C. v. Universal Exp., Inc., 475 F.Supp.2d 412, 425 (S.D. N.Y. 2007) (quoting Collier on Bankruptcy, ¶ 1145.02[1][a] (15th ed. 2006)).

Here, the Court finds that § 1145 relief may be granted as "additional relief" under § 1521(a) because it is relief available to a chapter 11 debtor in possession. Alternatively, § 1145 relief is authorized under § 1507 as "additional assistance," because it is consistent with the principles of comity, and will reasonably assure a just and efficient administration of the Estate. Section 1145 relief is appropriate because: (i) the Series I Shares are to be issued "under the plan," specifically Section 4.4 of the Plan consistent with § 1145(a)(1); (ii) because the Debtor is a "debtor" under § 1502, the securities are to be offered or sold by a debtor consistent with § 1145(a)(1); and

(iii) the Series I Shares are being offered "in exchange for a claim against [or] an interest in . . . the debtor," consistent with § 1145(a)(1)(A).

Based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Motion for relief under § 1145. The Series I Shares are exempted from registration consistent with the provisions of § 1145.

Closing of the Chapter 15 Case

Section 1517(d) of the Bankruptcy Code provides that, "A case under this chapter may be closed in the manner prescribed under section 350." Section 350 of the Bankruptcy Code provides, in pertinent part:

(a) After an estate is fully administered and the court has discharged the trustee, the court shall close the case.

(b) A case may be reopened in the court in which such case was closed to administer assets, to accord relief to the debtor, or for other cause.

Rule 3022 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure provides that, "[a]fter an estate is fully administered in a chapter 11 reorganization case, the court, on its own motion or on motion of a party in interest, shall enter a final decree closing the case. See also Local Bankruptcy Rule 3022-1(a) ("After an estate is fully administered in a chapter 11 reorganization case, a reorganized debtor . . . may file a motion for a final decree . . ."). In determining whether the estate has been fully administered, the court considers factors including:

- (1) whether the order confirming the plan has become final, (2) whether deposits required by the plan have been distributed, (3) whether the property proposed by the plan to be transferred has been transferred, (4) whether the debtor or the successor of the debtor under the plan has assumed the business or the management of the property dealt with by the plan, (5) whether payments under the plan have commenced, and (6) whether all motions, contested matters, and adversary proceedings have been finally resolved.

Chapter 15

Bankruptcy Rule 5009(c) provides that:

A foreign representative in a proceeding recognized under § 1517 of the Code shall file a final report when the purpose of the representative's appearance in the court is completed. The report shall describe the nature and results of the representative's activities in the court. The foreign representative shall transmit the report to the United States trustee, and give notice of its filing to the debtor, all persons or bodies authorized to administer foreign proceedings of the debtor, all parties to litigation pending in the United States in which the debtor was a party at the time of the filing of the petition, and such other entities as the court may direct. The foreign representative shall file a certificate with the court that notice has been given. If no objection has been filed by the United States trustee or a party in interest within 30 days after the certificate is filed, there shall be a presumption that the case has been fully administered.

Fed. R. Bankr. P. 5009(c).

Here, the Court finds that the Motion adequately describes the Foreign Representative's activities in this chapter 15 case and contains all necessary details for a final report. Therefore, as soon as the Effective Date and Effective Time have occurred and the Order on this Motion has become final and non-appealable (collectively, the "Final Steps"), the Foreign Representative is authorized to file a declaration that the Final Steps have occurred, and a Motion for Final Decree in this case and a proposed order, which the Court will enter without further notice or hearing.

III. Conclusion

Based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Motion in its entirety.

#100.00 HearingRE: [932] Motion to Consolidate Lead Case 2:15-bk-21624-ER with 2:15-bk-21626-ER (Lev, Daniel)

Docket 932

Tentative Ruling:

3/14/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Motion is GRANTED in its entirety. The matter will be decided on the pleadings and no hearing will be held.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Chapter 7 Trustee's Motion for Order Authorizing Substantive Consolidation of the Estate of Harry Roussos and the Estate of Theodosios Roussos (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 932]
 - a) Notice of Motion [Doc. No. 933]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

The Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee") moves to substantively consolidate the estate of Theodosios Roussos into the estate of Harry Roussos, such that the assets of and claims against both estates are treated as existing against only a single pooled estate. No opposition to the Motion is on file.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Substantive consolidation is a general equitable power of the Bankruptcy Court. The procedure combines the assets and liabilities of multiple estates into a single pooled estate, and is used to avoid prejudice to creditors who have dealt with multiple entities as a single entity. In the Ninth Circuit, substantive consolidation is appropriate where (1) creditors dealt with the entities as a single economic unit and did not rely on their separate identity in extending credit or where (2) the affairs of the debtors are so entangled that consolidation would benefit all creditors. Alexander v. Compton (In re Bonham), 229 F.3d 750 (9th Cir. 2000).

Here, the second prong of the Bonham test is satisfied. The affairs of Theodosios and Harry Roussos are inextricably entangled. Both brothers jointly participated in the sale transactions that gave rise to the litigation in this case. Consolidation benefits all creditors by increasing the distribution they will receive on account of their claims. Treatment of the two estates as a single estate will reduce administrative costs and thus increase all creditors' recovery.

Docket 78

Tentative Ruling:

3/15/2018

As this is the latest relief from stay filed in connection with this Debtor who has no connection to the subject Property, the court finds that this case has been "highjacked" by entities acting in bad faith and with no connection to the Debtor. Hereafter, relief from stay will be granted in this case upon 24 hour's notice and with a declaration from the Debtor or its counsel that disclaims any interest in the subject property. No hearing will be held.

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to §§ 362(d)(1), (d)(2) and (d)(4). The Court finds that the Property is not necessary to an effective reorganization in this case. The Court makes no findings with respect to whether the Debtor was involved in a fraudulent scheme.

The 14-day period specified in Fed.R.Bankr.P. 4001(a)(3) is waived. This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. If recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, the order shall be binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect such real property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of such order by the Court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from such order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and a hearing. Any Federal, State, or local governmental unit that accepts notices of interests or liens in real property shall accept a certified copy of this order for indexing and recording.

The Movant shall submit a conforming order within seven days of the hearing.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Radiology Support Devices, Inc., the Debtor and debtor in possession (the "Debtor"), seeks approval of the "First Amended Disclosure Statement Describing Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization Dated February 12, 2018 of Radiology Support Devices, Inc." (the "Disclosure Statement" or "DS") [Doc. No. 200], and confirmation of the "First Amended Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization Dated February 12, 2018 of Radiology Support Devices, Inc." (the "Plan") [Doc. No. 201].

Background

The Debtor commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on February 21, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. The Debtor manufactures and sells specialized anthropomorphic mannequins (known as "phantoms") designed for medical testing, teaching, training, radiology, oncology, and health physics. The phantoms are used to test and calibrate x-ray equipment and radiation cancer treatments to measure the amount of radiation that would otherwise be delivered to a patient. Matthew Alderson is the president, sole owner, and 100% shareholder of the Debtor. The Debtor employs seventeen employees, consisting of Mr. Alderson, an office manager, and fifteen manufacturing employees.

The Debtor had a backlog of approximately $310,838.00 worth of orders around the date of the Petition because of Chawalit Krautim's alleged refusal to train the Debtor's employees in the proprietary production process. The Debtor hired a new production manager, Lawrence King, who has been effective in reducing the backlog of orders, and promoted a longtime employee, Mario Sanchez, to shop supervisor, who has helped stabilize the production department. The Debtor reacquired most of the stolen molds. The Debtor also reversed engineered at least one of the lost designs (known as the "breathing phantom") with the help of Dr. Robert Wallace, a medical physicist, and contracted Dr. Jay Phan to assist with production of radioactive isotopes in the molds, further helping to alleviate the Debtor's backlog. The Debtor was also able to retain a critical supplier to ensure the output of a superior quality product. As a result of these efforts, the Debtor's previous average in shipments during the three months preceding bankruptcy to the three months post-petition, increased approximately from $95,666.00 to $175,666.66.

Claim Objections

On September 14, 2017, the Debtor filed the "Motion for Order to Disallow Late Filed Claim of Daniel Krautim [Claim #9]" (the "Daniel Krautim Claim Objection") [Doc. No. 129]. On October 30, 2017, the Court entered the Order Granting the Daniel Krautim Claim Objection [Doc. No. 152] and Disallowed the Daniel Krautim Claim in its entirety.

On November 6, 2017, the Debtor filed the "Motion for Order to Disallow Late Filed Claim of Chawalit Krautim [Claim #10]" (the "Chawalit Krautim Claim Objection") [Doc. No. 160]. On December 13, 2017, the Court entered the Order Granting the Chawalit Krautim Claim Objection [Doc. No. 170] and Disallowed the Chawalit Krautim Claim in its entirety.

On December 1, 2017, the Debtor filed the "Motion for Order to Disallow Late Filed Claim of Michael Kohrman [Claim #8]" (the "Kohrman Claim Objection") [Doc. No. 166]. On January 4, 2018, the Court entered the Order Granting the Kohrman Claim Objection [Doc. No. 185] and disallowed the Kohrman Claim in its entirety.

Summary of the Disclosure Statement and Plan

The Plan will pay all allowed claims in full. The effective date of the Plan is May 1, 2018 (the "Effective Date").

The Disclosure Statement outlines the following administrative claims, which include certain professional fees and expenses (3–6 below) that will only be paid after Court approval:

- (1) the Clerk's Office fees in the amount of $0, see Disclosure Statement at 22;
- (2) the Office of the United States Trustee fees in the amount of $4,875.00 per quarter, paid in full on the Effective Date and every quarter thereafter until the entry of a final decree, see id.;
- (3) the Debtor's general bankruptcy counsel, Weintraub and Selth, APC, in the estimated amount of $140,000.00, paid in monthly installments based on the Debtor's sales and cash position but shall not be less than $10,000.00 per month (with deposits beginning in February 2018) and shall not exceed $30,000.00 per month, see id. at 22 & Exhibit B ("Cash Projections");
- (4) the Debtor's financial consultant, Hiramatsu & Associates, in the approximate amount of $70,000.00, paid in monthly installments based on the Debtor's sales and cash position but shall not be less than $4,000.00 per month (with deposits beginning in February 2018) and shall not exceed $8,000.00 per month, see id. at 23 & Exhibit B;
- (5) the Debtor's special litigation counsel, Sheppard, Mullin, Richter & Hampton ("SMRH"), in the amount of $27,500.00, which amount includes the $10,000.00 retainer paid by the Debtor to SMRH in January 2018, with the remaining balance of $17,500.00 to be deposited in the trust account of SMRH on the Effective Date, id.; and
- (6) the Debtor's special litigation counsel, Tiedt & Hurd ("T&H"), in the amount of $10,000.00, paid in five monthly instalments of $2,000.00 commencing on the Effective Date.

Priority Tax Claims

Second, the Disclosure Statement lists the following priority tax claims:

- (1) the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") in the amount of $55,184.48, which pursuant to the "Stipulation for [Plan] Treatment of Claim of the [IRS]" (the "IRS Stipulation") [Doc. No. 177], will be paid in monthly payments in the amount of $2,396.38 over a period of 24 months, with payments commencing on the Effective Date;

- (2) the Los Angeles Treasurer and Tax Collector in the amount of $961.80, to be paid in full on the Effective Date, and
- (3) the Franchise Tax Board ("FTB") in the claimed amount of $3,439.06, paid in monthly payments in the amount of $292.84 for a period of 12 months commencing on the Effective Date.

Classified Claims & Interests

The Debtor lists the following secured claims in Classes 1 through 3, respectively:

- (1) Class 1: Citibank, N.A., as an impaired class in the amount $86,457.52 to be paid in full in monthly payments of $1,352.64, with interest calculated at 4% per annum, beginning on the Effective Date and ending on the sixth anniversary of the Effective Date;
- (2) Class 2: Wells Fargo Bank ("Wells") as an impaired class in the amount $435,210.92 to be paid in full in monthly payments of $7,367.78, with interest calculated at 6.75% per annum, beginning on the Effective Date and ending on the sixth anniversary of the Effective Date; and
- (3) Class 3: Clay Lorinsky as an impaired class in the amount $50,000.00 to be paid in full in monthly payments of $805.25, with interest calculated at 5% per annum, beginning on the Effective Date and ending on the sixth anniversary of the Effective Date.

Thereafter, the Debtor outlines the following claims in Classes 4 through 6, respectively:

- (1) Class 4: General unsecured claims ("General Unsecured Creditors") as an impaired class in the amount of $205,508.48, paid $2,964.14 per month, with interest calculated at 1.17% (the current Federal Judgment Rate) to 1.25% per annum, beginning on the Effective Date and ending on the sixth anniversary of the Effective Date; and

(2) Class 5: General unsecured claim of Wilmington Associates in the amount of $46,232.32, which claim, pursuant to the First [Doc. No. 114] and Second [Doc. No. 198] Stipulations for Plan Treatment of Wilmington Associates' Claim, will be paid in full with a payment of $5,740.00 paid on the Effective Date, plus monthly payments of $3,374.36 commencing on the Effective Date for a period of 12 months; and

(3) Class 6: Mr. Alderson will retain all equity interests in the Reorganized Debtor.

Assumption of Unexpired Lease

The Debtor intends to assume the unexpired landlord's lease, dated January 12, 1989 ("Lease"), with Wilmington Associates. The Debtor will cure the arrears of the Lease, estimated at $28,492.38, over a period of twelve months.

Effectuating the Plan

The Debtor estimates that it will have $179,842.00 cash on hand on the Effective Date after making Plan payments. See Disclosure Statement, Exhibit B ("Cash Projections"). Based on the Cash Projections, the Debtor predicts a total yearly income (for the remainder of 2017) at $949,739.00 and yearly expense, including the total debt service, of $892,219.00, leaving about $57,520.00 in positive net cash flow annually. Disclosure Statement, Exhibit B.

Mr. Alderson will continue to manage the Debtor and remain as president. Attached to the Disclosure Statement is a liquidation analysis ("Liquidation Analysis"). Disclosure Statement, Ex. D. The Liquidation Analysis concludes that the General Unsecured Creditors would receive nothing under chapter 7 because the Debtor's assets are its raw materials, molds, and accounts receivables, which would sell for approximately $166,790.74. Administrative costs and secured claims would leave nothing available for distribution to General Unsecured Creditors; in contrast, the Plan proposes to pay all General Unsecured Creditors in full. Further, the Debtor submits that the Plan is feasible because $55,381.00 will be necessary to make Effective Date Plan payments and the Debtor anticipates having $179,842.00 on hand after making the Effective Date payments. Furthermore, the Debtor anticipates based on the Debtor's Monthly Operating reports that it will have sufficient post-petition net income to make the monthly Plan payments which total approximately $14,886.00.

Finally, the Debtor designates the risk factors under the Plan as including: (1) a decline in the training of x-ray technicians, triggering a decline in demand for the Debtor's products; (2) new technological advances that render the Debtor's products obsolete; and (3) production issues.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

The Debtor seeks approval of the Disclosure Statement, and Confirmation of the Plan.

Adequacy of Disclosure Statement

Section 1125 requires a disclosure statement to contain "information of a kind, and in sufficient detail, as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records . . . that would enable. . . a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan." In determining whether a disclosure statement provides adequate information, "the court shall consider the complexity of the case, the benefit of additional information to creditors and other parties in interest, and the cost of providing additional information." 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a). Courts interpreting § 1125(a) have explained that the "primary purpose of a disclosure statement is to give the creditors the information they need to decide whether to accept the plan." In re Monnier Bros., 755 F.2d 1336, 1342 (8th Cir. 1985). Relevant factors for evaluating the adequacy of a disclosure statement may include: (1) the events which led to the filing of a bankruptcy petition; (2) a description of the available assets and their value; (3) the anticipated future of the company; (4) the source of information stated in the disclosure statement; (5) a disclaimer; (6) the present condition of the debtor while in Chapter 11; (7) the scheduled claims; (8) the estimated return to creditors under a Chapter 7 liquidation; (9) the accounting method utilized to produce financial information and the name of the accountants responsible for such information; (10) the future management of the debtor; (11) the Chapter 11 plan or a summary thereof; (12) the estimated administrative expenses, including attorneys' and accountants' fees; (13) the collectability of accounts receivable; (14) financial information, data, valuations or projections relevant to the creditors' decision to accept or reject the Chapter 11 plan; (15) information relevant to the risks posed to creditors under the plan; (16) the actual or projected realizable value from recovery of preferential or otherwise voidable transfers; (17) litigation likely to arise in a nonbankruptcy context; (18) tax attributes of the debtor; and (19) the relationship of the debtor with affiliates.

Here, the Court finds that the Disclosure Statement satisfies many of the relevant Metrocraft factors, including: (1) the events which led to the filing of a bankruptcy petition; (2) a description of the available assets and their value; (3) the anticipated future of the company; (4) the source of information stated in the disclosure statement; (5) a disclaimer; (6) the present condition of the debtor while in Chapter 11; (7) the scheduled claims; (8) the estimated return to creditors under a Chapter 7 liquidation; (10) the future management of the debtor; (11) the Chapter 11 Plan or a summary thereof; (12) the estimated administrative expenses, including attorneys' and accountants' fees; (14) financial information, data, valuations or projections relevant to the creditors' decision to accept or reject the Chapter 11 Plan; (15) information relevant to the risks posed to creditors under the Plan; and (18) tax attributes of the debtor.

Based on the foregoing, the Court finds that the Disclosure Statement contains adequate information and, therefore, the Court APPROVES the Disclosure Statement.

Confirmation of the Plan

As set forth below, the Court finds that the Plan complies with all applicable provisions of § 1129.

Section 1129(a)(1)

Section 1129(a)(1) requires that the "plan compl[y] with the applicable provisions of this title." According to the Collier, the "legislative history suggests that the applicable provisions are those governing the plan's internal structure and drafting: 'Paragraph (1) requires that the plan comply with the applicable provisions of chapter 11, such as section 1122 and 1123, governing classification and contents of a plan.'" Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 1129.01[1] (16th rev'd ed.) (citing S. Rep. No. 989, 95th Cong., 2d Sess. 126 (1978)).

1. Section 1122(a)

Section 1122(a) provides that "a plan may place a claim or an interest in a particular class only if such claim or interest is substantially similar to the other claims or interests of such class."

Each of the secured claims is classified separately, as is appropriate because each secured claimant has unique rights with respect to specific collateral. The claims of unsecured creditors in Class 4 are substantially similar to each other. Class 5 consists of only the general unsecured claim of Wilmington Associates. Class 6 consists of the equity interest of Matthew Alderson. The Plan satisfies § 1122(a).

2. Section 1122(b)

Section 1122(b) provides that "a plan may designate a separate class of claims consisting only of every unsecured claim that is less than or reduced to an amount that the court approves as reasonable and necessary for administrative convenience."

The Plan separately classifies the unsecured claim of Wilmington Associates, and this classification is appropriate under the circumstances considering the Court-approved stipulations regarding the treatment of this claim. The Plan satisfies § 1122 (b).

3. Section 1123(a)(1)

Section 1123(a)(1) requires that a plan "designate ... classes of claims, other than claims of a kind specified in section 507(a)(2) [administrative expense claims], 507(a)(3) [claims arising during the gap period in an involuntary case], or 507(a)(8) [priority tax claims], and classes of interest."

There are no involuntary gap claims because this is a voluntary Chapter 11 case. The Plan separately classifies § 507(a)(2) administrative expense claims and § 507(a)(8) priority tax claims. The Plan satisfies § 1123(a)(1).

4. Section 1123(a)(2)

Section 1123(a)(2) requires that the plan "specify any class of claims or interests that is not impaired under the plan."

The only unimpaired class is Class 6, which consists of Matthew Alderson's equity interests in the Debtor. The Plan specifies that Class 6 is not impaired and that Matthew Alderson is not entitled to vote on the Plan. The Plan satisfies § 1123(a)(2).

5. Section 1123(a)(3)

Section 1123(a)(3) requires that the plan "specify the treatment of any class of claims or interests that is impaired under the plan."

The description of each class set forth in Sections III.C.1–4 of the Plan details the treatment of the impaired class. The Plan satisfies § 1123(a)(3).

6. Section 1123(a)(4)

Section 1123(a)(4) requires that the Plan "provide the same treatment for each claim or interest of a particular class unless the holder of a particular claim or interest agrees to a less favorable treatment of such particular claim or interest."

The Plan provides the same treatment to claims and interests of the same class. The Plan satisfies § 1123(a)(4).

7. Section 1123(a)(5)

Section 1123(a)(5) requires that the plan "provide adequate means for the plan's implementation."

Chapter 11

The Plan describes the means for implementation of the Plan's provisions. The Plan provides for funding from: the Debtor's cash on hand on the Effective Date which is estimated to be $179,842.00 after Effective Date payments are made; and the Debtor's cash received from ongoing operations which, as set forth in the Cash Projections, are adequate for plan implementation. The Plan satisfies § 1123(a)(5).

8. Section 1123(a)(6)

Section 1123(a)(6) provides: "[A] plan shall provide for the inclusion in the charter of the debtor, if the debtor is a corporation ..., of a provision prohibiting the issuance of nonvoting equity securities, and providing, as to the several classes of securities possessing voting power, an appropriate distribution of such power among such classes, including, in the case of any class of equity securities having a preference over another class of equity securities with respect to dividends, adequate provisions for the election of directors representing such preferred class in the event of default in the payment of such dividends."

The Plan includes only one equity class; therefore, the Plan satisfies §1123(a)(6).

9. Section 1123(a)(7)

Section 1123(a)(7) requires that the plan's provisions with respect to the selection of officers and directors be consistent with public policy and the interests of creditors and equity security holders.

The Plan provides that, on the Effective Date, the Reorganized Debtor will be managed by Matthew Alderson, its sole shareholder. Mr. Alderson has the requisite experience to operate the Reorganized Debtor. The Plan satisfies § 1123(a)(7).

10. Section 1123(b)

Section 1123(b) sets forth provisions that are permitted, but not required, in a plan of reorganization.

The Plan contains certain of § 1123(b)'s optional provisions including subparagraphs (1), (2), (3). The Plan is consistent with § 1123(b).

Section 1129(a)(2)

Section 1129(a)(2) requires that the "proponent of the plan compl[y] with the applicable provisions of this title."

Chapter 11

The Court finds that the Debtor as Plan proponent has:

- 1) Obtained Court approval of a Disclosure Statement in accordance with § 1125 (as is set forth above in the section on the "Adequacy of the Disclosure Statement"); and
- 2) Obtained Court approval of the employment of professional persons (see Order Granting Application for Authority to Employ Weintraub & Selth, APC as General Bankruptcy Counsel [Doc. No. 42]).

Accordingly, the Debtor has satisfied the requirements of § 1129(a)(2).

Section 1129(a)(3)

Section 1129(a)(3) requires that the "plan has been proposed in good faith and not by any means forbidden by law." As one court has explained:

The term 'good faith' in the context of 11 U.S.C. § 1129(a)(3) is not statutorily defined but has been interpreted by case law as referring to a plan that 'achieves a result consistent with the objectives and purposes of the Code.' 'The requisite good faith determination is based on the totality of the circumstances.'

In re Melcher, 329 B.R. 865, 876 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2005) (internal citations omitted).

The Plan presented here seeks results consistent with the purposes and objectives of the code. The Debtor negotiated the Plan provisions with its secured creditors and at least one member of each of the unsecured creditor classes. No objections to Plan Confirmation have been filed. The terms and conditions of the Plan allow the Debtor's business to reorganize while paying creditors at least as much as such creditors would receive in a Chapter 7 liquidation. The Plan satisfies §1129(a)(3).

Section 1129(a)(4)

Section 1129(a)(4) requires that "[a]ny payment made or to be made by the proponent, by the debtor, or by a person issuing securities or acquiring property under the plan, for services or for costs and expenses in or in connection with the case, or in connection with the plan and incident to the case, has been approved by, or is subject to the approval of, the court as reasonable."

The Plan provides for payment of attorney and other professional fees only upon application to, and approval by, the Court. The Plan satisfies § 1129(a)(4).

Section 1129(a)(5)

Section 1129(a)(5) requires that the plan disclose "the identity and affiliations of any individual proposed to serve, after confirmation of the plan, as a director, officer, or voting trustee of the debtor, an affiliate of the debtor participating in a joint plan with the debtor, or a successor to the debtor under the plan." Section 1129(a)(5)(A)(ii) requires that the appointment to or continuation in office of an director or officer be consistent with the interests of creditors, equity security holders, and public policy. Section 1129(a)(5)(B) requires the plan proponent to disclose the identity of any insider to be employed by the reorganized debtor.

The Plan describes the current and future role of Matthew Alderson as the sole equity interest holder and President of the Debtor and the sole post-Effective Date equity interest holder and President of the Debtor. The Plan satisfies § 1129(a)(5).

Section 1129(a)(6)

Section 1129(a)(6), which requires that a governmental regulatory commission with jurisdiction over rates charged by a debtor approve any rate changes provided for in the Plan, does not apply.

Section 1129(a)(7)

Section 1129(a)(7), known as the "best interests of creditors test," provides in relevant part: "With respect to each impaired class of claims or interests, each holder of a claim or interest of such class has accepted the plan; or will receive or retain under the plan on account of such claim or interest property of a value, as of the effective date of the plan, that is not less than the amount that such holder would so receive or retain if the debtor were liquidated under chapter 7 of this title on such date."

Based upon its review of the Liquidation Analysis included with the Disclosure Statement, under Chapter 7 liquidation unsecured creditors would likely be paid 0% on their claims. Furthermore, liquidation would cause appointment of a trustee who would be entitled to compensation as an administrative expense. The Plan satisfies § 1129(a)(7).

Chapter 11

Section 1129(a)(8) requires each class to accept the plan, unless the class is not impaired. To accept a plan, members of a class must affirmatively vote in favor of the plan. In re M. Long Arabians, 103 B.R. 211, 215-16 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1989).

Classes 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 are all impaired and all such classes, with the exception of Class 1 which has not voted, voted to confirm the Plan. Because of Class 1's failure to vote, the Plan must satisfy the cramdown provisions of § 1129(b).

To be "fair and equitable," a plan must comply with the "absolute priority rule." See Case v. Los Angeles Lumber Co., 308 U.S. 106 (1939). In applying § 1129(b)(2) (B), this Court follows the approach set forth in In re Arnold, 471 B.R. 578 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2012) and applies the absolute priority rule to individual chapter 11 debtors. Collier defines that absolute priority rule:

A plan of reorganization may not allocate any property whatsoever to any junior class on account of the members' interest or claim in a debtor unless all senior classes consent, or unless such senior classes receive property equal in value to the full amount of their allowed claims, or the debtor's reorganization value, whichever is less.

7 Collier on Bankruptcy ¶ 1129.03 02 (Alan N. Resnick & Henry J. Sommer eds. 16th ed.).

As required by the Bankruptcy Code, the Plan places claims and interests into various Classes according to their priority, with the exception of the "unclassified claims" consistent with the provisions of § 1123(a)(1). The Plan complies with the absolute priority rule.

In sum, the Plan satisfies the applicable requirements of § 1129(a)(8) and § 1129 (b).

Section 1129(a)(9)

Section 1129(a)(9) requires that holders of certain administrative and priority claims receive cash equal to the allowed claim amount on the effective date of the plan, unless the claimant agrees to different treatment.

Section III.B.2 of the Plan provides for payment in full of taxing authority claims over a period not exceeding sixty months from the Petition Date. Section III.B.1 of the Plan provides that the Debtor will pay other claims allowed under § 503(b) and entitled to priority under § 507(a)(2), including United States Trustee's fees, in full on the Effective Date except to the extent that a holder of these claims agreed to other terms. The Plan satisfies § 1129(a)(9).

Section 1129(a)(10)

Section 1129(a)(10) requires that at least one class of impaired claims accept the plan.

Classes 2, 3, 4, and 5 are impaired classes that have accepted the Plan. The Plan satisfies § 1129(a)(10).

Section 1129(a)(11)

Section 1129(a)(11), known as the "feasibility requirement," requires the Court to find that "[c]onfirmation of the plan is not likely to be followed by the liquidation, or the need for further financial reorganization, of the debtor or any successor to the debtor under the plan, unless such liquidation or reorganization is proposed in the plan."

Based upon its review of the Cash Projections included with the Disclosure Statement, the Court finds that the Debtor's projected income and cash available on the Effective date are sufficient to make required plan payments. The Plan is feasible and satisfies § 1129(a)(11).

Section 1129(a)(12)

Section 1129(a)(12) requires that the Debtor pay all United States Trustee fees prior to confirmation or provide for payment of those fees on the effective date.

The Plan and the projections in the Disclosure Statement include payment of all Administrative Claims. The Plan satisfies § 1129(a)(12).

Section 1129(a)(13)

Section 1129(a)(13), which contains requirements pertaining to the payment of retirement benefits, does not apply.

Section 1129(a)(14)

Section 1129(a)(14), which contains requirements pertaining to the payment of domestic support obligations, does not apply.

Chapter 11

Section 1129(a)(15)

Section 1129(a)(15)(B) applies only to an individual case. As the Debtor is not an individual, § 1129(a)(15)(B) does not apply.

Section 1129(a)(16)

Section 1129(a)(16) provides: "All transfers of property under the plan shall be made in accordance with any applicable provisions of nonbankruptcy law that govern the transfer of property by a corporation or trust that is not a moneyed, business, or commercial corporation or trust."

The Debtor is a Corporation that engages in a business for profit and, therefore, § 1129(a)(16) does not apply.

Section 1129(d)

Section 1129(d) provides: "Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section, on request of a party in interest that is a governmental unit, the court may not confirm a plan if the principal purpose of the plan is the avoidance of taxes or the avoidance of the application of section 5 of the Securities Act of 1933."

No governmental unit has requested that the court not confirm the Plan on the grounds that the Plan's purpose is the avoidance of taxes. The Plan was proposed in good faith, and the principal purpose of the Plan is to allow the Debtor to continue operating its business while paying creditors at least as much as they would receive in a Chapter 7 liquidation. The Plan satisfies § 1129(d).

Based on the foregoing, the Debtor's Amended Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization is CONFIRMED.

III. Conclusion

For the reasons set forth above, the Court: (1) APPROVES the Disclosure Statement as containing adequate information; and (2) CONFIRMS the Debtor's Amended Plan.

The Debtor shall lodge a confirming order within seven (7) days of the hearing.

The Cash Collateral Motion and Updated Budget and Financial Projections

On February 14, 2018, the Debtors filed the "Emergency Motion for Order Authorizing Use of Cash Collateral" (the "Cash Collateral Motion") [Doc. No. 11]. The Debtors requested authorization to use cash collateral with respect to: (a) the Wilton Property; and (b) the 69th Street Property. The Court held a hearing on the Cash Collateral Motion on February 16, 2018. On February 20, 2018, the Court entered the Order Authorizing Interim Use of Cash Collateral (the "Cash Collateral Order") [Doc. No. 23]. The Cash Collateral Order set a continued hearing on the further use of cash collateral for March 21, 2018, and further ordered the Debtor to submit further evidence in support of the use of cash collateral including an updated budget and updated financial projections. On March 7, 2018, the Debtor filed the "Declaration of Michael Jay Berger with Updated Budget and Financial Projections in Support of the [Use of Cash Collateral on a Final Basis]" (the "Updated Budget and Financial Projections") [Doc. No. 33].

The Wilton Property is secured by a mortgage in favor of Rushmore Loan Management Services in the principal amount of $313,649.00 (the "Wilton Secured Creditor"), and the 69th Street Property is secured by a mortgage in favor of Wells Fargo Home Mortgage in the principal amount of $275,518.09 (the "69th Street Secured Creditor") (together, the "Secured Creditors"). The Debtors believe that the use of Cash Collateral is necessary for the Debtors to continue the Debtors' operations and to reorganize. The Debtors further believe that adequate protection in addition to continued payment of the mortgage obligations is not required under the circumstances. The Debtors seek to continue making the regular mortgage payments on each of the respective Rental Properties so as not to fall behind which will, in turn, assist the Debtors to propose a successful plan of reorganization. "Declaration of Debtors in Support of the [Cash Collateral Motion]" [Doc. No. 11]. The amounts listed below include the amounts reflected in the Updated Budget and Financial Projections which covers the period from February 2018 through July 2018. The amounts are listed as follows: (a) the Wilton Property and Budget; (b) the 69th Street Property and Budget; and (c) the Debtors' monthly projected net income for the period from February 2018 through July 2018, and the projected net business income for the same period.

Additional Relief Sought

In addition to the expenses set forth in the Updated Budget and Financial Projections, the Debtors request:

- (1) To use Cash Collateral to pay quarterly fees to the UST and to pay any required fees to the Court;
- (2) To deviate from the line item expenses in the proposed budget by no more than 15% on both a line item and aggregate basis without need to seek further order of the Court; and
- (3) Because some earmarked expenses may not be required to be paid every month, permission to use any unused amounts earmarked for expenses in subsequent months in payment of that particular expense for the duration of the period in which the Debtors are granted the use of Cash Collateral.

Unless otherwise indicated in the Cash Collateral Motion, the use of Cash Collateral is not intended to modify the rights of affected lienholders pursuant to the existing agreement between the lienholders and the Debtors.

No opposition to the further use of cash collateral has been filed as of the date of this tentative ruling.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Section 363(c)(2) requires court authorization for the use of cash collateral unless "each entity that has an interest in such cash collateral consents." In the Ninth Circuit, satisfaction of Section 363(c)(2)(A) requires the "affirmative express consent" of the secured creditor; "implied consent," resulting from the failure of the secured creditor to object to use of cash collateral, does not satisfy the requirements of the statute. Freightliner Market Development Corp. v. Silver Wheel Freightlines, Inc., 823 F.2d 362, 368–69 (9th Cir. 1987). Absent affirmative express consent, the Debtors "may not use" cash collateral absent the Court's determination that the use is "in accordance with the provisions" of Section 363—that is, that the secured creditor's interest in the cash collateral is adequately protected. Section 363(c)(2)(B); Section 363(e).

A secured creditor's interest is adequately protected if the value of its collateral is not declining; the secured creditor is not entitled to payment to compensate for its inability to foreclose upon the collateral during bankruptcy proceedings. United Savings Association of Texas v. Timbers of Inwood Forest Associates, Ltd., 484 U.S. 365, 382 (1988). Section 361 sets forth three non-exclusive examples of what may constitute adequate protection: (1) periodic cash payments equivalent to decrease in value; (2) an additional or replacement lien on other property; or (3) other relief that provides the indubitable equivalent. See In re Mellor, 734 F.2d 1396, 1400 (9th Cir. 1984). The Ninth Circuit has established that an equity cushion of 20% constitutes adequate protection for a secured creditor. Pistole v. Mellor (In re Mellor), 734 F.2d 1396, 1401 (9th Cir. 1984); see Downey Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Helionetics, Inc. (In re Helionetics, Inc.), 70 B.R. 433, 440 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1987) (holding that a 20.4% equity cushion was sufficient to protect the creditor's interest in its collateral).

Here, the Court finds that each of the Secured Creditors' interest, respectively, is adequately protected. As to the Wilton Property, the property has a value of $487,600.00 and is encumbered by a perfected security interest in favor of the Wilton Secured Creditor in the amount of $313,649.00; thus, including the estimated cost of sale, there is an equity cushion of 27.7% and, therefore, the Wilton Secured Creditor's interest is adequately protected. Furthermore, in addition to the equity cushion, the Court finds the adequate protection proposed by the Debtors, see Cash Collateral Motion at 4, adequately protects the interest of the Wilton Secured Creditor. The Debtors' proposal to continue making the regular monthly mortgage payment to the Wilton Secured Creditor in the amount of $1,980.00 qualifies as adequate protection.

As to the 69th Street Property, the property has a value of $368,000.00 and is encumbered by a perfected security interest in favor of the 69th Street Secured Creditor in the amount of $275,518.09; thus, there is an equity cushion of 17.1%. Therefore, the 69th Street Secured Creditor's interest is adequately protected. See, Va. 1980) (court decided that an equity cushion of approximately 15% to 20% was sufficient adequate protection to the creditor, even though the debtors had no equity in the property), cited with approval in In re Mellor, 734 F.2d at 1401. Furthermore, in addition to the equity cushion, the Court finds the adequate protection proposed by the Debtors, see Cash Collateral Motion at 6, adequately protects the interest of the 69th Street Secured Creditor. The Debtors' proposal to continue making the regular monthly mortgage payment to the 69th Street Secured Creditor in the amount of $1,431.00 qualifies as adequate protection.

Therefore, based on the foregoing, the Court GRANTS the Cash Collateral Motion. The Debtors' use of the Cash Collateral is authorized in accordance with the terms of the Motion and the Updated Budget and Financial Projections. The Debtors are further authorized to:

- (1) Use Cash Collateral to pay quarterly fees to the UST and to pay any required fees to the Court;
- (2) Deviate from the line item expenses in the proposed budget by no more than 15% on both a line item and aggregate basis without need to seek further order of the Court; and
- (3) Use any unused amounts earmarked for expenses in subsequent months in payment of that particular expense for the duration of the period in which the Debtors are granted the use of Cash Collateral.

The Debtors shall submit a conforming order within seven days of the hearing.

If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. If you wish to make a telephonic appearance, contact Court Call at 888-882-6878, no later than one hour before the hearing.

Note 1: The Cash Collateral Motion lists the value of the Wilton Property as $530,000 based on "Debtors' declaration as owner;" however, the Debtors' Declaration in Support of the Motion does not make any declarations regarding the value of the Wilton Property. The only evidence submitted in support of the valuation is the Debtors' Schedule D, see Cash Collateral Motion Exhibit 1, which lists the value of the Wilton Property as $487,600.00. Furthermore, based on the Debtors' calculation of equity in the Wilton Property, which is consistent with the valuation listed in Schedule D, the Debtors' seemingly made an error in listing the value as $530,000.00 in the Cash Collateral Motion. In the absence of other competent evidence, the value of the Wilton Property for the purposes of the Cash Collateral Motion shall be $487,600.00—the amount listed in the Debtors' Schedule D.

Chapter 11

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

On August 16, 2016, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors for Liberty Asset Management Corporation (the "Committee") filed a Complaint for Breach of Fiduciary Duty; Conversion; Avoidance and Recovery of Fraudulent Transfers; Money Had and Received; Unjust Enrichment; and Accounting (the "Complaint") against Tsai Luan Ho (aka Shelby Ho) and Benjamin Kirk. The Complaint seeks to avoid, as actually and constructively fraudulent, various transfers from Liberty or its investment entities to Ms. Ho. The transfers which the Committee seeks to recover from Ms. Ho include (1) property located at 126 Atherton Avenue, Atherton, CA (the "Atherton Property"), (2) property located at 88 E. San Fernando, Units 89 and 99, San Jose, CA (the "San Jose Units"), and (3) funds allegedly paid by Liberty to Ms. Ho as real estate commissions. In addition, the Complaint alleges that Ms. Ho received cash distributions by causing various other real properties to be encumbered, and seeks to recover the value of such distributions.

Ms. Ho was represented by Dykema Gossett, LLP ("Dykema") until October 5, 2017, when the Court granted Dykema's motion to withdraw from representation. On October 12, 2017, Ms. Ho retained Hinds & Shankman, LLP to replace Dykema.

The discovery cutoff in this action was June 30, 2017. See Doc. No. 11. The parties participated in two days of mediation before Peter Gurfein on June 26, 2017 and July 26, 2017. By order entered July 12, 2017 [Doc. No. 50], the Court scheduled a trial for the week of February 26, 2018. By order entered November 20, 2017, the Court continued the trial date for 90 days, to the week of May 29, 2018, so that the parties could participate in additional mediation before Rebecca Callahan. The mediation before Ms. Callahan did not result in settlement of the action.

Ms. Ho's Motion to Reopen Discovery and Continue the Trial Date

Ms. Ho moves to reopen discovery and continue the trial date. Ms. Ho makes the following arguments and representations in support of the Motion:

At the insistence of her new counsel, Ms. Ho has actively engaged in discovery from third parties designed to prove that the Committee's claims lack merit. This discovery has only recently uncovered evidence that insiders at Liberty consistently forged Ms. Ho's signature to open new bank accounts and to establish with the Secretary of State new entities in Ms. Ho's name that Liberty used in furtherance of its Ponzi scheme. Specifically, Ms. Ho has discovered (1) checks from an account at Mega Bank bearing forged signatures of Ms. Ho and (2) documents establishing the Mega Bank account also bearing forged signatures of Ms. Ho. Ho Decl. at ¶¶6–7. Ms.

Ho has also learned that Mr. Kirk and Liberty incorrectly designated various loans that Ms. Ho made to Mr. Kirk as the repayments of commissions to Ms. Ho.

Discovery in this action should be reopened so that Ms. Ho can officially share with the Committee the information that she has uncovered. Further, the trial date should be continued so that Ms. Ho can properly prepare for trial in this matter. Ms. Ho wishes to schedule the deposition of one or more former employees of Liberty related to the new evidence. Ho Decl. at ¶17.

The Committee's Opposition to the Motion

The Committee opposes the Motion, and makes the following arguments and representations in support of its Opposition:

Ms. Ho was aware of the evidence of the alleged forgeries of the Mega Bank signatures prior to the June 30, 2017 discovery cutoff. On June 13, 2017, Ms. Ho's prior counsel sent the Committee's counsel an e-mail asserting Ms. Ho's position that documents associated with the Mega Bank account contained forged signatures:

While you are waiting for my documents I am voluntarily sending you the documents we received from Mega Bank as it relates to the 88 San Fernando LLC account.

I have confirmed that each signature that which appears to be my client's has been forged.

You will see that it was set up by Vanessa and the money was deposited into this account and then went out over forged signatures.

Maybe you can find some money from the true actors.

See Opposition at Ex. C [Doc. No. 80].

Having been previously aware of the evidence which she alleges was only recently discovered, Ms. Ho has failed to demonstrate good cause for modification of the Scheduling Order. The Committee will be prejudiced by a further continuance of the trial date because its litigation expenses would be dramatically increased.

To the extent Ms. Ho asserts that reopening discovery is necessary to enable her to depose former Liberty employees, Ms. Ho has only herself to blame for not diligently pursuing discovery.

Ms. Ho's Reply in Support of the Motion

Ms. Ho makes the following arguments in Reply to the Committee's Opposition:

The Committee has failed to show that it will be substantially prejudiced by reopening discovery. The Committee claims it will suffer substantial prejudice as a result of a brief reopening of discovery. Contrary to the Committee's assertion, Ms. Ho does not seek to prolong the litigation indefinitely. Ms. Ho simply asks: What is the Committee afraid of in facing all of Ms. Ho's defenses on the merits? Is it afraid that it will not be able to prove the Complaint's allegations?

II. Findings and Conclusions

On November 20, 2017, the Court entered a Scheduling Order [Doc. No. 74] which set trial for the week of May 29, 2018, and set a pretrial conference for April 17, 2018, at 11:00 a.m. The June 30, 2017 discovery cutoff date was set by way of a Scheduling Order entered on October 21, 2016 [Doc. No. 11].

Civil Rule 16, which governs scheduling orders, provides that the dates set forth in a scheduling order "may be modified only for good cause and with the judge's consent." Civil Rule 16(a)(4). "A scheduling order is not a frivolous piece of paper, idly entered, which can be cavalierly disregarded by counsel without peril." Johnson v. Mammoth Recreations, Inc., 975 F.2d 604, 610 (9th Cir. 1992). A court's decision "to honor the terms of its binding scheduling order does not simply exalt procedural technicalities over the merits" of a case, as disregard of the scheduling order "would undermine the court's ability to control its docket, disrupt the agreed-upon course of the litigation, and reward the indolent and the cavalier." Id.

As the Ninth Circuit has further explained:

"The district court is given broad discretion in supervising the pretrial phase of litigation, and its decisions regarding the preclusive effect of a pretrial order ... will not be disturbed unless they evidence a clear abuse of discretion." ... The pretrial schedule may be modified "if it cannot reasonably be met despite the diligence of the party seeking the extension." If the party seeking the modification "was not diligent, the inquiry should end" and the motion to modify should not be granted.

Zivkovic v. S. California Edison Co., 302 F.3d 1080, 1087 (9th Cir. 2002) (internal citations omitted).

In Zivkovic, the Ninth Circuit upheld the denial of a request to modify the scheduling order, based upon a finding that counsel had not demonstrated diligence in complying with the dates set forth therein. Zivkovic, 302 F.3d at 1087.

Ms. Ho's request for modification of the Court's Scheduling Order is denied. Ms. Ho has failed to show that she was diligent in pursuing discovery. Ms. Ho maintains that discovery must be reopened because she has recently discovered evidence that her signatures on documents associated with the Mega Bank account were forged.

Chapter 11

However, communications between Ms. Ho's prior counsel and the Committee's counsel establish that Ms. Ho was aware of the alleged forgeries prior to the June 30, 2017 discovery cutoff. On June 13, 2017, Ms. Ho's prior counsel sent the Committee's counsel an e-mail which states in relevant part:

While you are waiting for my documents I am voluntarily sending you the documents we received from Mega Bank as it relates to the 88 San Fernando LLC account.

I have confirmed that each signature that which appears to be my client's has been forged.

You will see that it was set up by Vanessa and the money was deposited into this account and then went out over forged signatures.

Maybe you can find some money from the true actors.

See Opposition at Ex. C [Doc. No. 80].

Therefore, Ms. Ho had the opportunity to conduct whatever discovery she deemed necessary with respect to the alleged forgeries associated with the Mega Bank account. For unknown reasons, Ms. Ho, a real estate and business professional advised by sophisticated counsel, failed to undertake such discovery. Unfortunately, Ms. Ho's lack of diligence is not good cause for setting aside the litigation deadlines governing these proceedings.

As held by the Ninth Circuit in Zivkovic, Ms. Ho's lack of diligence is by itself sufficient to support denial of the Motion. See Zivkovic, 302 F.3d at 1087 ("If the party seeking the modification 'was not diligent, the inquiry should end' and the motion to modify should not be granted."). However, examination of the other factors which the Court may consider in connection with a request to modify a scheduling order also supports denial of the Motion. In ruling on a motion to amend a scheduling order to reopen discovery, the following factors may be considered:

- 1) whether trial is imminent,
- 2) whether the request is opposed,
- 3) whether the non-moving party would be prejudiced,
- 4) whether the moving party was diligent in obtaining discovery within the guidelines established by the court,
- 5) the foreseeability of the need for additional discovery in light of the time allowed for discovery by the district court, and
- 6) the likelihood that the discovery will lead to relevant evidence.

City of Pomona v. SQM N. Am. Corp., 866 F.3d 1060, 1066 (9th Cir. 2017).

Upon consideration of the Pomona factors, the Court finds that Ms. Ho has failed to establish good cause to reopen discovery and to continue the trial date. The Court places substantial weight upon factor six, the likelihood that the discovery will lead to relevant evidence. This factor is challenging to apply in practice, as it is impossible to know precisely what additional evidence further discovery will yield. Further, in applying this factor, the Court must also be mindful of Civil Rule 26(b)(1), which provides that discovery must be "proportional to the needs of the case, considering the importance of the issues at stake in the action, the amount in controversy, the parties' relative access to relevant information, the parties' resources, the importance of the discovery in resolving the issues, and whether the burden or expense of the proposed discovery outweighs its likely benefit."

Recognizing that its determination is not an exact science, the Court finds that Ms. Ho has failed to establish that it is likely that further discovery will produce material relevant evidence. Prior to expiration of discovery cutoff date, Ms. Ho was represented by Dykema, a sophisticated law firm. At the time it sought leave to withdraw from representing Ms. Ho, Dykema had billed Ms. Ho $363,068.93 for services rendered. Thus, Dykema's attorneys expended substantial work in connection with this case. Further, counsel had ample time to pursue discovery into relevant issues. The discovery cutoff date of June 30, 2017 gave Ms. Ho approximately one year to conduct discovery (the Complaint was filed on August 16, 2016).

The Court cannot rule out the possibility that Dykema may have overlooked potentially promising areas which, if pursued by Ms. Ho's new counsel, could yield potential evidence. Such an outcome, though possible, is unlikely, particularly given the posture in which the instant Motion comes before the Court. First, the Motion relies substantially upon the Mega Bank account statements as the justification for reopening discovery. But the mail excerpted above clearly establishes that Ms. Ho's prior counsel was fully aware of the possibility that the signatures contained on the Mega Bank statements were forgeries. Why, then, did present counsel wait until now to seek to reopen discovery? The most plausible explanation is that the instant Motion is nothing more than a belated attempt by Ms. Ho to enhance her negotiating leverage after mediation proved unsuccessful. That conclusion is bolstered by the fact that Ms. Ho's new counsel advised the Court on November 14, 2017, that it did "not believe at this time that discovery has to be reopened."

Factor five, foreseeability of the need for additional discovery in light of the time allowed for discovery by the court, weighs against granting the Motion. The discovery cutoff deadline allowed approximately one year for discovery to be conducted. A one-year discovery period is proportional to the needs of this case. The Complaint seeks damages against Ms. Ho "in excess of $13 million." While this is a substantial amount, the damages sought are not so high as to warrant years of discovery.

Factor four, Ms. Ho's lack of diligence, weighs against granting the Motion, for the reasons discussed above. Factor one, the imminence of trial, and factor two, the Committee's opposition to the Motion, also weigh against reopening discovery.

Factor three, whether the non-moving party would be prejudiced, is neutral. The Committee would suffer some prejudice as a result of the additional delay that would result from the reopening of discovery. However, the Court does not believe that such prejudice would be material. However, given that all the other factors weigh against reopening discovery, the neutrality of this factor is not dispositive.

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion is DENIED. The Committee shall submit an order, incorporating this tentative ruling by reference, within seven days of the hearing.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. Docket 12

Tentative Ruling:

3/29/2018

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to repossess or otherwise obtain possession and dispose of its collateral pursuant to applicable law, and to use the proceeds from its disposition to satisfy its claim. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501. The Court finds that there is no equity in the subject vehicle and that the vehicle is not necessary for an effective reorganization since this is a chapter 7 case.

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. All other relief is denied.

Movant shall upload an appropriate order via the Court's Lodged Order Upload system within 7 days of the hearing.

#5.00 HearingRE: [10] Notice of motion and motion for relief from automatic stay with supporting declarations ACTION IN NON-BANKRUPTCY FORUM RE: .

Docket 10

Tentative Ruling:

3/29/2018

For the reason set forth below, the Court GRANTS the Motion pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) to permit the Movant to proceed under applicable non-bankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to proceed to final judgment in the non-bankruptcy forum, provided that the stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against the Debtor or estate property.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay Under 11 U.S.C. § 362 (Action in Nonbankruptcy Forum) (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 10]
- 2) No Opposition to the Motion has been filed as of the date of this tentative ruling

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Rosario Caro (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on January 30, 2018 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On March 8, 2018, State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company (the "Movant") filed the "Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 (Action in Nonbankruptcy Forum)" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 10].

The Motion

The Motion seeks stay-relief pursuant to § 362(d)(1), so that the Movant may proceed under applicable nonbankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to proceed to final judgment in the nonbankruptcy forum in an action currently pending in the Los Angeles County Superior Court, captioned State Farm Mutual Automobile Ins. Co. v. Rosario Caro, Case No. 17STLC00943 (the "State Court Action"). Motion at 3;

Chapter 7

Declaration of Richard L. Mahfouz II ("Mahfouz Declaration") [Doc. No. 10] at ¶ 4. The State Court Action was filed on August 31, 2017. Mahfouz Declaration at ¶ 5. Trial is scheduled to begin on February 28, 2019, and is estimated to require 2 days of trial/hearings. Id. The Complaint in the State Court Action asserts claims for: subrogation for property damage. Id.

The Movant contends that cause exists to grant stay-relief under §362(d)(1) for the following reasons:

- (1) The Movant seek recovery only from applicable insurance, if any, and waives any deficiency or other claim against the Debtor or property of the Debtor's bankruptcy estate.

Id.

The Motion requests relief under § 362(d)(1) so that the Movant may proceed under applicable non-bankruptcy law to enforce its remedies to proceed to final judgment in the non-bankruptcy forum, provided that the stay remains in effect with respect to enforcement of any judgment against the Debtor or estate property.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

As a preliminary matter, a motion for relief from the automatic stay is a summary proceeding that does not involve an adjudication of the merits of the underlying claims. As recognized by the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel in In re Luz Int'l, Ltd.:

Given the limited grounds for obtaining a motion for relief from stay, read in conjunction with the expedited schedule for a hearing on the motion, most courts hold that motion for relief from stay hearings should not involve an adjudication of the merits of claims, defenses, or counterclaims, but simply determine whether the creditor has a colorable claim to the property of the estate. See In re Johnson, 756 F.2d 738, 740 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 474 U.S. 828, 106 S.Ct. 88, 88 L.Ed.2d 72 (1985) ("Hearings on relief from the automatic stay are thus handled in a summary fashion. The validity of the claim or contract underlying the claim is not litigated during the hearing.").

Chapter 7

219 B.R. 837, 842 (9th Cir. BAP 1998) (citation omitted). In a summary proceeding, the court's discretion is broad. In re Santa Clara Cty. Fair Ass'n, Inc., 180 B.R. 564, 566 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1995).

The automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. § 362(a) stays all action involving the following, in pertinent part:

- (1) the commencement or continuation, including the issuance or employment of process of a judicial, administrative, or other action or proceeding against the debtor that was or could have been commenced before the commencement of the case under this title, or to recover a claim against the debtor that arose before the commencement of the case under this title.

11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(1).

Section 362(d)(1) permits a bankruptcy court to grant relief from the automatic stay upon a showing of "cause." Cause is a flexible concept and courts often conduct a fact intensive, case-by-case balancing test, examining the totality of the circumstances to determine whether sufficient cause exists to lift the stay. In re SCO Grp., Inc., 395 B.R. 852, 856 (Bankr. D. Del. 2007) (citing Baldino v. Wilson (In re Wilson), 116 F.3d 87, 90 (3d Cir. 1997); In re Laguna Assocs. Ltd., 30 F.3d 734, 737 (7th Cir. 1994)); In re MacDonald, 755 F.2d 715, 717 (9th Cir. 1985). "Among factors appropriate to consider in determining whether relief from the automatic stay should be granted to allow state court proceedings to continue are considerations of judicial economy and the expertise of the state court." In re Kronemyer, 405 B.R. 915, 921 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2009) (citing In re MacDonald, 755 F.2d 715, 717 (9th Cir. 1985)).

Here, to the extent the automatic stay applies under the circumstances described above, the Court finds that the causes of actions in the state court complaint attached to the Motion involve state law violations and are within the expertise of the state court. Allowing the Movant to continue the intended state court complaint will best promote the judicial economy by adjudicating a final judgment as to the underlying claims that may either support or negate the filing of a proof of claim and/or an adversary complaint.

Based on the foregoing, to the extent the automatic stay applies, the Court

The Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim or any other claim against the Debtors or property of the estate, except that the Movant will retain the right to file a proof of claim and/or an adversary complaint under §§523 or 727. This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code.

Tentative Ruling:

4/2/2018

For the reasons set forth below, the Trustee's Objection to Claim No. 2 filed by James Sanchez in the amount of $80,000.00 is SUSTAINED. Claim No. 2 is disallowed in its entirety.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Chapter 7 Trustee's Notice of Motion and Motion For Order Disallowing Claim No. 2 Filed by James Sanchez (the "Sanchez Objection") [Doc. No. 28]
 - a) Notice of Errata to Sanchez Objection and Proof of Service [Doc. No. 25]
- 2) Claim No. 2 filed by James Sanchez in the Amount of $80,000.00 (the "Sanchez Claim")

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Allynce, Inc. (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 11 Petition on June 9, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. Brad D. Krasnoff was appointed as Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee").

Claim No. 2

On September 21, 2017, Creditor James Sanchez filed Claim No. 2 in the amount of $80,000.00 (the "Sanchez Claim"). The stated basis for the Sanchez Claim is "wrongful profits from infringement of claimant's design patent." Claim No. 2 at ¶ 8.

Aside from this statement, no additional evidence was submitted in support of the Sanchez Claim.

Objection to the Sanchez Claim

On February 28, 2018, the Trustee filed the "Chapter 7 Trustee's Notice of Motion and Motion For Order Disallowing Claim No. 2 Filed by James Sanchez" (the "Sanchez Objection") [Doc. No. 28]. The Trustee objects to the entire amount of the Sanchez Claim on the grounds that the Sanchez Claim is not supported by any evidence. The Trustee states that he has "communicated orally with the Claimant on multiple occasions concerning the lack of evidentiary support to the [Sanchez] Claim." "Declaration of Brad D. Krasnoff" ("Krasnoff Declaration") [Doc. No. 28] at ¶ 3.

Opposition to the Sanchez Objection

As of the date of this tentative ruling, no opposition to the Sanchez Objection has been filed.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

A proof of claim executed and filed in accordance with the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim. Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3001(f). To be entitled to the presumption of prima facie validity, the proof of claim must, at a minimum, "allege facts sufficient to support the claim." In re Allegheny International, Inc., 954 F.2d 167, 173 (3d. Cir. 1992). "In short, the allegations of the proof of claim are taken as true. If those allegations set forth all the necessary facts to establish a claim and are not self-contradictory, they prima facie establish the claim." In re Holm, 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir. 1991) (quoting 3 Collier on Bankruptcy § 502.02, at 502-22 (15th ed. 1991)). Rule 3001(a) requires that the proof of claim "conform substantially" to the Official Form. The relevant Official Form, Official Form 10, requires a claimant to "[a]ttach redacted copies of any documents that support the claim, such as promissory notes, purchase orders, invoices, itemized statements of running accounts, contracts, judgments, mortgages, and security agreements." Fed. R. Bankr. P. Official Form 10. Form 10 additionally instructs the claimant that "[i]f the documents are not available, please explain." Id.

"The filing of an objection to a proof of claim 'creates a dispute which is a contested matter' within the meaning of Bankruptcy Rule 9014 and must be resolved after notice and opportunity for hearing upon a motion for relief." Lundell v. Anchor Const. Specialists, Inc., 223 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2000) (citing Adv. Comm. Notes to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 9014). Upon objection, the proof of claim provides "some evidence as to its validity and amount" and carries over a "mere formal objection." Id. The objector must produce sufficient evidence "tending to defeat the claim by probative force equal to that of the allegations in the proofs of claim themselves." Id. (quoting Wright v. Holm (In re Holm), 931 F.2d 620, 623 (9th Cir.1991)). The claim itself can be used as evidence to rebut the prima facie validity where the objector's contention is that the claim is facially defective and insufficient as a matter of law. See In re Circle J Dairy, Inc., 112 B.R. 297, 299–301 (Bankr. W.D. Ark. 1989). The claimant must "prove the validity of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. The ultimate burden of persuasion remains at all times upon the claimant." Id. Bankruptcy Code § 502(b) sets forth nine bases for a claim to be disallowed. To the extent that a claim falls within any of these paragraphs, upon proper objection, the Court will disallow the claim. The "'basic federal rule' in bankruptcy is that state law governs the substance of claims." Raleigh v. Illinois Dep't of Revenue, 530 U.S. 15, 20 (2000) (quoting Butner v. United States, 440 U.S. 48, 57 (1979)). Under § 502(b) (1), the court shall disallow a claim if "such claim is unenforceable against the debtor and property of the debtor, under any agreement or applicable law for a reason other than because such claim is contingent or unmatured[.]"

The Court finds that, given the absence of any evidence to support the Sanchez Claim, coupled with the vague statement of the basis for the claim, the Sanchez Claim is not entitled to a presumption of validity. See In re Holm, 931 F.2d at 623; In re Circle J Dairy, Inc., 112 B.R. at 300 (finding that the claim lacked "adequate factual support to be given prima facie validity" stating that "[i]t [did] not stand on its own but [was], in fact, unsubstantiated."). The stated basis for the Sanchez Claim, "wrongful profits from infringement of claimant's design patent," is insufficient to allow the court or any other party in interest to scrutinize, to any meaningful degree, the legal sufficiency of the claim. Additionally, the claimant has not submitted any documentary evidence (e.g. the claimant's patent) to support the alleged infringement. Thus, the Sanchez claim lacks adequate factual support to be given prima facie validity. Furthermore, insofar as the Sanchez Objection relies upon the claim itself as evidence that the claim is facially defective and legally insufficient, the proof of claim

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

The Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors for Liberty Asset Management Corporation (the "Committee") seeks approval of its First Amended Disclosure Statement in Support of First Amended Plan of Liquidation Dated January 31, 2018 (the "Disclosure Statement"). [Note 1] The following are the material provisions of the Committee's First Amended Chapter 11 Plan of Liquidation (the "Plan"):

- 1) All of the Debtor's assets will be liquidated. The liquidation will be overseen by a Plan Administrator, Bradley D. Sharp of Development Specialists, Inc. ("DSI"). The Plan Administrator's current hourly rate is $640.00. It is estimated that total fees and costs payable to the Plan Administrator will not exceed $200,000. The Plan Administrator may retain counsel to assist him in liquidating the estate's assets. It is contemplated that the Committee's counsel will serve as the Plan Administrator's counsel.
- 2) Upon the Effective Date, the Plan Administrator shall establish the amount of the Plan Reserves. The Plan Reserves shall consist of assets necessary to fund litigation related to ongoing causes of action, fees owing to the United States Trustee, and the Plan Administrator's fees and expenses.
- 3) The Debtor's principal remaining assets cash; real estate; twenty million shares of common stock in California International Bank, N.A.; interests in investment entities that owned real estate; and causes of action against Benjamin Kirk, Lucy Gao, Shelby Ho, and Steven Tsang. The primary litigation asset is a judgment entered against Mr. Kirk and Ms. Gao in the amount of approximately $74 million; an appeal of that judgment is currently pending before the District Court. The Committee estimates that, not including that Kirk/Gao Judgment, there will be between $11.9 and $13.8 million available for distribution to holders of general unsecured claims (Class 3).
- 4) The Committee estimates that the aggregate amount of general unsecured claims (Class 3) will be approximately $75 million to $80 million. The Plan Administrator will make a distribution to holders of Class 3 claims on a quarterly basis, provided that the Plan Administrator has cash on hand of at least $100,000 to distribute.

Chapter 11

Summary of the Objection filed by Benjamin Kirk and the Board of Directors of Liberty Asset Management Corporation, and the Committee's Reply

Benjamin Kirk, in his capacity as chair of the Board of Directors of Liberty Asset Management Corporation, filed an objection (the "Objection") contending that the Disclosure Statement does not contain adequate information. [Note 2] The objections asserted by Mr. Kirk, and the Committee's responses thereto, are summarized below.

First, Mr. Kirk asserts that the Committee has not sufficiently disclosed the basis for its estimate that the Plan Reserves will be set at $2 million. In response, the Committee states that Plan Reserves include (1) $200,000 to be paid to the Plan Administrator; (2) $500,000 to be paid to the Plan Administrator's counsel; and (3) other expenses associated with wind-down and collection efforts.

Second, Mr. Kirk notes that the Committee estimates allowed general unsecured claims to be between $75 million and $80 million, even though proofs of claim in the aggregate amount of $126 million have been filed. Mr. Kirk contends that there has been insufficient disclosure of the basis for the Committee's conclusion that total claims will equal only $80 million. In response, the Committee states that it has reviewed all claims, and assigned each claim a low end value based upon the Committee's best estimate of the amount at which the claim will be allowed.

Third, Mr. Kirk objects to the liquidation analysis. According to Mr. Kirk, the Committee has failed to adequately discuss how the statutory cap on fees allowed to a Chapter 7 Trustee could affect the amounts to be distributed to creditors. Mr. Kirk asserts that the Committee has failed to show that the fees billed by the Plan Administrator will be less than the fees accrued by a Chapter 7 Trustee. In response, the Committee asserts that its liquidation analysis is adequate, given that the Disclosure Statement discusses, on an asset-by-asset basis, all assets that remain to be liquidated and the expected liquidation value of each asset.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Section 1125 provides that a disclosure statement must contain "information of a kind, and in sufficient detail, as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records, ... that would enable ... a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan." In determining whether a disclosure statement provides adequate information, "the court shall consider the complexity of the case, the benefit of additional information to creditors and other parties in interest, and the cost of providing additional information." §1125.

Courts interpreting § 1125(a) have explained that the "primary purpose of a disclosure statement is to give the creditors the information they need to decide whether to accept the plan." In re Monnier Bros., 755 F.2d 1336, 1342 (8th Cir. 1985). "According to the legislative history, the parameters of what constitutes adequate information are intended to be flexible." In re Diversified Investors Fund XVII, 91 B.R. 559, 560 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1988). As explained by one court:

Relevant factors for evaluating the adequacy of a disclosure statement may include: (1) the events which led to the filing of a bankruptcy petition; (2) a description of the available assets and their value; (3) the anticipated future of the company; (4) the source of information stated in the disclosure statement; (5) a disclaimer; (6) the present condition of the debtor while in Chapter 11; (7) the scheduled claims; (8) the estimated return to creditors under a Chapter 7 liquidation; (9) the accounting method utilized to produce financial information and the name of the accountants responsible for such information; (10) the future management of the debtor; (11) the Chapter 11 plan or a summary thereof; (12) the estimated administrative expenses, including attorneys' and accountants' fees; (13) the collectability of accounts receivable; (14) financial information, data, valuations or projections relevant to the creditors' decision to accept or reject the Chapter 11 plan; (15) information relevant to the risks posed to creditors under the plan; (16) the actual or projected realizable value from recovery of preferential or otherwise voidable transfers; (17) litigation likely to arise in a nonbankruptcy context; (18) tax attributes of the debtor; and (19) the relationship of the debtor with affiliates.

In re Metrocraft Pub. Services, Inc., 39 B.R. 567, 568 (Bankr. Ga. 1984).

However, "[d]isclosure of all factors is not necessary in every case." Id.

The Court finds that the Disclosure Statement contains adequate information, in view of the size and complexity of the case. Among other things, the Disclosure Statement contains:

- 1) A detailed description of the estate's principal assets, including estimates of the liquidation value of those assets that have not already been liquidated.
- 2) A description of the significant events that have occurred during the Chapter 11 proceedings.
- 3) A description of the powers and authority of the Plan Administrator.
- 4) A description of the procedures that shall apply with respect to the resolution of disputed claims.

Chapter 11

The objections asserted by Mr. Kirk to the adequacy of the information contained in the Disclosure Statement are overruled. Having reviewed the Disclosure Statement and Plan, the Court finds that the Disclosure Statement contains sufficient information to enable creditors to make an informed decision as to whether to vote for or against the Plan. There is no merit to Mr. Kirk's assertion that the Disclosure Statement does not contain information sufficient to enable creditors to determine whether their interests would be better served by a Chapter 7 liquidation as opposed to the Plan. The Plan sets forth the identity of the Plan Administrator who will be responsible for liquidating the Debtor's assets; estimates that total fees of the Plan Administrator will be approximately $200,000; and contains estimates as to the liquidation value of the Debtor's assets. This information is sufficient to enable creditors to decide whether the Plan is in their best interests.

Nor is there merit to Mr. Kirk's contention that the Disclosure Statement does not contain adequate information regarding the Committee's estimate of the aggregate amount of claims filed. The Committee has sufficiently explained the methodology upon which it relied to estimate the total amount of allowed claims against the estate.

Mr. Kirk's objection that the Committee has failed to sufficiently disclose the basis for its estimate of the Plan Reserves is likewise without merit. The Committee has explained that it projects that the Plan Reserves will be set at $2 million. That figure includes $200,000 to be paid to the Plan Administrator, $500,000 to be paid to the Plan Administrator's counsel, and approximately $1.3 million in expenses associated with wind-down and collection efforts. In view of the complexity of the case, the basis for the estimated amount of the Plan Reserves has been sufficiently disclosed.

The following dates will apply with respect to the solicitation of votes and plan confirmation:

- 1) A hearing will be held on the confirmation of the Debtors' Amended Chapter 11 Plan on June 6, 2018, at 10:00 a.m.
- 2) The record date for determining (a) those Creditors entitled to receive the Solicitation Package pursuant to the Solicitation Procedures, (b) those Creditors entitled to vote to accept or reject the Plan, and (c) whether Claims have been properly transferred to an assignee pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 3001(e) such that the assignee can vote as the holder of the assigned claim (the "Voting Record Date") shall be April 3, 2018.

RE: [54] Notice of motion and motion for relief from the automatic stay with supporting declarations UNLAWFUL DETAINER RE: 8590 W. Sunset Blvd. .

Docket 54

Tentative Ruling:

4/2/2018

Tentative Ruling:

For the reasons set forth below, the Court finds that the lease at issue terminated pre-petition and cannot be assumed by the Trustee. Therefore, the automatic stay does not bar the Landlord from exercising its remedies under non-bankruptcy law to obtain possession of the leased premises. In view of the finding that the lease is not property of the estate, the Landlord's motion to compel the Trustee to perform post-petition lease obligations is DENIED.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 4) Omnibus Reply in Support of KR Sunset WEHO, LLC's: (I) Renewed Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay (Unlawful Detainer); and (II) Motion to Compel Performance of Post-Petition Lease Obligations or Other Appropriate Relief

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

On November 22, 2017, 8590 Sunset A-FS LLC dba Café Primo (the "Debtor") commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition. On December 20, 2017, the case was converted to Chapter 7 pursuant to a stipulation between the Debtor and the United States Trustee (the "UST").

Prior to the petition, the Debtor was party to a nonresidential real property lease with KR Sunset WEHO, LLC (the "Landlord"). By order issued on January 17, 2018, the Court denied without prejudice the Landlord's motion seeking stay-relief to commence unlawful detainer proceedings against the Debtor. Doc. No. 46. At the hearing, the Court explained that the motion was being denied so that the Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee"), who had only recently been appointed, would have the opportunity to further evaluate whether the lease could be assumed and assigned by the estate. However, the Court also stated that it was making no findings as to whether the lease had terminated prepetition and therefore whether it was even possible for the estate to assume the lease. [Note 1]

According to the Landlord, the lease terminated pre-petition after the Debtor failed to cure monetary and nonmonetary defaults under the lease. The Landlord seeks stay-relief for cause pursuant to §362(d)(1), arguing that the Trustee cannot assume the terminated lease. The Trustee has noticed a motion to assume the lease for April 24, 2018 (the "Lease Assumption Motion"). In the Lease Assumption Motion, the Trustee does not directly refute the Landlord's argument that the lease terminated pre-petition; instead, the Trustee states only that "[d]espite the Landlord's argument that the Lease was terminated by reason of the Debtor's defaults prior to the Petition Date, the Trustee successfully argued in his Opposition to the Landlord's first Relief from the Automatic Stay Motion that the Lease is capable of assumption and assignment." Lease Assumption Motion at 7. The Trustee's Opposition to the Landlord's motion for stay-relief is similarly devoid of any meaningful argument refuting the assertion that the lease terminated pre-petition. The Trustee's Opposition to the Landlord's initial stay-relief motion likewise failed to present any meaningful arguments in opposition to the Landlord's contention that the lease terminated pre-petition.

Chapter 7

In the event that the Court does not grant stay-relief, the Landlord seeks adequate protection. Specifically, the Landlord seeks immediate payment of the amount of rent that would have been owed by the Debtor for use of the leased premises for all dates subsequent to December 20, 2017, the date that the case was converted to Chapter 7. The Landlord asserts that it is owed $95,080.15 in rent for the period from December 20, 2017 through the end of March 2018. In addition to immediate payment, the Landlord also seeks allowance of the unpaid rent as an administrative claim.

The Trustee opposes stay-relief. The Trustee argues that a new tenant would likely pay at least $500,000 for the opportunity to assume the lease, and submits declaration testimony of real estate broker Devin Klein in support of this assertion. According to the Trustee, substantial equity exists in the lease because the space has already been built-out as a restaurant or café and is located in a highly desirable area. The Trustee contends that no adequate protection payments are necessary given the substantial equity in the lease; the Trustee also states that no funds are available in the estate to allow present payment to the Landlord.

In Reply to the Trustee's Opposition, the Landlord reiterates its assertion that the lease cannot be assumed by the estate because it terminated pre-petition. The Landlord further notes that under §365(d)(3), the Trustee is obligated to perform all obligations arising under the lease—including the payment of rent—and the lack of availability of funds in the estate does not eliminate this obligation.

II. Findings and Conclusions

The Court first addresses the Landlord's evidentiary objections to the declarations of Devin Klein and Rosendo Gonzales submitted in support of the Trustee's Opposition. The Landlord objects to statements in both declarations intended to establish that the right to assume the lease has a value of $500,000. The Landlord contends that the testimony is conclusory and lacks foundation. The Landlord's evidentiary objections are overruled; but the Court accords the declaration testimony only minimal weight. Devin Klein, the Trustee's real estate broker, is qualified to offer an opinion as to the value of the lease to prospective tenants. However, Mr. Klein provides few facts to corroborate his assertion that the right to assume the lease is worth $500,000. Mr. Klein asserts that Starbucks, Philz Coffee, Mix'd, and Smoke & Stone (the founders of California Pizza Kitchen) have expressed interest in the premises. An expression of interest absent a firm offer does little to establish the lease's value. Mr. Gonzales' testimony, which is based upon and duplicates Mr. Klein's testimony, is accorded only minimal weight for the same reasons.

Chapter 7

Turning to the merits, the paramount issue is whether the Trustee has the ability to assume the lease. Section 365 permits the Trustee to “assume ... any ... unexpired lease.” As the Ninth Circuit has explained:

Assumability of a lease by a trustee in bankruptcy, in the context of a lease termination claim, involves a two-part test. The first part of the test is to determine whether the lease terminated before the petition in bankruptcy was filed..... The second part of the test requires the court to ‘determine whether the termination could have been reversed under a state anti-forfeiture provision or other applicable state law.’ This second step in the analysis ‘permits the [trustee] the same opportunities to avoid forfeiture of a lease ... that it would have received under state law absent the bankruptcy proceedings.’

Vanderpark Properties v. Buchbinder (In re Windmill Farms, Inc.), 841 F.2d 1467, 1472 (9th Cir. 1988) (internal citations omitted).

To determine whether the lease terminated pre-petition, the Court looks to California law. Cal. Code Civ. P. §1161(2) provides that a lease terminates upon the delivery of a proper three-day notice to pay rent or quit if the tenant fails to pay the rent within the three-day period. Here, there is no dispute that the Landlord delivered to the Debtor a Notice to Pay Rent or Quit on November 2, 2017. Nor is there any dispute that the Debtor failed to pay the delinquent rent within the three-day period. Consequently, the lease terminated by operation of law prior to the filing of the petition on November 22, 2017.

The second part of the Windmill Farms test requires the Court to determine whether the lease termination could be reversed under California anti-forfeiture law. Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 1179 permits the Court to “relieve a tenant against a forfeiture of a lease or rental agreement, whether written or oral, and whether or not the tenancy has terminated, and restore him or her to his or her former estate of tenancy, in case of hardship, as provided in section 1174.” In determining whether to relieve a tenant against forfeiture, “the court in balancing the equities should take into consideration the circumstances of the case, the hardship, if any, to the lessee from the forfeiture, the hardship, if any, to the lessor from relieving the lessee from the forfeiture, the willful or other character of the breach, and then use its best discretion in determining whether relief will be granted. Its action will not be upset unless there is a clear showing of abuse of discretion.”” Thrifty Oil Co. v. Batarse, 174 Cal. App. 3d 770, 777, 220 Cal. Rptr. 285 (Cal. Ct. App. 1985) (internal citations omitted).

Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 3275 contains a similar anti-forfeiture provision:

Chapter 7

"Whenever, by the terms of an obligation, a party thereto incurs a forfeiture, ..., he may be relieved therefrom, upon making full compensation to the other party, except in case of a grossly negligent, willful, or fraudulent breach of duty."

Here, despite having had multiple opportunities to do so, the Trustee has failed to present to the Court any arguments establishing that it is entitled to revive the lease under California's anti-forfeiture provisions. The Trustee made no such arguments in opposition to the Landlord's first stay-relief motion. No such arguments were made in the Trustee's opposition to the Landlord's renewed stay-relief motion. Nor are any such arguments presented in the Trustee's pending Lease Assumption Motion. Accordingly, the Trustee has waived his right to assert that the lease can be revived under California's anti-forfeiture provisions.

Because the lease terminated pre-petition, there is no remaining lease for the Trustee to assume. Accordingly, no purpose would be served by allowing the Trustee to continue to market the lease. As a result of the pre-petition termination of the lease, the lease is not property of the estate, and the automatic stay does not apply. Therefore, the Court confirms that Landlord is not barred by the stay from enforcing its remedies under non-bankruptcy law to obtain possession of the leased premises. Notwithstanding Bankruptcy Rule 4001(a)(3), the order confirming the inapplicability of the stay shall be effective immediately upon entry. In view of the Court's finding that the lease is not property of the estate, the Landlord's motion to compel the Trustee to perform post-petition lease obligations is DENIED.

The Landlord shall submit conforming orders, incorporating this tentative ruling by reference, within seven days of the hearing.

For the reasons set forth below, this action is dismissed, pursuant to Civil Rule 41 (b), based upon Plaintiff's failure to prosecute.

 - b) Certificate of Service [Doc. No. 19]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

On July 27, 2015, Hok Tap commenced a Complaint Objecting to Discharge (the "Complaint") against Debtor and Defendant Tony Nan Thou. Both parties are proceeding in pro per. The Hon. Deborah J. Saltzman presided over this action from July 27, 2015 to January 3, 2018. On January 3, 2018, this action was transferred to the undersigned Judge.

The Complaint alleges, among other things, that Defendant defrauded Plaintiff by embezzling funds from a mortuary support services joint business venture that Plaintiff entered into with Defendant. The Complaint seeks a judgment of non-dischargeability under §523(a)(4), in the amount of $80,000.

Defendant. On December 15, 2015, Judge Saltzman conducted a hearing on Plaintiff's Motion for Default Judgment (the "Motion"). Judge Saltzman denied the Motion and explained the reasons for the denial to Plaintiff on the record. [Note 1] Judge Saltzman informed Plaintiff that he had provided Defendant only thirteen days' notice of the Motion, as opposed to the twenty-one days' notice required by the Local Bankruptcy Rules. Judge Saltzman further explained that Plaintiff had failed to furnish any evidence substantiating that he was entitled to default judgment upon the claims asserted in the Complaint. Judge Saltzman directed the Plaintiff to file a renewed Motion for Default Judgment that was supported by appropriate evidence.

On March 2, 2018, the undersigned Judge issued the instant Order Requiring Plaintiff to Appear and Show Cause Why this Action Should Not be Dismissed for Failure to Prosecute, Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(b) [Doc. No. 16] (the "Order to Show Cause"). Plaintiff has not responded to the Order to Show Cause.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Civil Rule 41(b), made applicable to these proceedings by Bankruptcy Rule 7041, provides in relevant part: "If the plaintiff fails to prosecute or to comply with these rules or a court order, a defendant may move to dismiss the action or any claim against it. Unless the dismissal order states otherwise, a dismissal under this subdivision (b) ... operates as an adjudication on the merits."

The Court weighs five factors in determining whether to dismiss a case for lack of prosecution:

- 1) the public's interest in expeditious resolution of litigation;
- 2) the court's need to manage its docket;
- 3) the risk of prejudice to the defendants;
- 4) the public policy favoring the disposition of cases on their merits; and
- 5) the availability of less drastic sanctions.

Moneymaker v. CoBEN (In re Eisen), 31 F.3d 1447, 1451 (9th Cir. 1994).

Here, factors one, two, three, and five weigh in favor of dismissing the action for lack of prosecution. The Court finds that dismissal is warranted as a result of Plaintiff's failure to prosecute.

1. Public's Interest in Expeditious Resolution of Litigation

To dismiss a case for lack of prosecution, "the court must find unreasonable delay." Eisen, 41 F.3d at 1451. The Court finds that Plaintiff has unreasonably delayed the prosecution of this case. More than two years have elapsed since Plaintiff filed a Motion for Default Judgment. Plaintiff has taken no action to advance the case since the filing of that motion. Further, Plaintiff has taken no action in response to the Court's Order to Show Cause.

Chapter 7

2. The Court's Need to Manage its Docket

"This factor is usually reviewed in conjunction with the public's interest in expeditious resolution of litigation to determine if there is unreasonable delay." Eisen, 31 F.3d at 1452. As discussed above, Plaintiff has engaged in unreasonable delay in the prosecution of this action. This factor weighs in favor of dismissal.

3. The Risk of Prejudice to the Defendants

"[T]he failure to prosecute diligently is sufficient by itself to justify a dismissal, even in the absence of a showing of actual prejudice to the defendant from the failure.... The law presumes injury from unreasonable delay." Eisen, 31 F.3d at 1452. If the Plaintiff offers "an excuse for his delay that is anything but frivolous, the burden of production shifts to the defendant to show at least some actual prejudice." Id. at 1453. "Prejudice itself usually takes two forms—loss of evidence and loss of memory by a witness." Nealey v. Transportacion Maritima Mexicana, S. A., 662 F.2d 1275, 1281 (9th Cir. 1980).

Because Plaintiff has offered no explanation for the delay, this factor weighs in favor of dismissal.

4. The Public Policy Favoring the Disposition of Cases on Their Merits

"[C]ourts weigh this factor against the plaintiff's delay and the prejudice suffered by the defendant." Eisen, 31 F.3d at 1454. "Although there is indeed a policy favoring disposition on the merits, it is the responsibility of the moving party to move towards that disposition at a reasonable pace, and to refrain from dilatory and evasive tactics." Morris v. Morgan Stanley & Co., 942 F.2d 648, 652 (9th Cir. 1991).

The public policy favoring resolution of disputes on their merits does not outweigh Plaintiff's unreasonable delay in prosecuting this action.

5. The Availability of Less Drastic Sanctions

As a result of Plaintiff's failure to respond to the instant Order to Show Cause, the Court is convinced that less drastic sanctions would not adequately remediate Plaintiff's dilatory conduct.

Docket 613

Tentative Ruling:

4/3/2018

Hearing required.

The court has several concerns regarding the motion to withdraw.

This case has been pending for nearly six years. A major roadblock to the progress of the case were probate proceedings in state court which the court understood have been resolved. In a few weeks the debtor will have its disclosure statement up for hearing - a critical step in the resolution of the case. It is likely that the debtor will not have time enough to retain counsel (as required) for this hearing, and it is possible that new counsel, if any, would not want to go forward with a disclosure statement and plan he did not draft. Thereby creating expense and delay.

In circumstances where an attorney seeks to withdraw on the eve of trial, this court has denied the request. This seems to be an analogous situation.

Chapter 7

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

The Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee") seeks approval of the sale of property located at 227 S. Atlantic Blvd. #A, Monterey Park, CA 91754 (the "Property"). The proposed purchasers are Agnes Tung Ling Ma and Anthony Hocktong Tjio, and the proposed purchase price is $505,000. The sale is subject to overbids. After payment of the secured lender, real estate commissions, closing costs, and the Debtor's homestead exemption, net proceeds to the estate are estimated to be $31,769.73. No opposition to the Sale Motion is on file.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Section 363(b) permits the Trustee to sell estate property out of the ordinary course of business, subject to court approval. The Trustee must articulate a business justification for the sale. In re Walter, 83 B.R. 14, 19–20 (9th Cir. BAP 1988). Whether the articulated business justification is sufficient "depends on the case," in view of "all salient factors pertaining to the proceeding." Id. at 19–20.

Sale of the Property will yield estimated proceeds to the estate of $31,769.73. Pursuant to §704(a), the Trustee has an obligation to "collect and reduce to money the property of the estate for which such trustee serves," and to "close such estate as expeditiously as is compatible with the best interests of parties in interest." The Trustee has articulated sufficient business justification for the sale.

Section 363(f)(3) provides that the Court may authorize a sale free and clear of liens, if the "price at which such property is to be sold is greater than the aggregate value of all liens on such property." Here, the sales price of $505,000 exceeds the aggregate value of the liens against the Property. The Court approves the sale free and clear of liens, claims, and interests. All such liens, claims, and interests shall attach to the sales proceeds to the same extent and priority as those liens, claims, and interests attached to the Property.

The Court finds that as of November 20, 2017, the date of the petition, the Debtor and the Debtor's spouse held title to the Property as community property. Consequently, the Property is property of the estate in its entirety, and the estate is entitled to receive 100% of the net sales proceeds of the Property. The Court makes this finding notwithstanding the existence of a Grant Deed dated October 12, 2017, that purports to vest title to the Property in the Debtor and the Debtor's spouse as joint tenants. The Court notes that the Debtor and his spouse initially acquired the Property by way of a Grant Deed recorded on October 13, 2006. The October 13, 2006 Grant Deed provides that the Debtor and his spouse hold the Property as "Husband and Wife as Community Property."

Cal. Fam. Code §760, known as the "community property presumption," provides that "all property, real or personal, wherever situated, acquired by a married person during the marriage while domiciled in this state is community property." As the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel has explained:

The community property presumption applies to property acquired during marriage unless it is: (1) traceable to a separate property source; (2) acquired by gift or bequest; or (3) earned or accumulated while the spouses are living separate and apart.... The community property presumption may be rebutted by evidence that the spouses agreed to recharacterize, or "transmute" the property from community to some other form of ownership. A transmutation is not valid unless "made in writing by an express declaration that is made, joined in, consented to, or accepted by the spouse whose interest in the property is adversely affected." Cal. Fam. Code §852(a).

Clifford Allen Brace v. Speier (In re Brace), 566 B.R. 13, 18 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2017) (internal citations omitted).

The community property presumption "applies in disputes in bankruptcy involving the characterization of marital property." Brace, 566 B.R. at 19. Applying the community property presumption, the Brace court found that real properties, which the Debtor and his non-Debtor spouse had taken title to as "joint tenants," constituted community property since the properties had been acquired using community funds.

As in Brace, here the community property presumption compels a finding that the Property is community property, notwithstanding the October 12, 2017 Grant Deed which purports to vest title to the Property in the Debtor and the Debtor's spouse as joint tenants. The Debtor and his spouse took title to the Property during marriage as "Husband and Wife as Community Property." There is no evidence before the Court of any valid transmutation, and there are no other facts which would make the community property presumption inapplicable.

Having reviewed the declarations submitted by Brian Parsons, the Trustee's real estate broker, and the proposed purchasers, Agnes Tung Ling Ma and Anthony Hocktong Tjio, the Court finds that the sale transaction was negotiated at arms-length and in good-faith, and that the proposed purchasers are entitled to the protections of § 363(m). In the event that an overbidder prevails at the auction, the Court will take testimony at the hearing to determine whether such overbidder is entitled to the protections of §363(m).

The Trustee is authorized to pay the real estate broker a 6% commission directly from escrow. The Trustee is authorized, at his discretion, to pay from escrow any other closing costs. Finally, the Trustee is authorized to pay the Debtor's $100,000 homestead exemption from escrow. The Residential Purchase Agreement dated February 12, 2018, and the related documents memorializing the sale agreement submitted as Ex. 8, are approved as to form. Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 6004(f)(2), the Trustee is authorized to execute all documents necessary to consummate the sale. Notwithstanding Bankruptcy Rule 6004(h), the order approving the sale shall take effect immediately upon entry.

Auction Procedures

The Court will distribute numbered auction paddles to the proposed purchaser and all qualified overbidders. The initial overbid will be $510,000, with subsequent overbids to be increments of $5,000. The overbid increment is subject to adjustment by the Court to facilitate bidding. The Court will announce each bid level. To remain in the auction, bidders must participate at all bid levels. That is, parties who do not bid in a round cannot later change their minds and re-enter the auction. Parties may make a bid higher than that announced by the Court by approaching the podium and stating their bid.

Description of the Plan and Disclosure Statement

The Plan will become effective (the "Effective Date") within 60 days after the date of entry of the Confirmation Order.

The Plan's includes "Unclassified Claims" as follows:

- 1) Administrative Priority Claims: these claims include (i) professional fees and costs; and (ii) United States Trustee's fees. Such claims shall be paid in full on, or as soon as practicable after the Effective Date or upon allowance of such claim, whichever is later.
- 2) Unclassified Priority Claims/Priority Tax Claims: Unsecured Claims of Governmental Units entitled to priority under § 507(a)(8). These claims will be paid in full on the Effective Date unless the Debtor files an objection to such claim prior to the Effective Date. The Debtors are not aware of any Unclassified Priority Claims at this time.

The Plan's classification scheme for Claims and Interests is as follows:

On March 22, 2018, Kaushaal Laxmee, Gary Oganessian, Alex Licterman and Howard Miller (collectively, the "Creditors") filed the "Opposition to Joint Disclosure Statement Describing Plan of Reorganization" (the "Opposition") [Rideshare Doc. No. 67]. The Opposition contends that the Disclosure Statement is inadequate in the following respects:

- (1) The Disclosure Statement does not provide any information as to the amount or source of the New Value Contribution;
- (2) The Disclosure Statement does not provide information as to the procedure for determining disputed claims, including Creditors' claims;
- (3) The Disclosure Statement references exhibits which have not been filed;
- (4) The Disclosure Statement separately classifies unsecured "Disputed Employment Claims" from other general unsecured claims, which is impermissible gerrymandering;
- (5) The Plan provides for an impermissible waiver of creditor rights against non-debtor parties; and
- (6) The Disclosure Statement, as a whole, lacks material information for unsecured creditors to make an informed judgment on whether to vote for or against the Plan; the Disclosure Statement's description of the class treatments is ambiguous and renders it impossible for the Creditors to know what the payout will be or the source of funds, and it is thus impossible to determine whether the treatment of insider unsecured claims will violate the absolute priority rule.

Therefore, the Opposition request that the Court deny approval of the Disclosure Statement.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Section 1125 requires a disclosure statement to contain "information of a kind, and in sufficient detail, as far as is reasonably practicable in light of the nature and history of the debtor and the condition of the debtor's books and records . . . that would enable. . . a hypothetical investor of the relevant class to make an informed judgment about the plan." In determining whether a disclosure statement provides adequate information, "the court shall consider the complexity of the case, the benefit of additional information to creditors and other parties in interest, and the cost of providing additional information." 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a). Courts interpreting § 1125 (a) have explained that the "primary purpose of a disclosure statement is to give the creditors the information they need to decide whether to accept the plan." In re Monnier Bros., 755 F.2d 1336, 1342 (8th Cir. 1985). "According to the legislative history, the parameters of what constitutes adequate information are intended to be flexible." In re Diversified Investors Fund XVII, 91 B.R. 559, 560 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1988). "Adequate information will be determined by the facts and circumstances of each case." Oneida Motor Freight, Inc. v. United Jersey Bank, 848 F.2d 414, 417 (3d Cir. 1988), accord. In re Ariz. Fast Foods, Inc., 299 B.R. 589 (Bankr. D. Ariz. 2003).

Relevant factors for evaluating the adequacy of a disclosure statement may include: (1) the events which led to the filing of a bankruptcy petition; (2) a description of the available assets and their value; (3) the anticipated future of the company; (4) the source of information stated in the disclosure statement; (5) a disclaimer; (6) the present condition of the debtor while in Chapter 11; (7) the scheduled claims; (8) the estimated return to creditors under a Chapter 7 liquidation; (9) the accounting method utilized to produce financial information and the name of the accountants responsible for such information; (10) the future management of the debtor; (11) the Chapter 11 plan or a summary thereof; (12) the estimated administrative expenses, including attorneys' and accountants' fees; (13) the collectability of accounts receivable; (14) financial information, data, valuations or projections relevant to the creditors' decision to accept or reject the Chapter 11 plan; (15) information relevant to the risks posed to creditors under the plan; (16) the actual or projected realizable value from recovery of preferential or otherwise voidable transfers; (17) litigation likely to arise in a nonbankruptcy context; (18) tax attributes of the debtor; and (19) the relationship of the debtor with affiliates.

In re Metrocraft Pub. Services, Inc., 39 B.R. 567, 568 (Bankr. Ga. 1984). However, "[d]isclosure of all factors is not necessary in every case." Id.

Here, the Court finds that the Disclosure Statement fails to satisfy the following relevant Metrocraft factors: (2) a description of the available assets and their value; (4) the source of information stated in the disclosure statement; (6) the present condition of the debtor while in Chapter 11; (7) the scheduled claims; (8) the estimated return to creditors under a Chapter 7 liquidation; (14) financial information, data, valuations or projections relevant to the creditors' decision to accept or reject the Chapter 11 Plan; and (15) information relevant to the risks posed to creditors under the Plan.

Among other deficiencies, the Disclosure Statement: (a) does not provide adequate information regarding the specific identities of the "Plan Funders," the amount of the contemplated New Value Contribution, or state whether the New Value Contribution has been exposed to the market; (b) provides for interest holders in Class 8 to retain their interests due to the New Value Contribution, but does not provide a valuation offered for those interests; (c) does not specify the interest rate that is being used to bring the present value equal to the liquidation value, where applicable; (d) references omitted exhibits which are material to the adequacy of the Disclosure Statement (e.g., the procedure for estimating or allowing disputed claims) and which, contrary to their stated intent in the Disclosure Statement, the Debtors have not filed prior to this hearing; (e) does not adequately describe the class treatments or detail the anticipated pay outs to respective classes, which makes it impossible for voting claimholders to assess whether the treatment of insider unsecured claims will violate the absolute priority rule; and (f) does not adequately detail the effect of, among other things, election to participate in the Plan Trust.

The Court notes that, in other filings in their respective cases and in the related Rideshare Adversary Proceeding (Adv. Case. No. 2:17-ap-01530-ER), the Debtors have stated their intent to file a First Amended Joint Plan and Joint Disclosure Statement. See, e.g., "Motion to Extend Exclusivity Period" [Rideshare Doc. [Adv. Doc. No. 40]. In these filings, the Debtors have averred that the Debtors are negotiating with certain of the unsecured creditors, including the Creditors, towards a consensual resolution of their claims, and that the Amended Joint Plan and Joint Disclosure Statement will address the deficiencies identified with respect to the current Plan and Disclosure Statement.

III. Conclusion

For the reasons set forth above, the Court DENIES the Motion for Approval of the Disclosure Statement. The Disclosure Statement does not contain adequate information. The deadline for the Debtors to file and serve the First Amended Plan and First Amended Disclosure Statement is May 11, 2018. The Court will hold a hearing on the adequacy of the First Amended Disclosure Statement on June 21, 2018 at 10:00 a.m. The deadline for the Debtors to obtain confirmation and approval of the First Amended Plan and First Amended Disclosure Statement is July 24, 2018. If the First Amended Disclosure Statement is approved at the above-referenced hearing, the Court will hold a hearing on confirmation of the First Amended Plan on July 24, 2018 at 10:00 a.m., subject to the deadlines for solicitation of votes and plan confirmation that will be set forth in the Court's order after hearing on the First Amended Disclosure Statement.

The Debtor shall upload a conforming order within seven days of the hearing.

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Rideshare Port Management, LLC (the "Debtor"), filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on October 23, 2017, Case No. 2:17-bk-22974-ER (the "Petition") [Bankr. Doc. No. 1]. The Debtor is in the business of providing rideshare van services to passengers, including services to Los Angeles International Airport ("LAX"). The Petition was precipitated by the Debtor having to defend multiple lawsuits—the Debtor has been named as a defendant in at least nine separate lawsuits—which the Defendant can no longer afford. Additionally, the increasing use by consumers of other rideshare services such as Uber has reduced the Debtor's market share, leading to a reduction in gross profits realized. The Debtor's ultimate goal is to reorganize.

Relevant or Related Entities and Individuals

There are four additional entities, and one individual, relevant or related to the Debtor, or the Debtor's business operations, and which are implicated in the discussion herein; therefore, an introduction of the entities and the individual is appropriate.

Rattan Joea

Rattan Joea ("Rattan") is the managing member of the Debtor, and holder of 95% of the Debtor's membership interest. Rattan's management of, and attention to, the Debtor is critical to the successful operations of the Debtor. Rattan's management duties require him to dedicate a substantial portion of his time to the Debtor's operations, as well as the operations of Red Vans, Inc. ("Red Vans"), and Red Booth, Inc. ("Red Booth") (Red Vans and Red Booth are discussed in more detail below).

Rattan is the primary interface between the Debtor and LAX, and is involved in aspects of the Debtor's daily operations such as overseeing customer routing, dispatching, and pickup. Rattan is also responsible for ensuring that the Debtor—and the other entities which he manages—are in compliance with all relevant airport, local, state, and federal regulations. Rattan's compliance responsibilities require him to be available to attend meetings regarding airport procedures and policies, and to oversee quality of services, regulatory compliance, and implementation of security and safety standards. In sum, Rattan plays a central role in the Debtor's ongoing business operations.

Rideshare Airport Management, LLC

Rideshare Airport Management, LLC ("Airport Management") is a dba of the Debtor. There was a brief gap-period of registration with the Secretary of State during which the name "Rideshare Port Management, LLC" was registered by a third party. Thus, during the gap-period the Debtor used the alternate name "Rideshare Airport Management, LLC" until the name "Rideshare Port Management, LLC" became available again.

Red Booth, Inc.

Red Booth, Inc. ("Red Booth") is a California corporation headquartered in Los Angeles, and engaged in the business of providing curbside support for Red Vans Management Services, Inc. ("Red Vans"). One hundred percent of the stock interest in Red Booth is held by Self Help Trust. Red Booth filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on October 23, 2017, Case No. 2:17-bk-22975-ER, which is now pending before this Court.

Red Vans, Inc.

Red Vans, Inc. ("Red Vans") is a California corporation headquartered in Los Angeles. One hundred percent of the stock interest in Red Vans is held by the Garcha Family Trust. Red Vans is a concessionaire with the non-exclusive right to pick-up reservations and non-reservation passengers and their baggage by approved vehicles in and out of LAX, pursuant to that certain "LAX Non-Exclusive, Full-Service Passenger Stage Corporation Share Ride Concession Agreement" between the City of Los Angeles Department of Airports and Red Vans (the "LAX Agreement"). LAX Agreement has a term of three years commencing August 1, 2016, and can be extended for up to two consecutive one-year periods. The Debtor states that the LAX Agreement is "absolutely essential to the business operations of Red Vans and a fortiori the Debtor and Red Booth."

Prime Time, Inc.

Prime Time, Inc. ("Prime Time") is a California corporation. Prime Time is a member of the Debtor, LLC. Prime Time's only asset is its membership interest in the Debtor. Prime Time holds a five percent membership interest in the Debtor, LLC.

The Adversary Proceeding

On November 9, 2017, the Debtor filed the "Complaint by Rideshare Port Management, LLC against Alex Lichterman, [et al.] for Declaratory Relief Regarding Applicability of the Automatic Stay; Preliminary Injunctive Relief Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105, 362, 1107, 1121, 1129, FRBP 7065, FRCP 65(a) and (d), and LBR 7065-1(a) and (b)(2); [and] Temporary Restraining Order" (the "Adversary Complaint") [Adv. Doc. No. 1], commencing this adversary proceeding. On November 14, 2017, the Debtor filed the "Debtor's and Debtor in Possession's Notice of Motion and Motion for Issuance of A Preliminary Injunction Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105, 362, 1107, 1121, 1129, FRBP 7065, FRCP 65(a) and (d), and LBR 7065-1(a) and (b)(2)" (the "Preliminary Injunction Motion") [Adv. Doc. No. 10]. On December 13, 2017, the Court entered the Order Granting the Preliminary Injunction Motion (the "Preliminary Injunction Order") [Adv. No. 17]. Pursuant to the Court's Preliminary Injunction Order, the preliminary injunction terminated by its own terms on March 7, 2018. The Court declined to make any finding as to whether the Automatic Stay under § 362(a)(3) applies to Rattan or the Non-Debtor entities.

The Motion to Extend the Preliminary Injunction

On March 1, 2018, the Debtor filed the "Debtor's and Debtor in Possession's Notice of Motion and Motion to Extend Preliminary Injunction Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105, 362, 1107, 1121, 1129, FRBP 7065, FRCP 65(a) and (d), and LBR 7065-1(a) and (b)(2)" (the "Motion") [Adv. the entities of (a) Red Vans , (b) Prime Time, (c) Airport Management (collectively, the "Non-Debtor Entities"); and (2) the Debtor's managing member, Rattan, to enforce any claims, judgments and/or any rights that the State Court Plaintiffs are asserting, or may seek to assert in connection with the civil actions and arbitrations (the "State Court Actions")¹ [Note 1].

The Debtor, the Non-Debtor Entities, and Rattan are named as defendants in eight separate civil actions and arbitrations which together comprise the "State Court Actions." See "Declaration of Rattan Joea" ("Joea Decl.") [Adv. Doc. No. 25], at Ex. 1. According to the Debtor, the State Court Actions were initiated by or on behalf of former or disgruntled drivers who claim that they were wrongly classified as independent contractors rather than employees. The 14 plaintiffs in the State Court Actions are currently, or were previously in privity of contract with the Debtor. The Non-Debtor Entities and Rattan are named as defendants based on indirect, derivative liability, and alter ego theories. Thus, the Debtor asserts that it will necessarily be implicated under the principles of collateral estoppel by a finding of liability against either or both the Non-Debtor Entities and/or Rattan. The grounds for the preliminary injunction sought by the Motion are as follows:

- The Debtor will be implicated under the principles of collateral estoppel if the State Court Plaintiffs are permitted to proceed against the Non-Debtor Defendants and Rattan;
- An interdependent business relationship exists between the Debtor, Red Booth, Inc., and the Non-Debtor Defendants such that proceeding against any of them will adversely impact the Debtor's business operations;
- The claims asserted in the State Court Actions are disputed, and the interim prosecution efforts will circumvent the Debtor's goal of reorganization;
- The State Court Actions are draining the Debtor's finances, disrupting the Debtor's business operations, and require large amounts of Rattan's time to be diverted from business operations to the litigation;
- The undivided time and attention of the Debtor and Rattan to the Debtor's efforts towards reorganization are essential at this stage of the case;

Chapter 11

- The Debtor and the Non-Debtor entities have previously prevailed on multiple occasions in lawsuits similar to the State Court Actions, see Joea Decl. at Ex. 2;
- Years of defending these claims has affected the financial viability of the Debtor, and the Debtor can no longer afford to defend without the financial restructuring in this bankruptcy case;
- The Debtor requires an extension of the preliminary injunction so that the Debtor can continue the negotiations with the State Court Plaintiffs towards a consensual plan and consensual claims allowance and/or claims resolution procedure. Additionally, the Debtor and the Red Booth Debtor intend to file a First Amended Plan and First Amended Disclosure Statement;
- Permitting the plaintiffs in the State Court Actions to proceed and to seek, among other things, default judgment and/or to enforce their defaults against the Non-Debtor Entities and/or Rattan will cause irreparable harm to the Debtor's reorganization efforts; and
- Permitting the State Court Actions to proceed at this time will prejudice the Debtor's general unsecured creditors.

The Motion contends that without an extension of the preliminary injunction, there is "real and imminent danger" that the Debtor's reorganization will be jeopardized and irreparably harmed. According to the Debtor, if the State Court Actions are not enjoined, and the State Court Plaintiffs are permitted to create, perfect, and enforce a lien against the business assets, and disrupt the operations, of the Non-Debtor Entities, the Non-Debtor Entities will be precluded from making the funding contributions contemplated by the First Amended Joint Plan of Reorganization (the "Amended Plan"). This will in turn work to the detriment of the Debtor's other creditors, and the Debtor's continuing business operations.

Additionally, with regards to the Mahmoudi State Action² [Note 2], in which the plaintiff seeks a default judgment against Prime Time, if Mahmoudi is permitted to execute upon Prime Time's interest in the Debtor, Mahmoudi could conceivably assert control over the Debtor and its assets to the detriment of the Debtor's creditors.

Chapter 11

This is because the "Rideshare Port Management, LLC Operating Agreement" (the "Rideshare Operating Agreement") [Adv. Doc. No. 25, Ex. 4], states that Prime Time is an equity member of the Debtor, and Article Thirteen of the Rideshare Operating Agreement requires unanimous consent of the members with respect to certain actions taken by the Debtor. Actions requiring unanimous consent of the members include: (1) borrowing money; (2) compromising claims; (3) transferring assets; and (4) purchases in excess of $100.00. Rideshare Operating Agreement at Art. 13. Therefore, in addition to other consequences, see Motion at 22, if Mahmoudi is permitted to obtain a default judgment and execute upon Prime Time's interest in the Debtor, Mahmoudi will be afforded the right in the Debtor's operations and could conceivably exert managerial influence over the Debtor.

The Opposition

On March 22, 2018, Kaushaal Laxmee, Gary Oganesian, Alex Licterman and Howard Miller (collectively, the "Defendants") filed the Opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [Adv. Doc. No. 38]. The Opposition contends that the preliminary injunction should not be extended because: (1) the proposed Joint Plan filed on February 9, 2018 [Rideshare Doc. No. 54], [Red Booth Doc. No. 70], demonstrates that the Debtor has no likelihood of success in reorganization; (2) the Defendants, not the Debtor, will suffer irreparable harm if the injunction is extended; (3) the balance of the equities weighs in favor of the Defendants; and (4) no public interest will be served by the requested extension.

First, for the reasons stated in the Defendants' Opposition to the Disclosure Statement [Rideshare Doc. No. 67]—which objections include, among other things, that the Disclosure Statement and Plan "are missing material exhibits, fail to provide any meaningful information regarding the new value that the Non-Debtor Entities will allegedly provide, improperly germander [sic] the classes of claims and impermissibly provide for a complete injunction and waiver of creditor recourse against non-debtor parties, including the Non-Debtor Entities," Opposition at 6—the Debtor has not demonstrated a likelihood of success on the merits, i.e. that the Debtor will confirm a plan.

Second, the Debtor will not suffer irreparable harm if the injunction is not extended. The Opposition contends that: (a) the Debtor is protected by the automatic stay; (b) terminating the injunction will not affect the claims administration process, but rather will benefit the estate by liquidating the Defendants' claims against the third-parties, thus limiting the resources the Debtor will need to expend to determine the amount of claims; (c) there is no indication that Rattan is in any way responsible for the Non-Debtor Entity Prime Time; and (d) the fact that the Joint Plan and Disclosure Statement fail to describe which Non-Debtor Entities will be providing new value and in what amount, coupled with the fact that Prime Time's only asset is its interest in the Debtor, undermines the Debtor's argument that termination of the injunction will prevent the Non-Debtor Entities from making their contemplated contributions to the funding of the Plan.

Third, the balance of the equities weighs in favor of the Defendants because the combination of extending the preliminary injunction and the permanent injunction incorporated into the Plan will result in complete termination of the rights of the Defendants to pursue their claims against the Debtor, Rattan, and the Non-Debtor Entities. Furthermore, in its current form, the Plan is incomplete, fails to detail a process for determining the Defendants' claims, and improperly classifies the Defendants' claim in a separate class from other unsecured claims.

Lastly, based on the foregoing arguments, the Debtor cannot demonstrate that any public interest will be served by extending the preliminary injunction.

The Reply

On March 29, 2018, the Debtor filed the Reply to the Opposition (the "Reply") [Adv. Doc. No. 40]. The Reply states that the Debtor and Red Booth require an extension of the preliminary injunction to file a First Amended Joint Plan and Joint Disclosure Statement to address various issues raised in the Defendants' Opposition to the Disclosure Statement as well as the Defendants' Opposition to the present Motion. Among other things, the Debtor and Red Booth intend to file the missing exhibits and schedules to the Disclosure Statement, address the new value issue in the Amended Joint Plan and Joint Disclosure Statement, and address the issue of disclosing the amount of funding and other details regarding the Plan Funders in the Amended Joint Plan and Joint Disclosure Statement. Insofar as the Opposition argues that the Plan and Disclosure Statement provide for an injunction and waiver of claims against the "Plan Funders" without clearly identifying the Plan Funders, the Reply contends that the Disclosure Statement clearly identifies the Plan Funders as the Debtors, Red Vans,

Chapter 11

For these reasons, and in addition to the arguments set forth in the Motion, the Reply contends that the Debtor has made the requisite showing for extension of the preliminary injunction.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

Preliminary Injunction Under Section 105(a)

The Court is vested with power under §105 to enjoin the State Court Actions to preserve its jurisdiction. As the Ninth Circuit has explained:

[The] usual preliminary injunction standard does not apply to injunctions issued by the bankruptcy court pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 105. That section specifically provides:

The court may issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title. No provision of this title providing for the raising of an issue by a party in interest shall be construed to preclude the court from, sua sponte, taking any action or making any determination necessary or appropriate to enforce or implement court orders or rules, or to prevent an abuse of process.

11 U.S.C. § 105(a) (emphasis added).

The only requirement for the issuance of an injunction under § 105 is that the remedy conform to the objectives of the Bankruptcy Code. Thus, as the Seventh Circuit has observed:

[A] bankruptcy court can enjoin proceedings in other courts when it is satisfied that such proceedings would defeat or impair its jurisdiction over the case before it. In other words, the court does not need to demonstrate an inadequate remedy at law or irreparable harm.

In re L & S Industries, Inc., 989 F.2d 929, 932(7th Cir.1993). As the Sixth Circuit further noted, “Section 105(a) contemplates injunctive relief in precisely those circumstances where the parties are ‘pursuing actions in other courts that threaten the integrity of a bankrupt’s estate.’”

Beck v. Fort James Corp. (In re Crown Vantage, Inc.), 421 F.3d 963, 975-76 (9th Cir. 2005); see also LTV Steel Co., Inc. v. Bd. Of Educ. Of Cleveland City School Dist. (In re Chateaugay Corp., Reomar, Inc.), 93 B.R. 26, 29 (S.D.N.Y. 1988) (“The usual grounds for injunctive relief such as irreparable injury need not be shown in a proceeding for an injunction under section 105(a). Rather, a bankruptcy court may enjoin proceedings in other courts when it is satisfied that such a proceeding would defeat or impair its jurisdiction with respect to a case before it.”).

Here, the Court finds that extension of the preliminary injunction under § 105 (a) to enjoin the State Court Actions from proceeding is necessary and appropriate to permit the Debtor to file a First Amended Joint Plan and First Amended Joint Disclosure Statement. Given the relationship between, and interdependence of, the Debtor, the Non-Debtor Entities, and Rattan, permitting the State Court Actions to proceed would defeat or impair the Court’s jurisdiction with respect to the Debtor’s case. Rattan’s participation in the Debtor’s reorganization efforts at this stage is necessary for the Debtor to formulate a viable First Amended Plan and Disclosure Statement. If Rattan is required to defend all the State Court Actions at this time, his ability to participate in the formulation of a Plan will be substantially limited, and would thus negatively impact the Debtor’s reorganization efforts. Furthermore, a finding of liability against the Non-Debtor Entities and/or Rattan will a fortiori harm Rideshare and Red Booth, and will impair the Debtor’s reorganization efforts.

With regards to the Mahmoudi State Action, for example, absent a § 105(a) preliminary injunction, Mahmoudi will likely obtain a right of control over the Debtor and the Debtor’s assets, and could exert managerial influence over the Debtor’s business operations as a result, in addition to a number of additional consequences which would impair the Debtor’s reorganization efforts, as well as the Court’s jurisdiction with respect to the Debtor’s case. Because the Rideshare Operating Agreement requires unanimous consent, if Mahmoudi gains control of Prime Time he will have control over the Debtor since the voting will not be unanimous. Actions requiring unanimous consent of the members include: (1) borrowing money; (2) compromising claims; (3) transferring assets; and (4) purchases in excess of $100.00. Rideshare Operating Agreement at Art. 13. Thus, Mahmoudi could potentially affect the Debtor's ability to carry out actions associated with confirming a Plan such as, for example, borrowing money or transferring assets. Additionally, Article Seventeen of the Rideshare Agreement, "Grounds for Expulsion," lists among other grounds for expulsion, "If any Equity member . . . makes an assignment for the benefit of creditors, is declared a bankrupt, or if his/her assets are administered in any type of creditors' proceeding." Rideshare Operating Agreement at Art. 17. Expulsion, in turn, trigger's Rattan's obligation to purchase Prime Time's interest in the Debtor pursuant to Article Seventeen, subsection (C) of the Rideshare Operating Agreement. In the event Rattan fails to do so, the result is liquidation of the Debtor pursuant to Article Eighteen, subsection (C) of the Rideshare Operating Agreement.

With regards to the other Non-Debtor Entities (i.e. Red Vans and Airport Management), the income generated from the ongoing operations of the Non-Debtor entities will be the primary funding source for the Debtor's contemplated First Amended Plan and First Amended Disclosure Statement; therefore, the ability of the Non-Debtor Entities to continue to operate unimpaired is necessary for the contemplated reorganization, as it has been described by the Debtor, to be successful. Thus, to this extent, should the plaintiffs in the State Court Actions proceed, they will be permitted to create, perfect, and enforce a lien against the business assets, and disrupt the operations of the Non-Debtor Entities, thereby precluding them from making the new value contribution, the details of which the Debtor intends to more clearly address in the First Amended Plan and First Amended Disclosure Statement.

Lastly, the Debtor's contemplated Plan will provide "for a procedure to determine claims more expeditiously and pay allowed claim[s]" pursuant to the applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Code.

As set forth below, as well as in the Court's tentative ruling on the Joint Disclosure Statement issued concurrently herewith (see Tentative Ruling, April 5, 2018 at 10:00 a.m., at Cal. No. 5), the Court has set hard deadlines by which the Debtor and Red Booth must file serve the First Amended Plan and First Amended Disclosure Statement, obtain approval of the First Amended Disclosure Statement, and confirm the First Amended Plan. The State Court Actions are in their early stages, and the extension of the preliminary injunction will cause only minor delay in the prosecution of those actions if the Debtor is unable to obtain approval of the First Amended Disclosure Statement and/or confirmation of the First Amended Plan by the deadlines set by the Court.

Chapter 11

Based on the foregoing, the Court finds that extension of the preliminary injunction under § 105(a) enjoining the State Court Actions, see Notes 1 & 2, from proceeding is necessary to preserve the Court's jurisdiction over the Debtor's case, and to preserve the status quo for the period set forth herein for the Debtor and Red Booth to file the First Amended Plan and First Amended Disclosure Statement, and to obtain confirmation and approval thereof.

Issuance of a § 105(a) preliminary injunction is a powerful remedy that the Court does not employ lightly; thus, the Court is only inclined to afford the Debtor the protection of a preliminary injunction for the brief period of time necessary for the Debtor to obtain timely confirmation and approval of the First Amended Plan.

III. Conclusion

In conclusion, the Court GRANTS the Debtor's Motion for extension of the preliminary injunction under § 105(a). The deadline for the Debtor and Red Booth to file and serve the First Amended Plan and First Amended Disclosure Statement is May 11, 2018. The Court will hold a hearing on the adequacy of the First Amended Disclosure Statement on June 21, 2018 at 10:00 a.m. The deadline for the Debtor and Red Booth to obtain confirmation and approval of the First Amended Plan and First Amended Disclosure Statement is July 24, 2018. The preliminary injunction will terminate without further order of the Court on July 24, 2018.

The Debtor shall submit a conforming order within seven days of the hearing. No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. Docket 6

Tentative Ruling:

4/5/2018

This is a continued hearing. For the reasons set forth below, the Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1).

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay or for Order Confirming that Automatic Stay Does Not Apply Under 11 U.S.C. § 362(I) (Unlawful Detainer) (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 6]

Norlaine, Inc. (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on December 22, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. On January 12, 2018, Trietsch Property Enterprises, LP (the "Movant") filed the "Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay or for Order Confirming that Automatic Stay Does Not Apply Under 11 U.S.C. § 362(I) (Unlawful Detainer)" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 6]. The Chapter 7 Trustee, David M. Goodrich (the "Trustee"), filed the Trustee's Opposition to the Motion on January 22, 2018 (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 12].

Chapter 7

On February 5, 2018, David M. Goodrich, the Chapter 7 Trustee (the "Trustee") filed the "Stipulation for Occupancy and Payment of Rent" (the "Stipulation") [Doc. No. 18] entered into between the Trustee and the Movant. On February 6, 2018, the Court entered the Order Approving the Stipulation [Doc. No. 21]. The hearing on the Motion was continued in order to permit the Trustee to administer the certain Estate assets located at the Property in accordance with the terms of the Stipulation. Pursuant to the Stipulation, the Trustee needed until March 31, 2018 to administer the above-referenced assets, and the Estate, therefore, retained possession of the Property up to and including March 31, 2018. Such deadline having passed, and no further Opposition to the Motion or further Stipulation having been filed, the Court finds that the Movant is entitled to the relief sought in the Motion.

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1). The stay is terminated as to the Debtor and the Debtor's bankruptcy estate with respect to the Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns. Movant may enforce its remedies to obtain possession of the property in accordance with applicable law, but may not pursue a deficiency claim against the debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501.

The Movant caused notice to quit to be served on the Debtor on December 11, 2017. An unlawful detainer proceeding was commenced on December 19, 2017. Movant acquired title to the Property by foreclosure sale before the Petition was filed and recorded the deed within the period provided by state law for perfection.

This Motion has been filed to allow the Movant to proceed with the unlawful detainer proceeding in state court. The unlawful detainer proceeding may go forward because the Debtor's right to possess the premises must be determined. This does not change simply because a bankruptcy petition was filed. See In re Butler, 271 B.R. 867, 876 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2002).

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of this bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. All other relief is denied.

The Movant shall upload an appropriate order via the Court's Lodged Order Upload system within 7 days of the hearing.

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set for hearing on the notice required by LBR 4001(c)(1) and LBR 9013-1(d)(2). The failure of the Debtor, the trustee, and all other parties in interest to file written opposition at least 14 days prior to the hearing as required by LBR 9013-1(f) is considered as consent to the granting of the Motion. LBR 9013-1(h). Cf. Ghazali v. Moran, 46 F.3d 52, 53 (9th Cir. 1995).

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(2) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to repossess or otherwise obtain possession and dispose of its collateral pursuant to applicable law, and to use the proceeds from its disposition to satisfy its claim. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501. The Court finds that there is no equity in the subject vehicle and that the vehicle is not necessary for an effective reorganization since this is a chapter 7 case.

4/5/2018

For the reasons set forth below, The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 362(d)(1) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the property in accordance with applicable law. Additionally, the Court finds that there is sufficient evidence to GRANT relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4).

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362 (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 51]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Ray C. Patterson (the "Debtor") filed a voluntary Chapter 7 petition on November 1, 2017 (the "Petition") [Doc. No. 1]. The Debtor owns certain real property located at 7520 Shore Cliff Drive, Los Angeles, CA 90045 (the "Property"). On February 9, 2018, the Chapter 7 Trustee, Wesley H. Avery (the "Trustee"), filed the "Motion for Order Approving Compromise Between Trustee and Debtor" (the "Settlement") [Doc. No. 42]. On March 1, 2018, the Court entered the Order Approving the Settlement [Doc. No. 47]. Pursuant to the terms of the Settlement, the Debtor tendered a settlement payment in the amount of $25,000.00 for the benefit of creditors of the Estate in exchange for the Trustee's release of the Estate's interest in the Property, among other certain assets of the Debtor. The Property was deemed abandoned to the Debtor as of the date of entry of the Court's Order Approving the Settlement.

The Motion

On March 16, 2018, The Bank of New York Mellon fka The Bank of New York (the "Movant") filed the "Notice of Motion and Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362" (the "Motion") [Doc. No. 51]. The Motion requests relief from the automatic stay pursuant to §§ 362(d)(1), (d)(2), and (d)(4) with regards to the Property. The Movant is the beneficiary of a note in the principal amount of $1,467,987.91, secured by the Property (the "Note"). "Declaration of Katisha Gill" (the "Gill Declaration") [Doc. No. 51]. As of February 27, 2018, the Movant holds a total claim in the amount of $1,907,396.28. Id.

The Motion requests relief from the automatic stay pursuant to: (i) § 362(d)(1) for cause, as the Movant's interest in the Property is not adequately protected by an adequate equity cushion; (ii) § 362(d)(2), as the does not have any equity in the Property, and the Property is not necessary for an effective reorganization; and (iii) § 362(d)(4) on the grounds that the bankruptcy was filed in bad faith, and the Petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors.

The Opposition

On March 29, 2018, the Debtor filed the Opposition to the Motion (the "Opposition") [Doc. No. 53]. The Opposition disputes the Movant's valuation of the Property and the total amount of debt on the Property.

II. Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law

The Motion is GRANTED pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(1) to permit Movant, its successors, transferees and assigns, to enforce its remedies to foreclose upon and obtain possession of the property in accordance with applicable law. Movant may not pursue any deficiency claim against the Debtor or property of the estate except by filing a proof of claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 501.

Pursuant to the Order Approving the Settlement, and in accordance with the terms of the Settlement, the Estate abandoned to the Debtor all of its interest in the Property. Therefore, the Property is no longer property of the Estate. Because the Trustee will not be liquidating the Property for the benefit of creditors, there is no need for the Automatic Stay to continue to apply. To the extent the Debtor disputes the value of the Property and the Debtor's equity therein, the equity is no longer relevant considering that the Trustee will not be liquidating the Property for the benefit of creditors. Notwithstanding, the Court finds that, based on the Movant's valuation of the Property, which in turn was based upon the value of the Property listed in the Debtor's schedules, there is not sufficient equity in the Property to adequately protect the Movant's interest. The Debtor did not submit any declaration in support of the valuation of the Property claimed in the Opposition. This fact, coupled with the fact that the value claimed in the Opposition conflicts with the value listed on the Debtor's schedules without any explanation of the conflict, is not sufficient. Therefore, the Opposition is overruled.

The Court GRANTS relief under § 362(d)(4). Based upon the Debtor's Declaration testimony that he was unaware of the bankruptcy cases in which an interest in the Property was asserted, the Court declines to find that the filing of the bankruptcy case was in bad faith or that the Debtor was involved in a scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors. However, the Court finds that there was, nevertheless, an apparent scheme to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors which involved the filing of multiple bankruptcy cases affecting the Property. Therefore, the Court has jurisdiction and authority to grant relief under § 362(d)(4). See In re Vazquez, 580 B.R. 526, 530 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2017) ("it is well established that, once the automatic stay has been implicated, Bankruptcy Courts have the jurisdiction and authority to grant relief from that stay, even if the property at issue is no longer part of the bankruptcy estate, such as after dismissal and closing of a case").

This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code.

Considering that the Property is no longer property of the Estate, the 14-day stay prescribed by FRBP 4001(a)(3) is waived.

All other relief is denied.

#5.00 Hearing
RE: [11] Notice of motion and motion for relief from the automatic stay with supporting declarations REAL PROPERTY RE: 958 E. Avenue Q, Palmdale, CA 93550 .

Docket 11

Tentative Ruling:

Tentative Ruling:

This Motion for relief from the automatic stay has been set on a shortened notice. Oppositions, if any, will be considered at the hearing.

The Court finds that there is sufficient evidence to grant relief pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(4). The filing of the petition was part of a scheme to delay, hinder, and defraud creditors, which involved the transfer of all or part ownership of, or other interest in, the Property without the consent of Movant or court approval and multiple bankruptcy cases affecting the Property. Declaration of Shane A. Inman in support of Motion at paragraphs 17-18.

For the same reasons, the Motion is GRANTED pursuant to section 362(d)(1) based on Debtor's bad faith filing. The 14-day period specified in Fed.R.Bankr.P. 4001(a)(3) is waived. This order shall be binding and effective despite any conversion of the bankruptcy case to a case under any other chapter of Title 11 of the United States Code. If recorded in compliance with applicable State laws governing notices of interests or liens in real property, the order shall be binding in any other case under this title purporting to affect such real property filed not later than 2 years after the date of the entry of such order by the Court, except that a debtor in a subsequent case under this title may move for relief from such order based upon changed circumstances or for good cause shown, after notice and a hearing. Any Federal, State, or local governmental unit that accepts notices of interests or liens in real property shall accept a certified copy of this order for indexing and recording. All other relief is denied.

#9.00 Status HearingRE: [6] Addendum to voluntary petition Amended Involuntary Petition
(To Amend the Total Amount of Petitioners' Claims)

Docket 6

Tentative Ruling:

4/9/2018

Tentative Ruling:

The litigation deadlines set forth below shall govern the trial on the involuntary petition.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Involuntary Petition Against a Non-Individual [Doc. No. 1]
 - a) Addendum to Involuntary Petition [Doc. No. 6]
 - b) Summons and Notice of Status Conference in an Involuntary Bankruptcy Case [Doc. No. 7]
 - i) Proof of Service of Summons and Notice of Status Conference [Doc. No. 9]
- 2) Answer and Affirmative Defenses of Raymond Express International, LLC to Involuntary Petition [Doc. No. 10]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

On February 21, 2018, Korean Air Lines Co., Ltd., Asiana Airlines, Inc., and Sunjin Logistics Co., Ltd. (collectively, the "Petitioning Creditors") commenced this involuntary Chapter 7 petition against Raymond Express International, LLC (the "Alleged Debtor"). The Alleged Debtor is a logistics company that transports perishable goods requiring refrigeration. On March 16, 2018, the Alleged Debtor answered the involuntary petition. This hearing is a status conference on the involuntary petition.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Section 303(b), which governs the commencement of an involuntary petition, provides in relevant part:

Chapter 7

An involuntary case against a person is commenced by the filing with the bankruptcy court of a petition under chapter 7 or 11 of this title by three or more entities, each of which is either a holder of a claim against such person that is not contingent as to liability or the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount, . . . if such noncontingent, undisputed claims aggregate at least $15,775 more than the value of any lien on property of the debtor securing such claims held by the holders of such claims.

Where a petition is timely controverted, the court must enter an order for relief against the alleged debtor if, after trial, the court determines that "the debtor is generally not paying such debtor's debts as such debts become due unless such debts are the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount." § 303(h).

During the period between the commencement of an involuntary petition and the issuance of an order for relief, the Alleged Debtor enjoys the protections of the automatic stay but is not required to comply with many of the obligations imposed upon Debtors who commence voluntary petitions. To minimize the length of this period of uncertainty, the Court's policy is to set compressed litigation deadlines governing the trial on the involuntary petition.

The following dates shall apply to this action:

- 1) The last day to amend pleadings and/or join other parties is 5/15/2018.
- 2) The last day to disclose expert witnesses and expert witness reports is 5/29/2018.
- 3) The last day to disclose rebuttal expert witnesses and rebuttal expert witness reports is 6/28/2018.
- 4) The last date to complete discovery relating to expert witnesses (e.g., depositions of expert witnesses), including hearings on motions related to expert discovery, is 7/17/2018. (For contemplated hearings on motions related to expert discovery, it is counsel's responsibility to check the Judge's self-calendaring dates, posted on the Court's website. If the expert discovery cutoff date falls on a date when the court is closed or that is not available for self-calendaring, the deadline for hearings on expert discovery motions is the next closest previous date which is available for self-calendaring.)
- 5) The last day for dispositive motions to be heard is 7/24/2018. (If the motion cutoff date is not available for self-calendaring, the deadline for dispositive motions to be heard is the next closest previous date which is available for self-calendaring.)

- 6) The last day to complete discovery (except as to experts), including hearings on discovery motions, is 7/28/2018. (If the non-expert discovery cutoff date is not available for self-calendaring, the deadline for non-expert discovery motions to be heard is the next closest previous date which is available for self-calendaring.)
- 7) A Pretrial Conference is set for 8/14/2018 at 11:00 a.m. By no later than fourteen days prior to the Pretrial Conference, the parties must submit a Joint Pretrial Stipulation via the Court's Lodged Order Upload (LOU) system. Submission via LOU allows the Court to edit the Joint Pretrial Stipulation, if necessary. Parties should consult the Court Manual, section 4, for information about LOU.
- 8) Trial is set for the week of 8/27/2018. The trial day commences at 9:00 a.m. The exact date of the trial will be set at the Pretrial Conference. Consult the Court's website for the Judge's requirements regarding exhibit binders and trial briefs.

The Court FURTHER ORDERS that the matter shall be referred to the Mediation Panel. The parties shall meet and confer and select a Mediator from this District's Mediation Panel. Petitioning Creditors will lodge a completed "Request for Assignment to Mediation Program; [Proposed] Order Thereon" (See Amended General Order 95-01 available on the Court's website) within 15 days from the date of this hearing, and deliver a hard copy directly to chambers c/o the judge's law clerk Daniel Koontz.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. Chapter 11

#1.00 HearingRE: [3] Motion Regarding Chapter 11 First Day Motions Debtor's Emergency Motion for Order Authorizing Payment of Certain Pre-Petition Wages, Salaries and Payroll Taxes

Docket 3

Tentative Ruling:

4/13/2018

Subject to any opposition which may be presented at the hearing, the Court is prepared to grant the Motion to pay prepetition wages in its entirety.

Pleadings Filed and Reviewed:

- 1) Debtor's Emergency Motion for Order Authorizing Payment of Certain Prepetition Wages, Salaries and Payroll Taxes [Doc. No. 3] (the "Motion")
 - a) Declaration of Kevin Tang Re Notice and Service Re Emergency Motion for Order Authorizing Payment of Certain Prepetition Wages, Salaries and Payroll Taxes [Doc. No. 6]
- 2) Order Setting Hearing on First Day Motion [Doc. No. 4]

I. Facts and Summary of Pleadings

Henderson Mechanical Systems, Inc. (the "Debtor") commenced a voluntary Chapter 11 petition on April 9, 2018. The Debtor operates in the mechanical contractors business within the special trade contractors sector.

The Debtor seeks authorization to pay prepetition wages, in the aggregate amount of $9,689.81. The Debtor has ten employees. The wages represent payment for the two business days preceding the petition date—April 5 and April 6, 2018. The Debtor pays its employees on a weekly basis.

II. Findings and Conclusions

Section 507(a)(4) designates "wages, salaries, or commissions, including vacation, severance, and sick leave pay" that are earned by an individual "within 180 days before the date of the filing of the petition" as a fourth-priority claim. Additionally, § 507(a)(4) imposes a limit of $12,850.00 for each individual employee for priority status. A leading national bankruptcy treatise explains:

[B]ecause wages are priority claims, courts have often permitted debtors to pay prepetition wage claims in the ordinary course in response to a motion filed by a debtor in possession at the commencement of a chapter 11 case. The ability to ensure that the employees receive their unpaid prepetition salary and do not miss a paycheck is critical to obtaining the stability necessary for the transition to operating as a debtor in possession. If wage claims were not entitled to priority, it would be difficult to justify ‘first day’ orders approving payments of prepetition wages. There is no clear statutory authority for such first day orders, although a court with some confidence in the debtor’s ability to satisfy claims through the third priority could justify the order under section 105.

COLLIER ON BANKRUPTCY ¶ 507.06[2] (16th ed. 2017). Local Bankruptcy Rule 2081-1(a) provides that a motion to pay prepetition payroll must be supported by evidence that establishes the following: "(A) The employees are still employed; (B) The necessity for payment; (C) The benefit of the procedures; (D) The prospect of reorganization; (E) Whether the employees are insiders; (F) Whether the employees’ claims are within the limits established by 11 U.S.C. § 507; and that (G) The payment will not render the estate administratively insolvent."

Having reviewed the declaration of James Lee, the Debtor’s owner, the Court finds that the Debtor has established the necessity of paying the prepetition wages as requested in the Motion. The employees that are the subject of the Motion remain employed by the Debtor and are critical to the Debtor’s continued operations. The aggregate amount of wages to be paid to all ten employees is $9,689.81. The most that any single employee will receive is $1,491.34; thus, the wages to be paid fall well below the §507(a)(4) priority claim limit of $12,850. None of the employees who will receive payment are insiders. The estate has cash on hand in the estimated amount of $127,388.88, so the payments will not render the estate administratively insolvent. Finally, the Debtor has made a sufficient showing that it has a reasonable prospect of reorganization.

Based upon the foregoing, the Motion is GRANTED in its entirety.

#4.00 Hearing
RE: [24] Motion for Default Judgment Under LBR 7055-01
fr: 10-18-17

Docket 24

Tentative Ruling:

4/16/2018

The Clerk of the Court entered default against the Defendant on March 21, 2017, Doc. No. 16. On October 18, 2017, the Court conducted a hearing on the Trustee's Motion for Default Judgment. As a result of Defendant's commencement of a voluntary Chapter 7 petition, the hearing on the Motion for Default Judgment was taken off calendar and this Status Conference was set.

The Defendant's Chapter 7 bankruptcy has now been closed. A hearing on the Motion for Default Judgment shall take place on May 22, 2018, at 10:00 a.m. The Trustee shall re-serve the Motion for Default Judgment, and file a proof of service so indicating, by no later than May 1, 2018.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlager or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear, please first contact opposing counsel to inform them of your intention to do so. Should an opposing party file a late opposition or appear at the hearing, the court will determine whether further hearing is required. If you wish to make a telephonic appearance, contact Court Call at 888-882-6878, no later than one hour before the hearing.

Docket 1

Tentative Ruling:

4/16/2018

On March 15, 2017, the Court stayed this non-dischargeability action, pending resolution of the underlying state court action (the "State Court Action") which seeks to establish the indebtedness that Plaintiffs allege is non-dischargeable.

The parties failed to file a Joint Status Report. Defendant filed a Unilateral Status Report in response to the Court's Order to Comply. Plaintiffs failed to respond to the Order to Comply. Defendant asserts that Plaintiffs have failed to prosecute both this action and the underlying State Court Action.

The Court has reviewed the docket in the State Court Action, and agrees with Defendant's assertion that Plaintiffs have failed to prosecute the State Court Action. On January 25, 2018, the State Court set a hearing on an Order to Show Cause Re: Dismissal, based upon Plaintiffs' failure to serve the Complaint upon Defendant. The OSC hearing was initially set for April 4, 2018, but has been continued to April 24, 2018.

By separate order, the Court will require the Plaintiffs to appear and show cause why this action should not be dismissed for failure to prosecute, pursuant to Civil Rule 41.

The Court will enter an appropriate order.

No appearance is required if submitting on the court's tentative ruling. If you intend to submit on the tentative ruling, please contact Cameron Schlagel or Daniel Koontz at 213-894-1522. If you intend to contest the tentative ruling and appear,

Tentative Ruling:

10/16/2017

Tentative Ruling:

In April 2017, the parties reached a settlement in principle. At the previous status conference, conducted in August 2017, the Defendants advised the Court that they had not yet raised the funds necessary to perform under the settlement agreement. The Court continued the status conference to give the Defendants one final opportunity to raise the settlement funds, but advised that if Defendants failed to raise the settlement funds by the continued status conference, a trial date would be set. Defendants have not raised the settlement funds. Accordingly, the Court HEREBY ORDERS that the following dates will apply to this proceeding:

- 1) The last day to amend pleadings and/or join other parties is 11/17/2017.
- 2) The last day to disclose expert witnesses and expert witness reports is 1/30/2018.
- 3) The last day to disclose rebuttal expert witnesses and rebuttal expert witness reports is 3/1/2018.
- 4) The last date to complete discovery relating to expert witnesses (e.g., depositions of expert witnesses), including hearings on motions related to expert discovery, is 3/27/2018. (For contemplated hearings on motions related to expert discovery, it is counsel's responsibility to check the Judge's self-calendaring dates, posted on the Court's website. calendar, the deadline for hearings on expert discovery motions is the next closest date which is available for self-calendar.)

- 5) The last day for dispositive motions to be heard is 4/3/2018. (If the motion cutoff date is not available for self-calendar, the deadline for dispositive motions to be heard is the next closest date which is available for self-calendar.)
- 6) The last day to complete discovery (except as to experts), including hearings on discovery motions, is 4/10/2018. (If the non-expert discovery cutoff date is not available for self-calendar, the deadline for non-expert discovery motions to be heard is the next closest date which is available for self-calendar.)
- 7) A Pretrial Conference is set for 4/17/2018 at 11:00 a.m. By no later than fourteen days prior to the Pretrial Conference, the parties must submit a Joint Pretrial Stipulation via the Court's Lodged Order Upload (LOU) system. Submission via LOU allows the Court to edit the Joint Pretrial Stipulation, if necessary. Parties should consult the Court Manual, section 4, for information about LOU.
- 8) Trial is set for the week of 4/30/2018. The trial day commences at 9:00 a.m. The Court will set the exact date of the trial at the pretrial conference. Consult the Court's website for the Judge's requirements regarding exhibit binders and trial briefs.

The Court will enter a scheduling order.
